New Dormitory Open To Some 120 Women

WHAT'S GOIN' ON? Let the least little disturbance happen in the newly constructed women's dorm and all of the residents pop their heads out of rooms to see what is happening. The girls from front to back down the left side of the hall are Arline Silver, Glenda Fowler, Linda Bowers and Carol Ann Applegate. Down the right side are Dixie Corn, Helen Harvey, Susie Himsel and Judy Stalzride.

Moore Hall, a new addition to Evansville College, is now the home for some 120 girls, reports Mrs. Ivan Fields, house mother for the girls' dorm.

Recently completed this summer, the dorm is almost identical in structure to Hughes Hall. The only difference is the size of the lounges. The lounge in Moore Hall is larger than the one in Hughes Hall and it is level with the lobby whereas steps lead into the boys' dorm.

Each sorority on campus has been given one room in the new dorm to decorate and use as it wishes. These new suites are located on the ground floor along with a recreation room, snack kitchen and laundry room.

On the main floor are the lobby, office, lounge, private suite for Mrs. Fields, who moved over to Moore Hall after staying in Hughes last year, and the first of the 64 rooms occupied by girls living in the dorm. The majority of the rooms are located on the second and third floors.

Besides the parties had with the men from Hughes Hall, the girls in the dorm soon are planning an open house and coffee for the faculty. Dedication of Moore Hall is scheduled for October 18 with open house for the public.

ELECTRONICS CLUB

The Electronics Club will meet in Room 205 of the Engineering Building next Wednesday, Sept. 28. Anyone interested in amateur radio or in applied electronics is welcome to attend this meeting.

Dr. Tapley's outside activities include being a member of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education society; the School Men's Club and the board of directors of Family and Children's Service. He does counseling for the local Counseling Center operated by the Evansville and Vincennes districts of the Methodist Church. Also, he frequently speaks in various church civic and education groups.

Enrollment Up By 20 Per Cent In Frosh Class

During the first week of registration over 480 freshmen enrolled for the school year, creating about a twenty percent increase over last year's enrollment of 409. The final registration day was last Wednesday and college officials indicate that total school enrollment jumped approximately five per cent.

Evansville College's total enrollment this year is expected to be close to 1,550 day students when the last minute enrollments are counted. This is a jump over last year's 1,498. The Community Evening College enrollment figures when completely totaled are expected to raise the number of students attending Evansville College to over 3,000.

The new students are Otto Ashin, Norway; Alexis Machados, Venezuela; George Go, Philippines; Paul Rivet, Cuba; Boch Hee (peggy) Suh, Korea; Dora Tsai, China and Suresh Jindal, India. Cresent Sports New Look

Welcome to Evansville College, a Methodist affiliated institution of higher learning located in the Ohio River city of Evansville, Indiana. It has been a custom in previous years to use the first issue editorial to acquaint new students with customs, social rules, etc. bere at EC. However, I sball be different and run down just what you as students, faculty, and parents can expect in the way of a student newspaper.

I accepted the job of editor last spring with the hopes of making the Crescent more of a student's newspaper. I felt at the time of my appointment that tbere was room for quite a bit of improvement in the types of stories and features tbat the Crescent had been running. And so I spent a few of my spare summer moments studying tbe different styles of some of the better college newspapers in the country along with reading a few books dealing with college newspapers.

Thanks to the cooperation of Mr. Stewart, our new journalism instructor, some changes have taken place. Probably tbe most drastic cbange has been in the headline style. We have also added a bit of humor to the paper with the addition of the column by Frank Haskett. Yes and we also plan to jump from 4 to 6 pages. It is my belief that a college with a total enrollment of nearly 3500 students should be able to dig up at least six pages of news in a week. We are hoping to bave a six page paper by no later than next Friday if we can find enough advertisers.

Few people probably realize the work that editors must go to in order to produce a newspaper to fit the tastes of students, faculty, parents, and businessmen. And even fewer are aware of the distances whicb the Crescent travels after its 10:00 release eacb Friday. Yes, our own college newspaper is sent out from coast to coast to various colleges and universities. For these reasons I would like to make a plea to all members of the faculty and student body to send any criticisms of stories to the Crescent office whether tbey be good or bad. This is our only means of knowing just how much tbe Crescent is being enjoyed or bated.

Several people have already stated tbat they plan to send a letter to the editor in time for next week's edition. All tbat we ask is that the letter be signed and if we feel that it will interest our readers, tben we will print such a letter.

Last year's Crescent editors, Barb Nunn and Mary Ann Conaway called to my attention the fact that tbey bad received a letter from one of the faculty members criticizing the final edition of last year's paper which was dedicated to past Crescent advisor, John Knight. The letter, which was left unsigned, blasted the editors for dedicating the paper to a fine journalist. Well, no signature, no print.

On behalf of the entire Crescent staff I would again like to welcome all new students to Evansville College and hope that you will find our news coverage worth the time ot read.

New Schedule This Year

ROTC Changes Program

Evansville College's Air Force ROTC program was changed starting with this fall.

In past years freshmen in the ROTC program were required to attend Air Science courses two days a week and drill class on Fridays. This year freshmen take only drill on Fridays for the first two quarters and an Air Science class during the third quarter. The Friday drill period is officially known as leadership training.

To substitute for the Air Science classes the first two quarters, students are allowed to take a subject that is required for graduation. This subject is designated to the Air Science instructor as the substitute for the ROTC classroom work.

The grade in Air Science will be determined by a combination of the grade in leadership training and the grade in the substitute course.

If the student does not make a passing grade, he is automatically dismissed from the ROTC program. If a passing grade is kept, the student may continue with the same class or change courses at the end of the quarter.

It is not permissible to drop ROTC until six quarters have been completed. The student, however, may drop a substituted course before completing a quarter's work if he is making a passing grade in the course. In this case he must have the Professor of Air Science approve another course as a substitute.

During the second year the ROTC student takes Air Science classes the first two quarters and a substitute subject the last quarter as he did his freshman year. This gives the student one full year of Air Science classes and one full year of drill and required graduation work.

I think that from the advent of this column I had better explain a few things. First of all, I am writing this column because I and many of my friends of the past couple of years have felt the need for a column of this type. Therefore I need only to please myself and a few select friends!

Well, actually this piece of script once a week is to be nothing that most other collegiate papers don't already have. The colloquial phrase describing it is "sbooting the breeze," or if you are more inclined, "sbooting the bull" . . . to get down to the order of business I think a resume of several events during the past summer is appropriate . . .

I had the somewbat dubious pleasure of being a foreign exchange student without leaving the country.

All I had to do was go to work in a factory in my home town of Chicago. Spanish, Polisb, Russian, Italian, but nobody spoke English. After awhile I began to notice things that were interesting (my repetitious assembly line job wasn't exactly scientific) — like the odd (to me) customs some of them followed.

One day I was standing in the coffee-break line in the morning. The man directly in front of me procured an egg on a hard roll. Next he put catsup and a big juicy bermuda onion on the egg. He then had the audacity to sit down across from me and eat this concoction.

On the serious side, I discovered a guy working across from me who bad served in Hitler's Wehrmacht on the eastern front. This same quiet-mannered fellow had been captured near Stalingrad and was made to walk 2000 miles across Russia sleeping on the snow, as a P.O.W. If he bad not been repatriated he might still be a slave in present-day Russia. Small wonder he is content on an assembly line even though he is college educated.

June Playboy (oob, bad word) quoted Jack Douglas from his new book, "Never Trust A Naked Bus Driver," and I thought it was interesting enough to pass on to you. It is dedicated to "Barry an-Ella Fitzgerald." This same mag. noted that there is a stripper on the west coast who goes under the name of "Norma Vincent Peale."

Bet you didn't know that this summer the whites in the Congo wanted to go on a lunch counter sit-down strike, but there were no lunch counters.

From Max Rezwin's new book, "Sick Jokes, Grim Cartoons and Bloody Marys," I quote the following: "Mommy! The power mower just cut my foot off!" "Stay outside till it stops bleeding dear. I just mopped." Or, "Mommy, I hate my sister's guts." "Shut up and eat what's put in front of you." And then again, "Mommy, Mommy. Daddy just poisoned my kitty." "Don't cry, dear. Maybe he had to do it." "No he didn't. He promised me I could." And finally, "Sir. I pulled your daughter out of the water and resuscitated her." "Then, by George, you'll marry her!"

Women . . . . Remember Rush

WOMEN! Sign the rush book and pledge a sorority.

The four sororities on the Evansville College campus invite you to sign the registration book which will be in the Union lobby Sept. 26 through Oct. 3.

There will be two women from separate sororities in the lobby from 10 to 12 a.m. each day to assist you.

Dean Annouces Open House At Moore Hall

Students and faculty have an opportunity for a preview of the new women's dormitory at an open house today, 10 to 10:45 a.m., Dr. Virginia Grabill, director of women's counseling, has announced.

Moore Hall, opened up for 128 girls with this fall term, will be dedicated officially October 18.

Showing the dormitory to students, faculty and staff members will be the official bostesses, Mrs. Sallie Field and Dr. Grabill, and the floor counselors, Rhonda Alldredge, Shirleen Brooner and Alice Schurtter.

Strong Defense Gives Aces 21-0 Verdict Over Hanover

Coach Paul Beck's Purple Aces opened the 1960 pigskin campaign with an easy 21-0 victory over the Hanover Panthers at Bosse Field last Saturday night.

A hard hitting defense thwarted all hope for the Hanover club. Evansville set up their scores by recovering four fumbles and intercepting two Panther aerials.

Garland Scores First

Buddy Garland carried the load as the Aces scored the second time they had the ball. Garland romped 48 yards off tackle, picking up several good down field blocks, before he was stopped on the 11. Five plays later he crashed off the left side of the line for the score with 6:34 remaining in the opening period.

Late in the second quarter co-captain and tackle Willie Brimm fell on a fumble by Hanover's quarterback Dick Spetb. Two plays later right half Don LeDuc bulled his way over from 15 yards out.

The hall changed hands several times in the third stanza before the Aces began to move, with second string fullback Dave Koehler shouldering the load. In the 56 yard drive which extended into the final period. Kochler carried four times for 45 yards and the tally. Larry Duncan converted for the third time to make the final score read, Evansville 21, Hanover 0.

Aces Rush 197 Yards

The Purple Aces outrushed Hanover 197 to 115 yards, but the Panthers received the nod in passing yardage 50-31. Hanover completed five passes compared to three by the white clad home team. Both teams went to the air 10 times.

Danny Phillips punted five times for a 32 yard average. Duncan's kick-offs traveled for a 49 yard norm. Duncan's only field goal attempt late in the second quarter was straight, but failed in distance.

Coach Beck shuttled the entire squad of 32 men into action. John Meredith and Gene Lutterbach both were on the sidelines with ailments. Meredith was out of action with the flu, while Lutterbach sustained an injury in pre-season practice.

TKE OPEN HOUSE

Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity will have two new faculty advisors for this school year. Major Victor Sinclair and Ed Susat are to replace Col. Hearn as TKE faculty advisor.

Gene Seider and John Young donated top senior award and outstanding pledge plaques to the TKE house.

Tau Kappa Epsilon open house will he held tonight from 6:30 until 9:30. The entire campus is invited to attend.

Purple Ponderings

by Byron Moellenkamp

Here we are back for another year full of colorful and exciting action by the Purple Aces. The gridiron crew showed much potential in the opening 21-0 victory over Hanover. Several second stringers, namely Dave Koehler, showed signs of wanting to crack that starting lineup. The fast-stepping Koehler reeled off a nice run early in the fourth quarter prior to his 8-yard scoring run. The defense played extremely well in spots but at other times seemed to leave something to desire. This year's squad looks to have more depth than those in past years.

Six sophomores should add color to the basketball team. The great winter dilemma of Evansville College gets underway Dec. 1 as five seniors and six sophomores lead the way. The roughest schedule in the school's history faces the two-time defending NCAA champs.

Also on the agenda is the improvement of the spring sports action. In the past the Aces have lacked in this phase. Last year the Purple and White could have captured the ICC all-sports crown with just an average showing in the spring sports. Any person who has ability in the minor sports is urged to participate, because these sports are just as important as the major ones which somehow seem to capture all of the headlines.

Jumping here and there in the world of sports, we find the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates on the threshold of pennants in their respective leagues. Ed Smallwood will have a chance to duel personally with Oscar Robertson when the St. Louis Hawks and Cincinnati Royals meet at the Stadium Sept. 27. Uncle Sam's Olympic squad will be the Russians. This again points out the importance of the so-called minor sports. The U.S. won in track, swimming, and basketball, but made poor showings in gymnastics, water polo and the like.

Let's all give the Aces our hardiest support.

Bulldogs, Aces Vie For Crown

All seven Indiana Collegiate Conference football teams opened against non-conference foes last Saturday. Only Evansville and Butler, both top contenders for the ICC crown, survived with untarnished records. Evansville College defeated Hanover 21-0 and Butler held off Bradley 18-12. Other contests: Wheaton 30, Valpo 7; Hope 21, Depauw 10; Northeast Missouri 20, St. Joe 0; Eastern Illinois 14, Indiana State 0; and Illinois Normal 7, Ball State 3.

Pumas Lose Top Rusher

St. Joseph's will have veteran forward wall to compensate for inexperience in the backfield. The Pumas will suffer heavily from the loss of Les Klein, the leading ground gainer in the conference last year. Joe Iofredo is trying to put together a solid reserve unit to prevent the second half letdown which plagued his team last year.

Valporaiso coach Emory Bauer is faced with the problem of finding receivers for his fine passing quarterback, Noel Schlegelmilch. The Crusaders have veterans at every position, except end and fullback. All-conference quarterback Schlegelmilch and halfback Bob Green, who averaged 7.5 a carry two years ago but missed last season, should provide a diversified attack.

Bulldogs Strong

The Bulldogs of Butler, 1959 ICC champs, had a perfect 9-0 record last year and appear to be headed for another fine season. A good crop of sophomores and several transfers give Tony Hinkle a potentially strong club.

Evansville College's Purple Aces, runner-up in the ICC in 1959, have a veteran line and adequate depth at nearly all positions. Coach Paul Beck's inexperienced backfield showed real promise in last week's contest.

Bill Jones, coach of Indiana State, has 17 lettermen returning from last year's third place ball club. The Sycamore offense features a fine passing attack headed by two quarterbacks and all ends from last year's top ICC aerial unit.

Ball State Still Weak

Ball State coach Jim Freeman will need replacements for eleven graduated seniors if the Muncie team is to improve on its 1-5 ICC record of last year. The absence of injuries which plagued last year's ball club is essential to a Cardinal comeback. Freeman hopes to get some help from outstanding sophomores and transfers.

For better or for worse, DePauw coach Tom Mont has six sophomores representing the core of DePauw's ball-carrying potential are solidly entrenched in Mont's backfield. In fact, sophomores have the upperhand in preseason drills in every backfield slot except quarterback, where last year's top passer, John Rubush, and Iowa State transfer Ed Meyer are jockeying for the post. The backfield quartet, regardless of the combination, will be heavier than last year but minus the speed of departed Dick Mace.

BETA'S PLAN SHOWER

The Beta's are planning to elect replacements in their officers.

A household shower is planned for their next meeting when each member will draw the name of a household object from a bag to buy, wrap, and exchange.

The Beta's mothers gave them a piano to put in their suite in Moore Hall.

Griders Go To Face Sycamores In League Play

Evansville College's grid Aces will meet its first I.C.C. opponents at Terre Haute this Saturday.

Indiana State, the third place team in the conference last season, will be hungry for a win after bowing to Eastern Illinois 13-0 last weekend in their opener. Sycamore coach Bill Jones has seventeen returning lettermen, seven of whom started regularly last year. Thirteen sophomores will be pressing the veterans for starting berths, giving the team considerable depth. The Sycamore offense is a wing-T with an unbalanced line and the end split.

Operating at quarterback are juniors Bob Clements, 160 pound hometown product, and Gil Fujawa, 170 pounder from South Bend. These two teamed with senior ends Wally Webb, the lonesome end, and Rich McNair were the top passing unit in the I.C.C. last year.

State probably has two of the fastest ball carriers in the conference in 205 pound fullback, Steve Brandenberg from Rensselaer and Lloyd Robbs, 160 pound left halfback. Carl Zarndt, a 170 pound junior end, has been converted to right half.

The line averages 209 pounds from tackle to tackle with center Turk Roman the only man below 200 pounds at 165. Outstanding for his fine defensive work is 225, senior Claude Sanders.

Punting for State is ex-North High gridder Bill Buck, the only Evansville boy on the squad.

Even though the Aces are fresh from a 21-0 win over Hanover they are wary of the traditionally tough State game.

Tickets On Sale For Dad's Day

Evansville College again honors Dad with its annual Dad's Day on October 1, in the Evansville College Union Building. The event will begin with a social hour at 5 o'clock in the lounge followed by dinner.

Heading the committee for planning is Mr. Frazer Rodman, faculty sponsor, with Sharon Tapley and Karen Thomas serving as student co-chairmen. The committee includes faculty members Corlan Lundquist, Leland Moon, Dale Mordue, Robert Rowland, Sam Smiley, Ida Stieler, Ellis Thompson, Capt. William Waters, and Marjorie Wood.

Tickets for the chicken dinner are now on sale in the Union Building at $1.75 per person. This is a chance for students to take their fathers out for the night.

Umbrellas, Keys Sold At Auction

"Who'll bid 50 cents for this beautiful umbrella?"

"One pair of sunglasses sold to the gentleman in the back row for 10 cents."

These were typical sounds of the lost and found auction held yesterday at 10 a.m. in the Wooden Indian.

All the lost items collected from last year were auctioned by Dr. Morlock. The articles ranged from raincoats and car keys to "beautiful jewelry."

If you lose anything this year, be sure to come around next year at this time to buy it back at the lost and found auction.

Cheerleaders For '60-'61 Elected

Fire Protection Plan Developed For Campus

The Evansville Fire Department and the Evansville College Maintenance Department have completed a program of fire protection for the entire campus.

Fire department personnel have been shown about the campus and have assigned specific locations for each fire truck to cover. In the event of a fire alarm from the college, eight fire trucks will converge on the college. The firemen now know the position of the gas shut-offs and electric main switches of the college.

It is reassuring to know that the fire department is prepared to protect the college campus.

The Maintenance Department stockroom, A. C. Biggs, head of the department reports, has also been reshuffled this year. Herb Frank is now permanent stockroom manager. All equipment now has a specific space and must be signed for before it can be removed from the Maintenance Building.

'Truth Is Hope For Our World' Says Dahlberg

'Flesh-and-blood truth, Truth on the cross, is the only hope of the world," Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg told the first vespers listeners Sunday at the College.

The president of the National Council of Churches was referring to the statement of Jesus Christ that He was the Truth that would make men free. He emphasized hat other truth is worthwhile but it has not freed man from fears and depression.

Parts of the world are sick of the mere accumulation of knowledge, Dr. Dahlberg pointed out, and are ready for the Truth represented by Christ.

"We are today feeding in the upper reaches of culture, science and knowledge that no other generation has been able to do. Yet no matter how high we go, we seem to build around us walls of darkness and live in tunnels of despair."

Man has a tendency to get his values reversed, Dr. Dahlberg said, but there is something greater than freedom and that is the "Truth that shall make you free."

President Melvin W. Hyde introduced the distinguished minister of Delmar Baptist Church in St Louis who came here at the invitation of Dr. Arthur Mansure, director of religious life.

Also participating on the program were the Rev. Nevin E. Danner, executive secretary of the Evansville Council of Churches, and Dr. A. E. McKinney, pastor of First Baptist Church here.

ROTC Unit Get Officers

Two captains and a sergeant have received assignments to the ROTC unit at Evansville College replacing Capt. Hunt, Capt. Williams, M. Sgt. Van Winkle, and T. Sgt. Redwanski.

These three men have a combined total of 26 years experience in the Air Force and have traveled to assignments in all parts of the world.

Capt. William G. Waters is the instructor for the senior cadet officers. Capt. Waters was born and raised in Englewood, Calif. He was graduated from high school in 1944 and spent two years as a seaman in the Navy.

The captain was graduated from El Camino Junior College in 1949 and University of Denver in June 1951 where he majored in statistics and completed the Air Force ROTC course.

Capt. Waters entered pilot training in July 1951 in Florida and received advanced training in Texas. After flight training, he joined the 509th Medium Bombardment Wing, a SAC group. Since 1952 Capt. Waters has been stationed in England, Greenland, Newfoundland, Guam, and has been in Japan, Formosa, Philippine Islands, and other Pacific Islands He flew B-50's, KB-29's, and KC-97's.

The captain was assigned to ROTC in May of this year and took an instructors course at the Air University before coming to Evansville.

Capt. Robert C. Ingram, instructor for Air Science I and II, was born in Atlanta, Ga., and lived in Asheville, N. C., until his graduation from high school in 1948. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina with a ROTC commisston in 1952. His college major was business administration and marketing.

T. Sgt. Robert Prather, detachment supply sergeant, was born in Whitmire, S. C. He entered the service in 1951 and took his basic training in Texas. His first assignment was Geiger Field, Wash. Sgt. Prather spent 18 months in the Azore Islands and has been stationed in Prestwick, Scotland and Hawaii. From Hawaii he came to his Evansville assignment.

Mr. Sam Smiley, producer and dramatics instructor, has announced a tentative schedule for the theatre group. For the Christmas season the theatre group will play "The Birth of Christ." Mr. Smiley said dramatic reading for the Christmas season will be available to any interested organizations.

By mid-November the company for "Christ In The Concrete City" should be ready and will again be toured throughout the entire year by the College Theatre. According to Mr. Sam Smiley, other one-act plays will be available for touring after the November splurge of workshop productions. An all-student production of a three-act play is tentatively scheduled for May 19 and 20, depending on student interest.

Mr. Smiley said that the above schedule is merely a bare outline for the coming season. More information will be available in the coming weeks, especially about "The Sea Gull."

Reserve seats will be available this year to those who will simply take the time to call in. This does not mean that all seats in the house will be totally reserved. Additional information about reservations will be available at a later date.

Evansville Grad Doctors Natives

An Evansville College graduate of 1941 and his family, living in Central Africa since 1952, are busy giving medical and spiritual aid to thousands of natives.

Dr. Robert Cullen, his wife Mary and two of their three children presently are living at Ippy Par Bambari in the Central African Republic.

Since arriving in Africa Dr. Cullen has assisted in building two hospitals by obtaining materials available locally and from the United States. The Cullen family has been there eight years with the exception of a two-year leave of absence to their homeland.

The first of the two hospitals was a 75-bed building and the most modern in that area, complete with X-ray and surgery facilities. During the first year over 1,000 cases of major surgery were handled by Cullen. He estimates that annually 62,000 persons seek assistance at the hospitals. The second hospital, smaller with 35 beds, was completed in 1955.

Well, here we go again. By now you new students have learned a little more about life here at E.C. By the way, I would like to say hats off to the out-of-town students who had the courage to enter E.C. without a Bosse H.S. diploma. Possibly this is the beginning of the end for the prevalent high school atsmophere around this institution.

Speaking of institutions, I notice a remarkable resemblance between Hughes Hall and Stalig 17, what with the hours (yes hours in a men's dorm; no I never heard of it either). Maybe this is a measure to keep future basketball stars from getting caught in a house of ill repute.

Grapevine tells me we are getting a Russian exchange student along about 1968, named Franeis Gary Powers, majoring in—whaa—air science?

Note to interior decorators. You can now buy a leather-covered toilet seat, decorated with your own coat of arms, for about $48.

Did you ever notice Ron Greenfield doing his tongue exercises, Russ Seiler bouncing instead of walking, Harold Becker impartially preying on everyone in his sight, Ron Allen drinking instead of talking, Nora Fisher being naive, the sign in the cafeteria last week advertising stewed potatoes, or Dr. Erickson trying to find out if there are any tigers in India?

And then there is the football coach we know who recently told the team to pair off in three's. Math 100 anyone?

Two more congratulatory notes: first to Dick Clark for his fine selection of tunes on the juke box in the Wooden Indian, and secondly to the four national sororities on campus for agreeing to pay off the women's dorm with their modest room rental fee of $900 per year unfurnished.

That's all the left-overs for this week.

'Big Rich' Writes Poem To New Women's Dorm

THE WOMEN'S DORMITORY
(Evansville College)

Upon this academic land
We build a dormitory, grand.
Built with wood and steel and stone
To be admired and widely known.
A building with the glow and charm
To lure young women by the swarm.
Where friendship, loyalty and truth
May integrate among the youth.
A place where one can dream and rest,
With care and culture are the best.
Where style and etiquette abound,
And faith and virtue can be found.
A "mecca" for the young at heart
To meet and worthy thoughts impart.
Where life's beatitudes abide,
Where joy and harmony preside.
Long may this building firmly stand, —
Home of young women, nobly planned.

By Emory A. Richardson (Big Rich)

Emory A. Richardson, former poet laureate of Indiana presented a poem in honor of the new dorm at the open house and dedication of Moore Hall last week.

"Big Rich," as he has been called since basketball days and which he now uses as a pen name, is quite interested in education, schools, public relations and fine arts featuring poetry. In 1956 he also composed a poem, "In My Library," for the dedication of the cornerstone of the EC Library. "Big Rich" now lives in Evansville at 619 S. Fares.

Nunn, Sanders To Edit LinC

HARD AT WORK . . . or are they hardly working? Jim Sanders and Barbara Nunn try to pick up a few ideas from past issues of the LinC despite outside distractions. Jim and Barb will serve as editors of the 1961 edition of the LinC.

EC Heritage Theme 1961

lly Barbara Kirsch
(Crescent Staff Writer)

Evansville College Heritage will be the theme this year of the LinC, according to co-editors Barbara Nunn and Jim Sanders.

The yearbook, still in the planning stage, will be arranged and set up differently from previous years. A new section has been added called the LinC honorary. The co-editors working with Mr. Stewart will be in charge of this section. It will be composed of twenty outstanding senior men and women who will be nominated October 14, election day.

Barbara, at the present time, is secretary of the honorary journalism society, Pi Delta Epsilon, chapter correspondent for Chi Omega, treasurer of Angel Flight, and chairman of the Publications Committee. Last year Barbara was the basketball queen and served as secretary of the sophomore class.

Jim, president of the Union Board, is chairman of the Union House Committee, and co-chairman of Homecoming. He is also the vice-president of Pi Delta Epsilon, and past vice-president of Lambda Chi.

Those in charge of the various sections have been selected by the editors and are as follows: Nyla Campbell, Queens; Sharon Orth, Kathy Compton, and Jack Kinkel, Campus Life; Jack Kinkel, ROTC; Mary Ann Conaway and Carol Day, Organizations; Kenny Wendt and Joe Brent, Sports; Dave Spence and Martha Lockwood, Seniors; Sharon Tapley, Faculty; Bud Garland and Linda Hayes, Greeks; and Harry Krister will do the art work. Schear's Studio has been selected to take photographs of the seniors.

Seniors . . . . . File For Degree

All Evansville College seniors expecting to graduate within the next 12 months should file an application for a degree in the registrar's office immediately if failing to do so on registration day, Dr. Owen Long's office reports.

The granting of a degree is not an automatic process. Delay in filling out the application may result in postponement of the degree. The application is necessary so that the college can make arrangements for graduation.

LAMBDA CHI NEWS

Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity is planning a street dance to be held in the drive-way of the E.C. campus. It will be held tonight from 8:30-11:30. Kenny Helm, social chairman, is handling the arrangements. The dancing will take place in front of the Administration Building. Music will be supplied by a band. The dance is open to all and dates are not necessary. There will be no charge for the evening's entertainment.

Also, the brothers of Lambda Chi are planning an open house on Saturday following the E.C. Valparaiso game. This will also be open to everyone and will start at the close of the game. Refreshments will be provided and there will be music for dancing in their newly redecorated recreation room.

E. C. Receives Special Grant From Lilly Inc.

Evansville College has received a second special grant of $16,000 from the Lilly Endowment, Inc., to finance advanced graduate study for selected faculty members. The first grant was received in 1957.

In naming Evansville College as one of 10 Indiana colleges to participate in the program of grants, the Endowment referred to its recognition of the fact that the maintenance of satisfactory standards of faculty training and performance will be a continuing problem in American higher education.

The terms of the grant include the specific conditions that the funds are to be used for the academic improvement of faculty members over a three-year period and that the faculty members selected for assistance must be persons who have already proved their teaching ability or who show promise of high order. Preference is to be given to persons who are planning to continue their studies in institutions having distinguished departments in the fields involved.

In a letter announcing the Evansville College grant, Dr. Manning M. Pattillo, Associate Director of Lilly Endowment, Inc., commented, "In the years ahead, with the anticipated increase in student bodies and faculties, gifted, well-trained teachers will be at a

Two Campus Buildings Planned For Next Year

Pending final financial arrangements, construction will begin early in 1961 on the Fine Arts and Physical Education plants, estimated to cost $1.5 million.

College officials hope to have the new buildings ready for occupancy by graduation of this year's sophomore class.

The fine arts building will supplement fine arts activities including art, music, providing painting studios and practice rooms.

The two buildings will be constructed of Indiana limestone and glass. The exact designs to be used have not been disclosed.

finances estimated for construction.

The physical education plant will be available for intramural activities and practice sessions. The athletic office will make its move to the building also.

According to official reports, the construction of the new plant should boost the Evansville College Physical Education program.

The Public Relations Office disclosed plans for a special fund raising campaign here in the community sometime in the spring. The goal of the fund will be approximately $600,000. Challenge gifts and special gifts will make up about 60 per cent of the

Karen Breaks The Ice

Karen Harpe was crowned the Ice Breaker Queen of 1960-1961 at the annual Ice Breaker Dance Saturday night at the Armory.

SGA president Mike Spence announced the queen and presented the crown to her escort who placed the silver crown on Miss Harpe's head while her attendants, Judi Kavanaugh, Linda Hays, Dianne Harris, and Gail Morrell, looked on. She was also presented a silver bracelet engraved, "Ice Breaker Queen 1961."

Karen is a graduate of Bedford High School, Bedford, Ind., and was a member of the National Honor Society, the National Thespian Society and editor of the school year book. Karen was also a member of the dramatics club and secretary of the Indiana Junior Heart Association.

The decorations for the dance blended with the fall season, consisting of golden corn stalks and frosted leaves. Table decorations were small purple and white hats placed on corn shucks. The music was provided by the Phi Mu Alpha orchestra.

Member of each sorority and fraternity served as hostesses and host. Honored guests at the dance included Dr. and Mrs. Hyde.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Evansville College has initiated a new student employment plan for students who wish campus employment, the business office announces.

The new plan will centralize all campus student employment in one office. Applications for student employment will be taken by Mr. Kenneth Jones, assistant business manager, in Room 118 of the Administration Building.

College faculty members, with funds for hiring students, will then contact Mr. Jones when they need assistants.

The program is designed to provide jobs for students who have not been able to find them in the past.

Dad's Day Set For Tomorrow

EC's Dad's Day activities will begin tomorrow (Oct. 1) at 5 p.m. with a social hour in the lounge of the Union Building.

At 5:00 a chicken dinner will be served in the Great Hall. Entertainment will be provided at 6:45. The football game begins at 8 o'clock. Between halves the Football Dad of the Year chosen by the football team will be honored.

Tickets for the chicken dinner are now on sale in the Union Building at cost of $1.75 per person. Ticket sale closes tomorrow at noon.

To The Editor

Congratulations! Congratulations for one of the best newspapers to ever come out on this campus! The articles were very well written, which points to a good staff; they were headlined professionally, and all integrated to make an exceptionally presented paper.

I believe that at long last we will have someone as editor of the Crescent that has enough intestinal fortitude to say what he thinks, and not let himself be a puppet on the end of a string. We have needed for so long someone who would not lean the direction the wind happened to be blowing at the time.

Is this to be a student's newspaper, written for the students, by the students, or simply a bugle by which the administration wishes to use as an instrument to honk their own horn and impress the "off the campus" readers as to the caliber of students they want at EC? Time could be better spent altering the atmosphere of Evansville College from that of pegged pants and prep school letters to one which will allow us to mature into self-disciplined adults with a philosophy developed on a stimulating, free-thinking atmosphere.

If anyone wants to give an impression that we are a particular type of students by attempting to color our newspaper, he is trying to eliminate the stench of a skunk by shouting that it isn't present.

A shining example of the quality of "Nile, basket navigators" we have who are presumedly inspiring us and leading us away from the valley of "dragging the Daughter" to the promised land of mature adulthood, is glaringly obvious in the fact that the Red "Ink" didn't open up so the author of the letter you mentioned in your editorial last week could sign it.

You have a rough road ahead, but I am confident you will fight back. You might be the first sharpshooter behind the catapult which will crack the walls of the demigods here at Evansville College.

Optimistically,
William Toy Jr.

Mademoiselle Announces Contest For College Girls

Mademoiselle magazine announces that its 1960-61 College Board Contest is now open to women undergraduates under 26 years old who are regularly enrolled in an accredited college or junior college. The contest offers a chance at winning one of 20 guest editorships — a month on the staff of Mademoiselle.

To try out for membership on the College Board a girl may write a criticism (1,200 words or more) of the editorial section of a current issue of Mademoiselle or depict in words or drawings the follies of her campus. (For other suggestions write to the magazine.) Girls will be notified by Jan. 1, whether the tryout has been accepted.

Each College Board member will do one assignment for Mademoiselle. The list of assignments to choose from will appear in the January issue. There will be a variety of selections, so a girl will be able to pick one that best suits her interests.

College Board members who come out among the top 20 on the tryout and assignment win a salaried month (June) in New York as guest editors on the staff. Guest Editors also will be featured in the August issue and will represent the college girl in editorial meetings held to plan articles and fashions for forthcoming issues of the magazine.

November 30 is the deadline for submitting the tryout assignment. For more detailed information write to College Board Contest, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, requesting the contest rules book.

Sororities Rent Dorm Suites

By Sharon Tapley
(Crescent Staff Writer)

Moore Hall, the new women's dorm, has provided enjoyment for the sorority girls as well as the dorm girls. Each of the four sororities has its own suite for meetings, parties, studying, and general get-togethers. Each suite has a kitchen and storage room which is included on the rent which the sororities pay monthly.

The alumnae of each organization helped finance the furnishing and decorating of the rooms.

Accents of pink, white, aqua, and yellow are used in the Phi Mu room. The room is divided into three sections, one being the study section with four tables in dark wood surrounded by chairs of their chosen colors.

The second or middle section is a living room section with a huge sofa with lamp tables of dark wood on either side. The lamps are three feet tall with brass bases and white shades. A long coffee table will be in front of the sofa. A cushion caddy, which was donated by Phi Mu's district president, will set between two white benches accented with brass.

The third section is the stero section which is basically aqua. There is an aqua semi-circular sofa with a chair on either side. A circular coffee table sits in front of the sofa. The stereo has not yet been purchased, but the sorority is well on its way since it now owns 26 stereo and hi-fi albums. The suite is finished with floor-to-ceiling drapes of aqua on white. The walls are pink and the ceilings are white, which are the sorority's colors.

Chi Omega's furniture will be made of natural wood in colors of bisque and licorice. It is divided into two sections by a huge room-divider used for the purpose of hanging coats and storing books. In one section are tables for study purposes. The back side of the divider is in this section and will be used as a bulletin board.

LOOK AT THE SIZE of this one. Ginger Steinhauer and Carolyn Wilson, members of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, are proudly displaying their new 40-inch lamp which was part of the new furniture used to furnish their new sorority suite at Moore Hall. All sororities on campus have moved into their respective suites.

The other section is a lounge. In this section the Chi O's have added a country-house looking wall at one end, with a mock fireplace of stone and natural wood bookcases, storage cabinets, and paneling. Beside the fireplace will be a huge planter called a pyramid stand. This section is finished out with a conversational piece, sofas, coffee tables, ottomans, and four spindle-hoop chairs. The basic colors of this section are light green, orange, aqua, and white. To add the finishing touch short drapes of beige with gold have been installed in the suite.

Beta Sigma Omicron has chosen a color scheme of black, white, and pink. The suite is divided into two sections, one being the study section where four tables will be placed. The lounge section has sofas and chairs of pink and chemise pink with white wrought iron. Scattered throughout the room are coffee tables and lamp tables with slate tops. A piano, desk, and utility cabinet of charcoal and ebony are added. The short drapes of pale pink add the finishing touches.

Alpha Omicron Pi has furniture which is Greek in origin having 40-inch table lamps with cupids as the bases. The colors of green and white are brought out in the two sections. Like the other sororities, the AOPi's will have a study section.

The other section has sofas, coffee tables, benches, and a special zodiac table. An antique mahogany buffet with a marble top will hold the trophies for the present. Colored pillows will be scattered on the sofas. The furniture is made of cast aluminum. Short white drapes will cover the entire wall and will add the finishing touch to the AOPi room. The tables to be used for study have white leather tops which match the other furniture. Shelves will be built in for storage.

Sign That Rush Book Today!

Greeks Sig Eps—

Sig Ep takes this opportunity to welcome the freshman to the campus. Now that the frenzy of registration has settled to the steady pace of daily class work, they would like to extend an invitation to the men of the campus to participate in the closing hours of rush registration.

Although today is the last day, it is still not too late to consider placing oyur name under consideration. Your signature on the rush book in the lobby of "The Indian" in no way obligates you to pledge a fraternity, but offers you a closer view of each one of them.

The values of each fraternity cannot be understood or appreciated except by personal contact with the men who represent them.

Sigma Phi Epsilon hopes that each unaffiliated man will consider seriously what Greek life can mean to him individually. But, they wish to remind you, no man can be considered for rush unless his signature appears on the rush book.

Young Democrats Hold Election Of Officers

The Young Democrats Club of Evansville College held its annual election of officers last Monday at the Citizens for Johnson and Kennedy headquarters in downtown Evansville.

John Becker will serve as president of the organization with Ron Ten Barge holding down the vice-presidential post. Others elected to offices were Ann Hildenbrand, secretary, Byron Moellenkamp, treasurer and Roger Williams, coordinator.

The objective of the club is to interest young citizens in politics and to help the mother organization of the Young Democrats of Vanderburgh County.

On Wednesday, the organization furnished transportation from the college to the court house to hear Senator Lyndon B. Johnson give his address to the people from the Evansville area.

Coordinator Roger Williams has informed the Crescent that the Young Democrats will form a motor-cade for Senator John Kennedy upon his arrival in Evansville on Oct. 5. It is hoped that the senator will make a short tour through Evansville College sometime before his speech.

President Becker urges anyone interested in working with the Young Democrats to sign up immediately. The next meeting will be held Monday evening at 7:30 at the Johnson and Kennedy headquarters here in Evansville.

Also a barbecued rib dinner is being planned for October 7 at the Eagles Picnic Grounds and all members will be invited to attend. The exact time will be announced in a later edition of the Crescent. A guest speaker will be announced at that time also.

SAE Fraternity Serenade Gals At Moore Hall

The men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon provided a serenade for the women at Moore Hall on Tuesday night. The organization sang five of the more popular fraternity songs including two SAE sweetheart songs. Ed Rehrman, vice president of SAE, presented head resident Mrs. Sallie Field with a box of candy during the singing of one of the sweetheart songs. A large flaming replica of the SAE pin was ignited during the singing of the SAE Sweetheart Song.

Also social chairman Bill Cole has announced that another Open House will be held at the SAE house tomorrow night following the Evansville College-Valparaiso football game. Rushees and EC women are cordially invited to attend this gathering.

Tomorrow afternoon the girls from AOPi sorority will join the SAE's in a work session at the fraternity house to get the house ready for the evening activities.

Total profits for the 1960 Philo-SAE Blackouts have been announced by treasurer Bill Toy at $1,958.62. This marks one of the best financial and organizational successes in the twelve year history of the Blackouts.

Door Into Federal Careers Closes To Collegians In June

The biggest door into the Federal career service for college-caliber people — the Federal Service Entrance Examination — will close next June 30. Applications must be filed on or before that date to take the last examination which will be given July 16.

This examination, called the FSEE for short, is issued to fill entrance-level professional and administrative positions in 60 occupational fields. Beginning salaries are $4040 and $4980 per year, and promotions are rapid. All college graduates, whatever their major field of study, as well as those who have college-level experience or a combination of such experience and education, are eligible to compete in the FSEE.

Originally scheduled to close April 28, the FSEE was extended on a nation-wide basis to May 26 by the Central Office of the U.S. Civil Service Commission. Regional Directors of the Commission were authorized to make further extensions within their regions, depending on local needs. The Sixth Regional Office in Cincinnati, which has jurisdiction over the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia, was one of those electing to make an extension.

"We have hired many excellent people through the FSEE this year," said Mr. A. T. Briley, regional director, "but there is still room for more. In this region we have a number of large establishments which annually require a great many college graduates and all of their vacancies have not yet been filled. Also, several of the people we hired last fall have since been promoted, and we need entrance-level replacements for them."

Details about the FSEE and application forms may be obtained at any Post Office with a "Civil Service" window.

APPLES FOR LUNDQUIST

Mrs. Corian Lundquist, AOPi sponsor and Home Economics teacher at Evansville College, was named "Favorite Teacher of the Week" after winning a contest conducted by the WJPS Radio Station.

As winner, Mrs. Lundquist received a bushel of apples which she plans to share with the AOPi's at the next sorority meeting.

News Bureau In Full Swing

Going into full operation this week was the newly organized Student News Bureau under the direction of Don Follett of the Public Relations office at Evansville College.

Objective of the bureau is to publicize achievements of EC students in their hometown newspapers.

"Covering 1500 students will become a big job with a great deal of work," stated Mr. Follett.

The student helping with the bureau is Mary Ann Conaway. A sophomore here at EC, Mary Ann is well experienced in reporting the news. She was editor of the Crescent last year.

Frosh Squad Lacks As 19 Greet Coach

By Temme Patterson
(Crescent Sports Writer)

Stamina is the big word in summing up Evansville College's freshman football team this season.

Only nineteen players showed up for practice this fall, but the ones that came out could materialize into one of the best crews in the last few years.

The freshmen Aces play only two games this fall. The first will be with Wabash on Monday, Oct. 10, and the other will be against Southern Illinois Oct. 17. Coach Don Ping is trying to set up a third contest, but nothing has been arranged as of yet.

Among the top prospects on the squad are All-City choices Jim Greer, and Cecil Raymond of Central and Kim OeVault of Memorial. Other standouts off their high school careers are Charles Zausch a giant 6-5, 230 pound end from St. Louis and 6-2, 195 pound Wayne Boultinghouse from Rockport. Boultinghouse is attending Evansville College on a basketball scholarship, but he also played on the Rockport championship eighman football squad.

Greer, a 5-11, 190 pound All-State fullback choice, led Central to a tie for the city crown last year. OeVault, also an All-State selection, led Memorial to a tie for the SIAC and city crowns with his passing last year. OeVault is ineligible but has been working out with the unt.

Other hopefuls for Coach Ping are Elbert Pace and Gene Bruner, both graduates of Central in the middle 50's. Ping said that this year's squad is a little larger than last year's team, but their over-all speed is a little less.

If the first team can hold up without any injuries, the freshmen should have a good year. But if they need any bench help they may have to use the coaches, with only nineteen players.

Carey Departs For Home In Jacksonville

By Larry Pond
Crescent Editor

George Carey, 20-year-old psychology major from Jacksonville, Fla., will be president of Hughes Hall for the coming school year. Carey received this post at the election held last Wednesday at the men's dorm.

The new president was graduated from Robert E. Lee High School in Jacksonville in June of 1958. While in high school, Carey was a member of the all-state football team during his senior year and received a football scholarship to Evansville College.

Carey is starting his second year as a member of the Purple Aces football squad and is a key figure in the Evansville attack for the coming year. Carey is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and served as president of his pledge class.

Backing up Carey in the office of vice-president of the dorm is

Hardwood Men Prepares For Rugged Season

Although the basketball season does not actually start until Oec. 1, when the Aces entertain Wheaton at the Stadium, the boys have been working out on their own.

Actual practice starts Oct. 15, but starting Oct. 1 most of the players can be found doing various conditioning exercises to get in tip-top shape. Endurance is one of the chief necessities for Coach Arad McCutchan's squad.

Coach McCutchan has said, "When your opponent takes a breath, that is your time to get ahead of him."

Seniors and sophomores will be the key to the success of the defending NCAA champs. Forward Oate Wins and guard P. M. Sanders are the only returning starters, but Walt Oeal, Tom Hamilton and Jim Nosset received plenty of action.

Sophomore guards Marv Pruitt, Paul Utley, and Lynn Mautz, along with front line men Dave Fulkerson, Walt Henry and Marty Herthel will definitely lend valuable assistance to the experienced core of veterans. The latter six were the main cogs in Coach Ray Bawel's freshman squad last season.

Valpo Catcher Signs Contract With Detroit

VALPARAISO, Ind. (Special — Tom Orton, possibly the finest baseball player ever to play for Valparaiso University, last week ended a seven-year quest of major league baseball teams when he signed with the Oetroit Tigers.

The hard-hitting 6-2, 190-pound catcher, who received his first bonus offer seven years ago when a sophomore in high school, signed for a reported $25,000 with the Tiger Southern Association team of Birmingham.

A two-sport man in college who earned six varsity letters in baseball and basketball, Orton attracted the attention of the majors with his defensive play, lefthanded power hitting, and excellent throwing arm.

Orton handled 402 chances during his varsity college career and committed only five errors, two of the five being disputed by baseball fans who saw the particular plays. He committed two as a soph, was errorless as a junior, and had three miscues this season. He hit .508 as a sophomore, .333 as a junior, and .370 this past year in regular season activity.

Orton played both guard and forward his sophomore year in basketball, starting several games, and was a regular forward his junior and senior years, beating out bigger men both seasons with fierce competitive play, teamwork, and aggressive rebounding.

Soft-spoken and retiring to the point of shyness away from athletic competition, he has transformed into a scrapping, hustling ballplayer who asked no quarter and gave none the minute any game began.

Though only 6-2 with three men 6-8 or better on the 1958-59 basketball squad, Orton led the cage team in rebounding. He averaged 7 points a game as a soph, 12 counters as a junior, and dropped back slightly to an 11-point average this year.

Beck Praises Defensive Play of Purple Aces

(Crescent Sports Writer)
By Allen McCutchan

Head football coach Paul Beck was relaxed in his favorite easy chair enjoying the Sunday afternoon pro game on television. In the guarded enthusiasm good coaches have for promising teams, Coach Beck reflected, "I'm always satisfied with them when we win but I hope we get better. Our defense was good, especially in keeping Robbs from breaking away." Lloyd Robbs, Indiana State's swift Negro halfback, had been tackled in the end zone to provide the Aces with an initial 2-0 lead in an 11-7 victory over Indiana State the night before.

"LeDuc got tripped up covering Webb, and Webb caught the pass for their only touchdown. The rest of the time we controlled their passing pretty well," Beck explained. "Our main weakness was our passing game. If we don't improve, they'll come out in a nine-man line against us."

Coach Beck seemed to be happy about the team's offense on the ground, which gained 202 yards against 90 for State, and with the punting of Oan Phillips, who averaged 38 yards in six punts. "I'm glad to see we have some size coming up from the freshman squad. Everybody seems to be bigger than we are this year," he said. "State was keyed up for the game, but our boys had good spirit too."

Paul Beck has been associated with athletics all his life, first as a player and then as a high school and college coach. At Worthington, Indiana High School he played basketball and football four years and was picked to the football all state team the last two years. In two years of football at Indiana State — back when they played powers like Purdue and Indiana — Beck made all-state and all-conference teams, captaining the State eleven his senior year.

In his first coaching job at Oblong, Illinois, Beck won the Wabash Valley conference two years in both the major sports and took his fine basketball teams to the state finals those two years. To add to these successes was the winning of the prettiest school teacher in the neighboring town of Robinson, Illinois, his wife — Ann. After three years at Thornton Junior College in Harvey, Illinois, Coach Beck became Lt. Commander Beck and spent six years of sea duty with the Navy. The contacts he had made at Thornton later helped him recruit such outstanding ball players as Wally Shadkowski, Jan Zapchenk, Tony LaPore and Bill White. The popular coach may have another source of football talent in his own backyard, so to speak. The Becks have two sons Bob, a senior center at Central, and Jim, a sophomore quarterback for the Bears' reserve team. In 1947 Coach Beck joined the College staff as assistant in basketball and football. He has been head coach in football for the past six years with the exception of a season four years ago which he had to miss because of a serious operation.

Gridders Strive To Improve All Time Record

Evansville's football crews started playing the pigskin game in 1924 as they posted a 4-3-1 record to get off on the right foot. But in the following 16 years the Aces could only muster one winning campaign as they came up with a 40-77-8 record. Since that time the football forces have been trying to come up to the .500 mark, but can't seem to come up with a good winning combination for any period of time. The Aces have an over-all record of 117 wins, 156 losses and 15 ties in 33 years of football.

Tere is the record of Evansville football teams since 1923.

Purple Ponderings

by Byron Moellenkamp

Tough defensive work on the part of the Purple Aces, made the difference again last Saturday as it had against Hanover the previous week. This year's bard knocking squad has experience from tackle to tackle. Captain Willie Brimm at 200 pounds and John Meredith at a stout 210 hold down the tackle spots. Both men have much drive and determination and along with the rest of the forward wall bold the key to the success of the 1960 campaign. Moving to the center of the line, we find three of the smallest linemen in the conference. As bas been stated many times before, "the size of the man does not determine the size of his heart." Guards George Carey, 185 pounds and 180-pound Charlie Ross, along with Carl Horn at 185 are three men who show plenty of heart and desire to win. So far this season the Aces' best offensive weapon bas been their strong, bard-hitting defense.

ACES FACE VALPO

Valparaiso, the Purple and White's Dad's Day opponents, are 1-1 for the season. They knocked off the Ball State Cardinals last Saturday 10-8, after dropping their opener to Wheaton. In their series with Evansville, the Crusaders from northern Indiana are tied with six wins, six losses, and a single tie. Coach Paul Beck's gridders have captured the last two meetings between the conference foes, winning last year 7-3 and in 1958, 22-8. Valpo's last victory came against the undermanned, flu-ridden squad of Forrest Page in 1957 by a 27-7 count.

PITTSBURGH IN SEVEN

With the 1960 American and National League pennants wrapped up for the Pirates and Yanks, yours truly will try and bope to succeed in determining the series winner. I hope to be more successful than my predecessor who gave the Giants and White Sox the nod for their respective leagues' flags in his predictions last spring. The Pirates should break on top with a first game victory at Forbes Field. In all probability it will be Vernon Law on the mound for Pittsburgh, wbo is in its first series since 1927 when they lost to the same New York Yankees in four straight games. Whitey Ford will most likely be Casey's starter. The second game, still in Pittsburgh, should rate as a toss up. Yankee Stadium, the sight of the third, fourth, and fifth games, should satisfy the Bronx Bombers perfectly. Mickey Mantle and gang get the nod for two out of three. Moving back to the National League champs' home grounds, but possibly trailing three to two in games, the odds will be against the Bues. In spite of this, I think Law will take the sixth game without relief, giving Danny Murtaugh a chance to use his entire staff if necessary to bring the World Baseball Championship to the great steel city of Pittsburgh. My pick — Pittsburgh in seven games.

MANAGER OF THE YEAR

Jumping bere and there in sports, we see the Washington Senators' manager, Cookie Lavigetto or Solly Hemus of the St. Loois Cardinals as the top candidates for manager of the Year. The great Detroit Lion, and now with the Pittsburgh Steelers, quarterback Bobby Layne set a new career passing mark. In less than 13 years Layne bas thrown for a total of 22,000 plus yards. Butler is headed for another good football season. Its victory over Wabash last Saturday gives them 15 consecutive wins. Ole Miss, Syracuse, and Washington are off on the right foot again this year in quest of the national football title. Mississippi disposed of the Kentucky Wildcats 21-7, Syracuse polished off Boston U. 35-7, while Washington slammed Idaho 41-12. Evansville rates a touchdown favorite of Valpo. Notre Dame a slight choice over the Boilermakers of Purdue. The Hustlin' Hoosiers should be a touchdown shy against Minnesota. Also the pre-practice exercises handed out by Coach Arad McCutchan will be trying to get into shape before their first practice Oct. 15.

Back the Aces. The team appreciates your support.

Butler Nips Valparaiso For ICC All - Sports Title

For the third straight year and the sixth time in eight years, Butler has won the all-sports championsbip of the Indiana Collegiate Conference.

The Bulldogs scored 73½ points to capture the tightest three-way race in conference history, with Valparaiso second on 71 points and DePauw third on 70.

Following the three leaders were Indiana State, 63½; Ball State, 51½; Evansville, 49; and St. Joseph's, 38½.

Butler's only championship came last fall in football, but runner-up points went to the Indianapolis school in two other major sports, basketball and track.

Under the ICC's all-sports scoring system, points for the four major sports — football, basketball, track and baseball — range from three to 21. For minor sports, the range is one to seven.

Valparaiso landed the 1960 baseball title, and DePauw picked up a crown in three sports—cross-country, tennis and track. In basketball the winner was Evansville, and in golf, Indiana State.

Beginning next year, swimming and wrestling points will be included in the all-sports scoring.

Final ICC All-Sports Standings — 1959-60

Butler	73½
Valparaiso	71
DePauw	70
Indiana State	63½
Ball State	51½
Evansville	49
St. Joseph's	38½

Starte Falls 11-7 Defense Again Victory Key

Again last Saturday night the Aces "rock and sock 'em" defense led them to a 11-7 victory over the Sycamores of Indiana State at Terre Haute.

The Aces predominately sophomore led second string opened the scoring in the second period as speedy Lloyd Robbs was nailed in the end zone for a safety. It was this same Robbs that enabled the Purple and White gridders to come home with an 8-6 victory last year as he was stopped in the end zone for a safety by Larry Gates.

Phillips Punts

Danny Phillips boomed out a 42-yard punt which rolled dead on the State four-yard line to set up the safety. Phillips improved his punting average six yards over last week as he kicked six times for 38 yards per try.

After receiving the kick-off following the safety the Aces promptly marched to the State's 19, but ran out of gas. Larry Dunean then kicked a 29-yard field goal to give Coach Paul Beck's squad a 5-0 balftime margin.

Mid-way in the third period Richie Sieb scored on a naked reverse that had the entire Indiana State faked out of positions. Bud Garland, Don LeDuc, and Dave Koehler carred the pigskin to the State four in nine plays, then Scib scored on bis perfectly executed reverse.

Seven Straight

Evansville picked up 14 first downs to 13 by the hard fighting Sycamores. The victory was the Aces' seventh straight over the Terre Haute team.

Indiana State picked up the seven points in the final frame when Wally Webb slipped by the Aces' secondary to baul in one of Gil Fujawa's aerials. This seemed to be the only lapse in the Aces' defense as the Syeamores never did really threaten during the entire game.

Valpo Catcher

Despite repeated offers to turn professional throughout his high school, amateur, and college career, Orton insisted on completing bis college education.

University athletic officials stated that Orton is proof of success in the course of action recommended by college baseball authorities for the outstanding student who is both college academic caliber and also professional baseball timber.

Orton was voted the outstanding amateur player in Detroit while still in high school when be played on the PepsiCola sandlot team which won the national junior championship, played on the United States team in the Pan American Games last summer, and was an all-conference choice three years in a row in the Indiana Collegiate conference.

Gridders Face Valpo Seek Third Straight Win

Evansville College's football forces will be seeking their third straight victory tomorrow night at Bosse Field against a big but inexperienced Valparaiso team.

The Crusaders bold a 1-1 record after slipping by Ball State last week 10-8. Valpo lost its opening game to a tough Wheaton of Illinois squad 30-7.

Coaches E. M. Bauer and Walt Reingcr bave lost their entire starting line with the exception of centers Jerry Goeglein and Hank Schollett. But the Crusaders fared better in the backfield, retaining all conference quarterback Noel Schlegelmilch, the ICC leading passer; halfback John Knight, the team's leading 1959 rusher; and fullback Don "Tank" Martis, a 215-pound powerhouse at the big position.

A fourth backfield starter, halfback Dick Puffpaff, has been shifted to the end position to bolster the inexperience in the Crusader line. Martis is also learning a new position as the big fullback has been moved to a halfback post.

Helping out in the line at a tackle position will be Bob Gusse, a 240 pound starter on the Crusaders 1957 squad. Gusse has returned from service.

The Aces will be seeking their third straight triumph over the Valpo club. Evansville defeated the Crusaders 22-8 in 58 and 7-3 in 59.

Coach Paul Beck of the Aces will probably go with same starting line-up that took the field against Indiana State in their opening conference victory. The backfield should consist of Richie Scib at Quarterback, Bud Garland and Don LeDue at halfbacks and Dave Kochler moving from the fullback slot.

The front line will probably also stay intact from last week. Ron Tepool and Larry Duncan will run from the flanker positions, while the tackle slots will be filled by Willie Brimm and John Meredith. George Carey and Charlie Ross will go at guards, with Carl Horn in the center slot.

At half time the fathers of the Aces will be introduced, with one of them being named Dad of the year. Last year the late Mr. Zapchenk, father of halfback Jan Zapchenk received the honor.

Red Flag Intramural

Evansville College's intramural sports program will begin October 3, with two fraternities opening the action. S.A.E., last year's runnerup in the football action will be shooting for its first victory of the season against T.K.E. The other game that week will be last year's champs Lamba Chi facing a rugged ROTC outfit.

Lamba Chi captured the traveling All Sports trophy last season by defeating S.A.E. 6-0 on a 60-yard play. Both teams were undefeated going into the final game.

Here are the rules the teams must go by:

1. All rulcs under "General Intramural Rules A" are in effect.
2. Teams forfeiting two games will be dropped from leaguc play.
3. Games start PROMPTLY at 3:45 p.m.
4. Gamcs cannot be started with less than eight players on each team.
5. Rosters must be in to Tom Tuley by Oct. 3. Players may be added by any league team until three days after the completion of the fall rush.
6. Referees are in complete charge of games.
7. Disputes will be handled by the S.G.A. Athletic Committee

Ernest Horn Named Dad of The Year

Mr. Ernest Horn, father of Carl Horn, received the "Dad of the Year" trophy at the annual Dad's Day festivities held Saturday at half-time of the Evansville College-Valparaiso football game. The trophy was presented to Mr. Horn by Dr. Melvin Hyde, president of the College.

Sporting new uniforms, the band gave a rousing half-time show depicting different march steps of the century. Mike Spence presented the dads of the football players to the fans.

Festivities began with a social hour in the lounge of the Union Building at 5 p.m. Appetizers were served at this time by student co-chairmen Sharon Tapley and Karen Thomas.

A chicken dinner was served at 5:30 in the Great Hall. Serving as waiters were Evansville College professors. Mike Spence, president of Student Government, was master of ceremonies.

Three awards were presented to the dads. The dad receiving the award for coming the greatest distance was Mr. Gene Phillips, father of Danny Phillips, who came from Meridian, Miss. The youngest dad was Mr. Arthur Wardelman, father of Barbara Sorrenson. The oldest dad was Mr. Behme, father of Jack Behme. Both Danny and Jack play on the football team.

The Evansville College yell leaders entertained by leading the students and their dads in yells. The cigarette girls, who were chosen from Gamma Delta, were Josette Adams, Barbara Capen, Sandra Hayden, and Martha Murray.

At the end of the entertainment the students and dads left for the Evansville College-Valparaiso football game.

DEMO DINNER TONIGHT

The Young Democrats of Evansville College will hold a fish and chicken dinner tonight at the Eagles Picnic Grounds. The affair will begin at 7 sharp.

Speakers for the dinner will be Congressman Denton and Senator Paul Bitz. The dinner will climax a free week of political activity in Vanderburgh County. The public is invited.

At the weekly meeting held last Monday night, the Young Demos elected Dotti Gann as chairwoman of the social committee.

Legal Gambling At SAE House Sat. Night

The SAE House will turn into a small Las Vegas-Reno type setting tomorrow night when the men of that fraternity will throw a Casino Party scheduled from 8 until midnight.

However everything will be on the legal side of the law since paper money will be used in place of the greens. Roulette, dice, and blackjack tables will be erected in the fraternity house for guests to take a chance. A prize will be awarded to the individual winning the most "money" during the evening's festivities.

Rushees and dates are most cordially invited to attend this gathering.

Plans are already being arranged for the 1961 SAE-Philo Blackouts Show. Dave Spears, coordinator for this year's program has set up several committees to begin early planning for the entertainment.

Hall Dedication To Feature 1912 Graduate

Dedication ceremonies for Moore Hall, scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 18 from 1:00 to 1:30, will be honored with a historical statement from Dr. Willard C. Patrick, a 1912 graduate of Moores Hill College.

Dr. Patrick, a retired Methodist minister, is from Indianapolis. Well known around campus, Dr. Patrick served on the Evansville College Board of Trustees from 1930 to 1960.

There will be no 12:45 classes on the 18th so that all students may attend the dedication ceremonies. They are encouraged to do so.

The new dorm is to be dedicated "Moore Hall" in honor of John C. Moore, founder of Moores Hill College. When the college was moved from Moores Hill to Evansville it was agreed that in the future of the college a large building on campus would be named after Dr. Moore. The girls' dorm is this building. The dorm is a gift from the Indiana Methodist Conference.

Union Means Service, Caters To 2500 Daily

It's practically like Grand Central Station. That's how we will describe the Union located in the horseshoe at Evansville College.

Evidently the Union was meant to be used. Any building entered by 2500 people a day qualifies as being used. A building in which 3000 room reservations are made is used. It was built for reception, for meetings, for parties, for senior placement interviews, for learning to get along with people, and, of course, for eating!

Few restaurants could continue to operate with most of their customers there less than three-fourths of the year. The Union cafeteria is kept open to the public the year 'round and serves meals to townsfolk to balance the months during which few student fees and little student patronage are available to pay the continuing expenses. This balances the costs of serving the students and operating the million dollar building not covered by the portion of student fees.

With the beautiful cafeteria kitchen and efficient Grill kitchen the Union will have for the first time student plates in both the Wooden Indian and Cafeteria. How many know that the Grill serves breakfast? How many know that the Cafeteria prices are lower at noon, so as to benefit the students? How many buy meal tickets which save you 10 per cent on all cafeteria food?

The serving of meals to the public and rental of rooms to outside organizations not only helps pay for the comforts and services the students enjoy at the Union but it also repays hundreds of Evansville citizens who gave money to build the Union. It also interests the people into sending their children to Evansville College. It strengthens the ties between Evansville and the College, which not only assures a better college but improves one's job opportunities as Evansville College graduates.

The Union Staff protects student interest and gives students first choice at use of the building, if reservations are made ahead of time.

Let us list some of the services the Union provides for its students. Room reservations and arrangements to suit your meetings, parties, banquets, pep assemblies, and dances; food available from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.; newspapers for sale; checkroom service 13 hours a day; the campus lost-and-found department; hi-fi equipment with records for check-out listenings; sheet music for use on the Lounge piano.

a stock of materials for, and help in putting up posters; the daily schedules of all Evansville High Schools posted for student teachers.

A bulletin board; mailboxes with delivery service for all campus groups; a monthly calendar compiled and delivered to all student groups; a games room for pool, billiards, and table tennis; provision of chess, checkers, and playing cards; a TV set in the informal lounge, the patio.

Soft drink and cigarette machines in the Wooden Indian and Patio; packaged foods and candies for sale in the Patio; and a juke box with current records. Handy campus calendars, pocket size, are also published for use.

Besides these services, the nine Union Committees, with the Social Director's help, each year sponsor Vocal Varieties, Musical Madness, arrange chess, table tennis, bridge, and billiard tournaments; give an all-campus Christmas party, record hops after games, informal dances, and a commencement dance.

They sell the mums for Homecoming, decorate the building for Christmas and Homecoming, buy Hi-Fi records, entertain hundreds of high school seniors at parties, help arrange Art exhibits, make posters, take building counts, and serve as hostesses at vespers' coffee.

The Union welcomes your suggestions for further service. Some things which developed from recent student suggestions were the new mailboxes, coat racks outside the Indian, a better light over the pay telephones, and the dish return window in the Wooden Indian.

All students are invited to work on the Union committees. By working on them you will realize that the Union is not only a beautiful and convenient building, but that it offers a program in which each student may have a voice and participate.

See you at the Union!

Blue Cross Plan Deadline Oct 14

The last chance for full time day students to have their checks in the Dean of Students Office for the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Insurance Plan will be October 14. Both a single student plan at $15 a year and a family plan at $75 a year are being offered through the college. Coverage on both these plans is carried up to Sept. 20, 1961.

Dr. Thompson, dean of students, suggests that all students who will reach the age of 19 during the academic year, and will no longer be covered by their parents' Blue Cross plan, should investigate the policies offered through the college.

Evansville College offers one of the lowest rates in Blue Cross Insurance Plans of any college in the country. A large majority of the student body has taken advantage of these insurance plans this year.

Sunderman Heads ROTC

Cadet Colonel Ken Sunderman has been given command of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets for the fall quarter. Serving under Sunderman are 100 upperclassmen and some 150 freshman cadets.

Sunderman

Second in command for the 1960 fall quarter are Cadet Majors: Robert Rayburn, Bill Thurneck, Mike Sterczer, Bill Tedford and Bill George. Serving as Cadet Captain will be John Lacefield.

According to Sunderman, the biggest problem facing him at the present time will be getting the cadets in shape since he only has contact with them one hour a week, on Friday mornings.

Sunderman also stated that AFROTC will participate in all intramural sports and has formed a rifle team and again this year will have a very fine drill team.

Pattan Speaking

How Not To Act Green

by Ron Patton
(Crescent staff writer)

The only time that freshmen like to bave people know they are freshmen is when they are impressing their friends back at Little City High School. The only time that college upperclassmen like to have people think that they are freshmen is wben they are females and don't bave dates because all the guys are bird-dogging freshmen girls.

This latter problem will be dealt with at a future date, but at present tbe recent influx of new students demands a careful study of those traits wbicb will successfully enable a dumb, uniformed, naive freshman to masquerade as a common, insipid, dumb, uniformed upperclassmen. There IS a difference.

Lie wben yon borrow money. When yon need money to bny a pair of socks or a study lamp, say that yon have to pay a library fine, a parking ticket, a bookie, in fact anything that sounds sort of disbonest.

Always refer to the way things were last year. These references must be things that no one could check up on, such as: "Gosb, tbe mustard bere seems thin, THIS YEAR."

Refer to making ont as playing "smash-mouth" or "kissy face." It makes yon sound properly apathetic.

Look grubby on Fridays and Mondays. Mondays, because it makes people think tbat you've had a great weekend. Fridays because it makes people think that you are going to bave a great weekend.

When you enter a class sit in the back and pretend to sleep, but listen intently to the instructor. Later on be sure to ace all of the tests. This will make people tbink that you must have taken the course before.

Say "Hello" loudly and clearly (preferably across great distances and while in crowds) to people like building janitors, campus groundkeepers, and the waitresses in the Indian. Yes, that was a plug, and in case you would like to know, I won't get a darn thing out of it.

Before going I want you to be sure to watch bere next week for an article on that International subject, the college boy.

Be A Nurse

3 Nursing Courses Offered At College

The Evansville Community College is offering three short-term professional nurse traineeship programs in cooperation with the Evansville area hospital council and the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Public Health Servlee, Division of Nursing Resources.

The first course in this workshop series began Sept. 28 with more than 40 nurses attending and will continue through Dec. 15. Repeat offering of the program will be available in January of 1961.

The program will include three major topics, "Effective Nursing Supervision," "Improving the Quality of Nursing Care Through Team Nursing" and "Selected Methods of Teaching Nursing."

The first course offers administrative, supervisory and teaching personnel from area hospitals and health agencies a short, intensive course designed to aid them in developing supervisory skills and techniques.

The second course is designed for nurse administrators, supervisors, and teachers who have the responsibility of preparing nursing team members for their functions in today's complete nursing situation. This course will endeavor to develop four main areas as a foundation for further development and investigation in the participants' local situation.

The purpose of the third course is to assist teachers in schools of nursing and those in charge of teaching programs for auxiliary workers and/or staff education programs to improve their teaching skills.

Members of the staff include Dr. Genevieve Bixler, professional nurse consultant of Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Leland W. Moon, professor of education; Dr. Earl M. Tapley, professor of education; and Miss Mildred Boeke, director of Evansville College School of Nursing.

Dr. Hyde Watches E.C. Grow

By Barbara Kirsch
(Crescent Staff Writer)

Dr. Melvin Hyde is now well into his sixth year as president of Evansville College. During the last five years he has seen many changes take place on the campus, and among the faculty and students.

Dr. Hyde, a 6-footer from the Dakotas, has much to be proud of in his accomplishments here at EC. In his speeches he always tries to bring the subject around to Evansville College, if he can do so without being too obvious. He also has much to look forward to until 1970, the year he plans to retire. The president anticipates the class of 1970 will be the last to receive its diplomas from him.

MOST EVERYONE, faculty and students alike, have met and talked to the EC president at some time or another. Dr. Hyde has a fantastic memory for names and faces and has been known to jolt students when he remembers them.

Dr. Hyde, the 55-year-old executive, was the son of a Methodist minister and one of six children (four sisters and one brother). He was valedictorian of his high school class and the next year became a student at Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell, S. D. There he earned his bachelor of science degree in 1926. His first teaching job was at Sioux Falls High School, where he met Mrs. Hyde.

After three years of teaching he attended Columbia University and received his master's and doctor's degrees.

He immediately entered the college administration field by being appointed head of the department of education at Dakota Wesleyan and then dean of the college. Next he became dean at Mount Union in Alliance, Ohio.

In 1949 he took a big step when he was appointed assistant president of Drake University at Des Moines, Iowa. It was while there that he was persuaded by the Evansville College board to join the Evansville College faculty.

Here at Evansville College he saw many advantages. The location, the city, the readiness of the institution to expand were all points in its favor. It was because of these reasons, he says, that he accepted the challenge of Evansville College.

BECAUSE DR. HYDE believes the relationship between the city and the college is so strong, he has become an active leader in civic affairs. One of these activities includes being the first president of the Foundation for Evansville's Future.

Besides his civic obligations and his appearances as guest speaker he still finds time to attend with his wife all the college athletic events, EC plays and concerts, and faculty and senior recitals.

Rarely does the president get any time to himself. He has abandoned all plans of a leisurely fishing excursion. Dr. Hyde did find time this summer though to visit his son, Jim, and daughter, Joanne. Jim is a graduate of M.I.T. and has a Ph.D. in physics. Joanne graduated from Drake University.

WHEN DR. HYDE first came to Evansville College there were just three buildings on campus and the enrollment was 1,117 day students. Since then five new buildings have been completed and the enrollment has increased to 1500.

According to a study of enrollment made by Dr. Hyde, by 1970 predictions are that 3,071 students will attend EC.

Who knows what events the next 10 years will unfold?

A BELL FOR TKE

The newest addition to the Aces' cheering section is a 177-pound bell purchased last week by Tau Kappa Epsilon. The bell is painted silver with the letters TKE painted in red.

It was initiated last Saturday night at the game between Valpo and the Aces, and will be present at all of EC's home games.

Seems like the letter to the editor in last week's Crescent surpassed even my sardonic views on certain facets of Evansville College. I would just like to add my hearty approval to the letter, although I can't complain about freedom of the press up to now.

A few odd thoughts crept into my head while watching TV the past month. Can you imagine: "Beat The Clock," with Caryl Chessman, "It Could Be You," Adolph Eichman, "I've Got A Secret," Julius and Ethel Rusenberg, "The Priee Is Right," Mature Social Rules.

Mayhe you don't notice, hut our faculty is a rather humorous group. Take Dr. Mordue in chemistry. The other day he played catch — using paper clips — with a magnet in front of more than 50 students. Dr. Munday on the other hand, told one of her classes where she hid hooks considered contrahand hy her parents. And then there is the humorous sarcasm of Dr. Paul Grahill. He said that when you see old people reading the Bible in an old folks home, they are just cramming for the final. Of course someone has to make a hlooper. Dr. Rodman asked a class, "Which came first, the chicken or the hen?"

Wrote in for a Sheraton Hotel college eredit eard over the summer. I received it all right, along with a hrochure about their hotels around the world. I was interested to note that the French Lick Sheraton is located in, "The Cumberland Mountains of scenic southern Indiana." Could it he that the Ohio is the Rhine, and we are attending Oxford?

"Brave New World" is upon us. New York's Blue Sea Restaurant puts tranquilizers in its tank so the lobsters won't fight.

From Tolleshury, Essex, England comes the word that C. White won the winkle-picking championship of East Anglia hy picking 156 lhs. of winkles in an hour and three-quarters.

Here is a point of interest to you haskethall fans. Roger Thurston, formerly of Kokomo High School (he played with Jim Rayl when they were second in the state in '59 tournament) is now playing with a full scholarship for Boise (Idaho) Junior College. You will recall he left here after a controversial argument. Well, anyway, he will move up to Utah next year with a full scholarship and two years of eligihility. Yes, the Aces play Utah this year, and he will play against us if we play them in the next two years.

It seems to me that the sororities have lost some of the meaning of rush. They are apparently afraid that if they don't set up equal rush periods and isolate the rushees, someone will outrush someone else. The meaning of rush is to get out and dig, work hard for your group, and show why you think it is the hest one. If they would do this they would all "wax strong" with the type of sisters that fit the ideals of their various chapters. When they feel that they must prohihit girls from all social events during rush, time has come for them to re-valuate their system, no matter how long it has been done in this way.

Oh yes, you people let me know if you are Sehaadisfied with my column.

Mac Attends Olympic Tilts This Summer

Basketball coach Arad McCutchan, after coaching his second consecutive college level NCAA championship team, led thirteen other sports fans on a month long tour of Europe this summer, climaxed by the 17th Olympic Games.

Among those on the tour were Virginia McCutchan, the coach's wife; Dan Scism, local sports columnist; C. B. Enlow, chairman of the board of National City Bank; and Mr. Enlow's nephew "Dink" Templeton, former U. S. Olympic track coach.

The group departed from New York on August 12, but were forced to return when an engine failed 3 hours out of New York over the Atlantic. "They were all good travelers; not one considered the possibility of not continuing the trip," commented McCutchan about the experience.

After touring scenic Scotland and historic London, the travelers spent three days in Paris. At their hotel in Paris, Dinah Shore was filming a sequence for her winter show. Several of the tourists talked to the popular T.V. personality and took movies of her. In Oberammeragu, Germany, a picturesque medieval village nestled in the Bavarian Alps, the coach and his crew saw the world famous Passion Play which depicts the last week in Christ's life. The townspeople have presented the six and a half hour pageant in gratitude for deliverance from the Black Plague every ten years since 1634 with only three exceptions.

On the flight from Switzerland to Venice the McCutchan tour landed at an airstrip so close to Communist Yugoslavia that the plane had to take off in the wrong direction in relation to the wind in order to keep from violating Yugoslav air space.

After a day's tour of Venice, the beautiful city built on petrified pilings, the Americans flew on to Rome. The Olympic Games are undoubtedly the greatest and most colorful sports spectacle in the world. Dire predictions of Rome's inability to handle the 100,000 people who poured into the city for the games simply did not come true according to Mr. McCutchan. Members of the tour saw most of the track and field events, basketball, gymnastics, field hockey, soccer and an exhibit of great art which deals with sports. It was rumored throughout the tour that the reason Mac went to the Olympics was to scout Terry Dischinger of Purdue and all-American Jerry Lucas of Ohio State. Evansville plays both of these teams this year.

The track events provided the greatest thrills for the Macs. "Wilma Rudolph was the darling of the crowd," said Mrs. McCutchan of the tall, Negro triple medal winner from Tennessee State College. "Herb Elliots' fine 1500-meter victory was an example of something in which I have always believed as a coach, that a man can never overtrain, but instead gets stronger and faster the harder he works," added Mr. McCutchan. Of the Olympic basketball, the coach thought that our team was perhaps the greatest team ever assembled, including the pros. He noted that other nations are moving up to our caliber very fast and the United States will have plenty of competition in the future.

HALFBACK DON LeDUC scores first TD for Aces in third quarter of Valpo game Saturday night at Bosse Field. LeDuc's score put the Aces ahead 10-7.

Valpo Drive Stymied In Gridders 17-14 Victory

Two "d's" came to the rescue of the Purple Aces in the waning minutes of the Valparaiso tilt last Saturday as Coach Paul Beck's squad survived a hectic finish to win 17-14.

Desire and defense played the key role in the victory which left the Evansville and St. Joseph's teams in the driver's seat for the 1960 ICC gridiron crown. Quarterback Richie Seib engineered a 50-yard drive that was climaxed by Don LeDuc's slant off-tackle for the touchdown.

The Aces kicked off with 3:40 remaining and Noel Schlegelmilch promptly led the Crusaders to the Aces' 8-yard line. Desire entered the Purple and White lineup with Carl Horn, Ron Tepool, and John Meredith dropping Crusader backs for consecutive losses of 2, 9, and 6 yards. Dn fourth and 25, Schlegelmilcb tried a field goal attempt which fell short and was returned to the 37 by Don LeDuc. The Aces then ran out the final few seconds.

Larry Duncan's first quarter field goal proved to be the difference between victory and defeat. After the Aces moved to the 18 and ran out of gas, Duncan split the uprights for a 3-0 Evansville lead.

Under the direction of their superb signal caller Schlegelmilch, Valparaiso moved ahead 7-3 at halftime. The Crusaders were finding weak spots consistently in the Aces' forward wall. In the third stanza Seib, facing an eight-man Valpo line directed the Purple Aces to their first T.D. and a 10-7 lead. The drive featured Seib and the naked-side bootleg and LeDuc's slants off-tackle. Seib's score came on the same play that had picked up valuable yardage during the drive.

With 9:48 remaining in the game Schlegelmilch led a second Crusade scoring drive that resulted in a 14-10 lead. But determination rode with Beck's crew in the next few minutes. Seib, again facing an 8-man defensive line, led the Aces downfield with LeDuc slanting off the left side for the final tally.

Bud Garland

By Temme Patterson
(Cresceent Sports Writer)

Running from the left halfback position this year is one of Southern Indiana's top High School products three years ago at Washington, Richard "Bud" Garland.

Bud has started in all three of the Aces' games this year, and has been a main factor in the big Evansville defensive corps. Bud protects the left side in the backfield defense.

While at Washington, Bud scored 287 points in three years of gridiron competition. During his senior year he was voted to the ALL-SIAC squad, the ALL-STATE team, and was a member of the High School ALL-AMERICAN team.

When asked what he thought of the last drive that Valpo made Saturday night down to the Evansville 8-yard line, Bud said, "I thought we had had it; they had marched from their own 40 and if we didn't hold, we were dead." How about Evansville's ICC chances? "This club shouldn't do any worse than tie for the crown, but we might win it."

Bud was also a standout on his high school basketball squad as he played varsity ball for three years. During his senior year Washington won the sectional, but was defeated by Vincennes in the Huntingburg regional. He played basketball for the Freshmen Aces but turned to intramural bis sophomore year.

Being president of his sophomore class at Evansville last year and chairman of the Lambda Chi Rush this year are only a few honors this 5-10, 170-pound junior has received.

Bud is majoring in General Business.

Aces Seek 4th Straight Win

Finding replacements for 11 graduated seniors, nine of whom were regulars at various times, has been Coach Jim Freeman's major problem in rebuilding the Ball State Cardinals' football forces.

The Cardinals lost a heartbreaker to Illinois State in their opening game 7-3, and then lost another tough one to Valparaiso by a two-point markin 10-8 the following week. Coach Freeman got his offense roused up a little last week as the Cardinals defeated Eastern Illinois 14-6 at Muncie.

Ball State coaches have a limited amount of men to work from this year as they try to improve on a dismal 1-7 showing for the 1959 season. The Cardinals gave our Aces a good run here in Evansville last year as they dropped a close 10-0 decision.

Ten linemen head the list of returnees, and all started at least once last year as Coach Freeman was forced to use a new lineup every week due to injuries. The lettermen includes ends Roger Zubik, Don Puckett, and Ron Webb; tackles Joe Cequeira, Bill Siderewicz, and Charles Johnson; guards Al Thomas, Jim Bartlett, and Dee Hill; and center Barney Halaschak.

Backfield lettermen include quarterback Tom Walenga; halfbacks Larry Walker and Jon McKeel; and fullbacks Pete Jubeck and Harry Tolmen. McKeel started several early season games before a knee injury sidelined him for the year and Walker moved into the starting ballback slot near the season's end as injuries took their toll.

The Aces will be trying for their fourth straight win tomorrow night at Muncie. Coach Paul Beck's boys have shown some good defensive work in all three games. Last Saturday with Valpo on the 8-yard line with only a minute to go, Beck's defensive squad went to work as the Aces held on for a 17-14 verdict.

SAE Rolls Over TEK's

With their running game working to perfection against a larger TKE line, the SAE's romped to an easy 46-0 victory last Monday in the Red Flag Intramural League.

Dn the sixth play from scrimmage, halfback Jack Mentzel ran the power right for the touchdown and the Phi Alpha men were away and running. Tom Young tallied for the second SAE pointers, followed by Byron Buckley, Mentzel (his second) and Dick Dull. Young also scored the last TD as the Sig Alphs walked off with the first intramural game of the 1960 season.

The league schedule has been revised with the addition of two new teams. The new schedule will appear in the next issue of the Crescent.

SAE	....	.....	14	8	8	16—46
TKE	.....	.....	0	0	0	0— 0

Scoring: SAE—TD's Young 2 (36 yard pass-run from Daughtery, G.; 42 yard interception) Mentzel 2 (14 yard off-tackle; 22 yard off-tackle) Buckley (48 yard interception), Dull (17 yard pass from Daughtery, G.) PAT: Karsch, Rehrman, Greenfield, Daughtery, G., Buckley.

Bill Kirsch Receives Burckhartt Scholarship

Bill Kirsch, a junior, has been awarded the Hal D. Burckhartt scholarship for the "most promising junior in the Department of History and Political Science." According to Dr. Wade David, head of this department, the award is based on "academic achievement, character, personality, future promise and interest in campus activities."

Bill, a history major and pre-law student, is president of the junior class, and was a member of last year's varsity debate squad. He is also president of Pi Gamma Mu, a social science honorary fraternity, secretary of IFC, and president, chaplain, and rush chairman of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

The Hal D. Burckhart Scholarship is named after a distinguished 1956 graduate of EC who later attended the Indiana University School of Law. He was killed in an accident near Miami, Arizona, March 6, 1960. Hal Burckhartt was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson H. Burckhartt, formerly of Evansville. At the present time Mr. Burckhartt is the vice-president of Chicago City Bank and while he was in Evansville worked at Citizens National Baok.

The scholarship fund amounts to $3,000 so that $100 scholarships can be awarded annually to a junior to be used in his or her senior year.

German Most Popular Of Language Courses

Only 8 percent of the students at Evansville College elect curricula which have modern languages requirements for graduation. Almost all of the rest are in the fields of engineering, business administration, and music. Because of the emphasis on science, German is the most popular of the three languages taught at EC, French, German, and Spanish.

For the first time in the history of the school, two days of laboratory attendance are required in the beginning language courses to supplement the three weekly traditional class meetings. Students receive a total of five hours instruction, while they only pay for four credit hours. It is already noted that the addition of the fifth day in the beginning classes is largely responsible for the small number of drop-outs in those classes as compared with previous years.

In the lab, the student listens through earphones to recordings based on the text, made by native speakers and furnished by the textbook publishers to the department for copying. Thus the skills of aurat comprehension and proounciation are emphasized more than ever, supplementing those of reading, writing, and speaking the language.

With respect to aural comprehension, the guiding philosophy is that students should understand through hearing, as well as they do through seeing the written word.

In the past, the department has offered Russian only in the evening college and hopes in the near future to include it regularly in the day session. Dr. F. Woody Werking, department head, this last summer was one of 116 students from all over the United States at the Indiana University workshop in Russian, which had an entire native Russian teaching staff. It is Dr. Werking's intention to continue his advanced study of Russian at the Russian school of Middlebury College in Vermont next summer, where he plans to take his family.

Mrs. Mary Werking, wife of the department head, has for several years taught German and Spanish at EC. but this year she is teaching only German. She has the lecture portion of the beginning German section.

With the aid of Professor Charles Herndon of the engineering department, Dr. Werking built a 35-position language listening lab which he gave to the college. He hopes io the near future to double the lab space in order to provide enough space for large iodividual booths.

The language department is constantly consulted by tri-state citizens in matters pertaining to foreign countries

SENATOR JOHN F. KENNEDY is greeted by Evansville citizens on his route from the airport to the courthouse where he delivered a 15 minute campaign speech. Some 300 Evansville College students were on hand to greet Kennedy at the airport last week.

Editorially Speaking . . . .

Today is the annual election of class officers and it is your duty as students of Evansville College to get out and vote for the candidates of your choice.

Again we are faced with that nasty word, coalition. The time has finally come when it is not the best man who always wins, but instead the man who has the largest coalition backing him.

Since class officers do little more than pose for the LinC and Crescent, we must stop to realize that the election in which we are voting today is little more than a popularity contest. Both slates have picked candidates who are well known at EC in athletics, Greek organizations, etc. To say that a certain man is best qualified for a certain office would be nothing more than propaganda, because a class officer does absolutely nothing that requires any certain type of qualification.

And so as you approach the Union Building today it is very likely that you will be mauled by students begging you to vote for their respective candidates. Don't ponder too long before casting your vote because one vote either way won't mean a decrease in tuition, a change in social rules, or free food for all in the Indian. All it will do is try to decide which coalition has more members and who are the more popular students at Evansville College.

Name Change

Night School Opens To 1183 Evening Students

As night falls on the campus, some 1183 students fill the classrooms of the Evansville Community College. These include regular evening college students, as well as those in The American Institute of Banking and the Center for Advanced Study.

Recently the division of Evansville College serving adults has been renamed "Community College," known as "Evening College" for 20 years. The name was changed for it was not considered truly descriptive of the operation. Some portions of the work were not carried out in the evening.

In keeping with national trends another new name was adopted, "School of Engineering," which replaces its academic departmental listing.

Since 1940, when the Evening College was established to provide higher education opportunities for persons engaged in full-time or parttime employment, over 40,900 individual term enrollments have been recorded.

The "Community College" name carries with it an even broader philosophical base on which to program adult needs in higher education.

This program is intended to be of help to those who wish to earn credits leading to a degree or certificate.

It will help secure specialized training in order to improve occupational competency or to prepare for new vocational or professional fields, for those who do not desire a degree. The program is intended to be of help to those which to develop themselves for more satisfying personal living in contemporary democratic society.

Sen. Kennedy Pays A Visit

By Ron Patton
(Crescent Staff Writer)

When an exceptionally busy presidential candidate takes the time to show interest toward the tri-state, it deserves a word of mention. So a big "Hats Off," to Senator John Kennedy.

By now everyone on the campus knows that the senator appeared here last week and probably everyone knows the story, but we thought you might like to hear it from a college student's view.

When he appeared here last week, many backers stood in the rain at the airport for nearly an hour to greet the young senator from Massachusetts and possibly the next President of the United States. Many of the rain soaked people who stood to see Kennedy were students from are own Alma Mater. One report says that approximately 300 students from EC were among the 2,000 in attendance. Of course the number of people there is an elastic thing and another report says that there were only 400 to meet him at the airport.

After a slight amount of chaos at the airport the Senator, Mayor, and other city officials got in a white Lincoln Continental and headed for the courthouse. The reception for the Senator along his route to the courthouse is something that can't be expressed and you would have had to see it to get the excitement out of it. People yelling all sort of things such as: "We are for Jack," "Come on Jack and Win," "Let's Jazz up the White House," and of course his big slogan," "Let's Back Jack." Something should be mentioned about the big reception the Senator got while passing North High School. On his route to the courthouse no welcome was expressed more warmly than when he went by the long line of local teens.

Finally after a 10-minute drive, the long line of cars reached their destination. Three men stepped out of the limousine, followed by John F. Kennedy. He was healthily tanned, handsomely dressed and, at the sight of him, a horde of women fans set up a happy squealing. They said we were bad in high school you should have seen these mature women acting like they were seeing The King Of Love. In less than half a second, the women had Kennedy completely surrounded as they clamored for autographs, a look, or a handshake.

His speech on the platform was a short one and no new campaign information was released. He said that he didn't see how the people could afford to elect Mr. Nixon and Mr. Parker in their present situation.

With the help of State Senator Paul Bitz I managed to meet and talk shortly with Senator Kennedy. During this time he remarked that at my age he never even thought of being a candidate for the President of the United States.

To me the Senator seemed very relaxed and asked me more questions that I asked him. He also said that he felt the youth of today are more mature than in his young years and those of his father's and he could not see how the United States could go any way but forward under their leadership. He laughed and said, "Of course I would love to lay the path for them."

At 4:15 the Senator departed for Kentucky, but I managed to talk with the Democratic Candidate for Governor, Matthew Welsh. Along with State Senator Bitz, Congressman Denton, and Mayor McDonald; we discussed the Senator's speech and the election in general.

They felt the race in Indiana is one of the hottest in the country. Matthew Welsh seemed to think that the people in Indiana are fed up with the G.O.P. party and will elect Democrats in all positions available come November 8th.

CRESCENT STAFF WRITER Ron Patton is pictured above with Matthew B. Welch, Democratic candidate for governor. Patton interviewed both Welch and Senator John Kennedy during the senator's visit to Evansville last Wednesday.

To The Editor

To the editor:

I would like an answer to a question. Why were the supporters of Kennedy allowed to double park, for several hours, on the Evansville College circle? They further complicated the problem of congestion which is already bad enough. Other groups, furthermore, have not been allowed to take this freedom, even for a couple of hours in the past.

Have you an answer to my question? D.A.B.

Don't have a definite answer at this time. However, you might check with the maintenance department for a reply since it is in charge of the traffic situation around this institution. — Ed.

SPORTSCAR CLUB MEETS

The first meeting of the newly organized sports car club here on the college campus will be held Oct. 20 at 10 a.m. in room 3 of the Union Building. Anyone owning a sports car or interested in sports cars is welcome to attend.

The club is planning rallies periodically throughout the year along with various other activities. For further details, contact either Gene Bricker or John Harrelson.

E.C. Grads Invade Schools

There are many new faces in front of the classrooms in the Evansville Public Schools this quarter. These new faces belong to the Evansville College student teachers working toward their elementary or secondary teaching certificates.

The Evansville College Education Department, in cooperation with the Evansville School Corporation, places students in any of the elementary or high schools in the city, Dr. Earl Tapley, head of the department, reports. Dr. Leland Moon and Mrs. Wilma Shafer assist Dr. Tapley in supervising the student teachers.

The elementary teachers may be assigned to any one of the approximately 40 elementary schools in the city. These students teach three hours each school day for the entire year. The practice teachers change schools each quarter.

The secondary education majors are placed in one of the five high schools in Evansville. They teach the entire day on all school days for one quarter. The classes taught are selected from the student's major course of study. The student teacher may also teach a class from his restricted field if he wishes.

In addition to the supervision of Dr. Tapley, Dr. Moon, and Mrs. Shafer, the student is also supervised by the classroom teacher to whom he is assigned.

Secondary education students must have a "B" average in their comprehensive area to qualify for student teaching or receive a recommendation from the head of that department. Elementary education students must have an average in their basic courses.

MUCH HEAT

The Evansville College Maintenance Department has built an additional two boilers to heat the campus, A. C. Biggs, superintendent of buildings and grounds, reports.

The two boilers add 400 horsepower and double the heating output of the department. The additional heating requirements of the newly completed Moore Hall necessitated the new equipment.

A new 3150 square foot storeroom was also completed this summer. The Maintenance Department now has adequate storage space for all its equipment, Mr. Biggs says.

Single American Males Apply For Rhodes Scholarships

To be eligible a candidate must:

1. Be a male citizen of the United States, with a least five years' domicile, and unmarried. A Rhodes Scholarship is forfeited by marriage afte relection, or during a scholar's first or second year of residence. Permission to marry without deprivation of his scholarship may be given by the Rhodes Trustees for a scholar's third year.

3. By the time of application have at least junior standing at some recognized degree-granting college or university in the U.S.A.

The qualities which Cecil Rhodes specified in his will as forming the basis of selection are: (1) literary and scholastic ability and attainments; (2) qualities of manhood, truthfulness, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and portection of the weak, kindliness, unselfishness, and fellowship; (3) exhibition of moral force of character, and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his fellows; (4) physical vigor, as shown by fondness for and success in sports.

Some definite quality of distinction, whether in intellect or character, is the most important requirement for a Rhodes Scholarship, and it is upon this that the selection committees will insist.

Value of a Rhodes Scholarship is $750 per year. Appointment is made for two years with a possible third year if the scholar's record at Oxford and plan of study warrant such an award. No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes Scholar's choice of studies.

LCA, Chi O's Visit Hillcrest

A trip to the Hillcrest Orphanage Sunday was rated as the most worthwhile project in recent years by the members of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity and Chi Omega Sorority.

At the end of the day, the question was raised, Who had the most fun, the orphans or the college students?

A trip to Mesker Zoo was first on the agenda followed by rides in the amusement park. Dinner was served by the Chi Omega's featuring hot dogs and all the trimmings.

Co-chairmen of the event, Mary Ann Conaway and Bill Canup, were well-satisfied with the enthusiasm of all concerned and the project may turn into a twice-a-year occasion.

A hayride Saturday night is slated for Lambda Chi's and their dates. Rushees are also invited to attend.

Rush Chairman Bud Garland has set the theme of the LCA formal rush party as "The Great Debate." The party is Wednesday and will be held at Echo Valley. Dave Lundmark is in charge of the skit and Bob Sakel, former EC basketball star, will be the guest speaker.

Versatility - That's Dr. Thompson

Versatility is a quality sought by many men but found only by few. Even rarer is the man who will continuously give his time and efforts to others. Combine the two, and outstanding Christian character is formed.

During the past five years such a man has been the Dean of Students at Evansville College.

After last week's story on our President Hyde, we of the Crescent felt a follow up on his first appointment on entering office would be most proper. Dr. Thompson was his first administrative appointment in 1955.

Dr. Thompson, who originally came from Lincoln, Nebr., came from a line of teachers. His parents were both teachers and he says it was because of this fact that he decided to become a teacher.

All the freshmen are well acquainted with Dr. Thompson since he is chairman so to speak of Soc. 101. There is an old Chinese custom that when a new child is born the parents kiss the child in response to what they want him to be. If they want him to be a singer they kiss his throat; if they want him to be a doctor they kiss his hands; and if they want him to be a runner they kiss his feet. We don't know where Dr. Thompson's parents kissed him, but he certainly makes a good chairman.

The Dean was a better than average high school student and wanted to go on to college at an early age. His parents, being college graduates, realized the importance of a college education and enrolled him in Nebraska Wesleyan.

While at Nebraska Wesleyan, Dr. Thompson majored in speech and music. He was outstanding in plays and operas in which he participated.

During his stay at Nebraska he belonged to Theta Chi fraternity and was elected president of that organization during his senior year. For this reason he is very much interested in Greek students.

An example of this is the fact he is director of Hughes Hall this year.

In 1950 he served as assistant in the music department at I.U. Here he became interested in the Dean of Students office. He enjoyed this work very much and continued to work in this office until he was brought to EC in 1955. Also, while at I.U. he served as counselor to Theta Chi.

Says Dr. Thompson, "The students at Evansville College are the easiest to work with in the United States. They are the most cooperative; as a matter of fact, I'll go so far as to say they are extremely co-operative. Co-operation is an asset in my area or what you call department."

Many will recall his originality both in and out of school activities, but all will remember the guidance, friendship and high principles that exemplify the life he leads.

Dr. Thompson is married and is the father of two children, Susie, 1, and Johnny, 3.

Points ▲▲ To ▲▲ Ponder

(From Readers Digest)

John Steinbeck in East of Eden:

I believe that there is one story in the world and only one. Human beings are caught — in their lives, in their hungers and ambitions, in their avarice and cruelty, and in their kindness and generosity, too — in a net of good and evil. A man, after he has brushed off the dust and chips of his life, will have left only the hard, clean question: Was it good or was it evil? Have I done well, or ill?

Francis T. P. Plimpton, New York lawyer and trustee of several colleges, in informal remarks at Amherst College chapel:

The drab process know as "going steady" is a clear violation not only of English grammar but also of the most elementary principles of biology. Where is natural selection? Where is the survival of the fittest? Where is the evolution of the race if you young males meekly submit to the inexorably monogamous possessiveness of the first female who deigns to notice you?

What is to become of the spirit of scientific inquiry? What is to become of the controlled experiment, which forms the very basis of the advancement of knowledge? Indeed, what is to become of the uncontrolled experiment? If I am not mistaken, Thomas Edison tried out some 1600 different substances before he finally selected one as the best filament for the electric light bulb.

Such a sad state of monotonous monogamy has not always prevailed. In my college days, a man who brought the same girl to every dance was rightfully regarded as a man without resources, without imagination, without elan vital. We did not shrink from fair competition, the life of trade. The American spirit of free enterprise had free play, and play it did. The lordly stag, now, alas, almost extinct, was then monarch of all he surveyed, as he enjoyed what should be the inalienable rights of every young American male — the rights of life, liberty and the happiness of pursuit. Yes, those were great days, and I commend to you, gentlemen, the lessons of that glorious past. Undergraduates of the world, arise — you have nothing to lose but your silk and nylon chains.

Band Plans Performance

The fall schedule for the marching band under the direction of Ellis Thompson includes performances for the EC-DePauw game on Oct. 22 and the Homecoming game on Nov. 5 and tbe forming of a Pep Band for tbe coming basketball games.

The band, marching in precision behind drum major Gary Rudolph, senior music major from Boonville, Ind., will use as its theme for the DePauw game, "The History of Jazz."

Beginning with Dixieland, proceeding through ragtime and Benny Goodman medleys and ending with modern day numbers, formations of a derby hat, a banjo, a clarinet and notes will be formed by the band .

The specialty will be "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and a dance routine. The half-time performance will end with a number for the United Funds and tbe Alma Mater.

Besides marching in the parade, the band will make Homecoming strictly a salute to the alumni who will be present for the game.

Mr. Thompson as director has written two yells in which the band teams up with the cheerleaders. These yells will be used in the next football games along with the new band uniforms. The uniforms are blue and are reversible so that they may be used by both the marching and concert bands.

Sig Ep's Sing To Girl's Dorm

Sigma Phi Epsilon held its formal rush party at the house Monday night. President Dave Schmitt welcomed the rushees, and was followed by several of the alumni who spoke concerning Greek life in general.

Having been previously prepared by a buffet supper, the men held a songfest which was climaxed by serenading the girls' dorm. Bill Balsbaugh, Sig Ep songleader representing the 60 men present, presented Mrs. Field with a bouquet of roses. She responded by expressing her gratitude in typical Southern manner.

Eugenia Sheppard:

The legend is that all women love clothes, but my guess is that a door-to-door, early-morning canvass, when women are most likely to give with the truth, would turn up some pretty mixed reactions these days. Lots of sheer unadulterated love of clothes went out of the picture along with the hours of co-designing and collusion at home.

Christian Work School Begins

Last Monday evening at Old North Methodist Church, the first Christian Workers school was held according to Dr. Arthur Mansure, Religious leader at Evansville College.

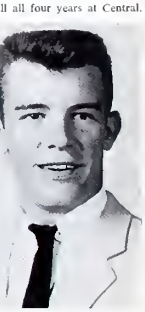
This new school is for all church school leaders in the Evansville District of Methodist churches. It will be held for the next five Monday evenings.

The tentative schedule for the school are speakers: Dr. Donald L. Miller, Psychology professor at EC, "Christian Beliefs"; Dr. Mansure, "Understanding the Bible"; Rev. William White of the Methodist Temple, "The Meaning of Methodism"; Rev. Kenneth Powell of Salem, Ind., "How to Understand Our Pupils," and Rev. Everett Wright of Trinity Methodist, "How to Teach in the Church School."

Cecil Raymond Playing Guard

Playing at one of the guard positions on this year's freshman team is Cecil Raymond, a 5-11, 200-pound graduate of Evansville Central.

While playing guard on Central's powerful team which compiled an 8-2 record last year, he was named to the All-City and All-SIAC teams. Cecil played football all four years at Central.



Cecil was also a capable catcher on the varsity baseball team at Central. Two summers ago he was a catcher on Evansville's all-city pony grad team. He would like to continue playing baseball at Evansville College.

At Central he was an active member of the C-Men's Club and he served on the Senior Council.

When asked about the freshman squad, Cecil replied, "We have a good defense, but we need to get our offense rolling." Cecil scored the first touchdown of his football career in Monday's 44-6 victory.

Cecil, who received a football scholarship to Evansville College, is majoring in Physical Education.

He is one of four Central grads playing on tbe freshman team.

Enrollment Standards Up

Enrollment requirements at Evansville College have been raised for next year, according to the admissions office.

Primary change is the requirement of the student to be in the upper half of his graduating class instead of the upper two-thirds as it has been in the past. Another change is a raise in the test grade requirements.

The main reason for these changes is to stabilize the quality of students entering Evansville College. This pertains especially to students from out of town who will stay in the dorms.

These raised requirements will keep students from coming to EC then dropping out. The new changes, administrators feel, will attract the type of student who will stay to complete four or more years.

Twenty-one state colleges were represented at the two-day meeting. Teachers from the social sciences of business administration, economics, political science, sociology, history, and geography were in attendance.

Dr. Wade David, head of the Department of History and Political Science; Dr. Orville J. Jaeber, associate professor of history; Dr. James Morlock, head of the Department of Sociology; Lawrence W. Anderson, associate professor of economics; Clifford Stone, assistant professor of marketing, and Hem Chand Jain, instructor of management, were other members of the EC faculty who made the trip.

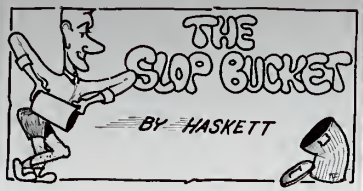
71 Girls Sign For Rushing

For the formal rush season this fall, 57 freshmen and 14 upperclassmen are registered as compared with 44 freshmen and 15 upperclassmen last year, Dr. Virginia Grabill, director of women's counseling, has announced.

Therefore, this year's quota of freshmen who may be taken into each sorority is 14, compared with 11 last year.

The top limit in each sorority is 40. Alpha Omicron Pi has 28 so can take 12; Beta Sigma Omicron has 19 so can take 21; Chi Omega has 27 so can take 13; and Phi Mu has 19 so can take 21. These numbers are total possible pledges, both freshmen and upperclassmen.

Last fall Alpha Omicron Pi took 12, Beta Sigma Omicron took 5. Chi Omega took 13, and Phi Mu took 9.



It sort of surprised me that none of you dorm girls recognized me last week in my dress and heels. I forgot my statistics book and just wanted to come back after it. I thought I would play a little joke on you, but Dixie didn't think it was too funny. Oh well, the cops enjoyed interrogating all of you lovelies in your shortie P.J.'s. Seriously, someone suggested that this impersonater might try using Nair.

The girl's dorm is really a very lively place these days. Seems one girl had an aversion to taking baths. She's as regular as poor food in the Indian now. And then there is the girl who recently loveliered to an E.C. junior with his Bosse H.S. ring. Well, I guess he asked his homeroom teacher first, but even so! One parting shot at the dorm — someone wants to know if W. C. Fields did have a daughter named Sallie.

With Homecoming coming up soon, I imagine someone will start harrassing the Greeks because they aren't building floats this year. The only answer I have for these people is this: Will you subsidize each group for $400 and guarantee each person who works a 'C' or better during the two weeks it takes to construct a float?

A close source told me that Dr. Whitcomb finally started lecturing the other day. This should make the finance students happy.

Things I would like to see: Coach Beck, teaching philosophy; Annette Tapley, with an English accent; Larry Gates, unable to purchase Levi's; Dr. Harding, doing the chicken with the snake; convocation, featuring Candy Barr; classes, beginning at 10 a.m.; the Indian, serving good food as cheaply as other local restaurants.

I think several of us around here could use some of the spirit displayed by an 81-year-old old man recently arrested for passing bad checks. This stately old gentleman who had also impersonated a bank official offered no defense on his behalf. He merely requested that he be sent to the federal prison at Danbury, Conn. Said he had been there three times before and that they have a fine golf course. Sounds like some O. Henry's fiction.

Notice — to all engineers. Woods Drug Store is not the Wooden Indian. It's really the other direction.

The men of Tau Kappa Epsilon deserve a pat on the back for the bell they uncovered at the last home football game. This school needs more tradition and spirit. The day is coming when this will not be a school of transferred flunkouts and town students who couldn't afford to go away to school. We, believe it or not, are the people who can set tradition. That is, if we choose to do so.

The college needs congratulations on having the foresight to add two more dorms to the proposed list of buildings. In case you don't know it, you are attending a school with one of the best building programs I've ever seen.

And with this bit of soothsaying, we end the fourth week at E.C. Remember, only seven weeks 'til finals.

Home Economics Majors May Apply For Pillsbury Awards

Home Economics majors graduating from January 1961 to June 1961 may apply now for the Pillsbury Awards for 1961.

The award winner will receive a unique on-the-job training fellowship. For one year, beginning July 1, 1961, she will be associate director of the Pillsbury Junior Home Service Center. This position has been carefully planned to afford her a wide range of practical experience in home economics-in-business. In addition to her salary of $4500, she will receive a grant of $1000.

The Junior Home Service Center is a consumer service department which seeks to meet young people's needs for information and guidance on food preparation and homemaking. The center has its own staff, offices and equipment, located in the Minneapolis, Minn. headquarters of The Pillsbury Company.

Six finalists for The Pillsbury Award will receive Honor Awards of $250.

Each college may submit up to, but no more than five applications for the awards. Applications are first screened by the college Scholarship and Awards Committee, or its equivalent. In recognition of the fact that applicants who have been thus screened and approved by their college represent the finest type of home economics student, Pillsbury will this year present a Citation to all approved applicants. These citations will be sent to the Department of Home Economics for presentation on Awards night or other appropriate occasion.

Applicants for the awards must be outstanding home economics students with an overall grade average in the upper quartile of their home economics graduating class. Applicants must be unmarried; able to meet and deal with people easily and effectively; must have an interest in young people; must be able to express themselves well, in both speech and writing.

Application forms are available from the Department of Home Economics. Applications must be postmarked no later than November 23.

Scholarships Now Available To Students

Several scholarships are available to freshmen or upperclassmen according to their need, ability, or general field of study. These scholarships have been set up by various organizations or individuals interested in advancing the education of today's young people.

There are several scholarships available for those going into the ministerial field; one such scholarship is the Bigney Scholarship which is jointly approved by the Indiana Conference and the College committee. Two anonymous scholarships are available for those going into the ministry or into a related area. Ministerial dependent scholarships are given to those who are unmarried. These scholarships are valued at $75.00

Eight scholarships are available to foreign students, and are based on need, ability, and a desire for a U. S. education. These scholarships pay the student's full tuition but they do not include the fees of the college.

Three Evansville Juniors Receive Fellowships

Three Evansville College juniors, Arthur Kushner, Frederick Hopf, and Thomas Sharpe, have been awarded undergraduate research fellowships in chemistry, it was announced this week by Dr. Lowell Weller, head of the Department of Chemistry.

Each student will participate in research projects currently being conducted in the department. Arthus Kushner will assist Dr. Philip Kinsey in a study of properties of non-aqueous solution. Frederick Hopf and Thomas Sharpe will work under the guidance of Dr. Lowell E. Weller in a study of the chemistry of nitrogen heterocycles.

The fellowship awards were made by the Department of Chemistry on the basis of the student's academic achievement and appropriate grounding in the theoretical background of his subject.

These awards are designed to help provide high-ability undergraduates with special opportunities for scholarly development to advance in their understanding of scientific methods and in their ability to employ investigative procedures. These are the students who constitute the reservoir from which graduate students are drawn and they are the most likely candidates for careers in research and college teaching.

Each fellowship carries a stipend of $300 for the academic year and may be continued during the summer. Funds for the fellowship have been provided by a Research Corporation grant to Dr. Philip Kinsey and a National Science Foundation grant to Dr. Lowell E. Weller.

Judi, Ginger Add Beauty To Crescent

A bit of beauty has been added to the Crescent staff this year with the additions of Judi Kavanaugh and Ginger Steinhauer to the advertising department.

Ginger will serve as advertising manager of the Crescent while Judi will handle the business department duties, replacing Frank Schultheis who resigned the position on Monday.

Miss Steinhauer, a graduate of Bosse High School, is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and has served as vice-president and pledge trainer of that organization. She is also a member of Angel Flight and Pi Delta Epsilon which is the national honorary journalism fraternity. This past year Ginger served as vice-president of the Women's Council and also was co-chairman of May Day ceremonies.

Miss Kavanaugh, a freshman pre-law major, is also a graduate of Bosse High School where she was a member of Thespians, Quill and Scroll, and bookkeeper of both the Bosse newspaper and yearbook.

The 18-year-old blue-eyed blonde is serving on the House Committee here at EC and she was a candidate for Icebreaker Queen this year.

Frosh Beat Wabash 44-6 In Opener

Evansville College's freshman football team, paced by the passing of quarterback Dave Bennett, romped to a 44-6 victory over Wabash's junior varsity team Monday at Wabash.

Bennett, a 6-0, 170-pound field general from Martinsville, Ill., passed for three touchdowns and ran back an intercepted pass for 32 yards and a score.

The freshman Aces scored in the first quarter on a 45-yard pass from Bennett to Bill Stucke, a 6-2, 190-pound end from Evansville Reitz.

The hit pay dirt next in the second quarter on a 26-yard pass from halfback Wayne Boultinghouse to end Rich Bennett. Boultinghouse is a converted quarterback from Rockport, Ind., and Rich Bennett is a 6-1, 180-pounder from Martinsville, Ind.

Bennett connected on his second touchdown pass of the day by tossing 12 yards to Charles Zausch, a 6-5, 230-pound end from St. Louis.

Jim Greer, a 190-pound fullback from Evansville Central, got into the scoring column in the final quarter by sprinting 50 yards.

Don Cunningham, another Martinsville, Illinois, product, was on the receiving end of Bennett's final touchdown pass; it went for 37 yards. Bennett also scored his touchdown on a intercepted pass in the final period.

Freshman coach, Don Ping, was very pleased and proud of the performance by his squad. In discussing the game he said, "They made a few mistakes, but as for as the future goes, they have great potential." He said that in their first game last Monday the pass offense was especially effective.

He would not name one specific player as doing a better job than the rest and called it a definite team victory.

In comparing this team with Evansville College freshman teams of the past, he commented, "This team is smaller in number, with only 18 players, but every man can be used because they have all had experience and know what they are doing."

They play the Southern Illinois freshmen next Monday afternoon in Evansville.

Players Fly To Drake

A Purdue DC-3 will be taking Evansville's football players to Drake today. The squad left Evansville at 9 a.m. and will arrive at Des Moines airport sometime this morning.

From the airport the team will head for the Kirkland Hotel to have lunch. From there to the ball park where the Aces will be seeking their fifth straight win.

EASTERN GETS A GIANT

Eastern Illinois' opponents are in for a "small" surprise next season. Eastern possesses on of the largest gridders in the nation in Tony Sokol, a freshman from Cary, Ill.

Sokol who stands a mere 6-6 and tips the scales at 406 — that's right, 406 pounds in full uniform, will be playing with the varsity next year.

Aces Have Undisputed Lead In Conference

All seven ICC teams played games last Saturday with only Evansville keeping its conference record unmarred although they had their hands full with Ball State. The Aces are now the only undefeated team in the conference as both St. Joe and DePauw lost.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — Butler's Bulldogs got back on the winning track Saturday after losing a lop-sided decision the week before. The Bulldogs took a hard-fought 20-13 decision over a rugged Indiana State ball club that was looking for an upset over the visiting Butler team.

The Indianapolis squad opened the scoring with an 11-yard run by halfback John Skirchak. He also kicked the extra point to give the Bulldogs a 7-0 lead.

The Sycamores held on during the rest of the half as Butler took a 7-0 lead at intermission. State's Steve Brandenburg intercepted a stray Bulldog pass in the third quarter as he raced 45 yards for the score to even the count at 7-7. Larry Shook went 11 yards into the end zone during the same quarter for the Bulldogs to put last year's conference champs ahead to stay.

Butler's final tally came in the final period on a 28-yard run by Elmer O'Banion.

VALPARAISO, Ind. — Valparaiso's revamped Crusaders scored a 7-6 verdict over conference foe DePauw Saturday afternoon after dropping a hard-fought 17-14 decision to Evansville last week.

The Crusaders marched 74 yards after the opening kickoff for their only score of the game. Quarterback Noel Schlegelmilch went over from the 1-yard line and Jim Hensel added the all-important extra point as the Crusaders took a 7-0 lead.

DePauw came back with a score in the second period but the conversion attempt was no good.

Sports Spotlight

By Temme Patterson

"Defense" seems to be the key word in Evansville's first four victories. Coach Paul Beck has been high on this subject the last couple of seasons. As most coaches say, "The best offense is a good defcose. If the other team doesn't score there is no way to lose." This theory seems to be paying off for Beck's football forces as the Aces have limited four opponents to 28 points. The Aces also had a good defense last year as they held their foes to 17 points in the first four games.

WHOOPS!

But then the roof fell in as the Aces lost a tough 17-20 game to Bradley, and a 7-8 heartbreaker to St. Joseph. During this time they were mauled by a rugged Butler team 33-14 at Bosse Field, and picked up a close 3-0 win over DePauw with Wally Shatkowski booting the all-important field goal. As you can see, in the games Evansville dropped, their defense fell apart, especially in the Butler contest. (By the way, the big Bulldogs have won their last 16 of 17 games over a three-year span. Only DePauw has been able to stop the rugged upstaters as the DePauw club put a 24-6 loss on the Bulldogs 15-game winning streak two weeks ago.)

MANAGER OF THE YEAR

Danny Murtaugh, Solly Hemus, Cookie Lavigetto, Paul Richards, and even ole Casey Stengel . . . These all seem to be good choices for the manager of the year title. Any other year, any of these men without the others in competition would be easy choices. But who now? Let's take them one at a time. Murtaugh — He has done a good job with the Pirates, but the material has been there for some while. Hemus — It's a cinch he got the most out of a Cardinal ball club that has been weak for several years. He couldn't have been expected to do any more. Lavigetto — The Senators had been cellar dwellers for it seems like a century. This year they finished fifth, and had a real good shot at the first division all year long. Stengel — The old Yankee skipper did a remarkable job with the Yankees, who were beaten by 15 games last year. He took the same bunch and won the pennant by ten games this season. Richards — A top flight job by the Orioles manager. He took five of the youngest pitchers in the league and didn't drop out of the race until the last two weeks. My vote goes to Paul Richards for manager of the year. He built up the White Sox and then Al Lopez stepped into the pennant last year. If he doesn't go to Detroit next year, as it has been rumored, the Orioles can win the pennant.

FUTURE COLTS

Our freshman team must have looked like the Baltimore Colts last Mooday as they rolled over Wabash 44-7. Quarterback Dave Bennett from Martinsville, Illinois, threw three touchdowo passes and a converted qnarterback, Wayne Boultinghouse of Rockport threw another ooe from his halfback position. The freshmen Aces play Southern Illinois freshmen Monday afternoon at East Side Park. I know coach Don Ping and his boys would enjoy seeing a crowd there. And from what I hear, the varsity could take some passing lessons from the freshmen.

Aces Seek 5th Straight Win

Coach Paul Beck's defensive-minded gridders will carry a clean slate of four victories and no losses to the Iowa plains, this week end as they meet the blue and white Bulldogs of Drake. The University is located in Des Moines, Iowa.

Drake, in the process of rebuilding this year, is under the leadership of Bus Mertes, formerly of Kansas State. Mertes, who is in his first year of coaching at Drake, has the problem of improving the Bulldogs' 2-7 record last year. He has 20 returning lettermen and 16 freshmen. This is the first year that freshmen have been allowed to participate on the varsity football team at Drake.

Among the returning lettermen for Drake are Co-Captain Nolan Quam and End Dave Readinger. Both are top-notch men on defense. In Quarterback Ken Macke, Mertes has a passer who can give any pass defense a rough way to go. Last season he completed 43 of 123 passes for 559 yards and 5 touchdowns. Guard Art Custardo does most of the place kicking for the Bulldogs. He has already booted four field goals this year.

This game could end up in a kicking contest between Custardo and Evansville's fine place kicker, Larry Duncan.

Last week against Colorado State University, Drake was scattered 30-3. The Bulldogs scored on a 34-yard field goal by Custardo.

Last Minute TD Gives Aces 10-7 Victory

Evansville College kept its perfect record clean last week at Muncie, but it took a razzle-dazzle play by the Aces to pull out a 10-7 victory in the last two minutes of the game.

The Aees were on their own 42-yard line, trailing 7-3 with 1:40 left in the contest. Halfback Bud Garland handed off to Don LeDuc the other halfback, who in turn pitched deep to end Larry Duncan. Duncan hauled in the pass on the Ball State 20-yard line and went the rest of the way for the score.

The victory for Evansville was its fourth in as many tries this season.

Ball State, which may think that the Aces are pulling a fast one on them, lost to Evansville 10-0 last year. In that game Wally Shatkowski scored all 10 of Evansville's points. This year Duncan turned the same trick as the junior end from Reitz High School kicked a first-quarter field goal to add to his touchdown and extra point for all of Evansville's points.

The Aces struck first in the opening quarter on Duncan's 28-yard field goal that had been set up on a fumble recovery by Ron Teapool. Neither team could score the rest of the half as Evansville held a 3-0 markin at intermission.

The Cardinals picked up their TD in the third period when Joe Robioson intercepted a Richie Seib pass on the Aces' 30 and raced to the 13. Four plays later halfback Jim Sweet scored up the middle. Max Smith added the PAT to give Ball State a 7-3 advantage with 6:48 left in the final period. Then came the final rally by the Aces.

Evansville has now held four opponents to 28 points, an average of 7 a game. The Aces have scored 59 in the four contests.

Lambda Chi 12-7 Victors

Lambda Chi Alpha, defending intramural football champs, had to wait until the final second of play to defeat a rugged ROTC team, 12-7, in the season opener for both squads.

End Eddie Cole hauled in a -yard burbank pass from quarterback Bill Hemmer as the whistle sounded ending the game. It was a heartbreaking ending for the underdog ROTC team who had led 7-6 since early in the

The game was strictly defense as the wet grass made slippery footing. Lambda Chi scored the first time it touched the ball as Jack Coale took a ROTC punt on his own 20 and handed off perfectly to Terry Williams on an 80-yard reverse punt return.

That score held up for the first half and it looked like it was good enough for the game until Williams, circling around end, was hit hard and the ball bounded into the arms of alert Buddy Stinson who galloped 45 yards unmolested.

On the important point after touchdown, Dick Albin sped around hight and giving the Air Force men a 7-6 advantage.

The ball changed hands several times before Lambda Chi began its final desperation move from its own 35. Three first downs and a 15-yard tackling penalty moved the ball to the ROTC 12.

Jack Coale tried right end twice taking the ball to the seven and setting the stage for Hemmer's perfect strike to Eddie Cole and victory.

Impressive on defense for LCA were Gene Reysz, Jim "Tank" Martin, Mike Sims and Mitch Marsch. For the ROTC it was Albin, Stinson, Harly Heim, Ron Folz and Bill Thurneck.

RICHIE SIEB holds for Larry Duncan

Larry Duncan's Big Toe Plays Vital Part In Wins

By Temme Patterson
(Crescent Sports Editor)

"I thought our undefeated season was just about over," commented Larry Duncan, who scored all of Evansville's points in last week's Ball State game.

"We figured the play might work. (Larry was referring to the 58-yard touchdown pass that was thrown by Don LeDuc to Duncan with 1:40 left in the game, with Evansville trailing 7-3.) Their safety men were coming up to stop our end sweeps, and their line backers were in close."

"We had been running a lot of end 'stuff' and they were looking for it again. Actually LeDuc was running the same end play, only he was supposed to pass. It was sort of a reverse with (Bud) Garland giving the ball to LeDuc."

What was your job on the play?

"Well, I went down in my regular blocking position and then took off for the end zone. I was all by myself and it was a perfect pass."

Well, no matter how it happened, the Aces have won four in a row and will be out to capture their fifth against Drake Saturday.

Duncan's big toe has helped account for three of the Aces' four victories. In the Indiana State game, Larry booted a field goal and an extra point to help Evansville to a 11-7 verdict against Valpo. Duncan kicked two extra points and a field goal to give the Aces a 17-14 win. And of course his third field goal and his sixth extra point of the season last week accounted for the margin of victory over Ball State.

The 5-11, 175-pound junior graduated from Reitz three years ago where he played end his junior year and guard his senior year. While at Reitz Larry didn't do the PAT kicking as he was overshadowed by All-State choice Larry Coleman, who is using his football talents at Indiana University.

Besides playing on the Aces' football squad, Larry catches for the Evansville baseball team. He is majoring in elementary education here at EC.

Mixup Causes Ineligible Soph To Be Elected

The Student Government Association has announced that the person elected sophomore class vice-president was ruled ineligible for the office as he did not have enough hours to be classified a sophomore. The SGA has ruled that Miss Sandy Smith is the winner and will serve as vice-president for the year.

According to Mike Spence, SGA President, there has been some mix-up about the absentee ballot rules. These rules were set up last year and were approved by all organizations and coalitions that were concerned with the elections. The rules have not been changed since last year. Each organization and coalition had ample opportunity to obtain copies of the general election rules and absentee ballot rules.

These same rules will be in effect for the remainder of the year. Any organization which questions or needs copies of the rules may get copies from any SGA officer.

In reference to this problem Mike stated, "I hope there are no more mix-ups about election and absentee ballot rules. The SGA Constitution states that to be classified a sophomore a person must have 36 credit hours, and one elected winner did not meet this requirement and therefore was disqualified."

Country's Hottest Group Here For Night Show

By Larry Pond
Crescent Editor

Dave Guard, Nick Reynolds, and Bob Shane, more commonly referred to as the Kingston Trio, will appear in Evansville on October 29 under the sponsorship of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at Evansville College.

They will be on stage at Roberts Stadium.

Now one of the hottest singing groups in the country, the trio got started five years ago on the Stanford University campus singing for free beer. Their common interest in the music of Hawaii, Tahiti, Mexico, Spain, America, and the calypso rythms of the West Indies led them to band together for the entertainment of fellow students.

During one of these songfests at the Cracked Pot, a student hangout near the Stanford campus, their talent attracted the attention of San Francisco publicist Frank Werber. Werber recognized the talent that the boys possessed, signed them up and started to groom them for a professional debut.

Singing comes easy to the Kingston kids. Dave and Bob were born and raised in Hawaii where they learned to strum ukeleles and sing about the same time that they learned to swim — at age seven. Through their teen years they sang on the beach at Waikiki between sessions with favorite sports, surfboarding and skin diving.

Reynolds was born in Coronado, Calif., but as the son of a Navy career officer he traveled widely. He picked up new songs each time the family moved. And when Dad Reynolds returned from periodic sea duty, he taught the kids the songs of the lands he had visited. It was a musical family ("Dad plays a very swingin' guitar," says Nick) and his two sisters and their father spent hours performing for their own amusement.

VERSATILE GROUP

Although the Kingston Trio is primarily known as a vocal group featuring the songs of many nations, each member of the group is a skilled musician on a variety of instruments. They integrate their songs with the string and rhythm accompaniment of guitars, banjos, bongos and conga drums.

As Dave, who is the acknowledged leader of the group says, "We really don't consider ourselves folksingers in the accepted sense of the word, but it was our basic interest in this kind of singing that got us together. As we progress musically in search of new materials, we put only one restriction on the type of songs we will do — they must have a basic intelligent thought and be founded in good taste."

How did the trio get its name? The young men and their manager, Frank Werber, picked it because they felt it suggested both the calypso trend and the Ivy League campuses where they have given many concerts. Judging by their success to date, it is safe to predict that this name will set out permanent roots in the world of show business.

THEY'RE ALL MARRIED

All members of the trio are married. Shane married an heiress from Atlanta; Guard married the daughter of the treasurer of a chain of department stores; and Reynolds, "the Runt of the Litter," who will inherit a sizeable amount from his great-uncle, married a West Coast comedienne.

The appearance in Evansville will not be the trio's first visit to the state of Indiana. The Kingston Kids have performed before sell-out crowds all over the Hoosier State. On the campus of Indiana University the trio put on a three-hour performance and had the onlookers screaming for more. At a resort area in the northern part of the state, they had hoth old and young people alike standing in the aisles as they performed for a solid week.

The men in Sigma Alpha Epsilon report that tickets sales for next Saturday's concert are going along smoothly and they may be purchased from fraternity members or at Wood's on Fourth St. The concert will last approximately two and one-half hours.

Clark Heads Seniors As Four Classes Elect

By Gene Niedugel
Crescent Staff Writer

Evansville College campus resembled a national political convention last Friday as the student body elected class officers in the Great Hall of the Union Building.

The election, held by the Student Government Association, was by secret ballot with students voting for four officers of their respective classes.

The campus was decorated with signs and banners backing the various candidates. Lobbying was the key word of the day, and campaign literature was flowing over the campus.

The seniors elected Jerry Clark as president with Peggy Madden as vice president, Charles Ross as secretary, and Bonnie Riney as treasurer.

The juniors elected Tom Tuley as president. The other officers of the class are Dave Schmitt, vice president; Karen Thomas, secretary; and Martha Lockwood, treasurer.

The sophomores are now beginning to win recognition as upperclassmen. They began the year by electing Paul Utley as president; Sandy Smith as vice president; Karen Rice as secretary; and Mary Stahlberg as treasurer.

President Jerry Clark is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and is pledge trainer of the fraternity this year. He is a music major at EC and is a member of Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity. Jerry is president of the Choir, and he is on the Union Board. He plans to take up the matter of the senior invitations and class rings in the near future.

Vice President Peggy Madden is majoring in elementary education and is practice teaching at Dexter this quarter. She is a member of Chi Omega and is the personnel chairman of the sorority. She is a member of ACE and Kappa Pi. Peggy was also secretary of her freshman class.

Charles Ross was elected to the office of secretary by the seniors. Charlie is also president of Hughes Hall. He will go into the Marines when he is graduated. His major at EC is Liberal Arts with emphasis on literature.

Bonnie Riney, treasurer of the senior class, is a secondary education major on the business course. She is on the social committee of the Union and is vice-president of Alpha Omicron Pi and is a member of Angel Flight. She is the SAE sweetheart.

Class presidency is not new to Tom Tuley. He was also elected president of his freshman class. Tom is vice president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and a member of the national journalism fraternity. He is also chairman of intramural athletics at EC.

Vice President Dave Schmitt is a Liberal Arts major at Evansville College with the emphasis on psychology. Dave is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He holds the office of president in the Sig Eps.

Karen Thomas is the secretary of the juniors for this year. Karen is a member of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority and is the sorority rush chairman. She is also the Sig Ep sweetheart and a member of Angel Flight.

Martha Lockwood was elected treasurer last Friday. She was also elected to another high office for this year, president of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority. Martha is studying elementary education at the College.

Paul Utley has assumed the role as president of the sophomores. He was a player on the freshman basketball team and will play with the varsity this year. Paul is also an active member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is on a secondary education course majoring in Physical Education.

Secretary Karen Rice is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi. She was secretary of her pledge class and treasurer of her freshman class. She is on the finance and dance committees of the Union and is vice president of Gamma Delta. Karen's major at EC is Liberal Arts.

The sophomore treasurer is Mary Stahlberg. She is treasurer of Phi Mu sorority and a member of SGA. Mary is also a member of the choir, band, welfare and entertainment committees of the Union, and the Madrigals singing group. Her major at EC is elementary education.

Ward Off Flu With Two Shots

Sign up Oct. 24 through Oct. 28 at the College Health Center if you want to ward off that "ole flu bug" for the winter. Things are just not the same if you've got to mope around with a box of Kleenex, one in hand and one at the nose, as you may know.

The process by which one can prevent such disastrous effects requires two immunization injections (shots), one each week.

The cost is meager for two such vital bits of medicine, $1.50 for each shot, payable of course at the time it is received.

Seiler Elected President Of Freshman Class

Freshman class officers were elected last Friday in the Great Hall of the Union Building. They are: President, Gary Seiler; vice-president, Allen McCutchan, secretary, Carol Meyer; and treasurer, John Robb.

President GARY SEILER is a member of the Crescent staff and also a member of Circle "K." A graduate of North, Gary is majoring in speech and minoring in business. At North, Gary was president of the pep club, a member of Student Council for two years and Class Council for two years, and an emcee for most of the sock hops and class parties.

Vice-president ALLEN McCUTCHAN is a graduate of Bosse and is majoring in pre-med. Allen is also on the freshman basketball team and a sports writer for the Crescent. At Bosse, Allen was president of National Honor Society, a class day speaker, a member of Student Council for three years, on the basketball team for two years, a member of the track team for four years, and on the Cross-Country team for two years.

CAROL MEYER, secretary, is also a graduate of Bosse, and she is on the Union House Committee and a member of Gamma Delta. A physical education major, Carol's favorite hobbies are swimming and water skiing.

Coming to EC from Mt. Vernon is treasurer JOHN ROBB, a business management major. During his high school days, John was on the football squad four years, co-sports editor of the school paper, a member of the National Thespian Society, and president of the drama club in his senior year. Also in his senior year, John was elected the honor thespian and the best thespian.

Men's Rush Closes Today

Men's rush closed today when all rushees met in the Great Hall of the Union at 10 a.m. for a meeting with the fraternities to receive their invitations to become pledges.

At present there are 89 men rushees who are interested in pledging fraternities. These rushees had to attend the meeting today or they were removed from the rush list.

Pledging differs in each fraternity but the approximate length is eight to nine weeks. Pledges must be in the upper half of their high school graduating class or if an upperclassman, to have an 2.0 average.

To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Members of fraternities and sororities are often criticized for irresponsible, non-constructive activities. It is a pleasure ot note that recently two of our social groups, the Chi O's and Lambda Chi's, discovered that more "fun" is to be had when in service to others than in service to selves. I refer to their recent trip to Hillcrest Orphanage, as reported in the Crescent.

Activities such as these not only add to the personal welbeing of both the givers and receivers but also enhance the stature of our campus organizations in the eyes of the community. All of our organizations could do well to adopt such a program of service to complement their usual social affairs.

Theme of the LCA rush party Wednesday was "The Great Oebate" and regular mock election took place. Chi Omega's served the food and former basketball star, Bob Sakel, was the featured speaker.

Ken Bonham is the chapter's new Parliamentarian.

Perfume Party Held By Phi Mu

Formal rush closed with the Phi Mu's traditional "Perfume Party" which was held at the Homestead.

Oessert was served followed by a style show depicting the names of famous perfumes. At the close of the evening the Phi Mu Oream Cake ceremony was presented. Each rushee was given a little bottle of perfume as a favor.

Congratulations to Mary Ann Stahlberg on being elected sophomore class treasurer, and to all of the class officers.

New pledges will be picked up Saturday morning and will be treated to lunch at Mac's Bar-B-Que. After the game pledges and actives will have a slumber party.

Russian Play Opens At College Oct. 26

The College Theatre's first production of the year is in the final stages of preparation. "The Sea Gull" by Russian playwright Anton Chekhov, directed by Sam Smiley, will run Oct. 26, 27, 28, 29 in the Fine Arts Building, curtain time at 8 p.m.

The production of "The Sea Gull" in 1898 helped to establish the reputation of the Moscow Art Theatre and enhanced the reputation of Anton Chekhov. He is considered one of the greatest innovators in modern drama and has had a lasting effect on Russian drama. His genius helped bring the indirect-action play to a peak in dramatic structure.

A play of indirect action is one in which the main dramatic action takes place off stage. In "The Sea Gull," Chekhov uses the dialogue to underscore the indirect approach. It attempts to evoke an emotional response in the audience which is identical with the characters, but is done in an indirect manner.

Because of the indirection and lack of apparent action, the audience often leaves a play of Chekhov confused. The subtle style of Cbekhov makes it difficult to always grasp the principles forming the basis of the play. He deals with the psychological problems of people against the social background of people.

The leitmotif of "The Sea Gull" is the lesson that people who have nothing to live for are doomed to a life of unhappiness.

In "The Sea Gull," Chekhov has achieved a complete synthesis of theme and cbaracter. The action of the play follows logically from the interplay of theme and characters in the story. The dramatic effect is produced by the non-solution in the problems arising from the inter-relationships of the characters.

Some of the characteristics of Chekhov's play: The simple plot lines of development affect the movement of the play; the subject of the play is worked out against a carefully drawn social background; there is a careful ilelineation of character; there is self-characterization and analysis.

Another aspect in his play is the use of characters in the play which never appear on the stage (the Greeks often used this method to involve the gods in their plays). These characters affect the development of the plot and their purpose is to provide a motive for the action on stage. The inability of the audience to see such characters makes them more forceful because the audience members are forced to use their own imagination to create the characters.

The seagull itself is an integral part of the play. It signifies two important aspects of the play. First, it represents Nina's struggle against adversity and her final victory. At the end of Act II, Trigorin tells Nina when he sees the seagull:

"A young girl, one like you, has lived all her life beside a lake; she loves the lake like a seagull, and she's free and happy as a seagull. Then a man comes, sees her, and out of nothing better to do, destroys her."

At this point Nina has already decided to run off with Trigorin, and as the end draws near the seagull obsesses her. At the end, however, she declares that she is free and can now proceed to become a real actress — one of the themes of the play is the problem in art of what makes a creative artist.

Secondly, the seagull symbolized the destruction of beauty by people who do not see it or understand it. Chekhov uses a highly refined slice-of-life technique. He wants to present the characters and their emotions at the dramatic moment of their lives.

Mr. Smiley said seats may be reserved in the lobby of the Union Building from 10:00 to 10:45 each morning beginning Oct. 19, or any evening at the Fine Arts Building until Oct. 26. For those not on campus, call extensions 33 or 34 at Evansville College from 8 to 5 p.m.

The cast for "The Sea Gull" consists of Oave Shelton, Pat Patton, Phil Potter, Ooug Schtuesler, Jim Butler, Tom Walls, Ocnnis Schneider, John Robb, Oavid Freeman, Vivian Morlock, Janet Whitsitt, Nancy Stoops, Janet Brashier, Mary Helen Burroughs, Laurie Prokop and Viki Karch.

Evansville College students are admitted to plays free and may have reserve seats by presenting their activity cards. Admission for other students is 50 cents and reserved seats for adults are $1, for faculty, 35 cents. Seat reservations will be held until 7:55 on performance nights.

Bishop Raines Dedicates

Moore Hall for Women was formally dedicated Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. by Bishop Richard C. Raines of the Indiana Methodist Church Area.

The ceremony of dedication began with an Invocation given by Dr. Guy D. Carpenter, Minister of the Evansville Methodist Temple and the Historical Statement was given by Dr. W. C. Patrick, Minister of the Indianapolis Meridian Street Methodist Church. Dr. Patrick was a 1912 graduate of Moores Hill College. In his statement, Dr. Patrick told how John Collins Moore founded and subsidized the new college that grew into the present Evansville College. Moores Hill College was dedicated "Moores Hill Male and Female Collegiate Institution" in 1854.

Following the historical statement, Dr. Melvin W. Hyde expressed the appreciation of the College to the Methodist Churches who made the new dormitory possible. Dr. Hyde then introduced Bishop Raines who gave the dedicatory address. Bishop Raines said that our democracy requires education and religion to go hand in hand and that it is important to remember the First Commandment —to love God with heart, soul, and mind.

The building was named by Mr. F. B. Culley, president of the Board of Trustees. Then Rhonda Alldredge, Moore Hall president, accepted the responsibility for maintaining a "high sense of trust for care of this building" on behalf of the residents of the dorm.

The Benediction was given by Dr. Harold W. Mohler, superintendent of the Evansville Methodist District, and the group was led in the College Hymn by Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the E. C. Music Department.

Byron Buckley reported that the Homecoming display is coming along as scheduled.

Last Saturday night the SAE house was turned into a Hobo which was a great success.

Busy Woman

Dr. V. Grabill-Girls Friend

Have you ever tried to get in to see Dr. Virginia Grabill who is the director of women's counseling? If you're a girl, I'm sure you have tried, and if you are a boy, consider yourself lucky. She is the hardest person to get to see in the world — or at least at Evansville College.

It's not because she doesn't do her job, but her job is actually two-fold and she keeps pretty busy between the two. Along with being director of women's counseling, she is an associate professor of English at Evansville College.

Dr. Grabill, or Mrs. Dr. Grabill as she is sometimes called, was born in Hastings, Minn.

She attended Hastings Community High School and while there made quite a reputation for herself. During her senior year she was president of the student council, editor of the yearbook, and participated in a number of other activities. She was also valedictorian of her class.

After graduating from high school she looked for a suitable place to attend college and decided on Wheaton College at Wheaton, Ill.

MORE HONORS

Sticking close to past performances she again continued to gain honors while at Wheaton. When her senior year rolled around she was associate editor of the yearbook, president of a local sorority, president of the dorm where she stayed, and finished fourth in her class academic-wise.

Although she didn't finish top in her class at Wheaton, she remarked that she was lucky enough to get a scholarship for graduate school at the University of Illinois. The University of Illinois gives a graduate scholarship each year to the top student of the graduating class of each college in the state. The three students above Dr. Grabill declined the scholarship and she accepted it.

In 1947 Dr. Grabill received her Ph.D. from The University of Illinois and in 1948 started teaching at Western Illinois State. In 1952 she transferred to Bethel College in St. Paul, Minn. Here she married Dr. Paul Grabill, now associate professor of English at Evansville College.

In 1956 both she and her husband came to Evansville College. She said it was funny the way she first heard of EC. It seems it was during a past holiday tournament when we played a team from Mississippi. (We should say the team we were going to play, because the Governor of that state called his team back home before we met in the finals.) She read this incident in a paper and later came to this college.

"Anyone who comes to see me is not necessarily in trouble," says Dr. Grabill, "and I want the girls who have any type of problem to come and see me. If I can't help them I'll try to send them where they can get help. I want the girls to take the attitude that I am here to help them, and if all of them would realize this the both of us would be happier. If it is at all possible, I will give each girl my fullest attention who comes to see me."

The girls of Evansville College are very fortunate in having such a warm, understanding person to advise them during their stay here. Any of the boys who have come in contact with Dr. Grabill realize how true this is.

OFFICIATING at the dedication of Moore Hall, new women's dorm, Tuesday afternoon were Bishop Richard C. Raines (left), head of the Indiana area of the Methodist Church which financed much of the building cost, and Dr. Melvin W. Hyde, EC president.

Sports Spotlight

By Tennie Patterson

College football in the last five to ten years has turned from a running game to a passing game. In the Iowa-Wisconsin TV contest last Saturday the two teams threw a combined total of 29 passes and completed 15 of them for better than a 50 per cent average. Actually this is just about average in college football.

Evansville quarterbacks Friday night at Drake threw 12 passes and completed a grand total of 0. Richie Sieb tossed five of the 12 aerials, John Aramowicz threw three times, sophomore Quentin Merkel tried three, Ron Teepool passed twice, and Don LeDuc pitched one. So the Aces came up with zero yards passing to put with their modest 74 yards rushings, which accounted for the big goose-egg on Evansville's side of the scoreboard at Drake. Coach Beck's field generals have thrown 45 passes in five games and have completed five of them for a one of nine average, the worst in the ICC. But, we are still undefeated in conference play with a 3 0 mark.

How can we be on top with this poor passing game? Well, it could be that we haven't played Butler, St. Joe, or DePauw. Coach Paul Beck needs to come up with some kind of a passing attack during the next couple of weeks or our Aces may be headed for more of the same trouble that happened at Des Moines.

GREAT SERIES

Yankee fan or not, I still have to admit that this was the most exciting series I have ever known. After the Yankees won the second and third games everybody counted the Pirates out. The odds-makers were quoted as making the Yanks 5 to 1 choices to win the series. But then after the Pirate train took a 3-2 lead with the series back at Pittsburgh the Las Vegas boys made the Pirates 3 to 1 to win the money. Well it finally ended up like it started with the Yankees a slight favorite after the games went to three apiece. I thought Mickey Mantle made a great play in the ninth inning of the last game when he slid back into first base on a seeming double play. This play enabled the Yanks to even the score at 9-9, and looked like it could be the turning part of the game. But then came the little man with the big bat and it was all over but the shouting, which I still hear.

There were a lot of turning points in the last game, but the bouncing ball that hit Tony Kubek in the throat was the big one, in my opinion. If the ball doesn't bounce up off the "marble" infield the Yanks are out of the inning with a 7-4 lead. The way it turned out the Pirates scored five runs to go ahead 9-7. Little Bobby Richardson was voted the most valuable player of the series beeause of his 12 record breaking RBI's. The Yanks had several choices for the award as Whitey Ford turned in two brilliant shutout games and Mantle came within one homerun of breaking Babe Ruth's record of 15 in entire series competition. Mantle has plenty of time to break Ruth's record and he more than likely will get plenty of chances. Pittsburgh also had some top prospects for the title in Mazerski and Bill Virdon. Virdon made a couple of game saving plays in his centerfield spot. If they played again I would still have to go with the Yanks, but the Pittsburgh club played a great series. They picked themselves up off the floor after 16-3, 10-0, and 12-0 losses.

Aces Protecting ICC Lead Against DePauw

DePauw shapes up as the Aces' next hurdle Saturday night at Bosse Field. DePauw dropped a heartbreaking 24-20 loss to Ball State last week but was on the one-foot line when the gun went off.

Coach Paul Beck says, "They play a wide open brand of football," and this could mean disaster to the Evansville defensive corps. Beck added, "They put their passer back 15 yards to give him time to throw, and it's hard for any lineman to put much pressure on him. That also springs four men loose to receive and makes them a dangerous club in any situation."

Beck saw the DePauw-Ball State game Saturday afternoon at the DePauw homecoming. DePauw's best passer is Ed Meyer. He has two exceptional receivers in ends Jim Downey, 6-5, 225 pounds, and Wally Foltz, 6-3, 215 pounds.

Evansville remained on top of the standings in the ICC this week despite its loss to Drake, a non-conference team. The Purple Aces hold a conference record of three wins and no losses.

Butler moved into second place with a 27-20 victory over Valparaiso Saturday night. The Bulldogs from Indianapolis now have a record of two victories and one loss. They were defeated earlier in the season by DePauw 24-6.

Although Valparaiso was defeated by Butler, they held onto third spot with a two win and two loss record.

The Pumas of St. Joseph dropped to fourth place with a 27-7 loss at the hands of Indiana State. It was the Sycamores' first victory of the season in conference play.

In the battle for fifth place, Ball State dropped DePauw 24-20. It was DePauw's homecoming game.

Lambda Chi Tops Red Flag

ROTC had a tough time last week but they held on for a 13-0 victory as the Airmen defeated a fired-up Sigma Alpha Epsilon team 13-0 at East Side Park.

The Airmen scored on the fifth play of the game when Fred Bosse took the ball into the end zone. The extra point was good to give the ROTC an early 7-0 lead.

Both teams turned to defense the rest of the half as neither squad could come up with any kind of attack. Harley Heim scored the final TD for the Airmen in the final minutes of the game when he intercepted a stray SAE pass and raced into the end-zone for the score. SAE now holds a modest 1-1 record after slaughtering TKE in their opener. The Airmen lost a last second 12-7 game to Lambda Chi the previous week for their only defeat of the early season.

Lambda Chi Alpha insured their first place position last Tuesday by running over an inexperienced Dorm team 38-0. The LCA squad looks like the best team in the intramural league so far this season, mainly because of their organization and a giant forward wall. The fraternity team poured it on in the first half as they ran up a 25-0 score before the intermission break. LCA now leads the Red Flag league with a 2-0 record.

DON LeDUC, junior halfback, is shown turning the corner for a nice gain in the Valparaiso game.

Aces' Streak Ambushed On Western Plains

Evansville College's win streak came to a screeching halt last Friday at Des Moines as Drake threw a 14-0 wrench into the Aces' plans for a perfect season.

The loss dropped Evansville's season record to 4-1 and moved the Drake squad up to a 2-3 slate.

The Aces had plenty of chances to score but couldn't capitalize on any of five Drake fumbles. Evansville turned over the ball on downs three times inside the Bulldog's 20-yard line.

John Titzer, highly touted fullback who played with the undefeated 1958 Memorial squad, got his first big test of the season. Titzer carried the ball 10 times and gained 33 yards.

Evansville's defensive corps turned in another good performance but the offensive attack couldn't seem to get started. The Aces collected a net total of 74 yards.

Frosh Stopped By SIV 36-0

Don Ping, freshman coach, had his first taste of defeat last Monday, as his young Aces were mauled by Southern Illinois' junior varsity 36-0.

The Salukis scored 14 points in each of the first two quarters to put the game out of reach for Ping's Aces. They were stopped in the third quarter, but stormed back in the final period to score on a blocked punt.

The Aces threatened to score in the final period, but the Salukis dug in and stopped the drive on the 2-yard line.

Organizations Support Drive

UF Competition Rages

"Brisk competition, with one day one candidate being ahead, the next day another" is featuring the United Fund drive being conducted among the students on campus, Mr. Arthur Aarstad, EC campaign chairman, reports.

Student contributions are especially being promoted by this selection of a Mr. and a Miss United Fund on the basis of contributions made in the Union Building lobby.

Collections from the faculty and students are expected to be completed by the end of next week.

Evansville College has always met its goal and it's hoped to have a good response this year, Mr. Aarstad said this week.

The United Fund at Evansville supports 25 community welfare agencies.

A trophy will go to the Mr. and Miss as well as the group getting the largest contribution. Last year Phi Mu's Beverly Greenwell won along with Sigma Phi Epsilon's Ron TenBarge. Phi Mu holds the traveling trophy awarded to the group that gains the most contributions for the United Fund.

UF Candidates

Competing for the worthy goal of more contributions to the Evansville United Fund are six organizations sponsoring a girl and four with a boy.

Candidates for Mr. and Miss United Fund, reported by Miss Judith Lockwood, who is in charge of the student phase of the drive, are:

Tomorrow night is a big night for all Kingston Trio fans. They will appear at Roberts Stadium for a two-hour show under the sponsorship of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity here at Evansville College.

Many good seats are still available for the show and they may be purchased at Wood's downtown, Weinbach Pharmacy, or from any Sigma Alpha Epsilon member. Tickets will go on sale at the box office starting at 2:00 P.M. tomorrow afternoon.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is the same group that has produced the SAE-Philo Blackouts for the past twelve years. However this show should not be confused with the Blackouts which will come in the spring of 1961.

Homecoming Dance Planned

Plans for a pre-Homecoming dance reception are being completed by a committee of 11 members of the EC Alumni Association.

Invited to the reception are all alumni, students and college friends, it has been announced by Mrs. Tom Ingle, committee chairman.

The get-together for refreshments and renewing acquaintances will be at Moore Hall's lounge from 8 to 9 p.m. just preceding the dance.

On the reception committee, in addition of Mrs. Ingle, are Mrs. Jerry Tromly, Mrs. Charles Dyson, Mrs. Bayard Somes, Mrs. George Stoltz, Mrs. Marshall Ross, Mrs. O. E. Bundy, Mrs. John Engelbrecht, Mrs. Otto Schnakenburg, Mrs. Harold Buck and Tom Lukens, all of Evansville.

Faculty Sets Up Rules On Classes Cheating

Because of student indignation expressed last spring over cheating in the classroom, penalties covering cheating have been established by the faculty and reported this week.

For the first offense, the cheater and accessory, a person who aids him, will receive a failing grade for the course.

A second offense will mean suspension from college.

Cheating, as defined by the college, is "any act that causes a student to receive a grade higher than his knowledge and his ability would justify."

This applies, according to a report released by the dean of students, Dr. Robert V. Thompson, to tests and exams and class assignments such as themes, laboratory reports and term papers.

If the student obtains, uses or gives information illegitimately before, during or after an exam, he has cheated.

What's 'Cheating'

Several complaints came to the administration last spring from students who were concerned that cheating was giving some students

What is cheating? The special faculty committee report defines cheating as:

On tests and examinations: obtaining, using, or giving illegitimately any pertinent but unauthorized information before, during, or after an examination.

On class assignments (term papers, themes, reports on collateral reading, laboratory reports): presenting the work of others as one's own.

"Accessory to the Act":

(a) Any student who willingly and knowingly gives unauthorized and illegitimate aid to the principal offender before, during, or after an examination.

(b) Any student who knowingly and without authorization by the teacher allows the principal offender to plagiarize from his work.

If he presents work of others as his own in connection with term papers, themes, collateral reading reports and laboratory reports, he has cheated.

ining course grades.

As a result the faculty was asked to act. A special committee presented the definition and evidences of cheating, along with proposed penalties, and the faculty unanimously approved the report.

Instructors are charged with immediately reporting violations to the dean of students. Penalties are handled by the college administration through the office of Dr. Thompson.

Dr. Long Attends Meet At Purdue

Dr. H. Owen Long, registrar, headed the Evansville College delegation to the Indiana Association of Collegiate Registrar and Admissions Officers meeting on the Purdue University campus of this week.

Accompanying Dr. Long were the Assistant Registrar Mrs. Hopper, Mr. Art Tyler of the Admissions Office, and Mr. McCoy, a former registrar of Evansville College.

Charles Harrell, president of the national association, from Indiana University, presided at the meeting. The group held a general discussion about the problems that arise in their work.

Education Is Major Tool For Israeli Growth: Ramati

"The one great tool we have to meet this problem of catastrophic dimensions is education," EC students were told on United Nations Day that Israel, with all its conglomeration of refugees and uneducated peoples, depends on education to fulfill a great need.

Addressing students at the 10 o'clock convocation was Mr. Shaul Ramati, Israeli consul in Chicago, who spoke of the major challenges confronting this 12-year-old state.

Establishing a new nation, new types of settlements, national security, political problems, education ,industrialization and peace are the major challenges Israel has met and will face, he said.

"Peace is our greatest aim," Mr. Ramati emphasized. Israel will stand up for its sovereignty, he said, but looks to a change in attitude of other nations to enable it to insure peace.

Israel is in a "unique position" in regard to the new African nations, Mr. Ramati said. Every newly established African country has come to Israel for help, in spite of the fact that, as Mr. Ramati noted, the Russians and Chinese attempt to persuade these new nations that "a beggar" such as Israel is in no position to help them.

Rush Is Over

LCA, SAE Each Get Twenty-Six Pledges

Sixty-nine men pledged the fraternity of their choice in the Administration Building auditorium during the 10 a.m. break. The bids were received in large envelopes. The rushees signed one bid and were met with rousing cheers as they joined their respective fraternities.

Lambda Chi and SAE each received 26 new pledges. Sig Ep and TKE followed with 11 and 7 respectively.

The following men pledged:

Tricycle Race Set

Homecoming activities of this year will get under way Saturday morning at 10:30 sharp with the annual tricycle race.

A new track for the race has been planned this year. The starting line is at the corner of Lincoln Avenue and Norman Street and the finish line will be in front of the Administration Building.

In the race there are three men to a team; the race is run in relay fashion with the men interchanging at two different points. The tricycles cannot be chain driven and the front wheel cannot be more thin 21 inches.

The judges are all members of the faculty. There will be two judges at each relay point, as well as at the start and the finish.

Contestants will draw for their starting positions immediately before the start of the race. A trophy will be given to the winner.

All members of a participating team must be active members and/or pledges of an organization for men on campus. Each of these organizations can enter only one team. Each team must report its entry at the Union Building office by Thursday, November 3.

Immediately following the race, there will be tug of war on the lawn across the street and in front of the Administration Building.

The tug of war will consist of a series of playoffs; the teams will draw off competitors immediately before it starts. If needed, there will be a five minute rest period between each match. In order to win a match one team must pull the middle of the rope across a line set by the judges. A trophy will be given to the winner.

The qualifications are the same for the tug of war as they are for the tricycle race except that teams consist of 10 members.

After the tug, there will be a queens' review in front of the Administration Building.

Hats Off To SAE . . . .

At least once during a school year, someone or some group does something for Evansville College that truly deserves a huge vote of thanks, congratulations, etc, from the entire campus. This year it is the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon who have done such a deed.

Tomorrow night, what some consider the biggest event of many years will take place at the Stadium . . . The Kingston Trio will present its show. I feel that this event has more significance than just a musical show. The Kingston Trio right now is one of the biggest names in the entertainment field, among the college set.

Their appearance here will not only boost the name of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, but of the entire college. I really believe that this is a giant step in the right direction to give Evansville College the collegiate atmosphere that it so badly needs.

Although few members of the facutly and administration will admit that E.C. is anything less than "COLLEGIATE" it is true. The building of the dormitories helped and will continue to help the college atmosphere greatly.

But all in all the crowning event of the whole school year will undoubtedly be tomorrow night when the men of SAE bring the Kingston Trio to our campus.

Hats off and a great big thanks to SAE.

This is the first year for this idea of advanced reservation of tickets and its continuance will depend on how successful it is this year.

To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Why was "The Slop Bucket" discontinued in the Evansville College Crescent? In my opinion this column added much to the college paper.

I was under the impression that the Crescent was to have a new look this year. This column by Frank Haskett really gave a true picture of the inside of college life. Its humor and side remarks were very amusing and enjoyable.

I imagine it is true that certain members of our distinguished faculty feel that this column may give the school a black eye. They are probably afraid that the young ladies and gentlemen on our campus would be shocked at some of Mr. Haskett's remarks. May I ask, is this a college or is it a seminary? I doubt that even a seminary would ban such a column.

A true college newspaper should be a publication by the students and for the students, not a publication dictated by the administration. The part of "for the students" will, in all probability, be displayed in this issue of the Crescent. I imagine that there will be quite a few letters in protest to the censoring of this column.

Let's have a paper by and for the students. Let's see this fine college humor column back in the Evansville College Crescent.

Thanks for your consideration.
Byron Moellenkamp

Dear Byron,

It seems that several of the more pure souls on our campus felt that the calm head on the Haskett column was much less than appealing.

Because last week certain pressures were brought to bear on the editors of the Crescent, we were forced to change the title of the column. This could not be accomplished at such short notice, so Haskett's column was omitted last week.

The column is back again this week, just look around, you'll find it somewhere.
Thanks For Your Interest,
Dave Lucas,
Managing Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

The story carried by the CRESCENT last week on class elections implied that Mike Spence, SGA President, was doing everything possible in following the Constitution.

In fact, Spence was quoted: "I hope there are no more mix-ups about election and absentee ballot rules. The SGA Constitution states that to be classified a sophomore a person must have 36 credit hours and one elected winner did not meet this requirement and therefore was disqualified."

Now this all sounds well and good, but let's get down to the true facts. As a member of the Evansville College football team I regret very seriously the fact that my vote was thrown out simply because I forgot to sign my name on the outside of the envelope.

I understand that had the football players' absentee ballots counted, there would have been a clean sweep for the Student slate in the Senior and Junior Classes.

But Spence, a member of another coalition, charged the ballots were not filled out according to the Constitution and all 37 football player ballots were thrown out.

Now if Spence follows the Constitution in every case, more power to him. But apparently he doesn't if he thinks he can get by with it.

There was a candidate on the Star Slate who did not have enough hours to be running as a sophomore officer. Spence was asked if everyone was eligible and he replied, "Yes, I checked on everyone's hours and everyone is eligible."

A quick trip to the Registrar's Office showed that not ONLY was there one person ineligible on the Star Slate, but there was another person ineligible on the Student Slate. Yet Spence said he had checked on everyone's eligibility.

It was only when the point was brought up in a Student Senate meeting that the SGA took action. It certainly was not done because of Spence.

If the Constitution is to be obeyed on all instances, fine. But if it is only used to a certain coalition's advantage it should be done away with.

I speak for the football team and we feel offended that we were not given the right to vote in the Class Elections. Especially since it would have made a difference in the final outcome. But if our ballots weren't filled out properly we can understand why they weren't counted. But let's be sure that the Constitution is followed in every instance and not to anyone's advantage.

Sincerely yours,
An EC Football Player

It is the policy of the Crescent to only print letters to the editor that are signed, however, since it seems to be a habit with you not to sign your name, we feel that an exception to the rule is allowed this time.

It seems rather odd that the football team elected a spokesman that prefers not to sign his name when it is required to make something official.—Ed.

Dear Editor:

I would like to congratulate the SAE's on their new News Bulletin, the Crescent. I would also like to thank you for occasionally finding room in the paper for bits of information from the other Greek organizations, even though they are only an inch or two in length. This is a kind gesture on your part.

The Crescent is supposedly the news bulletin ofr all college students to learn what is happening with all organizations and students on campus. What happened? Why not give other organizations a little room on the front page from time to time, or at least move tion into the "SAE" classification? them out of the "filler" classifica-

A Reader

So it's an SAE News Bulletin, eh? Your grounds ofr this complaint undoubtedly stem from last week's issue of the Crescent which contained the banner headline, "SAE's Bring Trio To Stadium October 29." Without a doubt this was the biggest news story to hit the campus this year. If it didn't deserve a front page headline then nothing does. I sincerely believe that every Greek organization on this campus has received equal coverage with the one exception of last week's story. I give you my word of honor that when any other Greek group on this campus can come up with a news story even one-half as big as the one in last weeks' paper then I will give them a banner on the same order as the one which Sigma Alpha Epsilon had.

Last year the Crescent had an "Organized Confusion" column in which Greeks each received one paragraph of news per week. Now if you want this type of thing back again this year, then just yell and we will be glad tu bring it back tu you each week because it will make our wurk easier.

As for the Crescent staff itself, we have writers from every Greek organization on campus with the exception of Chi O, Beta Sig, and TKE.

If you have any other complaints about the Crescent, then I invite you tu pay a visit to Ruom 0-144 any day of the week and I'll be glad tu gu over them with yuu.

Thirteen College Heads On Indiana Tour

Each fall the Presidents of the thirteen colleges belonging to the Associated Colleges of Indiana spend four weeks traveling throughout Indiana soliciting donations from various corporations throughout the state. The Indiana association was the first of the forty state and regional associations to exceed $1,000,000 for a fiscal year, netting $1,088,024.58 in the 1959-60 year.

Evansville College has received nearly $70,000 in the twelve years the association has been in operation. The money received is used for operation expenses. The largest single fund received was $41,000, and the average is at $2000. Evansville donors rank second in number to Indianapolis having the greatest number of donors.

Member colleges of the A.C.I. are Valparaiso University, Goshen College, St. Joseph's College, Manchester College, Western College, Rose Polytechnic Institute, DePauw University, Indiana Central College, Anderson College, Franklin College, Earlham College, Evansville College and Hanover College.

Here We Go Again..

By Frank Haskett

Rather pathetic sight the other night was the first meeting of Presidents' Round table. Of approximately 70 organizations on the campus, only about 15 were represented. Now this body suggests or originates proposals that go before the student senate, and then on to the administrative board. It is through this body that we students can challenge existing rules which we would like to change, or suggest new ideas that we would like to see in operation. It seems as if these missing presidents had enough initiative to be elected head of their organizations, they should be able to go to one meeting a month, and legislate for their group. Now what I'm building up to is this: If you have a suggestion you would like to make, talk to your president and see if he or she is attending Presidents' roundtable.

Former president of the United States Harry Truman said at a recent Southern Baptist dinner, "Anyone who votes for Richard Nixon should go to hell." Now I'm a registered Republican voter, but I would like to offer a little advice to my Democratic counterparts. We found a closet in which to hide Sec. of Interiur Benson, su why can't yuu hide Ol' Harry.

With national elections only a few weeks off I would like to throw out my unbiased opinion. First of all it seems to me that both sides are making use of the religious issue. It is reverse, or twisted psychology — depending on the party you are for — but they are both making the most of this issue.

Secondly — and this is the bombshell — I say religion cannot (now note I said cannot, not should not) be an issue. Now listen carefully and I'll tell you why.

Back when the original states gave Great Britain the "boot" and formed this United States we had a somewhat different situation. The majority of Americans in that age were intolerant of Catholics. Before the United States was formed (when the states were colonies) in some colonies yuu had to swear allegiance to a particular church in order to get certain civil right. Yet, when the colonies became states and the eastern seaboard became a nation, religious freedom was guaranteed and fulfilled by the constitution. Catholics could come out in the open, and the Puritans, Pilgrims, Baptist, Methodists, etc., could not — through the government — persecute Catholics. How then, could a Catholic hope to persecute Protestants through our present day government — which holds the same views towards religion as it did in the 18th century. In my estimation this would be impossible.

I've bowled in the college league for a couple of years, but this year we tried something new. We added three sorority teams (it was almost entirely a "stag" league previously). You just can't imagine how easily these sweet young ladies can turn a well-organized league upside down. Now I like girls, and I think — well never mind what I think, they won't let me print that anyway. Let's just say that they are here to stay. But getting back to the bowling league, when you are keeping score because they don't know how, and three of them are asking you three different questions — all at the same time, you are bound to get just a little nervous. Oh well, we have fun.

Moving the girls' dorm hours up to 1:00 for Homecoming is a step in the right direction. This is taking a realistic outlook and I for one am glad to see that the administration is being realistic. Now, how about late hours for fraternity and sorority formals. Must schools have this arrangement and it works out satisfactorily. Understand I'm not trying to start an avalanche of liberalism, but this is S.O.P. on most campuses.

I got such a good response from Max Rezwin's sick jokes that I've decided to print a few from his latest effort "Still More Sick Jokes & Even Grimmer Cartoons." — She was reading about birth and death statistics. Suddenly she turned to a man near her and said," Do you know that every time I breathe a man dies?" "Very interesting," he returned. "Have you tried toothpaste?" — "I still can't believe you don't have a navel." "Well, Doctor, I'm afraid it's true." "It's the most complete rejection of mother I've ever seen." — "He lost both legs in a train wreck last year." "Did the railroad treat him right?" "He can't kick." — Death is just Nature's way of telling you to slow down — "I saw the first robin today." "In December?" "Yeah. Frozen to the ground." That's all for now. Sleep well.

Indianapolis Newsman Speaks At Journalism Day

Mr. Wendell Phillippi, assistant managing editor of the Indianapolis News, will be the main speaker at the Journalism Day, Saturday, Nov. 12. He will be featured during the opening session of the program.

Fifty-three schools from Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky have been invited. Whether or not this number will all send representatives is undetermined at the present time. Last year seventeen schools accepted invitations.

The program will begin at 9:00 a.m. with registration. At 9:45 the opening session with Mr. Phillippi will be held.

Beginning at 11 six forums will be formed and led by six Courier staff members. These forums will include discussions on news writing, the women's page, photography, feature writing, and sports. A special meeting will be held for the sponsors.

Following these meetings a Courier luncheon will be held in the Great Hall of the Union Building. Dr. Hyde and Earl Shaw, editor of the Courier, will speak.

In the afternoon the representatives will be divided into two groups according to the size of the school they represent. The two workshops will talk over the problems of high school newspaper publishing. At 3:00 a Coke Party will be given by Pi Delta Epsilon, an honorary journalism fraternity. AOPi's Busy On Displays AOPi's wish to express their congratulations to the other Greeks on their new pledges. Last Tuesday the AOPi pledges had their first meeting.

After the meeting the pledges attended a song practice with the actives.

Last Sunday there was a pledge tea in the sorority suite. Mrs. Kleymeyer, an Alum, donated a silver service.

At the AOPi slumber party last Saturday, the pledges entertained the actives with their various talents.

Suzanne Greinke is the sorority's candidate for Homecoming queen.

All of the new pledges are busy working on the lawn display.

"Marriage" Next Four Chapel Talks

Theme for the next four chapel services will be "Can I Have a Christian Marriage?" because of strong student interest in the questionnaires passed out during the Campus Conference on Christian Living and the group discussion held during the week.

Dr. Ray W. Arensman, head of the department of Business Administration and Economics, will be guest speaker on November 2 with his topic being "Money and Christian Marriage." On November 9 the topic will be "The 'Faith' in Inter-faith Marriage" given by Rev. Roland B. Mcmitz from Zion United Church of Christ followed by Dr. Harris D. Erickson, professor of philosophy, on November 16 who will speak on "Sex, Ethics, and Christian Marriage." Dr. Ruben J. Bierbaum of Bethel United Church of Christ will close the series on November 23 with "Preparing for Christian Marriage."

Independents Start Drive For Members

A drive for membership is underway to encourage EC students to join the Independent Campus Association.

To attract non-Greeks on campus the association is raising the question, Are you an independant spirit?

The group is organized to provide participation in campus activities for those students not in fraternities or sororities, Donna Hagedorn of the association says.

"Independant" is being spelled with an "a" in the campaign slogan to emphasize the Association.

The independents will meet at 10 a.m. Mondays in the Great Hall.

Parker Man Speaks To Republicans

The Young Republicans held their meeting last Tuesday night at Central High School Auditorium. Main speaker was Dick Ellis, chairman of the "Parker for Governor" campaign. Other speakers for the evening were the candidates running for local offices in this district.

Sports Spotlight

By Temme Patterson

The Aces still haven't got their offense rolling, but if the defense corps can keep up the good work we might win the ICC after all. Evansville has scored less points than anyone in the conference, but our defense record is the best. In the Aces' four conference games they have limited their opponents to 28 points, an average of seven a game. If they can do half that good at Indianapolis tomorrow, we may be in business. A win at Butler will cinch the title for the Aces, since Butler has lost one game already. Evansville meets St. Joe on Homecoming next Saturday, and the Pumas have lost one and tied one so if the Aces can beat Butler they're in. But how are we going to beat Butler. They dropped their lone game to St. Joe 24-6 for their first loss in 16 games. They beat our Aces at Bosse Field last year 34-7 and we have got to beat them up their on their home field this season. After last year's game a "little argument" developed on the last play of the game that cleared both benches, as each team wound up with about 35 players on the field. No doubt the Bulldogs will he out to knock off our Aces, but from what I hear we'll be up there trying to even things up from the slaughtering we got down here last year. The Aces didn't look like the Baltimore Colts with their passing attack against DePauw, but at least they completed a pass. In fact, they completed three of them in 12 trys for 88-yards. One of the passes set up Larry Duncan's fourth field goal of the year to give Evansville a 3-0 before the half ended. That gives the Aces eight completions in 57 tries. The big pass play for Evansville this year has been what coach Paul Beck calls "the Lutterback Special". The play develops when halfback Don LeDuc takes a hand-off from the quarterback and starts around end. Right before he gets to the line of scrimmage he throws the hall down field to one of his ends. It's all right hut it "just ain't enough of a passing attack to get by on."

YANKEES GONE BESERK

Just one more word on baseball and then I'll quit until the spring, hut I've got one little gripe. The Yankees has lost the series, and "man like that ain't all they've lost." I don't know how the defeat affected the Yankees' front office but somebody must be losing their marbles. A man like Casey Stengel takes a team that finished 15 games behind in 1959 and wins the penant the next year by 10 games with virtually the same team, and he gets fired because he loses a seven game World Series by the skin of his teeth. Stengle won 10 penants and seven series in 12 years as the Yankees field general and now the New York bosses say he's too old to fit into their plans. Well, the man was 69 last year and he wasn't too old, why would he have aged so much in one year. The whole thing looks a little fishy, hut me or nobody else has been able to figure it out yet. The front office may have a argument with Casey but he hasn't said anything about it yet. Ralph Houk, the new Yankee manager, is 41 and has been with the Yanks for a long time as a coach at Denver and New York. Houk helped the Yankees a great deal this year. While Casey was in the hospital for two weeks this summer, Houk took over the post. He inserted Cletus Boyer into the lineup at third base and John Blanchard at the catcher spot. Both men helped the Yanks a great deal in their pennant drive. But this still doesn't warrant him the head job over a man that has done all but the impossible, and a little of that. Case will go down as the greatest manager of all time. And speaking of his going down, if he gets an offer from San Francisco or Baltimore Casey may come hack to haunt some of the big shots in the Yankee front office.

SMALLWOOD BACK HOME

Big Ed's home and it looks like his National Basketball Association career has come to and end before it ever started. The greatest player in all-time history at Evansville College, Ed Smallwood was dropped by the St. Louis Hawks two weeks ago. This doesn't mean that Ed won't play pro basketball, it means he more than likely won't he able to play in the NBA, the top pro league in the country. There are plenty of pro teams and I am sure that one of them will pick Ed up. The main problem that Smallwood had with the Hawks was his size. Ed is 6-4 and this just isn't tall enough to play a forward position in pro basketball. As as you all remember Ed just isn't the kind that one see's playing a guard spot. He is too slow, and not aggressive enough on defense to play with fellows like Bob Cousey of the Boston Celtics. He still has a slight chance of being picked up by the other NBA teams but the season has strated.

JON DEKKER reaches for a Quentin Merkel pass during the third period of play last Saturday at Bosse Field.

Aces Play Butler Dogs In Crucial ICC Game

Evansville College's Purple Aces moved one game closer to ICC title Saturday night as they stopped the DePauw Tigers 9-0 at Bosse Field.

The game was played in typical Evansville College fashion. On offense the Aces had to grind out every yard, except for a 74-yard touchdown run by John Titzer, sophomore fullback, and on defense the Aces were knocking as hard as ever.

There were two highlights of Saturday night's game. The first was a dramatic 36-yard field goal by Larry Duncan, junior end, with only a few seconds remaining in the first half. It was the fourth field goal this year for Duncan.

The second was Titzer's scoring jaunt. On this particular play he took the ball around end and had so many blockers in front of him it looked like the whole Aces' cheering section had come down to run interference.

Titzer picked up 86 yards in eight attempts to lead all rushers with a 10.8 average per carry. The total Aces' offense gained 166 yards on the ground and 88 yards through the air. Coach Paul Beck used a total of 11 backs in the game and everyone of them got at least one chance to carry the pigskin.

In the passing department, the Aces game looked a little better than it has in the previous games this year. They completed three of 12 passes and it looked like Coach Beck has a very good passing combination on the second team in quarterback Quentin Merkel and end Jon Dekker.

Frosh Stopped 28-7 By State

Evansville College's freshman team suffered its second defeat of the season last Monday afternoon, being stopped by the Indiana State frosh, 27-8. The game was played at Terre Haute.

The young Aces lost all hope of victory early in the game as State tallied three touchdowns in the second quarter to lead 20-0 at the half.

Wayne Boultinghouse, Evansville halfback, provided the only score for the Aces as he plunged over from the 1-yard line in the third quarter. He also scored the extra point.

Jim Greer, freshman fullback, was the big rusher for Evansville as he gained 108 yards.

Aces Keep ICC Slate Clean With 9-0 Victory

Coach Paul Beck's Purple Aces travel to Butler tomorrow to face probably their toughest test of the season.

The Bulldogs, defending conference champions, have a 3-1 conference record and are in second place. Against Ball State last Saturday, they romped to a 27-0 victory for a warmup in preparation for the game with the Aces.

In that game a reserve halfback, Larry Shook, scored two touchdowns while starting halfback, John Shirchak, who is the leading scorer in the ICC, scored one touchdown and kicked three extra points. Shirchak has scored six TD's and kicked 12 extra points thus far this season.

Butler's only defeat this season was at the hands of St. Joe, 24-6.

In other games around the league, St. Josephs, the third place team in the league with a 2-1-1 record, will play host to Ball State. Ball State is now in a last place tie with Indiana State; both teams have identical 1-3 records.

Last week against Valparaiso, the Pumas of St. Joe used an effective passing attack to gain a 21-14 victory. The Pumas play Evansville the fifth of November at Bosse Field.

Valpo dropped from third to fourth place in the league with the loss to St. Joe. They travel to Indiana State tomorrow night to meet the last place Sycamores.

DePauw has a non-conference game with Rochester.

The name that probably is most popular among EC alumni — present students will not be so familiar with it until graduation time — is that of Rosencranz.

Every alumnus of Evansville College, since it has been known by that name, has received this autograph, Richard Rosencranz.

At least he should have, for Mr. Rosencranz, as secretary of the Board of Trustees of the College, says he has signed every diploma issued while it has been situated at Evansville.

Students, Faculty Favor Nixon

By Harry Critser
Crescent Staff Writer

From what this writer has heard around the campus, some of the opinions of the faculty and the many opinions of the students indicate sentiment in favor of Vice-President Nixon for next president of the U. S.

This is by no means a comprehensive survey, but rather a glimpse at what seems to be the general opinion here on campus.

The big issue in this much publicized presidential campaign centers around the nation's place in world prestige. Peace without war from Nixon, and the "citizens awake" attitude from Kennedy.

A synopsis of the TV debates indicates the fundamental discrepancy between the two men is over the nation's position in the cold war. Mr. Nixon has said that Communist prestige in the world is at an all-time low and American prestige is at an all-time high while Mr. Kennedy has stated that our power and prestige have declined and we must move ahead faster and build greater strength at home and abroad.

The TV debates have forced the candidates to lay open the facts as never before and interest in this election has reached a peak as none other has ever done in history.

An EC student views the interest in these words: "The younger people are taking a bigger interest in this presidential election—One reason for this is that both candidates are young men and therefore younger people feel more a part of the election. Many of the major issues in this year's campaign concern young and old alike. Television has helped to make these issues better known to young people who would rather watch the campaign than read about it."

Even though these TV debates may not have much influence on the final outcome of the election, they represent an unprecedented opportunity for the candidates to present their philosophies and progress directly to the people, and for the people to compare these, and the candidates.

E.C. Mail Room Kept Busy Handling Letters, Duplicating

"Do you have a box I can borrow that will hold 800 letters?"

"Can you duplicate this requisition?"

"May I have 50 exam books?"

These are just a few of the questions that Mary Louise Bell, manager of the College Mail, Supply, and Duplicating Office located in the Annex Building, receives each day.

Assisting Miss Bell are Mrs. Ruby Winberry and Larry Batch, a part-time student employee. They handle College mail, both incoming and outgoing, duplicating for departments, and office supply material.

Miss Bell emphasizes that her department is not a U.S. Post Office. Stamps are on sale but only to faculty members, not students. Outgoing mail is taken to a post office at 12 and 3:45 p.m. every school day and is received at 7 a.m. and 12 noon. Outgoing first class material is mailed also at the end of the day.

The office handles the huge amount of bulk mail of the college such as form letters to alumni and announcements to students. This mail must be run through a postage meter and assorted into bundles according to destination. The bulk mail run through the postage meter is charged to the account of the department sending the letters.

The office also has duplicating facilities for the faculty. Eight types of duplicating machines are available to handle any job large or small. The office handles all college printing and some ouside cash work for students except in cases where type must be set. These jobs, such as the printing of the Crescent, are handled by a downtown firm.

The office prints the class schedules each quarter, form letters, reports, class tests and assignment sheets, Dad's Day invitations, and name tags, to name just a few.

Two new machines have been added this year. One is a collator which assembles multiple-page exams and booklets. The other is a Thermo-Fax duplicating machine that uses heat and special heat-sensitive paper to produce copies of important papers.

The department also carries office supplies for faculty members. These supplies include paper, pencils, stencils, rubber cement, carbon paper, college letterhead envelopes, stamp pads, exam booklets, file holders, ink, and other supplies. The supplies are obtained through department requisitions.

This department and the people who man it deserve congratulations on the fine work they do to keep Evansville College operating smoothly.

Stop in sometime and take a look around, and thank Miss Bell and her staff for the wonderful job they are doing.

Ideal Team Works Hard On Homecoming

A great deal of credit must go to all students and faculty members working on the Homecoming committee for the success of this weekend's activities.

Heading the committee as student co-chairmen are Jim Sanders and Russ Seiler while Captain James H. Morgan serves as faculty co-chairman. Other students working hard on Homecoming are Peggy Madden, secretary; Mary Ann Conaway, publicity; Bob Blemker, Friday evening; Roger Karch and Mary Seiler, parade; and Jackie Decker, queens.

Other members of the committee are Barbara Grote and Dave Lundmark, dance; Luther Hale and Ann Burton, decorations; Kay Kraft, programs; Dick Tschopp, tickets; Jody Kimm, alumnae; Sue Biggerstaff, chaperone; and Dan Breidenbach, half time.

Faculty members serving on the committee along with the students are Clarence Buesking, Ted Foster, Edward Hauswald, Charles Herndon, Hem Chand Jain and Arad McCutchan.

Also helping are Paul Nolte, Thornton Patberg, G. Wyatte Powell, Cceil Selfridge, Helen Smith, Hale Whitcomb, Donald Widick and Marjorie Wood.

The students are in charge of the activities with the faculty advising. They have been working on Homecoming since last summer.

The committee has announced the list of faculty members who will be chaperones at the dance, Saturday night.

Fourteen Alumi Officers Lead Celebration

Fourteen prominent graduates head the Evansville College Alumni Association which is participating in the Homecoming celebration here tomorrow.

Representing the almost 10,000 alumni officially will be the six officers and 12 members of the board of directors — two of the officers are directors.

President of the organization is Lawrence Page (graduate of 1926) who now is principal at Central High School.

Heading the alumni office on the second floor of the Union Building is Don Widick ('59) who is also treasurer.

Other officers are: First vice-president, Tom Lukens ('57); second vice-president, Evelyn Diefendorf Ingle ('32); third vice-president, Sam Medlicott ('39); and secretary, Emily Wright Hard ('32).

No Floats This Year

No Floats This Year

Why no floats for Homecoming this year? Well, tbat's wbat we would all like to know. From sources around the campus it seems tbe big issue is money — no money.

Since the sororities must pay rent for meeting room in the dormitory there is not much left in their budget to lavish on a Homecoming float.

As for the fraternities, even though they may not bave the casb, they usually manage to round up enough material for a winning float. But the rules bave been set, no floats at all.

Where is our tradition going? If I am wrong, please correct me. Homecoming is part of the EC tradition and Homecoming floats are a part of the tradition. At this rate we will have to plaigerize (borrow) material for tradition. Well, other factors in the "no floats for 60" are the social rules now instituted on our fair campus and, with chaperones bard to come by, there seems to be no time to work on the floats, especially wben it may take a little time in the wee bours.

Maybe you can remember the good times in the past of working on the Homecoming floats? Of course the realization that floats cost money is not forgotten, but wouldn't you rather see what money there is, spent on floats?

Now I am not forgetting that the expense of some floats in the past has gotten out of band and in the process of construction some of the fraternities and sororities neared bankruptcy. To top this off, it may bave rained on the big day and all the work went down the drain. There is a bit of chance in any project unless you just forget about it.

Due to the situation at hand and what I have seen of the lawn displays being prepared, I think it may not be too bad and all not lost. All that would have to be done is the displays loaded on trucks?

To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In regards to the letter from the EC fotball player, may we have just a bit of space to set the record straight. The decision to set aside the absentee ballots, which did not conform to rules, was unanimous as was the decision to declare one of the recently elected class officers ineligible because he did not meet the requirements set down in the constitution.

We would like to ask that in the future if any member of the student body feels criticism is necessary, then please bring it to our attention through regular channels such as the Student Senate, SGA Suggestion Box, President's Rount Table, or signed letters to the editor of the Crescent. We strongly resent a personal attack on any individual officer as was the case last week, when President Mike Spence was criticized.

You have our assurance that the constitution has been and will continue to be followed in all instances to everyone's advantage rather than any one's group.

Survey Shows Frats Favor Discrimination

Baltimore, Md. — (I. P.) — A survey of 11 out of the 14 Johns Hopkins University social fraternities found all of the presidents in at least partial agreement with the Interfraternity policy to uphold the right of fraternities to discriminate as they see fit.

Although most of the presidents expressed personal disapproval of racial or religious discrimination, they agreed with one representative who said, "The backbone of a fraternity system is a small, select group of people with mutual interests, mutual likes and dislikes and mutual backgrounds, which in itself necessitates a selecivity in membership . . . Social rights are not the same as civil rights."

This sentiment was seconded by another president who felt "their choice shouldn't he based on race or religion, but on the quality of the boy concerned." One president felt that since "fraternities are naturally selective, you discriminate against your own class in a fraternity much harder than you do against any other group." Another said he failed "to recognize fraternity discrimination," pointing out that a fraternity could be run no other way."

Seven of the 11 representatives interviewed disapproved of national charters with discriminatory clauses, either because they felt such a measure interfered with the right of each chapter to choose its own members, or because they found it "not necessary."

The one-ball system (operative in most Hopkins fraternities) was considered an example of the exclusive nature of fraternities and also a means of preserving each individual's right to discriminate in selecting new members.

Fraternity presidents agreed with the policy of the Hopkins IFC because it "leaves the decision up to the individual fraternity. This is all the IFC can do unless it were to become dictatorial." Another favored the IFC decision as standing by fraternities with discriminatory clauses.

This Was Homecoming—1950

. . . . . BUT THAT WAS TEN YEARS AGO, Yes these are women playing football. This shot was snapped at Homecoming 1950 in the front lawn of the Evansville College campus. It looks like some of the ladies were playing the game for keeps. (LinC photo, 1950).

Editor's note: The Crescent editors thought that it might be interesting to dig back and find out just what went on at Homecoming 10 years ago. This is the way Crescent staff writer Sharon Tapley describes the festivities in 1950.

The build-up for Homecoming began today at Evansville College with students placing a casket "containing the body of the late Jawn Marshall" in front of the administration building and detailing fraternity pledges to march sentry duty. The body is an effigy symbolizing the spirit of Marshall College, Huntington, West Virginia, the school Evansville College meets in the Homecoming game at Bosse field.

The body did not remain at its post long, because several unidentified persons took the casket. The theft occurred about 3:20 p.m. when the fraternity pledge guarding the casket left his post momentarily. All fraternity men at the college are out searching for the missing "body" and casket. Burial rites for the body are scheduled for 7 p.m. at a bonfire and pep rally on the Evansville College campus.

Students voted today for Homecoming queen, who will be crowned during the halftime ceremonies at the football game Saturday afternoon.

Activities designed to created interest began today, with most events, including the Homecoming game at Bosse Field, scheduled for Saturday.

Both fraternity houses, Phi Zeta and Acacia, will vie for best house decorations, and organizations on the campus plan various stunts and decorations for Homecoming.

An event that claimed wide attention last year, the Revlon Rose Bowl football game, will be played again this year. It is at this time that coeds get an opportunity to show their prowess on the gridiron.

A giant parade will leave the campus for Bosse Field at 12:45 p.m. Saturday, with the kick-off of the game between the Evansville College Purple Aces and Marshall College set for 2:00 p.m.

The College Alumni Association will have a get-together at the Vendome Hotel at 7:30 to 9 p.m. Saturday, with refreshments but not formal program.

The traditional Homecoming dance, which will conclude the activities, will be held at the Armory from 9 until midnight Saturday, with music by Chuck Dapper and his band from DePauw University.

ATTENTION SENIORS

Seniors are urged to have their pictures for the 1961 LinC made before Nov. 12. You must call or drop in at Schear's Dept. Store for an appointment.

The Work's All Done

Homecoming Displays Ready For Judgement

Have you noticed the striking lawn displays at each of the eight fraternity and sorority sites? If you haven't, it would be worth your time to hope in your car and drive past them. The men and women, driven by the spirit of homecoming, have spent many hundreds of man-hours in completing their displays. Each may be praised for its engineering skill and artistic ability in designing and building their display.

THE SIG EPS have carried through a western theme in their display. It consists of a wooden corral with an old cabin in one corner. The corral fences in a saddled, St. Joe Puma with a cowboy riding it to the finish. The Puma is trying to throw the cowboy, but he never will.

SAE is giving the puma a wringing he will never forget. The display consists of a washing machine that is rolling the puma through the wringer. Around the washing machine are large soap boxes with slogans on them. St. Joe's football team is hung out on a clothes line to dry.

Lambda Chi is using a football field theme for their display. They have the St. Joe Puma corraled on the football field with an Evansville player riding it down. Try as it may, the puma will never get Evansville off its back. A waterfall decorates the back of the display.

THE TKE's aren't letting the puma anywhere close to victory. They have a giant rainbow on their lawn with the puma trying to get over it to the pot of gold and victory at the other end. But it is a certainty that it will never get there because an Evansville Ace is holding it back. The many-colored rainbow is supported by a goal post.

The Beta Sigs have built a train on their site. It has many colors and consists of an engine, coal car, flat car, and cabose. There is one football player with a puma head on the train. The theme is "Choo Choo 'Em Np."

PHI MU has assembled a seven foot octopus on campus. The octopus is green and is squeezing a St. Joe football player. The theme is "Sqeezin' Out A Victory."

A huge skunk is the AOPi contribution this year. It is colored skunk white and black and is twelve feet tall. In it's hand is a red rose. "Skunk 'Em Aces" is the title of the display.

The Chi O's have a nine foot wishing well with eleven purple Aces in kickoff position at the side of the well. The wishing well is black, brown, and grey and the roof is yellow and brown. There is a gold post in back with the Detailed information concerning student meetings with advisers and other registration procedures will be posted on the Registrar's bulletin board in the administration building by Monday morning.

The final step is to pay the bill. It may be paid at the time the bill is written. It must be paid by Dec. 5 to avoid the payment of a late fee.

Students who fail to follow registration rules must register on Dec. 8 during the quarter break.

Anyone with registration difficulties will be aided by the Registrar's Office.

Miss Lacey is the first woman to speak at one of the Evansville College vesper services which were started in the spring of 1949.

Presiding over the service will be Dr. Gordon H. Rettke, director of the Psychology-Education Clinic and Guidance Center at EC and Associate Professor of Education and Psychology.

The Rev. Joseph W. Baus, new pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will offer prayer. Before coming to Evansville Dr. Baus was field director of Christian Education of the Board of Education of the United Presbyterian Church.

Miss Rhonda Alldredge, a sophomore majoring in medical technology, will read the scripture. Jerry Clark, president of the senior class and a music major, will play the organ while the college choir under the direction of Harrison Boughton will sing for the service.

An informal fellowship hour in the Union Lounge at 5 p.m. will follow the service. This will provide an opportunity to meet and talk with Miss Lacey.

It's A Big Problem

How To Understand Women

It can't be done. That's the considered opinion of countless theorizers, from traffic cops to tragic poets, who've tried to fathom feminine motives.

Said one 19th century versifier, an Englishman with the unlikely name of Coventry Patmore:

A Woman is a foreign land
Of which, though there he settle young
A man will ne'er quite understand
The customs, politics and tongue.

Other thinkers, more successful with the pretty and puzzling sex, have milady all—well, almost all —figured out. Gib Supple, Ad Director of Shulton, has compiled some of these valuable clues to making a hit with Her . . . and Her . . . and Her.

1. Act devoted. Brush imaginary dust from her shoulder, hold hands under the dinner table, touch your lips to the glass her lips have touched—and don't worry if the gesture seems old hat or corny. These suggestions, for instance, come from a 2,000 year old treatise on "The Art of Love." Did they work? So well that Ovid, the author, was obliged to write a sequel telling men how to avoid entangling alliances!

Other tips from Ovid's first work: lose to her at gambling, yield to her smallest whim, be sure those sitting behind her at the circus don't thrust their knees into her back.

2. Act jealous. A man who's unreasonable — within reasonable limits, of course, is one of the most effective ego-builders a woman can have. Therefore, grumble a bit when she smiles fetchingly at another man. If you're still single and not yet at the going-steady stage, ask if she's free for a date in a tone that implies you think you're competing with at least two other guys. Never let her suspect that you know you're her only beau — even if you know it for a fact!

3. Know what to say. Suppose she's made an obvious effort to look glamorous and you can't remember whether you've seen the dress before. Or you'd like to compliment her on her flair for fashion but you wouldn't know the difference between an Empire line and a chain gang. Get out of it graciously — and effectively — by saying simply, "How lovely you look!"

If you're married, never respond to the inevitable question with "of course I love you." It sounds much too brusque. Instead, say "You don't know how much." This leaves her about where she was before, but she'll love it and you'll be off the hook — especially if you don't know how much, either.

Most women resent the condescending "little woman" approach so, if you compliment her on her knowledge of batting averages or the international situation, don't sound as if it's a miracle that she knows these things. Virtually every woman likes to be proud of her man's intellect, so profit from the example of a gent who was famous for — among other things — his ability to converse on any topic. His name: Giovanni Giacomo Casanova.

4. Learn to read her signals. Many men suspect — and many women cheerfully admit — that women have a language of their own, expressed in tonal variations and pauses between words as well as in the words themselves. You'll never speak it, but for optimum success with bilingual ladies, it behooves you to understand a little of it.

Watch out for the significant pause. Have you asked her if your pooch can come along on your romantic evening stroll, and has she hesitated just a few seconds before saying yes? Drop the subject: if Rover comes along, you'll be in the doghouse. The same goes for a cautious, overpolite tone; if she'd really love to go to your class reunion, she'd have said so heartily. Be alert, too, for the hint so indirect as to be the opposite of what it sounds like. "Don't bother to get anything for my birthday" really means "don't forget, now" — and don't you forget it.

But if you think this is tough, ponder what your fathers and grandfathers went through; to understand women circa 1900, some young men resorted to the pseudoscience of phrenology, scanning the shape of milady's head and the distance from her nostril to the corner of her mouth for clues as to her intelligence, temper, and virtue!

Here We Go Again..

By Frank Hasket

No I don't feel like Jack Paar. Now I would like to say that I find the present title obnoxious, and would like to see it changed. The only sane way to settle this is for you students to suggest titles. If you have any ideas let me know so I can have a name for this unwanted piece of script.

Now that rush is over I have a few suggestions for some enterprising young man. If he can figure out a way to manufacture and sell the following items, he can become rich very soon. First of all would be lifelike plastic smiles so actives can feel natural and rush at the same time. Second would be McDonald hamburgers that taste and look like a full course meal. Next comes hangover pills. Nuff said there. How about some new questions for us to ask, and new answers for rushees while we're about it? Also is there some way we can hide the transfer student-from the big school-who wants to expound on his pledgeship at the dear old Theta Zeta house. We don't treat pledges that way. That seems to be all I can think of, although there is one item I would like to see leave the market. I could have sworn somebody was black marketing fish handshakes to half of the rushees.

Funny thing happened to one Dick Titzer during the recent dedication of Moore Hall. As you know all classes were dismissed and the library closed so that those who wished to might attend the dedication. It seems that just before the library was to close' Mr. Titzer felt the call of nature and hurried into the men's room. When he came out a few minutes later . . . well nobody gets locked inside the library for an hour.

How come it is that we students can get better food, more food, and cheaper food at the For-Get-Me-Not-Inn, Social Bar, Tiny's Tavern, Evans Cafe, Betty's Restaurant and many other local restaurants. We think that the Union food service should make some profit, but something is lacking when they serve less and poorer food at a higher rate than the average middle class restaurant. After all we are college level people capable of independent thought. Or are we?

In case someone has an extra copy of one of the Kingston Trio's five albums, Judy Lockwood is hunting for all of them. Seems she didn't quite hear enough of them during the two weeks they were blasting into her office from the S.A.E. ticket table in the Union. Seriously, a tip of the hat to her for her perseverance.

At the risk of being put down I'm going to become a dramatic critic for about one paragraph or two.

I was forced (I thought) to attend "The Sea Gull" because of a Comp. class I'm taking this quarter. After I saw it I had a new facet of opportunity presented to me. I'm not what you would call a well-versed person when it comes to the theatre. I've seen some Summer stock and one or two broadway productions, and that's about all, but this convinced me. Oh there were a few odd things like filter cigarettes, Wild Irish Rose Wine, and a Citizens Bank Book in a supposedly 1890's setting, but otherwise it was very professional. The acting was not of the oft quoted "high school senior play" variety, but rather of a very high caliber. The play itself is a study in life, and the audience must be rather literate to comprehend. This is a salute to our intelligence.

Anyway the point I would like to make is this: keep your eyes open for notices on the next college theatre production. The only admittance required is your activity card. You will travel far, and pay much more before you see acting of this caliber.

Sig Eps Work On West Scene

Sig Eps have finished their lawn display. The display is to depict a western scene included within the walls of the coral are: a bucking bronco and bunk house with many fine props. Much hard work and planning has gone into the display by the actives and their new pledges.

Friday nite was clean up nite for the actives and the pledges. Saturday nite a party was held at Grannon's Barn. With Halloween only three days off it was only fitting that everyone dress like goblins and ghosts. The costumes along with the brotherhood of the fraternity proved a delightful evening for all.

Aces Prepare Defense Of National Throne

BATTLING FOR THE GUARD spots on this year's varsity are, from left, seniors P. M. Sanders and Tom Hamilton. Sophomores giving the seniors a fight are Marv Pruett and Paul Utley.

ALLEN McCUTCHAN, SIX-FOOT freshman guard from Bosse, is covered closely by 6-9 Bob Hermeyer, a freshman from St. Louis. Both boys have been looking good in freshman workouts.

Mac Rebuilding After Losing Three Starters

Defending the NCAA and ICC crowns that Evansville captured last year is only one of the chores that are scheduled for Coach Arad McCutchan's roundball boys this year.

The Aces won the national small college title for the second year in a row last season and the chore may be a little harder this season with some of Mac's big guns gone. Ed Smallwood, Mel Lurker, and Larry Erwin are three of Mac's starters who are gone from this year's squad.

Seniors Dale Wise, Tom Hamilton, Walt Deal, Jim Nossett, and P. M. Sanders are five returnees who saw considerable action on last year's squad.

Wise was a starter in all of the Aces' games, and led the team in rebounds as his 6-4, 200-pound frame was felt all over the ICC. Wise tied an Evansville rebound record of 30 in a single game last year. He shares the honor with Jim Smallins, who played with the Aces during the mid 50's.

Deal came around late in the season last year and provided Evansville with some added rebound power. Deal is slated for a forward position this season, but there will be a batch of sophomores fighting him for the position.

Sanders was a starting guard on and off last year, but the 6-foot senior should hold down a starting berth this season.

But here again look out for the sophomores at the guard spots. Marv Pruett from Springs Valley and Paul Utley from Bosse are giving Sanders and Hamilton fits at the guard posts. It's a cinch that both of these sophomores will see a great deal of duty at the guard spot. Another soph, Lynn Mautz, has a shot at a guard position.

The second year men battling for the forward positions are Marty Herthel and Dave Fulkerson. Both of these boys were starters on the Aces' freshman team last year and figure to start or see a great deal of action in reserve roles on the varsity this season.

The Aces open their season December 1, against Wheaton here in Evansville.

Freshmen Have Height

Freshman basketball coach Ray Bawel will have a pleasant surprise waiting to greet him Monday when he takes over the reigns of the freshman basketball squad.

Bawel has not been able to coach the freshman team yet because he has been handling the job of assistant football coach. Football season ends Saturday so Monday Bawel can forget about the gridiron and start concentrating on the hardwood.

This year's team is probably the tallest freshman squad ever to be assembled at Evansville College. Bawel has four boys who go over the 6-4 mark and one who stands 6-9.

The backcourt this year may not be quite as strong as it has been on some of the freshman teams of the near past. But then not too many schools of Evansville's size have a freshman team with a Marv Pruett or Paul Utley playing at the guard positions.

One of the prize grabs for Evansville College this year was a 6-4 sharpshooter from Madison, Ind., by the name of Buster Briley. This name will sound very familiar to any high school basketball fan of Indiana.

While playing for Bud Ritter's Madison Bulldogs he performed some fantastic scoring feats. At the end of the season he was selected as the Number 2 high school player in Indiana behind Ron Bonham of Muncie.

Bob Hermeyer is the tallest man on the freshman squad. He stands 6-9 and is a product of St. Louis.

Ed Zausch, another growing boy, was 6-7 when he enrolled, but since that time he says he has grown a little and he is now reaching for the 6-8 mark. Zausch, another St. Louis boy, came to Evansville with his shorter brother Charles, who is also out for basketball now that football season is over. Charles stands somewhere between 6-5 and 6-6 and weighs a mere 230 pounds. He was a starting end on the freshman football squad.

In the backcourt, Allen McCutchan, a Bosse graduate and son of the varsity basketball coach, Arad McCutchan, seems to fit into the Evansville brand of fast-breaking basketball. In high school, Allen was more renowned for his ability on the cinders than for his roundball ability.

Dave Green, a 6-3 boy from Greensburg, Ind., has been playing quite a bit in the backcourt. Jim Smith, a man who stands a large 6-2, will probably see quite a bit of action in the freshman games. He did not come to Evansville directly from college but is a product of the Air Force.

Wayne Boultinghouse, one of the players at Evansville on a basketball scholarship, has just started practicing with the team because of football and as yet he has not been able to see too much action. Last year he was one or the most sought after high school players in Southern Indiana for his ability in not only basketball but football. Wayne played halfback on the freshman football team.

Some of the other boys out for the team are Curt Smith, a big boy from California; Jim Fathera of North Posey, Jim Fuquay and Joe Blair of Central; Steve Slaton of Shelbyville, Ind.; and Manny West of Reitz.

LCA Scores Third In Row

Lambda Chi Alpha scored its third straight win last week, mauling a smaller Sigma Phi Epsilon team 39-6.

The Sig Ep's, led by quarterback Larry Collins, put up a good fight the first half as they held LCA to a 14-6 halftime lead. But then the league leaders turned on the steam as fullback Jack Coale and quarterback Bill Hemmer engineered two quick touchdowns to give LCA a 26-6 lead.

The win was the third in a row for last year's champs as they hold onto their league with a 3-0 record. The loss for the Sig Ep's was their second in three games.

In other games last week, ROTC rolled to its third win in four tries as the Airmen trounced TKE 30-0. The loss was the TKE's fourth in a row as they stay in the cellar.

Sports Spotlight

By Temme Patterson

Well it happened just like it seems to every year. For the ninth time in the last ten years the Butler Bulldogs have blown our Aces right off the football field. They don't do it just at Indianapolis but they seem to do it here in Evansville also. Last year the Bulldogs beat our Aces 34-7 before a Homecoming crowd. This year they almost duplicated the score (34-6) in their Dad's Day Game. In these past ten years the Aces have scored 133 points while Butler has racked up a 228 point total. Our victory was during the 1955 season, when Evansville posted a 6-3 season. Again it seemed that we just don't have an offense that will click with any consistency. Talking with some of the players after each game they all say that everybody throws a seven, eight, and even nine man line at us at times. They do this because they know that we don't have a passing attack. Actually we have a good running team in halfbacks Bud Garland and Don LeDuc and three top fullbacks in John Titzer, Joe Rohleder, and Dave Koehler. We have one of the toughest lines in the conference. But all this is going to waste because we can't keep the defense "loose." A pass here and there will make most teams switch into a five- and six-man line. Our Aces can run against this kind of defense and come up with some points. But nobody can run against a nine-man line. At Butler Saturday we threw 10 times and completed one, just about par for the course. This gives Evansville a completion total of nine in 67 attempts, by far the worst in the ICC.

But that's behind us now. Let's get to work on St. Joe for tomorrow. If we can beat the Pumas, the worst we can do is tie for championship and if Butler by some chance would be beaten maybe we could win the darn thing after all. St. Joe was mauled Saturday by Ball State but the Pumas hold the only conference win over Butler all year 24-6 at Indianapolis. I don't know how they accomplished this rare feat, but more power to them if they can do it again next year. That loss ended a 16-game winning streak that Butler had going for it. But let's get back to beating St. Joe. Actually it shouldn't be too tough. They have a so-so 2-2 record in conference play this year, and we have beaten the two teams that topped them. But again they have beaten the team that mauled us. The game is a real toss-up but we have the home field advantage and the Homecoming enthusiasm edge over them. Also, they are out of the conference running and we are battling for our lives, so we should be up for the game more than they are.

KING KELLY RELEASED

King Kelly Coleman the Kentucky Wesleyan basketball star that gave the Aces headache the past three years was released last week by the New York pro club. Coleman was listed on the first ten the day before the season opened, but was dropped anyway. No one in Owensboro, where Coleman lives, has heard from him since his release.

I'LL GET LETTERS

I had several comments last week after mentioning Ed Smallwood as Evansville's greatest basketball player. I suppose I should have said "one of the greatest" although there were 10,000 people at the stadium every night the Aces played the last couple of years who would probably agree that he was the greatest. He broke the all time point total for an Evansville player and also the single game total.

Butler Throws Wrench Into Aces' Title Plans

Halfback John Skirchak scored three touchdowns for Butler last Saturday which provided the Bulldogs with more than enough scoring as the Indianapolis team rolled to an easy 34-6 win over Evansville.

The loss was the Aces' first in five conference starts and put a damper on Evansville's conference chances. The Aces must beat St. Joe tomorrow if they hope to tie for the crown. It was the first time all year that any team had run with ease against the tough Evansville defense.

The win for Butler was its fourth in five ICC games and put the Bulldogs in a tie with the Aces for the conference lead.

Skirchak ran through the Evansville defense like it wasn't there. He scored his first touchdown with only 5:03 gone in the first quarter when he pulled in a pass from Phil Long and rolled into the end-zone untouched.

Skirchak scored on another long pass in the opening seconds of the second period, to give the Bulldogs a 13-0 lead. Skirchak also booted the first PAT to give him all the Bulldog's points.

Evansville rallied midway in the second period when they put together their only sustained drive of the game. Fullback Dave Koehler capped the 80-yard drive by plunging over from the 3. Larry Duncan's kick was blocked but the Aces had narrowed the margin to 13-6.

Toward the closing minutes of the half, Long passing with perfection, hit halfback Elmer O'Banion with a 38-yard play that carried to the Aces' 80. On the second shot O'Banion crashed over from the 4. Long's pass to Mickey Seal for the 2-point PAT gave the Bulldogs a 21-6 halftime lead that killed any hopes the Aces had of catching up.

The Bulldogs scored twice more in the second half to add more misery to the Aces' long ride home.

Butler's big weapon was the pass, as they gained 134 yards through the air compared to 24 for Evansville. The Aces also fumbled four times which didn't help matters any.

Aces, Butler In ICC Lead

Evansville College and Butler head into the final weekend of action holding league-leading 4-1 records. The Aces face St. Joe at Evansville while the Bulldogs take on a hot and cold DePauw team.

RENSSELAER, Ind., — Ball State killed all chances for St. Joe to capture the ICC crown as the Cardinals scored a surprising 23-7 victory over previously once-beaten St. Joe.

Junior quarterback Phil Sullivan passed for all three touchdowns for Ball State, and all of the ICC teams will be seeing a great deal of this boy next year. The Cardinals jumped into a quick 3-0 lead but the Pumas tied it at 3-3 before the quarter ended. But then Sullivan went to work as Ball State rolled to its second conference win of the season.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., — Indiana State stopped a 2-point conversion try as it scored a 14-13 squeaker over Valparaiso. Sycamore quarterback Bobby Clem ents scored both Indiana State touchdowns as they upped their conference record to 2-3. Valpo now holds a modest 2-4 slate.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., — DePauw scored a non-conference 20-14 victory over Rochester last week as the Tigers scored in the final minute and a half to overcome a 14-13 deficit.

The victory for DePauw was only its second of the year against four defeats, and a conference tie. The Tigers from Greencastle meet a tough Butler tomorrow.

Aces To Play St. Joseph's In Homecoming

Eight senior's names will appear on the Evansville college roster Saturday as they take the field against the St. Joseph's Pumas in the Aces annual Homecoming game.

The contest will be Evansville's last game of the season and will be played at Bosse Field with starting time being 1:30.

If Coach Paul Beck goes with the regular lineup that he has used most of the year, four seniors will be in the starting lineup. They are all interior linemen and it already looks like Beck will have to build a whole new interior line next year.

The seniors are: Center, Carl Horn; guards, Willie Weinzapfel and Charlie Ross; and tackle, Willie Brimm. The only remaining interior lineman will be tackle, John Meredith.

The other seniors are not starters but they have all played an important part in the Aces' success this year. They are: End, Jon Dekker; halfback, Dwight Tapley; center, William White; and guard, Joe Brent.

The game Saturday will be a very crucial one as far as the conference championship is concerned. If Evansville defeats St. Joseph and Butler stops the last place DePauw Tigers, the conference title will be shared by Evansville and Butler. However, if either St. Joe or DePauw is victorious it would give the title to just one of the first place teams. If St. Joe and DePauw are both victorious it would again throw the championship into a tie.

The Pumas are led by quarterback Ralph Gardner, who is leading the league in total offense. He is also leading the league in forward passing. Gardner is helped in the passing department hy end Jim Madden, who is leading pass receiver in the league. Halfback George Connelly is second in league in scoring; he has scored five touchdowns for 30 points. Connely is eighth in total offense.

In St. Joe, the Aces will meet a team that is also known for its defensive ability. To the surprise of many Evansville fans the Pumas are leading the league in total defense. They also lead in passing offense. In total offense they are holding third.

Against the Ball State Cardinals last weekend the Pumas were defeated 23-7. Their only touchdown was scored by Connelly on a 12-yard run. This loss makes the Pumas' conference record 2-2-1.

Evansville has never met St. Joe in a Homecoming game. The Aces last was against the Bulldogs in 1953 when Eastern Kentucky defeated the Aces 59-9.

The Aces have shut out a team only once in Homecoming competition. That was in 1947 when they stopped Upper Iowa 6-0.

Pledges Plan Red Flag Tilt

The Lambda Chi Alpha pledges and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledges have scheduled a red flag football game for Wednesday, November 9. The game will be played under regular intramural football rules at East Side Park, with the starting time being 3:45, as usual. Both fraternities have large pledge classes so neither of them should have any trouble coming up with a good team.

Nora Fisher Crowned Homecoming Queen

Nora Fisher was crowned as Evansville College's 1960 Homecoming Queen by Mike Spence, Student Government president last Saturday during halftime ceremonies of the EC-St. Joseph game.

Members of her court were Mary Ellen Rauch, Phi Mu representative, who was runner-up; Nancy Stoops, Beta Sigma Omicron candidate; Suzanne Greinke of Alpha Omicron Pi; and Sonia Velarde from Moore Hall.

Representing Chi Omega sorority, Miss Fisher is a graduate of Bosse High School and is now a sophomore at EC. A literature major, Nora has played three major parts in plays of the EC dramatics department. She is a member of the Union house committee and was a finalist in the 1960 Auto Show queen contest. She hopes to teach upon graduation.

Nora was chosen queen by a five-point system based on personality (grace and poise), talent and beauty (face and figure) used at EC for the first time this year. The judging was done by five persons not associated with the college.

Following the game, Nora reigned at "Le Jardin de Jazz," this year's Homecoming Dance at the Armory Saturday night, at which Buddy Morrow and his Nightrainers played. She also helped present the trophies to the sororities and fraternities who won the special homecoming activities.

As the theme of the dance was "the garden of Jazz," the armory was decorated with gold balloons and candles in waxed dripped bottles on the tables. In the center of the floor was a small garden with life like trees. Certain tables were designated for each sorority and fraternity so the members of each organization could sit in a group.

Also honored at the dance were visiting alumni. One such honored guest was a visiting alumnae who had come 2000 miles from California to attend Homecoming.

Big Turn Out Expected At 'J' Day Tomorrow

At least 165 high school students and sponsors will arrive tomorrow for a day of journalism instruction and exchange of ideas.

This twelfth annual Journalism Day will feature a morning speech by Wendell Phillippi, assistant managing editor of "The Indianapolis News."

Sponsored by "The Evansville Courier" and Evansville College, the day will have five major parts starting with the opening session at 9:45 at which Phillippi will speak. He will be introduced by Bill Shipley, managing editor of the "Courier."

Professional help from "Courier" staff members will come at the 11 o'clock forums.

These forums will include: News writing, handled by Jake Seits and Woodrow Hall; women's page, by Miss Martha McKenna; feature writing, by Joe Aaron; photography, by Bill Adkins; sports, by Bill Fluty.

Sponsors will discuss problems with Walter Stewart, EC's journalism instructor.

Presiding at the annual "Evansville Courier" luncheon at noon will be Don Follett, public relations office manager of Evansville College and former "Courier" staff member.

He will introduce the speakers Dr. Melvin W. Hyde, president of the College, and Earl E. Shaw editor of the "Courier."

Larry Pond, editor of the "Crescent," will welcome the students to the campus at the morning session. Along with Managing Editor Dave Lucas, he will help coordinate the day's activities.

The afternoon will be devoted to two workshops at which the larger and smaller high school-represented will cover scholastic newspapers and their problems.

Follett and Stewart will coordinate these workshops.

Climaxing Journalism Day will be the announcement of two $150 scholarships being awarded to two competitors from the morning session. Frank Schultheis, president of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary collegiate journalism fraternity which sponsors the two EC journalism scholarships, will make the presentations.

Approximately 15 seniors will be taking notes during the speech of Phillippi and then writing the speech story in this competition.

2 Scholarships To Be Awarded

For the seventh consecutive year two scholarships in journalism will be awarded to winners of the speech-coverage contest at tomorrow's Journalism Day.

In the six years since Evansville College began offering the scholarships, 12 high school seniors have been selected along with several alternates. Of these, five are now attending EC.

Mike Heininger, senior, earned the award while a high school senior in 1956. Tom Tuley and Brenda Egnew, juniors, won in 1957. Nancy Eilers, from the 1958 competition, is now in school.

Winners of a 1959 award is Chuck Leach, freshman.

Students taking advantage of the scholarships have been: 1955-56, Nancy Jo Riester and Mattye Oell Miller; 1956-57, Barbara Tepool and Sara Ruth Knight; 1957-58; Heininger; 1958-59, Egnew and Tuley; 1959-60.

The 12 scholarships have amounted to $1800.

Top Journalists Attended J-Day For Seven Years

A formidable list of outstanding newspapermen has appeared to highlight Journalism Day in past years. The last seven speakers have been:

1953 — Eugene Cadou, Indiana manager for International News Service.

1954 — James Farmer, assistant city editor of the "Indianapolis Star."

1955 — Allen Saunders, editor of Publishers Syndicate.

1956 — Chris Savage, instructor in the journalism department at Indiana University.

1957 — Karl Knecht, cartoonist, now retired, of the "Evansville Courier."

1958 — George Sisler, promotions editor of the "Memphis Commercial Appeal."

1959 — Barry Bingham, managing editor of the "Louisville Courier-Journal."

Library Exhibits Bigney Display

Miss Andres, associate librarian of Clifford Library, has set up an exhibit in the East exhibit case in the Library in memory of Andrew Johnson Bigney.

The exhibit contains: a memorial edition of the Crescent from 1929 honoring Dr. Bigney, a 1930 LinC containing the last photo taken of Dr. Bigney before his death, a copy of the Melarge (yearbook) from 1899, and a poem written by Dr. Bigney.

Andrew Johnson Bigney was born Feb. 15, 1864, on a little farm north of Moores Hill. In December, 1880, he entered the Preparatory Department of Moores Hill College. Following graduation in June, 1888, Professor Bigney began his long teaching career in Moores Hill-Evansville College.

At the time Moores Hill became Evansville College, Professor Bigney had become Doctor Bigney. Dr. Bigney was one of three teachers to transfer from Moores Hill to EC. He died 31 years ago in 1929. It is fitting that students of Evansville College pay homage to this great educator.

Also in the display case is a copy of Dr. Bigney's biography by John W. Winkley, a 1905 graduate of Moores Hill and Dr. Bigney's Bible, which will be placed in the Library Archives after it is taken out of the display case.

Some of the faculty members who knew Dr. Bigney are; Dean McKown, Dr. Morlock, and Mr. Olmstead. At present there is a trust fund for the Bigney-Pre-Ministerial Scholarship to help deserving pre-theology students.

Committee Sets 12th 'J' Day

A faculty committee of 10 worked with Managing Editor Bill Shipley of "The Evansville Courier" and members of Pi Delta Epsilon journalism fraternity to produce the 12th annual Journalism Day.

Shipley arranged for the appearance of the speaker, Wendell Phillippi, the forum discussion leaders from the "Courier" staff, and the luncheon.

In charge of other arrangements were committee members Miss Virginia Anderson, Mrs. Wilma Shafer, Miss Judith Lockwood, Miss Florence Keve, Major Victor Sinclair, Thornton Patberg, Paul Kinsella, Lawrence Anderson, Don Follett and Walter Stewart.

President Frank Schultheis of Pi Delta Epsilon coordinated the work of the fraternity members as guides and hosts.

Going To Graduate? . . . Better Check Now

Now that winter quarter registration is underway, all seniors should be thinking seriously about the commencement exercises coming June 5.

The basic requirements for graduation listed on the senior check sheet are as follows: A student must have . . .

1. 60 hours of "200" courses.
2. Passed the English Proficiency Test.
3. An overall "C" average.
4. Completed general College requirements.
5. Satisfied residence requirements.

Dr. H. Owen Long, registrar, has estimated that this year's graduating class will number approximately 300. About 270 seniors have filed for their degrees at this time. All seniors should have filed for their degree if they expect to graduate this spring.

Dr. Long has finished checking the list of fall and winter graduates and is working on the spring list. He has found that many students are lacking in their English Proficiency Test. He emphasized that this must be taken before a degree will be granted.

Interviews Set For Accountants

On November 18, Ernst & Ernst, Accountants will be in the Ocan of Students' office to interview all senior accounting majors interested in this company.

On Novemher 22, the U.S. Treasury Oepartment will he here to interview senior accounting and business majors who are interested.

All those interested must sign up in the office of the Dean of Students at once.

Pond To Resign Post As Crescent Chief

Crescent Editor-In-Chief, Larry Pond has announced his resignation from this position which will become effective at the end of the Fall Quarter. Pond made the announcement at a meeting of the Publications Committee at 10:00 Tuesday morning.

When asked for a reason for the resignation, Pond stated that due to a heavy schedule during the Winter Quarter he would be unable to devote enough time to the Crescent to keep it one of the leading college newspapers in the state of Indiana.

"I deeply regret leaving this position and only hope that I might find enough time during this spring to return to the post," said Pond. "An editor can only be as good as the staff which he has behind him. Now I don't know about the editor, but I can say that I couldn't have asked for a better, more competent group of writers than I have right now. I feel that any one of them is capable of handling the job of editor sometime before their graduation," Pond commented.

As to his successor, Larry stated that Managing Editor Dave Lucas would be his choice as the person to succeed him. "However that choice is left up to Mr. Stewart and the Publications Committee," he said.

Pond assumed the duties of editor this fall after moving up from sports editor in the spring of 1960. There is a slight possibility that Larry might write some sports stories for the Crescent since this is the field that he plans to go into upon his graduation.

Indian Maid Mystery Solved

The mystery of the Wooden Indian was solved last Monday at 10 amid song and cheers as the Sigma Phi Epsilon pledges marched triumphantly around the Indian carrying the College's beautiful Indian squaw.

The Indian miraculously disappeared a little over a week before Homecoming as it does every year. The Sig Eps successfully concealed their prize until last Monday.

This is only one of the projects that the pledge class has undertaken so far this year. Officers were elected at the first pledge meeting and a committee was appointed by President Carl Schroeder to check into other activities that will be financially rewarding to the class.

The pledges are planning a car wash later this month and will sell Christmas trees in December.

To The Editor

To: Walter Stewart, Larry Pond, Dave Lucas and the Crescent staff.

I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of the fine staff of the Crescent for the excellent publicity that all of the Homecoming events for 1960 received.

We had perhaps the biggest crowd to ever attend Homecoming this year. This was due to the very good co-operation that all of the Homecoming publicity people found both from the Crescent and from the news media downtown.

Again I thank you for your excellent coverage of the 1960 Homecoming events. The Crescent helped to make this year's Homecoming one of the best, if not the best, ever held at Evansville College.

Dr. Erickson To Address Chapel Service

Guest speaker for the chapel service on Nov. 16 will be Dr. Harris D. Erickson, professor of philosophy and religion at Evansville College, with his topic being "Sex, Ethics, and Christian Marriage."

Professor at EC for 12 years, Dr. Erickson came from Seattle, Wash., where he taught for 10 years at Seattle Pacific College. Dr. Erickson is quite interested in the Scandanavian countries and since 1953 he has made four trips to Europe. A year ago he was able to to take a trip into Russia.

In his talk, Dr. Erickson expects to highlight the idea that sex is a human resource of exulted potentalities and that ethics is the study of human relations from the point of view of conserving the maximum values.

He also hopes to get across the idea that ethics is an exact science which is more complex and complicated than physical science for it deals with the conservation of human values.

Dr. Erickson will be the third in a series of four speakers to speak at chapel services on the topic of marriage. The fourth speaker will be Dr. Ruben J. Bierbaum of Bethel United Church of Christ on Nov. 23 with "Preparing for Christian Marriage."

Best Displays

Lambda Chi's, Beta's Win

Homecoming week is over for this year and it will be fondly remembered by all students, particularly by the men of Lambda Chi Alpha and the women of Beta Sigma Omicron.

These two Greek organizations captured the coveted first place awards in their respective divisions for having the best, most attractive lawn displays.

Trophies signifying the first place award were presented during intermission at the annual Homecoming dance last Saturday night at the Armory. The 29-inch trophies had the male victory angel for the men's division and the female victory angel for the women's division at the top and were engraved with the winner's name and the date.

The lawn display trophies are given to the winners as a permanent reward.

Lambda Chi won its trophy for display of a St. Joe Puma bucking an Evansville football player. The setting was a football field.

The men of Lambda Chi spent several hundred man-hours on the display. Jack Kinkle, chairman of the display, delegated specific jobs to each fraternity member. The wood for the corral around the puma was obtained from J. C. Egnew's farm. Jack found that the display budget ran short as the display was completed and had to use sprayed napkins instead of the regular stuffing material to complete the display.

THE BETA SIGS received their first place trophy for the striking display of a "choo choo" train. The display consisted of an engine, coal car, flat car, and caboose. It was built in a realistic fasion and was covered with colored crepe paper.

Carole Grimm, conductor of the train display, accepted the trophy on behalf of the Betas. She thanks the Dads who helped with the display frame and all the women who gave their study time to build the train.

Congratulations are due to both organizations for their fine contributions to the spirit of Homecoming.

BEST MEN'S DISPLAY . . . The men of Lambda Chi Alpha worked hard and came up with this winning display in the men's Homecoming display division last Saturday.

BEST WOMEN'S DISPLAY . . . This train built by the women of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority won the top prize in the women's division of the Homecoming lawn displays.

Indianapolis Symphony To Play Here Dec. 9

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Izler Solomon, will appear in Evansville on Dec. 9 in the Bosse High School auditorium under the sponsorship of Evansville College.

Admission to the single performance will be without charge, but to ticket holders only.

Persons desiring tickets may either come to the Evansville College Department of Music or may send a written request, including a self-addressed stamped envelope. Early requests are urged, say Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shepard, heads of the Music Department.

There is a limited number of seats available and they will be distributed on a first-come, first-served basis. Two tickets per request will be allotted.

In attaining its position as one of the country's finest symphony orchestras, the musical organization did so while being one of the youngest groups of its type. The symphony was founded in 1930 by Ferdinand Schaefer and only 20 years later the distinction of being among the "top ten" orchestras in the country was given to the group by music critic Deems Taylor.

In 1943 the symphony initiated a series of Industrial Concerts for employees of Indianapolis business establishments. Other orchestras soon put on similar performances and saw them as an ideal way to increase revenue and to broaden the scope of support for classical music in the community. During this time the symphony was conducted by Dr. Feabien Sevitzky. He was conductor from 1937 to 1955, when Izler Solomon took the baton.

Representing the pledge class in the Junior Inter-Fraternity Council are John Moore and Gary Seiler. Alternate representative is Bob Dodge.

One Act Plays Begin On Wednesday

Shades of Gina Lollobrigida and Brigitte Bardot, not quite, but you can imagine what's in store for those who attend the series of one-act plays beginning Wednesday, Nov. 16, in the Fine Arts building.

The College Theatre is again presenting one-act plays under the direction of student directors. This particular series according to Sam Smiley, should be very interesting, for the plays are international in nature and plot including French and Italian works that will capture fancies of the young and old.

Beginning Wednesday, Nov. 16, there will be two plays, French and Italian, under the direction of Tom Warren and Max Beatty.

Thursday night will bring plays written by a contemporary American playwright directed by Phil Potter, Glenda Hardesty and Linda Hawkins.

Saturday night two "Avant Garde" French plays will be directed by Byron Ihle and Lauric Prokop.

The last in the series of the one-acts will be a mixture of plays under the direction of David Shelton, Ann Goerlitz and Bob Kincaid on Wednesday night, Nov. 23.

These experimental productions will be presented "in the round" at the Fine Arts Building with curtain time at 8 p.m. each night.

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill-in and mail this coupon.

Here We Go Again..

By Frank Haskett

Have you noticed the large number of high school letter jackets, WITH THE LETTER STILL ON, being worn on this campus. Shape up, gentlemen; no one cares if you wear your jacket but take the letter off. This is Evansville College, and an 'E' jacket is the only letter jacket we want to see.

I found the following buried in some of my personal papers, and I thought it might be humorous to those of you who are more observant. The author is Max Schulman but I'm sure he won't mind my printing his little bit of satire.

"The term 'juvenile delinquent' is here used loosely. Grady was not the lean, hard, Sal Mineo type. He was more on the well-fed, spongy side. The tenement that spawned him was a $40,000 ranch house on two well-kept acres, and the sight of a switch-blade would have put him in shock. Grady was a member of the new school of juvenile delinquency, the You-Too-Can-Be-A-Rebel school. The headmasters were Elvis Presley and the spook of Jimmy Dean, and the entrance requirements were completely democratic. A boy was no longer excluded from the glamorous ranks of the delinquents simply because he had had the rotten luck not to be born in a slum; all he had to do was look as though he had. If he would wear his hair in a duck-tail cut and his sideburns at nostril level, forsake grammar, dress in black khaki trousers with the cuffs narrowed to fourteen inches, never do his homework, and spit a lot, his origins, no matter how respectable, would not be held against him."

Tri-State jazz fans may have wondered what happened to Gary Burton. Gary, you will recall, played vibes at the Pal Steak House awhile back. It seems that he has done well for his 18 years. He is attending Berkeley School of Music in Boston, Mass., where he was accepted as a sophomore even though he had just graduated from Princeton H.S. He recently cut a record with Dave Brubeck Quartet, and this is a milestone for any jazz musician no matter how big the name. This album will be out in February. He also has an album with "Boots" Randolph and Chet Atkins, cut at the now famous 1960 Newport Jazz (riot) Festival. This one is available now. He currently alternates weekends between Storyville and Greenwich Village in New York City.

After hounding Woods Drug Store's news counter for the better part of two months, I finally found out why they have had no "Playboy" magazine. They have quit printing it! Rumor has it that they are being sued and won't start anew until they win the case. We won't consider the results if they lose.

No doubt this magazine was a little risque, but this was only a small part of the "Playboy" picture. Its fiction and satire were written by the better contemporary writers. Its advertisers were among the best, and the ads themselves were as interesting as the articles. The non-fiction articles were always top-level, and the movie, record, and book sections were also in this category. All in all, it was probably the best men's magazine (although undesired women readers were always writing nasty letters to the editors) in this country. I hate to see its passing.

One final note: The American broadcasting Company recorded for posterity the sound of a moth munching a gray flannel suit.

Summer European Exchange Students Learn First - hand Foreign Knowledge

Students who are now at the junior, senior, or graduate level will thus be able to profit from a formal sudy in a European atmosphere. Week-end field trips and excursions add to the variety and intensity of this intellectual experience. New York University, with the aid of the Netherlands Universities Foundation for International Cooperation, will offer a courses at the University of Leiden. A diversified curriculum of five den. Students will be housed in University dormitories.

The number of college students who go abroad during the summer to gain first-hand knowledge of European civilization has been increasing every year and the need to give guidance and a sense of direction to these thousands of young men and women is thus more urgent than ever.

After a successful summer at York University of Leiden, New York University is now making plans for its second Summer Session in Europe. During six weeks of academic work the student will be taking part in a significant educational experience that does not disrupt the regular four-year curriculum.

A distinguished group of American and European professors, lecturing in English, will offer courses for graduate and undergraduate credit to American and European students. This program has already proved itself to be a new contribution to international education, for it stimulates a real cultural exchange, with the currents flowing in both directions.

One-Act Play Features Next Coffee Hour

Next Thursday, the second of the 1960-61 series of coffee hours sponsored by the English Department will feature a one-act play.

Head of the committee arranging the program, Sam Smiley, has 11 one-act plays under rehearsal for the next production in his drama series.

The best-acted and best-produced play will be previewed before the coffee-hour audience at the usual 3:45 hour.

Refreshments will be served in the Union lounge, then the audience will go to the Great Hall for the one-act play.

Additional English Department coffee hours will come monthly through May. Scheduled for Dec. 15 is an account of the Oberammagau passion play by Mrs. Virginia McCutchan.

Pumas Purred A Little Loud In Aces Loss

Coach Paul Beck's grid Aces closed out the season on a rather dismal note as they were stopped in their annual Homecoming game by St. Joseph, 14-7.

This loss knocked the Aces out of any chance for the ICC title and gave Butler undisputed possession of the crown. Evansville led the conference right up until the last week and then blew it trying to coast in.

For a while it looked like the Aces might make it a run-away as they recovered a St. Joe fumble early and then scored after three plays. Dave Koehler, junior fullback, made the big play as he carried the ball in from the 12. Larry Duncan, junior end, converted for the extra point.

St. Joe didn't score until very late in the third quarter when halfback George Connolly went over from the 2-yard line.

And so ends another average football season at Evansville College with the same old hard defensive play and the same "old" get-nowhere offense which is sort of out of date in the modern football world. While on the subject of defense, how can you call a team good defensive team if they are outscored by their opponents by 16 points for the overall season. And some people ask why no one comes to the Evansville College football games anymore.

Sports Spotlight

By Temme Patterson

It took the best game St. Joe had played all year to do it, but the Aces blew their chances of a tie for the ICC crown in Homecoming Saturday. So once again, for the third year in a row, the powerful Butler Bulldogs have grabbed the ICC football throne without much opposition from anyone. Butler used to rule the conference in both football and basketball but Evansville has given the Indianapolis boys fits on the roundball court for the past several years. Just give us another season or so and the Aces will give them a little more trouble on the gridiron.

Evansville has its entire backfield returning with the exception of quarterback Rich Seib. Replacing Seib as the field general will either be Quentin Merkel or Phil Aramowicz, both sophomores. At halfbacks we will have Bud Garland, Ron Magness, Don LeDuc, Gene Lutterbach, and Delbert Pace, all of whom saw a great deal of front-line action this year. The same situation exists at the fullback spot where Coach Paul Beck will have John Titzer, Dave Koehler, and Joe Rohleder to work from. Beck will have John Meredith, Ron Tepool, and field goal and extra point man Larry Duncan as returnees in the forward wall. Eight Aces saw their last college action Saturday, including Seib, Joe Brent, Willie Brimm, Jon Dekker, Carl Horn, Dwigbt Tapley, Bill White, and Wil Weinzapfel.

GOOD SEASON

The Aces actually bad a good season, compiling a well-deserved 5-3 record, 4-2 in conference play. The main trouble witb this Evansville team was the lack of offensive power. They just didn't have wbat it takes to really explode when the chips were down. It seemed like every series went off-tackle, off-guard, incomplete pass, and punt. Off-tackle, off-guard, incomplete pass, and punt. Our passing attack, to say the least, "stunk," and that nullified a better-than-average ground game. The Aces had all the credentials of a good kicker in Duncan who won several games with his toe. But we lacked that one big series of explosive football that is so much needed in college football today. All in all it was a good season for our Aces who finished second in the ICC and gave us fans a great deal of excitement as they battled right down to the wire for the title. All Evansville fans will be looking forward to seeing the Aces play again next season.

Butler Scores Third Straight

Butler's Bulldogs again iced up the ICC title for the third year in a row by downing DePauw 13-6. This victory coupled with St. Joseph's 14-7 upset victory over the Evansville College Purple Aces gave the Bulldogs the title.

Had Evansville won, Butler and the Aces would have ended the season in a tie for first place.

Butler closed out the season with a 5-1 record and the purple and white ended up with a 4-2 record.

St. Joseph was the only team to stop the two front runners of the league. Earlier in the season they defeated Butler 24-6 and then last Saturday they stopped Evansville.

In other games around the league, Indiana State stopped Ball State in a high scoring contest, 26-23. In that game Wally Webb caught two touchdown passes, one covering 66 yards, to lead the Sycamores to victory.

Airmen, SAE, Battling Lambda Chi For Lead

The pace of the Evansville College Intramural League picked up this last week as the powerful ROTC team romped past the sixth place Dorm squad, 39-0, Monday. This was the fourth victory of the season for the Airmen. Their only loss was to the tough Lambda Chi team earlier in the season.

This last Wednesday SAE met the Raiders, an independent team made up predominantly of Lambda Chi pledges. Yesterday in the battle of the cellar dwellers the dorm met the TKE team.

Coming up next Monday, Nov. 14, will be a game between Sig Eps and the Raiders. And then Wednesday of next week the Lambda Chi's will meet their pledges as the front runners play the Raiders. ROTC will then meet Sig Ep's on Thursday.

The final game of the season puts the Lambda Chi's against the SAE's in one of the more traditional intramural games. This game could very well decide the outcome of the championship.

ROTC Students Visit Air Base

Twelve freshman and sophomore AFROTC boys visited Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina, Nov. 2-30. Purpose of the base visitation was to let the students view Air Force operation in action and to see what Air Force life is really like. This visit was part of a continuous program which has been set up in order to give all freshman and sophomore ROTC students a chance to visit an Air Force base.

The 12 boys who participated were Gregg Bailey, Maxie Hatcher, Harley Heim, Charles Lenfers, Dennis Meckert, Richard Mullins, Jerry Ritter, Steve Slaton, Roger Songer, Jimmy Stewart, Sammy Wallace, and Larry Williams. The group was under the student command of Harley Heim, sophomore.

While the students were on the base they were escorted on their visits by Lt. Dan Reeder. They were taken on a guided tour of the base during which time they saw static displays of F-101, "Voodoo," and B-66 aircrafts, and visited the Service Club, Officers Club, the Radar Approach Control Center, and a flight stimulator.

The students spent two hours talking to the pilot and crew and observed emergency air force training and flight training. The group traveled in an Air Force C-47 leaving from Dress Memorial Airport.

The next base visit will be to Elgin Air Force Base in Florida, April 4.

North Senior Wins Journalism Scholarship

Over 100 Tri-State students from 14 area schools attended Journalism Day Saturday at Evansville College.

The scholarship competition was won by Larry Stephenson, senior at North High School and second place winner was Connie Cassell, a Washington, Ind., High School senior. They both received certificates for $150 scholarships in journalism to Evansville College.

At the present time Larry is editor of the North Star and last year served as sports editor. Connie is makeup and copy editor of her high school paper. Both are members of Quill and Scroll, national high school journalism honorary fraternity.

The two top winners were chosen from 14 students competing for the scholarships. The scholarships were awarded on the basis of a news story written on a speech given Saturday morning by Wendell Phillippi, assistant managing editor of The Indianapolis News.

Alternate is Shirley Payne, senior at Lincoln High.

Frank Schultheis, president of Pi Delta Epsilon journalism fraternity, made the presentations.

The stories were judged by a committee headed by Paul Kinselle, English instructor at EC, and included Joe Aaron, Courier columnist; Miss Martha McKenna, Courier women's editor; Larry Pond, Crescent editor; and Dave Lucas, Crescent managing editor.

Two Grants Now Available For Senior Girls

Two national scholarships for college senior girls are offered for 1961-1962 by the Katherine Gibbs School. These awards were established in 1935 as a memorial to Mrs. Katherine M. Gibbs, founder and first president of the school.

Each scholarship consists of full tuition ($935) for the secretarial training course, plus an additional cash award of $500, totaling $1,435. The winners may select any one of the four Gibbs schools for their training, Boston, New York, Montclair, or Providence.

Winners are chosen by the scholarship committee on the basis of college academic record, personal and character qualifications, financial need, and potentialities for success in business.

Each college or university may recommend two candidates, and each candidate must have this official endorsement. Students who may be interested in competing for one of these Katherine Gibbs awards may obtain full information from the college placement bureau.

Registration Drawing To End

The student admissory phase for the preliminary registration period ends today, Registrar H. Owen Long reports. All members of the student body now on campus who have not yet taken advantage of this student admissory period are urged to do so.

Next registration period for students will be Thursday, Dec. 8. A late registration fee will apply at that time.

Students who have had their bills written at the business office but who have not yet paid should complete their registration by Monday, Dec. 5, to escape payment of the late registration fee.

To complete this phase of the registration procedure, students first come to the office of the registrar to pick up the packet of class cards off the counter to take to the business office. These class cards will be stamped "approved" when bills have been paid and will be retained by the student and presented to the class instructor at the first meeting of the winter quarter.

Do not lose these cards, the registrar cautions, as students will not be admitted to class without one.

UF Totals Show Increase Over Last Year

United Fund results for Evansville College have been released by Mr. Arthur Aarstad, head of the fund for this year.

Total for the entire campus was $3,220, which was more than the goal set for this year. This figure represents a 5 per cent increase over last year.

"The response was excellent," said Mr. Aarstad, "especially through the student body." The contest for the students helped very much in the raising of the money.

Mr. and Miss United Fund were Jim Sanders of Lambda Chi Alpha with $76, and Mary Ann Stahlberg of Phi Mu with $265.

Journalism Day Was Ok But We Were Left Out

Journalism Day was held last Saturday on the Evansville College campus and for all concerned, it was a large success. Approximately 125 bigh school students from Evansville and the surrounding area were on hand to bear guest speaker Wendell Phillippi deliver his speecb on some of the problems facing journalists today.

The forums whicb followed were conducted by members of the Evansville Courier staff. For anyone with any interest at all in the field of journalism, it was a very worthwhile afternoon.

Now then, there was just one item whicb may seem minute to others, but definitely disturbed the Crescent editors and its staff. The day's festivities were co-sponsored by the Courier and the Crescent, but not once did the Crescent or any membres of its staff receive any bit of recognition during speeches, or in the Courier itself.

Evansville College President, Dr. Melvin Hyde spoke at the noon luncheon and introduced members of the Courier staff, bad representatives from each high school stand for applause, and introduced the sponsors from each school. The only group at the luncheon which was not introduced were the Crescent editors and staff, and the LinC editors. All were seated togetber at one large table.

Not until I became editor of the Crescent did I realize that "thank you" was a bad word on the EC campus. No matter how mucb publicity we give to a certain individual or group, tbose two words were never uttered. Ob yes, last week we did get a thank you note from Don Widick who heads Alumni affairs at EC. He did tbank us for our promotion on the 1960 Homecoming.

Now once or twice we would run out of space and were forced to leave out a story or two. This was when we heard the people scream. During the past quarter the Crescent ran either 4 or 6 pages, depending on bow much news was at band. Not everything brought into the office were we able to print. Therefore, we printed what we thought would interest the majority of our readers, namely the students.

I hope that no one ever underestimates the power of a newspaper, any newspaper. I bave seen college newspapers literally rip apart a coach, a faculty, or the school itself. This has never, to our knowledge, been a policy of the Crescent. As many times as the members of our faculty and administration have insulted us, it is a wonder that this sort of thing has not occurred. Don't ever take us for granted.

Back to Journalism Day, just a big "thanks" to the members of the Crescent staff for the fine job they did even though some people didn't notice them.

Maintence Dept. Busy

It's Tree Feeding Time

Have you noticed the Evansville College Maintenance Department's tractor with the electric drill attachment boring holes in the ground around the trees on the campus? This is one vital service in the everyday routine of the maintenance men who try to keep Evansville College operating smoothly and efficiently.

Mr. A. C. Biggs, superintendent of buildings and Grounds and bead of the Maintenance Department, reports that the men using the drill are in the process of feeding all the trees on the campus. Holes are bored from 12 to 15 inches deep about every 2 feet from the outside drip area of the tree in toward the trunk. About three-quarters of the distance to the trunk is bored.

Tree fertilizer is then placed in the holes to feed the tree. The trees are fed once every two years.

Mr. Biggs thinks that the tractor and drill outfit that EC has is the oaly one in existance. The drill is powered by a generator on the front of the tractor and is mounted on the hydraulic lift for ease of operation.

The Maintenance Department has a staff of 30 men including 17 custodians, 3 matrons, 2 painters, a carpenter, truck driver, electrician and plumber.

The efforts of the department to keep the college adequately heated should be commended by the faculty and students alike. The central heating unit is located in the Maintenance Building. This unit consists of oil-fired boilers that supply steam heat to every building on the campus with the exception of the president's home and the Administration Building Annex.

Mr. Biggs said that the department has just about completed cleaning and painting the boiler room. The steam pipes, city water, boiler feed water, and gas lines are painted individual colors. The rest of the heating equipment has also been painted. The department keeps the boiler room as clean as the Union lounge.

The Maintenance Department is doing a fine job keeping the college beautiful, clean, and warm. These are just a few of the many daily jobs that the department does.

The Crescent salutes the men of the department for the invaluable service they render to the college.

To The Editor

To the Editor:

Congratulations to all the organizations for their excellent homecoming house displays. The displays this year were colorful, elaborate, and undoubtedly the best in the school's history, but if we look beyond the crepe paper and chicken wire we will find a great injustice.

Rules are made to be followed. If this is true, some of the winning organizations are not deserving of their laurels. For instance, it was definitely stated that an organization should not exceed $75 on the basic matcrials: wood, crepe paper, paint, etc. But one organization built an elaborate display requiring almost a lawn full of crepe paper (bave you priced crepe paper lately?) and definitely exceeded the $75 limit, in fact, tbey admitted it. Why weren't they penalized?

Another injustice was in tbe originality of the displays. Very few of the organizations bad original ideas. One organization had a corral theme whicb was used on our campus a couple of years ago and was duplicated by another organization only a couple blocks away. Originality counted 25 percent in the judging. The wishing well tbeme was more successful this year tban it was a few years ago. The train theme is almost as old as the school itself.

Still another injustice was the personnel who did the work on these displays. One organization's display was designed and planned by a father while many of the other organizations were fortunate to have fathers who would donate their professional skills. Next year a trophy should be awarded to the father with the greatest contribution to the display.

I could go on and on pointing out the injustices in this year's awarding of the homecoming house display trophies. Too many important factors were overlooked and too many rules were violated. The rules must be enforced or they will become as useful as one person playing ping pong. In all fairness, the expenses of the organizations should be publicly posted. The rating of the judges in Vocal Varieties are posted on the Union bulletin board. Why not post judging of the Homecoming House Displays?

Sincerely
Joe Greek

Points To Ponder

Cicero:

The whole of virtue consists in its practice.

The garden needs a frost. I wish we would have a good frost, though here are those who look at me in horror when I say so. I am expected to brag about tomatoes I still have ripening. Actually, we have ripened plenty for this year. I am willing to call it quits and wait for next May and brand-new tomato plants.

No garden should endure, with all its dividends and demands, more than about six months a year. The other six one should be allowed to rest and dream and yearn and get rid of the calluses. Six months, as it were, to appreciate. Let those who make green tomato pickle have those green tomatoes! The sweet corn stands sere and stripped. The squash are ready to quit. So am I. I want to put away the hoe, the duster and the cultivator. Let it frost!

Florida State Revises Their Honor System

A double move by the College of Arts and Sciences and the Faculty Senate at Florida State University has resulted in a plan to completely revise the Honors Program on this campus, both on the lower levels and in the upper class division.

According to Dr. Laurence Chalmers, a psychology professor, refuted the widespread rumor that enrollment in honors courses would jeopardize a student's grades, usually are assigned in recognition of outstanding work by outstanding students."

Dr. Chalmers stated that students sometimes mistakenly think honors sections must be graded on a competitive curve, thereby failing a specified number of honors students regardless of actual achievement.

Minimum grade requirements for the new program in the upperclass section of Arts and Sciences are a 3.2 overall grade or a 3.5 average in the field in which honors work is desired, provided the student has a 3.0 overall average.

Try Outs For Eager Heart Set

Tryouts for the traditional Christmas play "Eager Heart" will be Monday Nov. 21, 7:00 pm in the Fine Arts building.

This Christmas play has been a part of The College Theatre for 34 years. Eager Heart was written in 1918 by A. M. Bukton, a British playwright. It is based on the pattern of a medieval mystery play. The scrip for the play consists of poetry of the common man.

Parts in the play are given on a four year basis. The actor holas his original part throughout his term in college; therefore, the cast remains virtually the same except for the filling of vacancies of graduating seniors.

Speech Pathologist Wanted

Wanted—one speech pathologist.

Place — Psycho - Educational Clinic in the office building.

Duties — perform diagnostic studies in the area of speech and supervise therapy.

According to Dr. Gordon Rettke, psychologist-director of the Psycho-Educational Clinic, the above is an indication of what the clinic needs to fulfill its service function.

Besides speech-therapies, the clinic also works with those who have educational or psychological problems. The most frequent educational problem found among children and adults is that of disability in reading and spelling. Emotional problems that are nonmedical are the kind that are dealt with in the clinic.

A prerequisite to clinical treatment is usually a thorough evaluation by Dr. Rettke or by his assistant, Wayne Edwards. Usually this evaluation, along with the psychologist's report and his recommendations, will be enough to help the problem. Clinical treatment, however, may be included in the recommendations.

The clinical treatment given to any client is determined by the results of a clinical evaluation and also of the results of observing the person during therapy. In most cases, the individual's needs can be met by the treatment facilities at the clinic. However, if they cannot, the client will be referred to other agencies outside of the clinic.

Facilities for the treatment of psychological, educational, and speech problems are included at the clinic.

Psychological therapy usually takes the form of therapeutic counseling for adolescents and adults. It takes the form of therapeutic play in conjunction with parental consultations for children.

Educational and speech therapy take the form of individual or small group therapeutic instruction. Disorders of articulation, phonation, rhythm, and language development are the concern of speech therapy. Educational therapy concerns itself with disabilities in reading, spelling and arithmetic.

Treatment of these various problems requires meetings with the particular specialist for the particular problem. These meetings usually are held two or three times a week; a minimum of about thirty is usually recommended.

However, in severe cases, clinical treatment may be required for an indefinite period. The clinic is a community service which is operated on a fee basis.

One of the major purposes of the Psycho-Educational Clinic on campus is to provide the education and training of college students in the various professional areas such as psychology, remedial educatioo, and speech correction. It also serves as aо invaluable laboratory for research and for observational experiences which are oecessary to any classroom teacher or guidance worker. The rcal value in this sort of training, Dr. Rettke points out, comes when a graduate program is offered on campus.

Sports Spotlight

By Temme Patterson

If anyone was watching that witty little machine called the television last Sunday and had it tuned in for he Baltimore-Chicago game (which by the way was on two stations) they saw one of the greatest football games in pro history. Let me give you an exciting little recap of what happened. Chicago bad just kicked a field goal with 1:37 left in the game to take a 20-17 lead. After the kick-off Baltimore's all-pro quarterback Johnny Unitas started the drive with some of his fabulous passing. He hit Lenny Moore and Ray Berry with 14-yard strikes to move the ball to the Chicago 34. But there the Colts' drive stalled and set up a third-down siuaion with 47 seconds remaining in the contest. On the next play the entire Bear line came in on Unitas to throw him back to the Chicago 39. With 24 seconds left in the game the Colts called a time out to help Unitas off the field. (Later the great quarterback had to bave seven stitches taken in four different places in his face where the Bears had stepped on him.) After the trainer hurridly taped up some of the wounds on Unitas' face he came back into the game. Of course the logical thing to to at this point is to kick a field goal to try to tie the game which would have been a great feat at that. They had a fourth-and-fourteen situation, and if Unitas cannot connect at this point the whole cause is lost. So what does Unitas do, kick a field goal? No, be goes back gives two quick fakes and throws a perfect strike to end Lenny Moore who is racing madly into the endzone. Colts win 24-20. When the play is over there are 17 seconds left on the clock.

Now after that exciting little episode let's go back and see what would have happened if the pass would have been incomplete. First of all the Colts would have lost the ball, the game, the league, and their chances of a third straight world championship. Any other team in the league would have kicked a field goal to tie the game. But not Unitas. He has to go for everything or nothing, and the amazing thing is that he has done this time and time again. He has thrown touchdown passes in his last forty-five games for an all-time pro record surpassing such great quarterbacks as Otto Graham, Bobby Lane, Sid Luckman, Sammy Baugh, and anyone else you can name. He has proved week after week for the past three years that he is no doubt the greatest quarterback in pro history and he has plenty of playing years left.

Five Lettermen Are Returning

Evansville College basketball coach Arad McCutchan bas bad some good material to work with this year. McCutchan has five seniors and a number of promising sophomores to work with. They are as follows:

DALE WISE was one of the top rebounders in the Mid-West last season. The 6-4 senior grabbed off 496 rebounds. He also scored 459 points for a 15.8 scoring average. big man from Kokomo has been a starter for the Aces. Dale was named to many "All" teams last season, including the All-ICC team. He also took part in the Olympic tryouts.

WALTER DEAL — Walt, a 6-6, 210-pound man from Owensville, will be holding down the starting center position. He was the sixth man on last year's squad. The big senior had several good nights last season and on one occasion scored well in the 20-point column.

JIM NOSSETT — Jim is the third senior on the front line. He stands 6-4 and plays at the forward position. He hails from Princeton, where he was one of the most sought after high school players in Southern Indiana. Jim uses a one-handed push shot.

P. M. SANDERS — P. M. is a 6-0 floor general from Petersburg. He was a starter on last year's squad as a junior. P. M. is one of the best jumpers on the team; he bas no trouble at all slamming the ball through the goal. He will remind many Evansville fans of Harold Cox, one of the better guards in the Aces' history.

TOM HAMILTON — Tom is the fiftb senior on this year's team. He is a 6-1 guard from Evansville Mater Dei. He was not a starter on last year's squad but he still saw a great deal of action. Tom is a fast-breaking type of player who is also excellent on defense.

MARVIN PRUETT — Marv heads the crop of fine sophomores. He is a 6-2 guard from Springs Valley, where he was an outstanding performer. He has a great outside shot.

PAUL UTLEY — Paul hails from Evansville Bosse, where he was a member of the Bulldogs Sectional Championship team two years ago. The 5-11 guard is McCutchan's type of "go-go" ballplayer. He was Pruett's running mate in the backcourt on last year's fine freshman team.

OAVE FULKERSON — Dave is a 6-5 sophomore from Wabash. He was the starting center on the freshman team last year. A strong rebounder, he will see quite a bit of action for the Aces this year.

MARTY HERTHEL — Marty is another strong sophomore rebounder. He stands 6-4 and was a starter at one of the forward positions on last year's freshman team. He will also see some action in varsity competition this year.

ED ROLEN — Ed is a 6-4 front-line man from Ft. Branch, Indiana. He saw quite a bit of action on the freshman team last year.

LYNN MAUTZ — Lynn is a 5-10 guard from Chicago. He is another fastbreak type of player.

WALT HENRY — Walt is rugged 6-3 forward from Evansville Central. He was a starting forward on last year's freshman squad and in quite a few games took the role of leading scorer. However, Walt was injured in early season practice and it is very doubtful if he will get to see much action this year.

Aces Ready To Take Early Western Tour

After opening the season against Wheaton and Iowa at Roberts Municipal Stadium, Evansville College's Purple Aces will head west on a three-game tour. They will meet Notre Dame, Utah, and Los Angeles, all on their home floors.

Before the trip, they will play Wheaton, December 1. This is the first game of the season. On December 3, the Aces play the University of Iowa. In the Aces' game last year with the Hawkeyes, Evansville led the entire game but then blew it in the last few minutes of play. Iowa, which is coached by Sharm Scheuerman, finished last season with a 14-10 record. They are led by 6-6 Don Nelson, who finished last season with a 16-point scoring average.

The Aces' first road game will be Dec. 5, when they go to South Bend to play the Irish of Notre Dame. The South Bend boys finished last season with a 17-9 record and one of those defeats was at the hands of the Purple and White. They are coached by John Jordan.

On Dec. 7 the Aces make a big jump to the University of Utah. The Redskins, coached by Jack Gardner, are rated in the top ten on many pre-season reports. They had an impressive 26-3 record last season and one of their victories was over Ohio State, the NCAA champion. They are paced by their 6-9 center, Billy McGill, who averaged 15 points a game last year.

Dec. 10 the Aces move into Los Angeles to meet L. A. State. The Diablos play a wide-open type of basketball with no emphasis on defense. Last season they averaged 93 points a game but their opponents averaged 88 per outing. All five starters, who are returning, averaged in double figures. Guard Leo Hill had an 18.9 average and center Bill Heynen had a 19-point average. Heynen is only 6-3, which is very short for a college center.

The Aces will return home Dec. 15 to play another western foe in the Gaels of St. Marys. The Gaels, who finished last season with a 15-11 record, are paced by 6-6 Tom Meschery, who averaged 16 points a game. They play a ball control type of game.

EC Purchases Apts. For Student Housing

Temporary Housing Will Be Razed

All the temporary housing at Evansville College is to come down.

Since the purchase of the College Court Apartments and because of the coming construction of a fine arts building, the 26 apartments in "tin city are to be razed.

President Melvin W. Hyde, after the acquistion November 17 of the brick apartment buildings at the corner of Walnut and Weinbach, told the faculty that this "probably means that within the year we will take up all of our temporary housing."

Dates for removing the huts are not available. Details hinge on the start of construction of the fine arts building that is to be on the western edge of the campus.

Developments, although not yet announced by the College, are likely to follow this order:

1. Taking over the College Court Apartments on April 1;
2. Razing of at least some of the temporary housing to make room for construction;
3. Starting the fine arts building;
4. Making available to married ried students and families part of the College Court Apartments.

The four new apartment buildings, located diagonally across from the northeast corner of Hughes Hall, contain 13 apartments each.

Present plans, Business Manager Ralph Olmsted says, are to use one building each for single men and single women of sophomore, junior or senior status and to use the other two units for families.

He notes that no remodeling will be done and only little renovation will be necessary for the apartments to be placed in use by the start of the 1961-62 school year.

Dr. Robert Thompson, dean of students, says the upperclassmen placed in the apartments will have strict supervision by a house counselor but because of the nature of the apartment-style building will have some freedom.

The new property, located on more than 2 acres of land fronting the southeast corner of Weinbach and Walnut, was purchased for $220,000 from the Federal Housing Administration. The F. H. A. had taken over title in February from Walnut Apartments, Inc.

EC Considers Building Names

Names of the four College Court Apartment buildings are likely to be changed as Evansville College prepares to assume ownership April 1.

Proposed names are being considered now by the Board of Trustees, it has been disclosed by Robert R. Rowland, assistant to the president in charge of public relations and development.

The 52 apartments promise to be attractive housing for married students and upperclass single men and women who are scheduled to occupy them by September.

In each building are nine that consist of two bedrooms, a living room, dining room, kitchen and bath. There are also four with one bedroom and the other accommodations.

In the single-student apartments "they will be quartered on a group basis," says Ralph Olmsted, business manager. "Five men students or so will live together in one apartment, cooking and sharing the jobs." The same would apply to single women students.

A Christmas Message

As we grow older some of the surface excitement of Christmas seems to wear off, but deep within is a profound joy as once again we realize what is the "breadth and length and height and depth" of God's love. He sent us Light. He sent us One to guide our steps into the way of peace. But it would seem we have loved the darkness rather than the Light.

Our world at this Christmas time 1960 is in need of light. The path before us is sometimes dim and uncertain. The Communists continue to drive toward their goal with complete and reckless commitment. Could reckless commitment to the One who came to guide our feet into the way of peace, to the One who is the Light of the world, bring us the answer to our confusion, our uncertainty, our darkness? Would He really guide us into ways of peace if we gave Him the same loyalty a Communist gives his faith? Would we dare to risk it? These are questions to ponder this Christmas season as we sing about the Prince of Peace.

"I am watching a man make holes in the darkness!" said the small boy, Robert Louis Stevenson, as he watched the lamplighter go up and down the city streets at dusk lighting the lamps. Each of us is only one in a vast world of human beings, but it is encouraging and challenging to recall that time and again individuals and small dedicated groups have changed history. Perhaps the best possible celebration of Christ's birthday this year would be our gift of reckless commitment that, like the lamplighter, we may make "holes in the darkness" of the world.

Our Christmas prayer for all of our Evansville College family and for ourselves is found in the first chapter of Ephesians — Phillips translation — "That God, the God of our Lord Jesus Christ and the all-glorious Father, will give us spiritual wisdom and the insight to know more of Him: that we may receive that inner illumination of the spirit which will make us realize how great is the hope to which He is calling us — the magnificence and splendor of the inheritance promised to Christians — and how tremendous is the power available to us who believe in God."

Melvin W. Hyde

Rudy Donaldson Killed In Auto Accident

Freshman Enrolled In Pre-Law

Robert Donaldson, a freshman at Evansville College, died early Saturday morning in Deaconess Hospital of injuries received when the car in which he was riding with two other boys hit a utility pole on Old State Road, just north of Evergreen Road.

Donaldson was employed at McOonald's drive-in restaurant on Highway 41 South along with Frederick Hisgen Jr. who also was killed in the accident and William Robert Hall who died Tuesday at Oeaconess. Robert (Rudy) was a pre-law student at EC. He was a graduate of Bosse High School and Oexter Grade School and attended the Methodist Temple.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Donaldson, Rudy is survived by a brother, Richard, at home and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Oonaldson, Unionville, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fox, Centerville, Ia.

Funeral services were Monday at Lowe Funeral Home with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery. The Rev. Dr. Guy O. Carpenter officiated.

Thurneck Gets Bars At AFROTC Drill

An estimated 280 prospective Second Lieutenants of Evansville College's Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps and members of the Angel Flight watched last Friday morning as William J. Thurneck received his Second Lieutenant bars from Major Victor Sinclair.

Commissioned in the Armory during the regular drill period of the AFROTC, Lt. Thurneck gave his oath of acceptance before the entire group of cadets under the command of Marvin Heininger, the new cadet colonel, and members of Angel Flight, the honorary organization for girls associated with AFROTC. Major Sinclair, head of the program at EC, read a letter addressed to Lt. Thurneck from General William J. Bell, commandant of AFROTC, congratulating him upon his commission.

Present to help put the bars on his uniform was Lt. Thurneck's wife.

Graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering at the end of the fall quarter, Lt. Thurneck played baseball and basketball for three years at Evansville College.

He is assigned to the First Missile Division at Vanderburg Air Force Base in California.

Major Victor Sinclair smiles his approval as T/Sgt. Frank C. Emery, center, accepts a dollar from newly commissioned 2nd Lt. William Thurneck, right. According to Air Force tradition, the first sergeant who salutes a new officer receives a dollar from that officer.

We shall attempt to present intellectual sustenance via this column.

This column exists to bring you objective observations of the local scene and pressures that affect it, along with occasional personal comment. This is not the be all and end all. We are no more qualified to render an opinion than anyone else; we just have the opportunity to put the opinion in print.

Mort Sahl will play the part of a TV writer on the television show "Thriller" over NBC-TV, Tuesday, Dec. 20.

"The Coming of Christ" will be presented on the NBC-TV "Project 20" series Wednesday, Dec. 21. The program, which will be in color, is to present the work of Flemish, German, French, Spanish, Italian and Dutch painters. The story of Jesus will be shown through the paintings of artists. No action, great art.

There will be broader coverage of shows, drama, art, literature, radio and television in the future. Also, guest writers will contribute to the column from time to time.

"Eager Heart," a play by A. M. Buckton, was presented Sunday in the Administration Building Auditorium.

It has become passe to be emotionally involved in anything so "minor" as a college play, but a bewhiskered shepherd and the College Choir combined to stimulate and thrill the audience. They did this in spite of our sophistication. They also did it in spite of the scarred stage floor and apron and patched backdrop.

In the future we shall attempt to discuss how much should be excused in the name of amateur. It is difficult to compare college performances with professional groups, but where is the line drawn?

The presentation of "Eager Heart" was adequate.

The Evansville College Choir is under-rated or not even rated at all locally. They gave an outstanding performance at the auditorium in providing background for the play. Disa grandiflora to the choir.

Disa grandiflora to the basketball team for returning.

Alumni Assn. Seeks Help In Keeping Lists Up To Date

With the Christmas season comes the inevitable scramble for addresses — until then neglected for the most part but then becoming urgent need for use on greeting cards.

No family ever approached this problem with as much need as the Alumni Association of Evansville College does with its search for almost 25,000 addresses.

For the association's office in the Union this is an ever-increasing search, too, for each year as many as 300 to 400 graduates and non-graduating former students are added to the list.

Compounding the troubles are the alumni who move or get married. This means changes in address or changes in name, and few are those who thoughtfully notify the alumni office.

An example. Mary Coed of Evansville marries Joe Greek who has accepted a job with the State Department in Venezuela. They inform their parents, friends and Internal Revenue Department. But do they let the alumni office know? No.

Alumni Association Director Don Widick and his secretary, Mrs. Lucy Sexton, have their problems with this situation:

1. Alumni news mailed to the two graduates is returned, "Address unknown;"
2. Attempts to trace Mrs. Joe Greek are stymied for lack of change in name;
3. Both become part of the alumni-lost;
4. To most classmates these two are as dead as one name among 21,000 unknowns buried in Soldier's Field.

The alumni office has addresses of 7,000 among the 25,000 who can be considered EC alumni as a result of graduation or attending the college at least two quarters.

Over a year's period. Widick finds, 25 per cent of these addresses will change. Some changes will never be made in the mailing list for lack of information.

"Mrs. Sexton spends about half of her time with changes of address," the director explains. "She must destroy the old plate, make a new one, and re-file it in the mailing lists." To handle almost 2,000 a year takes time.

Alumni office mailings are big business. This year will see the following sent out: Homecoming flier; four issues of the Alumnus magazine in November, February, May and August; the Christmas message from President Hyde; two notices about the spring reunion and picnic; three Alumni Fund letters; and eight separate alumni chapter notices.

In all — 77,000 mailings a year!

The office is not yelling "Help!" but does need the help of all students, later to be alumni, in keeping their addresses current.

Architects, College Approve Plans For Two Buildings

Plans for the fine arts and physical education buildings were advanced in a day-long meeting December 7 when the College's architects met with President Hyde, Mr. Ralph Olmstead, business manager, and other staff members.

Approval was given to the floor plans which have been worked out over a period of several months. After decisions are reached on a number of questions concerning materials to be used, the architects will begin the production of the working drawing and the specifications.

Representing the firm of McGuire and Shook, Compton, Richey and Associates were Mr. Gilbert Richey, Mr. George West, and Mr. Orval Williamson.

Mr. G. C. Savage of Bevington, Taggart and Fowler, mechanical engineers, also participated.

As shown in the campus model in the lobby of the Union, the fine arts building will face Rotherwood Ave. between the president's house and Moore Hall. The physical education building will face south on Walnut Street.

Fifteen Newly Pledged To Air Officer Affiliate

Peggy Langhorst
Crescent Staff Writer

What is Angel Flight?

Although this organization has been on the Evansville College campus for several years many students, especially the incoming freshmen each year, do not know what it is or who may belong to Angel Flight.

Angel Flight is an honorary women's organization affiliated with the Arnold Air Society of Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps with its members chosen from the Independents and each sorority. The group was formed at EC in the spring of 1957. One girl from each organization met together and formed its working charter. After the charter was formed, the first members were chosen by the members of Arnold Air Society from several candidates gathered by each group. Today, the new pledges are still chosen in this manner.

From the constitution of Angel Flight, its purposes are stated "to promote better relations among the corps of cadets at Evansville College, to advance and promote interest in the Air Force, to act as official hostesses for the AFROTC at Evansville College, to aid in social activities of the corps of cadets and to serve as a campus service organization when called upon to do so." Included also in the duties of Angel Flight is to help with planning the annual Military Ball with the queen chosen from the eligible Angel Flight members.

Angel Flight is a national organization with official uniforms. New uniforms are being planned for this year, white blouses and navy blue skirts and blazers furnished by the Arnold Air Society.

Head officers of the Angel Flight are Nancy Williams, commander; Sandy Cooper, deputy commander; Bonnie Riney, secretary; Barbara Nunn, treasurer; and Suzanne Greinke, information service officer.

Captain William G. Waters is the Arnold Air Society faculty adviser and Lt. Col. Ron TenBarge is the cadet adviser.

EC Faculty Guests At Maxwell AFB

Eleven Evansville College faculty members were the guests of the United States Air Force and General William J. Bell, Commandant of AFROTC, at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., Dec. 4-9.

The faculty members, Dean Edgar M. McKown, Dr. Wade D. David, Dr. Earl M. Tapley, Dr. Philip Kinsey, Dr. Virgil Logan, Mr. Clarence W. Buesking, Mr. Sam Smiley, Mr. Arthur J. Wardelman, Mr. William O. Hartsaw, Mr. Robert F. Martin, and Major Victor P. Sinclair, were flown to and from the base in an Air Force plane.

Major Sinclair, host to the group along with General Bell, said that the purpose of the trip was to present a briefing on the mission and educational system of the Air University and AFRDTC, to improve the relationship between the college and the Air Force, and to exchange ideas of mutual interest between the two groups.

As personal guests of General Bell and Major Sinclair, the group toured the Air Force base and nearby Montgomery, Ala. They received their briefings and were entertained at a dinner Monday night, Dec. 5, given by General Bell for the Evansville College guests and the general's personal staff.

Major Sinclair said that he thought the trip was extremely worthwhile from the standpoint of gaining an understanding of the mission of the Air University and AFROTC and bringing AFRDTC and the college into a closer academic relationship.

Dean McKown commended the Air Force for its hospitality. He said that the EC AFRDTC detachment was highly praised by General Bell because this college's program costs the government about $1000 less than the national average for training a cadet officer. He also said that it was interesting to note that in peacetime every Air Force officer is either teaching or being taught.

Dr. Tapley said that the AFRDTC instructors are thoroughly trained before coming to this campus. He commented that the trip provided for better understanding of AFROTC objectives and gave an insight into the plans for future development of the program.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

During the Quarter break I had the good fortune to spend an evening at the Playboy Key Club in Chicago. I went with some fraternity brothers to see our national headquarters in nearby Evanston.

While making the nightclub circuit, we ran across an alum who was gracious enough to invite us to join he and his wife at the Playboy Club. Away we went for an evening's fun, free (the latter was real gracious). We saw the almost-clad bunny girls, sat in the plus but casual atmosphere of couches and coffee tables, and saw the best in entertainment.

Perhaps such riotous living is the beginning of American decadence that will eventually result in our downfall just as it did in ancient Rome. What a way to go.

SOOTHSAYING: What a man doesn't know makes bim stupid—Hauswald.

The national ranking we receive in basketball is good, but most schools consider it equally important to win their conference. No, I don't mean the conference basketball title. I'm talking about the conference All-Sports Trophy. Although EC finished 1st in basketball, and 2nd in football in 1959-60, we came in close to the bottom in All-Sports competition. The year before was almost the same story, only we finished farther back.

Besides the above mentioned sports, the ICC offers competition in baseball, cross-country, golf, track, tennis and wrestling. EC's baseball, golf and tennis teams are the laugh of the conference, and we don't even compete in the rest. Dh well, I guess it's not who wins but how you play the game that counts . . . that is if you bother to play.

As you all are well aware of, Peter Lawford is a brother-in-law to President-Elect Kennedy. Someone has suggested that because of this relationship Kennedy might make ambassadors of Sinatra's clan. The only problem it seems is whether to send Sammy Davis Jr. to Israel or the Congo.

Ever stop to think of the difference a few feet and a couple of doors can make? I didn't either until I head about the sorority suites in Moore Hall. If you were to visit the recreation room most any night of the week you would find a large mixed group of students. If you spend the whole evening there you might see something resembling a chaperon, but not very often if at all. Now if you happen to be of the male sex, and wish to walk a few steps through a couple of doors into your date's sorority suite, you are prohibited being there unless a chaperon is in the room. No, they aren't bedrooms, but graciously appointed living and study type rooms, for which the girls of each sorority pay $900 per year, unfurnished. I can't quite grasp a reason for this situation, but something seems a little odd.

Crescent Looks For More Writers To Augment Staff

More staff writers will be used to help publish the Crescent, according to EC's journalism adviser, Walter Stewart.

As the new quarter starts the Crescent staff is being revamped. In place of Larry Pond, who resigned as editor, Noel L. Patton, senior, who has experience with The Evansville Press, is acting editor.

Judi Kavanaugh is being changed from business manager to advertising manager. Taking her former job will be Mike Fulkerson. No one has been selected yet to succeed Dave Lucas, fall quarter managing editor.

New appointments of editors, business and advertising managers are subject to approval by the Publications Committee.

"Students with or without college newspaper experience may apply," Stewart said. "We need more reporters on the staff, and at the same time we know those joining us will get valuable experience."

when that great ship went down and the last thing to leave the sinking ship was a bottle of Coca-Cola. That's because all hands stuck to Coke to the end. Now there's popularity! That's the kind of loyalty the sparkling lift, the good taste of Coke engenders. Man the lifeboats, have a Coke!

Sports Spotlight

By Temme Patterson

The old saying of, "Go West Young Man," has its flaws, as Coach McCutchan and his Aces know all too well. No matter how badly Evansville was beaten on the trip west it was good experience. And though it may have hurt our NCAA championship pride for the time being, "experience is the best teacher."

Playing against the top teams in the country, especially on the road, will make it a great deal easier when Evansville runs into the ICC squads. Butler is the only ICC team that has undertaken such a schedule as our Aces. The Indianapolis quintet usually play about seven or eight of the Big Ten teams each year which makes Tony Hinkle's crew well experienced by the time they run into the Aces in conference play in January.

Butler has beaten Michigan and Wisconsin this season while losing to a tough Illinois club in the Bulldogs' first three Big Ten outings.

WHAT COULD BE WORSE

After watching that Notre Dame bunch on TV I didn't think anything could have been worse. Johnny Jordan didn't seem as though he wanted his boys to really pour it on as he eased up the second half. But then came a Utah team that hadn't won a game but was rated among the top ten in the country before the season started. These fellows were really hungry for a win after licking their wounds of the first two losses to mediocre teams. After Billy (The Hill) McGill had led the Utes to a record breaking 74-43 first half lead I thought Dave Gardner, the Utah coach, would call his horses off, but here came McGill again in the second half, and there went our Aces down to a record breaking 132-77 defeat.

The worst Evansville loss previous to this was a 56-10 beating by Butler long long ago. It's pretty hard to buck a 60 per cent shooting average the Utah club had, and our 77 points will win quite a few games this season. This was a team that had been beaten two times by "slow-down" teams. In Evansville College they found a team that would run with them, and they beat us at our own game. The same situation happened on the coast last Saturday but Evansville gave a good showing as they were beaten 106-103 by a top-notch Los Angeles State club that was as fast as any team in the country. And anytime you can put a 7' 3" man in a running offense you've got to be real tough.

On a whole, the Aces gained a great deal of experience on their trip west that they could have never gotten playing small colleges.

"No, you can't have it" is the expression that Marv Pruett gives here as the sophomore Ace grabs a rebound against Wheaton.

Macmen Begin Title Defense Tomorrow Against Valparaiso

Evansville College's basketball team will open defense of the ICC crown tomorrow night, playing host to the Valparaiso Crusaders at Roberts Municipal Stadium.

The Crusaders are paced by junior guard Fran Clements. The 5-9 guard was the leading scorer on last year's team with a 15.2 average. Jim Zweifel, another letterman, probably will go at the other guard position. He averaged 9 points. The only returning frontline man is 6-4 Jim Lichtenberger.

Going at the center position will be big 6-8 Ralph Moellenhoff. Moellenhoff was the starting center for last year's freshman squad. Chuck Kriston, another sophomore, will probably be going at forward too. While playing on the freshman squad last year, the 6-2 sharpshooter set one scoring record.

Valparaiso already has one conference win under its belt as the Crusaders stopped St. Joseph, 76-71. Kriston was the leading scorer in that game with 20 points. Zweifel scored 19, Clements had 14, and Lichtenberger tallied 13.

Next Tuesday the Aces will continue in fast company as they host the Purdue Boilermakers.

Purdue, coached by Ray Eddy, is rated high in the Big Ten title race this year. The Boilermakers finished seventh last year with a 6-8 conference record.

Purdue is paced by Olympic star Terry Dischinger who stands 6-7. He started and was a leading scorer on the United States Olympic team this past summer. Besides being the seventh leading scorer in the nation last year with a 26-point average, he led the Big Ten. As a sophomore last season he was named to many All-American teams. Four other top scorers back from last year's team are Jerry Berkshire, Darrell McQuitty, Dick Mitchell and Bob Orrill.

Purdue has a 2-2 record and plays Washington State tomorrow night. Last Monday they stopped a highly regarded Detroit team 83-64. Dischinger tossed in 31.

One week after the Purdue game, the Aces host a holiday tourney. In the first game Evansville plays Penn State and in the second game Denver meets Los Angeles State. The following night the two losers meet in a consolation game and then the two winners will play for the championship.

Aces Hit By Big Guns On Western Journey

After an impressive 100-68 win over Wheaton in season opener, the Evansville Aces bit the dust four times in a row to some of the top college fives in the country.

Being installed as a one-point favorite over the Big Ten's Iowa Hakwkeyes was too much of a load for the Aces to carry as they were chased out of Robert's Stadium, 83-71, by the bigger Iowa club led by Don Nelson. The big Hawkeye center dropped in 33 points in a repeat performance that showed him single handedly whipping the Aces as he did last season when he pushed through 29 tallies to lead Iowa to a win over Ed Smallwood and his crew in the NCAA champs' opening game.

A Real Epidemic

Coach Arad McCutchan's squad then embarked on a one-way road trip as Evansville dropped three straight to Notre Dame, Utah, and Los Angeles State.

Notre Dame was out for revenge as the Aces whipped the Irish by five points in Evansville last season. With virtually the same squad back, Johnny Jordan's team rolled up a massive 50-22 halftime lead as the Aces had to shoot 14 times before hitting their first field goal. The Irish played the reserves the entire second half but still scored a lop-sided 83-68 victory.

Utah was next stop on the one-way road, as the Redskins hit 70 per cent of their shots as they marched to a ridiculous 132-77 win over the defenseless Aces. Billy McGill was all the Utes needed as he pushed in 33 points and accounted for 15 assists as he set up his teammates with full-court passes.

Finally Got Going

But the Utah game seemed to wake the listless Aces, as they were ready for a tough, fast Los Angeles team that had averaged over 100 points in its first three games. Although Mac's boys were stopped, 106-103, the Aces gave a good showing as they were in the game right down to the wire. Dale Wise, who dropped in 26 points, fouled out with four minutes left.

I HAVE ALWAYS HAD an abiding hatred for the bottom crust of rye bread. There is no particular reason for making this point, except that whenever I think of Fort Lauderdale, I think of rye bread. There is no particular reason for that either, but I have been thinking of Fort Lauderdale. Fort Lauderdale is "where the boys are." Right now, that is. Most of the time, serenity reigns in Fort Lauderdale. (The Chamber of Commerce will hate me, they say it never rains in Fort Lauderdale.) But, for two weeks, twenty thousand collegians descend on this peaceful community and take it apart, peace by peace. They call it Spring Vacation, but it's more like amateur night at Cape Canaveral. They capture Florida and throw the Keys away. But I shouldn't joke—not while people are holding mass prayer meetings for an early hurricane season.

This is "where the boys are." And girls, too. Such girls, it makes you dizzy to look at them. If you look long enough, you reach an advanced stage of dizziness called aphrodizzier. It's like being in love. That's what happened to me, and it will happen to you, too. Everywhere you turn — beaches full of them, motels and hotels full of them, cars full of them, pools full of them, bathing suits full of them. Ah, bathing suits . . . when the man said, "It's the little things in life that count," he must have been thinking of bathing suits. But mostly, it's the girls.

Girls in love, girls in trouble, bright girls with a future, not-so-bright girls with a past, rich girls in the lap of luxury, poor girls in any lap that'll have them, girls of every size and discretion. It isn't any wonder that this is "where the boys are." And the things that happen are wacky and wild and wicked and warmly wonderful "where the boys are." Someone should make a movie about it. Hey, someone did! M-G-M calls it "Where The Boys Are," starring Dolores Hart, George Hamilton, Yvette Mimieux, Jim Hutton, Barbara Nichols, Paula Prentiss, with Frank Gorshin and introducing popular recording star Connie Francis in her first screen role. You'll want to see all the things that happen "Where The Boys Are."

$12,500 Grant To Language Department

Prospects are for a new, modern language laboratory at Evansville College following the announcement last week of a grant from The Lilly Endowment, Inc.

Plans now are being made with the help of a technical advisor concerning the type of equipment, the floor plan and location for the lab.

The $12,500 grant from The Lilly Endowment Inc., which will underwrite most of the lab construction costs, was announced by the office of President Melvin W. Hyde.

New language listening and recording booths will replace the 35 language listening positions made by Dr. F. Woody Werking, head of the Department of Modern Languages, assisted by Prof. Charles Herndon, associate professor of engineering.

The present listening lab, designed by Dr. Werking, was donated by him to the college.

The department now offers day courses in French, German and Spanish. Prof. Werking and Mrs. Mary Werking, wife of the department head, carry the load of instruction of the approximately 156 daytime students of modern languages.

Evansville College also will offer a course in Beginning Russian the coming year. The catalog states that all students of modern languages must attend two lab sessions each week in addition to the three lecture periods.

In Community College this quarter Dr. Werking teaches second year Spanish, Dr. Mary Ellingson instructs in Latin, and Mrs. Genevieve Jain in second year French.

"Lilly Endowment is happy to be able to assist Evansville College with this project," comments Dr. Manning M. Pattillo, associate director.

Recent Remodeling Adds Space To Business Office

More convenient facilities for handling payment of student fees, as well as other business matters, are available now at the college's business office.

Two windows have been inserted into the hall wall so that students no longer need to crowd inside the business office. This allows additional floor space inside for the office staff.

"This is much more convenient for us," says Business Manager Ralph Olmstead, "and we think it will be much better as far as the students are concerned."

Most of the work including moving wall partitions, installing new flourescent lights and shelf conveniences was done by the maintenance department.

A. C. Biggs, superintendent of buildings, and his staff also duplicated a section of ornate ceramic design that was needed to complete redecoration of the office front along the hallway.

Competing for the honor of being "Queen of Hearts" to be chosen at the jazz concert given for the Heart Fund tonight at the stadium are (bottom to top, clockwise): Myrna Sampson, dorm; Ruth Ann Girton, Phi Mu; Karen Thomas, Beta Sig; Carol Ficetoli, Chi O; and Sharon Crofts, AOPi. Not present for the picture were Kay Colvin, nurses, and Linda Watson, college choir.

Compete for Heart Fund

Seven in Contest

Seven Evansville College coeds have been chosen to represent the different organizations on campus as candidates for the "Queen of Hearts at the Jazz Concert given for the Heart Fund at the stadium tonight at 9 p.m.

The "Queen of Hearts" will be chosen in a beauty contest from the following girls: Sharron Crofts, an Evansville freshman from Alpha Omicron Pi; Myrna Sampson, a Bedford freshman representing the dorm; Linda Watson, an Evansville freshman from the college choir; Ruth Ann Girton, an Evansville freshman from the Phi Mu; Kay Colvin, a Petersburg senior from the Nurse's Association; Karen Thomas; a junior from Richland for Beta Sigma Omicron and Carol Ficetoli, Evansville sophomore from Chi Omega. The girls are not representing the college itself but were chosen from college organizations.

Judges in the contest will be Dr. David Littmann of Boston, and Dr. Robert Lam of St. Louis, eminent heart specialists, plus Roy Liberto, leader of one of the jazz groups.

An all-night Dixieland Music Night, the concert will feature two of the nation's outstanding Dixieland bands — Roy Liberto and the Bourbon Street Six and Sam Gardner and the Mound City Six.

Sponsoring the event is DMLA-FOTSICOTAHA, which is the Dixieland Music Lovers and Friends of the Southwestern Indiana Chapter of the American Heart Association. Admission to the session will be in the form of a $1 contribution to the Heart Association.

5 in Basketball Queen Judging

Five candidates for basketball queen have been announced by the Student Government Association's Social Life Committee.

The candiates are Janet Brashier representing Alpha Omicron Pi; Janet Berry, Beta Sigma Omicron; Diana Harris, Chi Omega; Sandy Hayden, Moore Hall; Connie Telfer, Phi Mu.

A dance will follow the judging on Friday, Jan. 20, at 7:30 in the Great Hall. The Phi Mu Alpha Band will provide the entertainment for the dance. The dance is being sponsored by the Union Committee and the SGA Social Life Committee.

More Day Students

Over 1500 Enroll

Winter quarter day-school registration is above the 1500 mark, according to Registrar H. Owen Long.

Enrollment this quarter is increased over the winter quarter of 1969-60.

Grade averages for the fall quarter have been sent to the Dean of Students Office and the Dean of the College. From these averages, the Dean's list and the probation list will be made aavilable to the students.

The Registrar's Office also records the individual grades in permanent records and send grade reports to students. Grade reports are also sent to the Dean of Students and to the student's high school. Dr. Long reports that the class cards are filed in the basement of the Administration Building as a record of individual grades.

Chemistry Gets $10,000

A grant of $10,000 has been made to Evansville College's Chemistry Department by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The award will be used, says Dr. Lowell E. Weller, professor of chemistry and head of the department, to acquire equipment to be used in study of nuclear technology.

Specifically, the money will provide teaching aids, demonstration apparatus and student equipment used in educational and training courses.

The AEC award came through its division of biology and medicine. These grants are designed to assist colleges and universities to obtain the items of equipment needed to present adequate and meaningful laboratory course work.

Nursing School Gets National Accreditation

Division Becomes First Four-Year School In Indiono To Get This Recognition

Evansville College school of nursing was formally given national accreditation on December 26, 1960, by the National League for Nursing, Inc.

The announcement, made from the League's New York office, makes Evansville College the first four-year nationally accredited school in Indiana. Miss Mildred Boeke, head of the school of nursing, feels that accreditation will inspire the growth of the school of nursing because a student nurse will now have to attend school only four years to get her bachelor's degree. In other schools throughout the city a girl must go three years plus an additional two or three to complete work for a bachelor's degree.

The college nursing program has in cooperation with the Baptist Hospital in Evansville carried out a comprehensive four-year curriculum, making use of extensive community facilities.

To gain accreditation, the school of nursing underwent a thorough examination by the representatives of the National League for Nursing who visited the campus and the Baptist Hospital in the spring of 1959. The inspection, plus reports submitted by college faculty, completed the requirements.

Attainment of National accreditation is the highest credential a nursing school can achieve. According to the 1960 issue of "Schools of Professional Nursing," there are 1,087 schools of nursing in the U. S., of which 145 are baccalaureate degree programs. Seventy-nine are nationally accreidted. Of these, The School of Nursing at Evansville College is among fifty-six accredited for their public health as well as general programs.

Nursing students of Evansville College are now eligible to enter into the United States Navy Nurse Corps student program and are also eligible for National Foundation Scholarships. Only accredited schools of nursing are permitted to enter these programs.

Standards for admission to the school of nursing will remain the same as the standards for entrance to the college. College officials anticipate the accreditation will result in increased enrollment.

Participation in the nursing program quadrupled since its commencement in 1953. There are 75 students in the school now. There are twenty-five freshmen, twenty sophomores, seventeen juniors, and thirteen seniors enrolled in the Evansville College School of Nursing.

The program offers a baccalaureate degree and qualifies its graduates to take the examination to become registered nurses. Universities require graduates of 3-year diploma schools to go an additional two or three years to complete work for a baccalaureate degree.

There are now eight full-time teachers on the nursing staff and six part time instructors. The full-time teachers include Miss Mildred Boeke, head of the department; Miss Harriet Pickett, Mrs. Helen Smith, Mrs. Lois Latshaw, Miss Jane Sherratt, Miss Dorothy Stevens, Mrs. Helen Jean, and Miss Sue Roberts.

The part time instructors are Dr. Arnold Brockmole, Mrs. Mary Nicoson, Miss Martha Richardson, Miss Corinne Catlin, Mr. Richard Glenn, and Mrs. Joyce Disney.

Besides being proud of accreditation given the School of Nursing, Miss Mildred Boeke, has been gratified by the success of nurses developed during her eight-year period as director.

"Graduates of the school," she notes, "are serving in many capacities and making significant contributions as head nurses, public health nurses, instructors, team leaders, supervisors and staff nurses.

"Several in graduate school are preparing for specialized work."

Students in the nursing program, Miss Boeke added "are in all social and scholastic societies at the College and maintain a high academic average among women's groups."

"It brings more prestige to the school" is a distinct advantage national accreditation has brought to EC's School of Nursing, Director Mildred Boeke says.

Other advantages:

1. Ranks EC among the top schools which are accredited both for general and public health nurse programs.
2. Makes the School's graduates eligible for National Foundation scholarships and the Navey Nurse Corps.

Major steps in the growth of the School of Nursing have been:

1939—Pre-nursing program in EC curriculum begun.

1943—Work toward B.S. degree for registered nurses begun.

1953—4-year nursing plan inaugurated; Miss Boeke, who devised the plan, heads the School.

1954—State approval of School's program.

1960—National accreditation.

Ernie Pyle Grant — Largest Yet

EC Receives $5000 From The Press

Evansville College received a $5000 gift from the Evansville Press newspaper yesterday to help develop the college journalism program, according to Dr. Melvin Hyde, president of the college.

Gordon Hanna, editor of The Press, presented President Hyde with a check for $5000 from the Scripps-Howard Ernie Pyle Memorial Fund which was the largest grant made since the fund was established in 1952.

"We have been impressed with the progress made at the college under Dr. Hyde's guidance," Hanna said. "We think the college will play an important role in the growth and development of this area."

Dr. Hyde, in a prepared statement, said "Evansville College is grateful to The Press for this fine gift for the further development of the department of Journalism.

"The College Journalism department will continue to prepare students in the field of professional journalism."

Ernie Pyle, who was killed from a sniper bullet on the island of Ie Jima in the south Pacific during World War II, was correspondent for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and established a high level of technical skill in the field of journalism, according to Hanna.

The fund was established to perpetuate high standards in journalism by the grants to deserving organizations, colleges and universities, and each year honor outstanding journalists with a $1000 award.

Evansville College is the eighth college or university to receive the grant. Others who have received money from the fund are: Universities of New Mexico, Denver, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri, Ohio State University and Texas Christian University.

The money will be used for materials and equipment in the Journalism department, according to Walter Stewart, journalism instructor.

One of many things student nurses are trained in is the use of crutches. Here Mrs. Lois Latshaw, EC instructor in nursing, shows Janet Berry, sophomore in nursing, how the crutch should be positioned, while Lois Adams, senior, observes.

Sophomore Cadets To Take Physicals

Major Victor Sinclair, Professor of Air Science, reports that sophomore AFROTC cadets who have passed their Stanine test will travel to Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Illinois, to take the Air Force physical examination.

The cadets are divided into two groups. The first group went Sunday, Jan. 8, and the second group Sunday, Jan. 15. An Air Force bus will pick up the cadets at the college at 1:00 P.M. on both Sundays according to Maj. Sinclair.

The physical examination will be given on Monday morning. And the group will return to the college Monday afternoon.

Cadets who pass the physical are eligible for the Advanced program next year.

Lest we forget the joy of living in a democracy, let us bow a knee toward the east (Washington) and thank the powers that be for freedom of thought and speech. With your indulgence, may we exercise that privilege.

One of the blessings of being spawned in this country is the right to doubt the validity of a law or rule. There exists for us many, many rules and regulation.s There is a question of their existence in some persons' minds. There must be a reason in someone's mind for every restriction, or pure objective reasoning would have eliminated it by now.

We find it easier to obey a rule when we know why it exists. Perhaps a closer correlation between the rulers and the ruled would facilitate closer harmony.

Perhaps students should know why they can't use the Sorority Rooms in the Girl's Dorm, perhaps the boys should know why there are hours at their dorm. Anyone may obtain the answer if they'll just ask the ones in charge, but wouldn't it be a fine gesture to make sure everyone knew the reasons for rules existance. We know why some of these rules exist because we asked. If one is affected by a regulation it behooves the maker of said regulation to make the reason known, at least in this country it is so.

There is nothing implied or intended in this except a request that we in the dark be enlightened, collectively.

George Peppard will star as Theodore Roosevelt and Thomas Mitchell appears as Joseph Murray on NBC-TV's dramatization of "The Invincible Teddy," Friday, Jan. 13.

Richards Rogers will host "The Gershwin Years" over NBC-TV, Sunday, Jan. 15. Ethel Merman, Maurice Chevalier, Florence Henderson and Julia London will sing the songs of George Gershwin.

"A Question of Chairs: The Challenge of American Education" will be presented on CBS-TV, Sunday, Jan. 15. The program will dramatize the evolution of American Educational philosophy.

Dean Stockwell ("Compulsion" and "Sons and Lovers") will appear on "Hitchcock Presents," Tuesday, Jan. 17, on NBC-TV.

Should anyone ask, I do.

7 Cadets Get Flight Training

Seven senior AFROTC cadet officers are now receiving Flight Indoctrination Program (FIP) training from instructors of Davis Aviation at Dress Memorial Airport, according to Maj. Victor Sinclair, Professor of Air Science.

Five of the cadets — Phillip Bracker, Bruce Hoffman, Amuel Sheckells, and Charles Sunderman; have solo flight time in the Cessna 150 training plane. Ronald TenBarge and Jerry Myers have just begun the program.

The FIP, Maj. Sinclair says, is designed for all senior cadets who have qualified for Air Force pilot training. The program serves to introduce the cadet officers to flying school and screen the prospective fliers for the Air Force.

The instruction is provided by contract through the Air Force. The cadets receive 36½ hours of training, both dual and solo, and are eligible for a private pilot's license upon completion of the course.

DID YOU KNOW THAT: Pi Epsilon Phi, now Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is the oldest organization on Evansville's campus. It's older than the college itself. The Philo's, as they were called, organized themselves in 1853 in anticipation of the founding of the college in 1854. It is the only organization that has endured with the school since its founding.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

The coming of the Kirk Stuart Trio to our campus was a surprize to most, and a welcome one to who had heard them play. Mrs. Woods comment was that it was the fullest she had ever seen the lounge. She estimated that 150 to 200 people were jammed into and overflowing our modest lounge. This large representative audience was very attentive and quiet, and they applauded enthusiastically after each number.

When 10:45 had come, and the crowd thought it was all over much to soon, it was announced that Kirk and his group would continue to play in the great hall. This was to give the college musicians the opportunity to "jam" with a good jazz group. Only a few did so, but it was a good enough session that an estimated 150 or so stayed on until Kirk finally quit playing at 11:15.

Well, anyway, for what it's worth, this seems to be the start of several of these concerts with national talent appearing at our local bistros furnishing the talent. Everyone concerned was quite satisfied with the whole show.

Some recent books such as "The Status Seekers," "The Vulgarians," etc., seek to imply generally that big business has lost its purpose and replaced it with the dollar sign. I can't write a book, but I can point out that the Eli Lilly Foundation payed the freight for the Indianapolis Symphony to give a concert here just before Christmas. I can also point out that besides a small amount of good public relations, all this company received was the knowledge that they contributed to the culture of the city of Evansville.

Maybe it was just my immagination, but didn't you notice the referee's calling the fouls rather close against the Aces, and rather loosely against Penn State in the closing minutes of the holiday tourney? I mean because of the crowd, who raved more than I've ever seen them rave previously. Didn't somebody tell those ref's that they were going to call a game in Roberts Stadium?

Words of wisdom: Sure it was a nice holiday, but who wants to clean up after all of those reindeer.

EC Receives Book Collection

Presentation of a collection of accounting reference books was made to Evansville College by John Buchanan, president of the Southern Chapter of the Indiana Association of Certified Public Accountants, on Dec. 13, according to Professor Ray Arensman, head of the business department, and Dr. Thomas Harding, college librarian, who accepted the books for the college.

Valued at $145, the collection will serve a two-fold purpose, Dr. Harding said. "They will provide much needed resource material in accounting courses given at the college, and also will be available to accounting personnel not employed with large firms, which generally stock such books," he added.

The books will be put on a seven-day reserve. The collection includes source data on accounting trends and techniques, as well as several accounting indexes, according to Dr. Harding.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

If you ever want to see Evansville play a Big Ten team on the road, take my advice and go someplace close, or stay home and watch it on TV like most sane people do. That was by far the longest 360 miles I have ever driven. When I got to Columbus, the first thing I did was locate the stadium and Coach McCutchan. My first question was, "How long will it take you to get home tonight, coach?" When he answered, "About two hours," I almost left my car there and came with him on the plane. It took me all night to get back and I was still 15 minutes late for my 8 o'clock class.

All kidding aside, that was a great time I'll never forget. They've got a campus that stretches for 3 miles one way. Their union building resembles the Conrad Hilton Hotel and their fraternity houses look like $50.000 homes.

ROBERT'S STADIUM TOPS

One thing they can't take away from us is our stadium. Their stadium seats about the same as Roberts, but if you go up to the top you'll get a nose-bleed. If you survive you'll need binoculars to see the floor, much less the players. Whoever built the thing surely didn't have airphobia.

Let's discuss the ballgame a little now. It's a shame we didn't get to see Jerry Lucas play. but Coach McCutchan said he didn't mind that. If Lucas had been in the game our Aces may not have come home. With those guys hitting the long shots the way they did and Lucas dropping in those short ones they were missing, we would have been blown right out of the gym.

FRESHMAN TEAM TOUGH

By the way, State's freshman squad played a preliminary game amongst themselves and I don't believe I would have wanted to put our varsity up against them. They have two 6-8 men, two 6-6, one 6-5, and six 6-4. Somebody said the one 6-5 fellow, Ray Brown, scored 44 against the varsity the other night. (Don't schedule them any more, Bob.)

The Ohio State cheering section livened up the 9,807 people during halftime with this yell. RAH, RAH, RHEE . . . Kick bim in the knee. RAH, RAH, RASS . . . kick him in the other knee.

Wesleyan Dumps Aces, As Thompson Hits 41

Coach T. L. Plain's Wesleyan Panthers rang up a convincing 99-82 victory Tuesday night at Owensboro to captalize another disastrous road-trip for Evansville.

With "Winny" Thompson and Gary Auten coming up with 41 and 31 points apiece, the two Panther gunners came within 10 points of equaling the entire Evansville total of 82. Thompson, a 6-2 190 pound home-grown product from Central City, Kentucky turned in the best performance of his career. Hitting an amazing 18 of 27 shots from the floor and five of eight from the foul circle as the Wesleyan fireball led the Panthers to a 51-37 half-time lead that the Aces never cut to less than 11.

Auten, who is averaging over 25 points a game, turned in another of his consistent performances as he bas taken up where King Kelly Coleman left off last year when be walked out of Robert's Stadium never to play college ball again.

The main difference was the fierce play by the Kentucky squad on the boards as they out-rebounded the Aces 70-52. Lyle Dunbar, 6-5 Panther center lead both squads with 23 stabs.

Playing without the services of P. M. Sanders, who injured an ankle in the first half, the Aces could never seem to come up with a solution to the tight zone defense that Coach Plain had cooked up. Evansville was forced to shot most of their shots from far out. Marv Pruett topped the Aces scoring with 24 points.

Walt Deal, who played his first game since injuring an ankle in the Ball State game, saw action the entire 40 minutes on his still weak leg.

Wesleyan out shot Evansville as they hit 41 of 100 shots for a .413 percentage compared to the Aces' .386 on 32 of 83.

The Aces' only lead of the game was at 5-3 in the opening minute. Auten then dropped in a free throw and Thompson hit two from the floor and one from the foul line and the Panthers had a 10-5 lead. Evansville fought back to close the gap to 21-17 but then the roof fell in. Thompson fired in three quick ones, Auten hit a field goal and free throw, Lyle Dunbar and Bob Horrell hit one apiece and the Kentucky gentlemen had themselves a 34-17 lead.

From there on in it was all Wesleyan as Evansville could never close the gap to less than eleven points.

Boultinghouse, Briley Lead Frosh Squad

Evansville College's freshman basketball team will meet its third foe of the season tomorrow night when the quintet plays the freshman of DePauw. This game will take place before the varsity contest.

Pacing the freshmen this year is Wayne Boultinghouse of Rockport and Buster Briley from Madison. Both are forwards but at several different times this year they have played at guard.

Briley has gone over the 30 mark several times this year with his top effort at 39. Boultinghouse has come along and in his last time out he was top scorer with 31 points.

The team has defeated Southern Illinois, and was stopped by Kentucky Wesleyan. January 21, Evansville will meet Indiana State at the Stadium. Later in the season the team will also play Southern Illinois, Kentucky Wesleyan and Indiana State. One more game may be scheduled.

Aces Back Home Against DePauw

Evansville College's basketball squad will get back on the home floor tomorrow night as they meet a bigb flying DePauw team at Roberts Municipal Stadium.

The Tigers from Greencastle are considered by many to be the dark horse in the Indiana Collegiate Conference. Coach Elmer McCall is hoping to have his first season over .500 in three years as he has four of last year's five starters back, plus two sophomores and a transfer from Minnesota.

McCall seems to be strongest at the forward posts with six-foot Dale Anderson and six-two Larry Leas going for him. Last season Anderson averaged 16.9 points per game and Leas had a 10.6 average. Anderson was a member of the all-conference second team and was the leading scorer for the Tigers.

Going at the guard positions will be Jim Zerface and Larry Salmela. Zerface is a steady shooter who averaged 12.8 points per game last season. Salmela is an untested Army veteran who won his freshman letter with the Minnesota Gophers before joing the service.

Herb Spier, the team's leading rebounder in the 1959-60 season will again be going at the center slot. Also working at the center position, if he recovers from a siege of mononucleosis, is Wally Foltz, the number six man on last year's team.

McCall also has some members of last year's erratic freshman squad on the bench who could provide some help. The most promising are two six footers, Ron Zalewski of South Bend, Washington, and Steve Reim of Elkhart. In high school Zalewski was the top scorer in the Northern Indiana Conference and Reim was right behind him. Last year he led the freshman team with a 20-point average in eight games.

Two other juniors who might break into the lineup are Fred Roberts, a guard and Ivan Floyd.

Last season DePauw finished with a 9-14 record overall and a 4-8 record in the conference where they finished in a tie with Indiana State for fourth place. Against conference foes this year, the Tigers have won three games. They have stopped Ball State, St. Joseph and Valparaiso. Against Valpo and St. Joe the Tigers went over the century mark. The Valpo game, which was played last week at Valparaiso, was a thriller which ended with DePauw on top 101-95. In that game Herb Spier was the top scorer with 25 points. Dale Anderson and Larry Leas each scored 20 points. It was Valparaiso's third conference loss in four games. They lost to the Aces 105-78.

Probable Starting Lineups

D. Wise	F	D. Anderson
W. Deal	F	L. Leas
M. Herthel
J. Nossett	C	H. Spier
M. Pruett	G	J. Zerface
P. M. Sanders	G	L. Salmela

Butler On Top Of Conference

The Butler Bulldogs came from fourteen behind Tuesday night to beat previously undefeated DePauw 77-72 and take the conference lead away from the Tigers.

After beating Evansville Saturday night the Bulldogs have now defeated the two teams that figured to give them the most trouble for the ICC title.

DePauw and Evansville now hold identical 2-1 records in conference play. The two meet Saturday night at Evansville in the fight for second place.

Union Celebrates 10th Anniversary Today

The Evansville College Student Union celebrates its 10th anniversary today, with the theme "Hats Off To The Union," according to Mrs. Charles Wood, director.

Planning the activities for the day are the Union Social Committee with Alice Schurtter as chairman, the Union Dance Committee with Annabelle Grabhorn as chairman, and the S.G.A. Social Life Committee. The groups plan to make this year's Union Anniversary one of the largest and the finest to date.

Festivities will begin at 10 a.m. with the traditional cake cutting in the lobby of the Union. The Union Board members will serve. Students, faculty and guests are invited to participate in the activities.

The guest book signed at the dedication of the Union Building on January 21, 1951, will be displayed by the Union Board for everyone attending this year's celebration to sign.

A projectograph in the lobby of the Union will feature slides showing activities of the Union for the past ten years. Pictures of other events connected with the Union will be displayed in the Art Gallery.

The Union's celebration will continue with a dance tonight.

Judging of the basketball queen to be held at 8:00 in the Great Hall. The candidates for queen are Janet Brashier representing Alpha Omicron Pi; Janet Berry, Beta Sigma Omicron; Diana Harris, Chi Omega; Sandy Hayden, Moore Hall; and Connie Telfer, Phi Mu.

Following the judging, a dance will be held in the Union patio from 9-11:30. Phi Mu Alpha dance band will provide music.

Highlights in the history of the Union began with ground breaking ceremonies in July 1949; the corner stone which was laid during April 1950; and the building dedication on January 21, 1951.

There have been three directors and five social directors since the Union was opened. The first director of the Union was Doris Kirk, who was succeeded by Mrs. Bayard Somes in 1956. Mrs. Charles F. Wood is present director of the Union and has been since 1958.

The first social director of the Union was Kay Bondus, succeeded by Kay Curtis, Shirley Grant and Sally Reece. Miss Judith Lockwood is the present social director and has filled this position since 1959.

There are six original staff members who are still employed at the Union, and they are Mrs. Georgina Hill, Director of Foods; Loetta McGregor, cafeteria superintendent; Frank Herbert, Games Room Superintendent; Mrs. Fern Brewster and Mrs. Ruby Haynes, cafeteria employees; and Mr. Roderick Johnson, head custodian.

New Trees And Shrubs Added To College Lawn

New shade on the campus this Spring south of the Engineering Building is in prospect. Thirty-seven new trees will be planted plus several juniper shrubs at the corner of Lincoln and Weinbach.

The college then will have one or more of each variety of tree that grows in this locality, according to Business Manager Ralph Oldsted, coordinator of the project.

The trees being planted now are butternut, burr oak, red dogwood, red maple, coffee tree, locust, pink horse chestnut, amur maple, deodar cedar, cutleaf maple, douglas fir, and horse chestnut.

Tree planting will begin next to Moore Hall before Spring. The trees are being planted by Ben Wolfe of Crescent Nursery.

Schneider Awarded Duncan Scholarship

Dennis E. Schneider, sophomore majoring in English, is the recipient of a $250 grant from the James R. and Adalaide Duncan Foundation.

The Duncan Scholarship is awarded to deserving students at Evansville College. The money, from a trust fund set up by the late Mr. Duncan, is awarded by a private board of trustees.

He has played in five major productions of The Evansville College Theater and currently has a role in "The Madwoman of Chaillot."

Dennis also directs the one act play, "Christ in the Concrete City," which will be given several times during Lent.

Dennis lives in Newburgh, where he is active in church and community affairs. He is superintendent of the Sunday School at Zion E. & R. Church and is leader of the Newburgh Boy's 4-H Club. He is also president of the Warrick County 4-H Club.

Dennis is the chaplain of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Kappa Chi Initiates Thirteen

Thirteen students were initiated as new members of the Kappa Chi fraternity during a special 10 o'clock service in the college chapel Jan. 13, according to Dr. Arthur Mansure, Director of Religious Life on campus.

The new members of the professional fraternity for those preparing for full time church service are Jerry Bertelsen, Linda Bowers, James Butler, Richard Crum and William Davidson. Also included in the initiation were Charles Foly, Sandra Henkler, Larry Koch, Glen Matcher, Ronald Reynolds, Larry Richart, Mary Jo Standford and Deanna Tuley.

Dean Edgar M. McKown is sponsor for the national fraternity, and two EC students, John Beatty and Chester Mayflower are national president and national treasurer, respectively.

Construction of the buildings will begin sometime during the summer of 1961 and completion is expected to be by fall, 1962.

Art Instructor Wins At Mid-States Exhibit

An entry by Mrs. Nanene Engle has won honorable mention at the Mid-States Crafts Exhibit now on display at the Evansville Museum of Arts and Sciences.

The art department instructor was one of several EC representatives to gain recognition at this first local exhibit of regional crafts.

Mrs. Engle's entries were a stoneware bird form, which took honorable mention, and a prize-winning hippo in stoneware.

Jerald Schaffstein, 1960 graduate in art, was recognized for his wood and metal interpretation of flight.

A former head of the EC art department, Emily Wilson Wolfson, was the museum's first award winner for a wall-hanging display. She also won honorable mention with a ceramic figure of five persimmons.

The exhibit, which has attracted entries from a 200-mile radius, continues at the museum through Feb. 5.

WANT A PLAY MATE? Ann Burton, an art major from Princeton, was recently chosen Playmate-of-the-year by the SAE Fraternity. Miss Burton belong to the AOPi Sorority.

New members of Kappa Chi are welcomed into the EC chapter by President Tom Tupper (right) and Brooks Herling, vice-president, following the service last week. The thirteen, 10 men and 3 women, comprised the largest class in a number of years to be taken into this national professional fraternity for those preparing for church service.

— EDITORIAL —

We wish to present a statement of policy of the present editorial staff.

We shall showforth the light of truth, not to show the way, but to light the path that the way may be seen. The choice of the right path is the reader's.

We shall attempt to favor no faction, group, individual or party. The opinions of any member of this paper will only be expressed in editorial fashion and so labeled.

The intention of the present staff is to raise the level of journalism and maintain a goal of perfection. The privilege of writing for the Crescent is extended to few.

The Crescent enjoys the abilities of the best writers of any college newspaper and this standard will be maintained. The opportunity to write for the Crescent is extended to any who qualify but an offer by anyone to write does not constitute ability or acceptance.

We wish to thank the students, faculty and staff of Evansville College for their cooperation in the past and we intend to keep the Crescent a paper the college family can be proud of.

We welcome the suggestions and advice of any member of the college family.

If we are to maintain certain sections of the Crescent we need the cooperation of organizations' reporters. The Greek organizations thus far have failed to aid us adequately in this area. Perhaps this is because we have initiated new deadlines for copy. Friday of each week is the deadline for columns, features and regular columns. Monday is the deadline for news stories.

We are attempting to make the Crescent available Friday mornings before school and the earlier deadlines will aid in this endeavor.

The Crescent is published for students, faculty and staff members of Evansville College and should be used to advance the growth and progress of this institution.

We, of the Crescent, are at your disposal.

Student Scholarships Result From Alumni Assn. Fund

Approximately 35 EC students are in school this year thanks in part to the Alumni Association which has during the past eight years aided altogether almost 200 students.

This has been done by scholarships provided by the Alumni Fund that has poured into this type of student aid approximately $47,000 since the fund was started in 1951-52.

The fund now has its 1960-61 campaign underway, says Don Widick, director of the alumni association, with the first letter being sent out Nov. 17 and a second scheduled for February.

In addition to supporting the scholarships, the Alumni Fund is in its second year of contributing to the Great Teachers Program. Unless alumni specify, the contributions are earmarked half to the scholarships and half to this teacher-support drive.

"Response to the first fund letter has been very good," Widick reports. With letters and the "Alumnus" magazine carrying the appeal for fund support, 34 contributions came in during the first six days after mailing.

Of the 7,000 graduates and former students on the Alumni Fund mailing list, Widick notes, 475 contributed last year. The average gift size was $16.32.

"Surprisingly enough, the percentage of former non-graduating students who contribute is higher than that of graduates."

This is true even though the number of non-graduates is five times as high. Widick's records show EC has had 4,485 graduates in all its years but an additional 21,000 who attended two quarters or more.

Most of the contributions are from individuals. However, some industrial firms have helped the Alumni Fund by matching the amount their EC-graduate employees send in. These include General Electric, General Foods and International Business Machines. Ford Motor Co. boosts the association fund by doubling contributions of its employees.

The Alumni Fund asks no repayment of its scholarship gifts.

"It would be nice," Widick says, "if more graduates and former students would plan to contribute to the Alumni Fund. After seeing what it has done for them and their fellow students, they might want to share in helping others benefit by means of the fund."

Summer, Full-Time Press Jobs Offered By Indiana Schools

Summer jobs as well as full-time opportunities in the newspaper field were discussed on campus yesterday with EC journalism students by Bruce Temple, editor and general manager of the Bloomington Herald-Telephone.

Approximately 50 summer jobs will be open on 35 Indiana newspapers, says Clay Trusty, Jr., city editor of the Indianapolis News and chairman of the Indiana Newspaper Personnel Committee.

College students will work at the summer or permanent jobs either as trainees, who have had little training or previous experience, or as interns with considerable experience, Trusty says.

After discussing employment opportunities, Temple distributed applications to those wanting job interviews. A representative of the committee is to be here in February for the interviewing.

Indiana newspapers this year are starting college recruiting throughout the state.

"It is apparent," the personnel committee reports, "that the newspaper profession is losing many interested youngsters to other fields.

Kappa Chi Fraternity Began On EC Campus

EC's Kappa Chi, which last week inducted what is believed to be its largest group of new members, has another, nationally significant claim to fame.

Kappa Chi began here on this campus.

It was in 1928, and it was called then the Double Alpha Club. That makes it also the oldest of the professional organizations on campus, says Dr. Arthur L. Mansure, director of religious life.

Later the then President Earl Harper left Evansville College to go to Simpson College in Indianola, Iowa. He took with him the idea of this club for students preparing for Christian service and in 1936 reorganized it at Simpson as Kappa Chi Fraternity.

EC's Beta Chapter has been nationally prominent among the 14 or so chapters in other ways. Dean Edgar McKown has been national sponsor for a number of years. Beta Chapter at present is furnishing the national group its president and treasurer.

Management Lecture To Business Majors Scheduled Here

Business economics majors will have an opportunity to hear an outstanding management speaker in Dr. Robert Barclay of Mead Johnson, Tuesday, Jan. 31, at the college.

Barclay, director of Mead Johnson's management institute, will explain with slides, the reason for a background in general business administration, economics and the sciences needed by business executives.

Business and economics majors are being excused for the 10:45 period to attend this talk on "Modern Management."

I do.

N. L. Patton

Any college endeavor must have a criteria or standard for judging the quality of the results. We shall attempt to discuss the quality we have a right to expect from the drama presentations.

For those who doubt the reputation of our drama department, a professor from EC was visiting in Durham, North Carolina, during the holidays, and while there he was introduced to a drama teacher from an eastern college who asked about EC's modern drama department. The teacher said, "We've heard a lot about the wide range of theater productions performed at your college. You are gaining a reputation for trying difficult and unusual plays."

Mr. Smiley is to be congratulated for the fine level of drama produced in our theater.

In discussing the quality of the performances, we must remember that the actors are amateur. "No," said Mr. Smiley, "there is no criteria but perfection."

This is the point we wish to make, in any endeavor, the mere attempt to create places upon the creator the responsibility to be perfect. The fact a play is produced by college students does not excuse them nor allow an inferior production.

Also to be considered is the difficulty of a play attempted. The intelligence of those producing the play is insulted when we allow them the excuse "The play was too difficult or unusual for our theater."

As in life, perfection is the only goal, the only standard for judging.

Dr. Virginia Grabill spoke in Chapel Wednesday, Jan. 18, about christian campus life. We are sorry to say the college didn't want very many people to hear the chapel service. There are an estimated 1500 students enrolled here and one-fifteenth of the students can not comfortably participate in the service because there aren't enough seats. The chapel will seat 90 in the pews and Wednesday approximately 35 chairs were needed for the crowd. If the principal reason for the college to exist is to promote christian learning and christian thought would it not seem logical to think of building the house of worship first and adequate.

We know that the building isn't filled every service but what will happen should the great reformation come? Should we all wish to turn to religion and follow the christian teachings all on the same Wednesday, what would happen to the little chapel?

In response to our last column, Dr. Virginia Grabill, Director of Women's Counseling, sent a letter explaining some of the rules.

The letter reads, in part: "the suites (sorority suites in Moore Hall) like fraternity houses are considered to be primarily for members and pledges, places where — upon occasion — a group invites its friends or the public. Men do not go behind closed doors in any part of Moore Hall, nor women in Hughes Hall or fraternity houses."

She also said that the rules are devised by committees composed of administrative staff members and students and should anyone wish to express their views on the regulations there are student representatives for every group or organization.

We thank her for her interest in this matter and wish others in similar positions were so inclined.

Should anyone ask, I do.

1420 Cars Registered On Campus

There are 1220 student and 200 faculty and staff cars registered on campus, A. C. Biggs, superintendent of buildings, reports.

This is a big increase in the number of cars compared to that of a few years ago, he says. It is about the same as last year's figure.

Most cars were registered at the beginning of the fall and winter quarters. Some cars on campus, however, have not been registered. Persons who own these cars on campus, however, have not been registered. Persons who own these cars should register them at the office of superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Failure to register results in a fine of $6.00. There is also a fine of $2, Mr. Biggs says, for not displaying the decal. If a person is caught for falsification of a registration card, a $25 fine is imposed on him.

Many tickets have been placed on unregistered cars. The first fine is $1 and $1 is added to each succeeding fine. When a person receives five parking fines, disciplinary action is taken.

A person on duty during different times of the day patrols the campus and issues tickets. Fines should be paid at the business office.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

After hearing a few complaints about coffee in the Wooden Indian, I decided to take a survey. I tried to pick randomly, and then checked my subjects to see if they were diversified.

I found that four classes are represented. We have leaders and followers, male and female. So . . . realizing the dangers of accuracy when a small sample is used, I present the following comments in answer to the question, "What do YOU think of Wooden Indian coffee?" VICKI KARCH — Terribly strong, just horrible stuff, not coffee! DON FRASIER — It's terrible, bad, awful. I don't know if they just can't make it or what. ANNETTE TAPLEY — I can't notice any difference in it and other coffee. SANDY DROLL — It tastes like hot water compared to what I get at home. It just doesn't taste like coffee!

CAROL DAY — To people who like coffee it's rotten, but I like it. I'm not a coffee drinker, but I like it. RON ALPERS — 99% of the time it tastes bad. The other 1% of the time they get someone who knows how to make it, and it tastes good. ED REHRMAN — I think it's twice as bad as last year, even though they did lower the price. KAREN HARPE — It tastes good in the morning, but lousy at night. PHYLLIS HICKMAN — It's made just like I like coffee; no complaints . . . And so it goes. Ask the person sitting next to you what he or she thinks about Wooden Indian coffee.

Eugene V. Gudger was the first person to publish a complete report on the love life of a pike.

I was whiling away my spare (ha) time in the union the other afternoon, when someone asked who was the Sr. Class President. Being a senior I racked my brain for the answer. I couldn't think so I said, "well I guess your coalition won and I can't recall." Then the other person said, "no, your coalition won and it is Jerry Clark." I wondered then and am still wondering why I couldn't remember my own class president. Now it is coming in clearer. The classes — as such — at Evansville College don't do anything together. The coalition doesn't matter, nor does the person. All they do is get their picture in the LinC.

Now I'm not knocking our present class officers, merely trying to make a situation apparent. We can change this and make electing class offices a necessity. As it now stands we don't need them.

Should anyone ask you I don't.

Student Files Big Job For Alumni Office

A 3-inch-thick folder of information — this is the record of one part of one file detailed by newspaper clippings, photographs and other published material. In this ease it is the file on Vance Hartke, graduate of '41.

Squeezed in among thousands of files of other Evansville College graduates and former students, this one represents the care with which the Alumni Association attempts to keep track of its own.

No easy job it is. Don Widick, director of alumni affairs, and his co-worker in the association office in the Union, Mrs. Lucy Sexton, have learned this.

It means keeping daily tab on the Evansville newspapers for articles concerning the 4,485 graduates and additional 21,000 former students.

Newspapers are only one source the alumni office checks. Other Evansville College Divisions such as the public relations and registrar's offices as well as President Hyde's office send over items.

"The registrar's office — it keeps the grades and academic records; we keep everything else that happens to the graduate," says Widick.

Into the individual files go publicity releases sent back to EC about personnel in the Navy. Other colleges cooperate too.

"All colleges send us notices of our graduates getting advanced degrees."

Industries also contribute articles and pictures concerning employees who came to them from the College. Mead Johnson and Co. is especially helpful, Widick notes.

"We're always receiving letters from couples who — well, they may have had twins," says the association director.

Whatever the source, Widick and his alumni office are glad to receive news and up-to-date addresses about each former student. The job will be harder with the addition of the 1961 graduating class.

Music Department Plons Bond Concert And Two Contests

The Music Department anticipates three big functions to take place at Evansville College at the end of January and the first of February, according to Mr. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the department.

On January 28, a solo and ensemble contest will be presented at EC with approximately 2000 students from the tri-state expected to participate and on February 4 there will be another solo and ensemble contest to follow up on the first.

Evansville College's concert band will present its first concert of the season at Bosse High School on Monday, January 30, at 8 p.m., reports Mr. Shepard.

STROUSE & BROS. THE STORE for Young Men and Women main at second National grand treasurer of the fraternity, J. Russell Salsbury, spoke to Tau Kappa Epsilon at its Founder's Day banquet Sunday. This was the first time since the fraternity's founding that a national executive had been here with the EC chapter.

Executive Joins Tekes For Founder's Day

Zeta Beta Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon celebrated the founding of the national fraternity by having a Founder's Day dinner last Sunday.

The day began with a large group of the fraternity members forming at the airport to meet Frater J. Russel Salsbury, Grand Treasurer of Tau Kappa Epsilon. A breakfast was held at the airport in his honor. A police escort took the caravan from the airport to the college and back to the fraternity house.

The Founder's Day banquet was held at the West Haven Gun Club from noon to 3 p.m. T.K.E. social chairman Roger Goodson was in charge of the dinner and the program and served as master of ceremonies.

Among the people attending were Dan Laird, Province Supervisor; members of Alpha Chi Chapter of TK-E at University of Louisville; and parents and dates of the chapter members. The guest speaker was Frater Salsbury who spoke on "The Challenge of the 60's." President Jack Dever gave a talk on the responsibilities of a fraternity man.

Pre-Meds To Hear Dr. Robert Harris

Dr. Robert Harris, staff member at Evansville State Hospital, will speak to the Pre-Med Club this morning at 10 o'clock.

A former Air Force medical officer, Dr. Harris will inform the club about medicine in the armed forces.

Others interested in this as well as other of the weekly meetings are welcomed, says Allen McCutchan, president.

How many of you will persevere until you finish college? EC has 4,485 graduates — 11 per cent of those who initially enrolled.

Following the speeches, Jack Dever presented "The Best Pledge Award" to Russell Roth. The plaque for this award was recently donated by Mr. John Young, Sr., a father of one of the members. An open house followed the banquet.

Karen Becomes Queen of Hearts

Miss Karen Thomas of Beta Sigma Omicron was chosen "Queen of Hearts" during a break in the jazz concert given Friday night, Jan. 13 at the stadium for the Heart Fund.

Selected in a beauty contest from a group of seven Evansville College coeds representing different organizations, Karen, a junior from Richland, Indiana, was presented a jewelry set by Mayor Frank MacDonald as a token of having been chosen queen. All girls in the contest were given necklaces.

The other candidates in the contest were Sharron Crofts, AOPi; Linda Watson, college choir; Kay Colvin, Nurses'; Ruth Ann Girton, Phi Mu; Myrna Sampson, dorm and Carol Ficetoli, Chi Omega.

During the ceremony, Sigma Phi Epsilon was recognized for volunteering their time and help in setting up chairs for the concert. During the evening members of the fraternity acted as ushers.

Approximately 2000 persons attended the jazz festivaf sponsored by DMLAFOTSICOTAHA, Dixieland Music Lovers and Friends of the Southwestern Indiana Chapter of the American Heart Association. Entertainment was presented by Roy Liberto and the Bourbon Street Six and Sammi Gardner and the Mound City Six.

Of total contributions made to Evansville College during a year by individuals, organizations and firms, 2.4 per cent come from alumni.

When can an EC-ite be considered an ilumnus? National standards generally require a student to have completed two quarters.

The CRESCENT is sent to high schools and colleges all over the U.S.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Coach McCutchan and his Aces have a real good thing going here at the Stadium against ICC foes. It has been four years since any conference schools have been able to defeat the high-flying Purple gang on the Stadium floor.

The streak after last Saturday's game with DePauw went to 26 games. By the way, DePauw was the last team to beat the Aces at the Stadium. They did it during the '56-'57 season with a 70-63 victory after they stopped us at Greencastle 85-74.

Since P. M. Sanders has been riding the bench with a sprained ankle, Coach McCutchan had to come up with a new guard. He started Paul Utley with Marv Pruett and then came on with Tom Hamilton and Lynn Mautz as the relief corps. Hamilton delivered with his best performance of the year, dropping in five field goals for 10 points. Utley and Mautz did their usual good jobs on defense and Pruett was his consistent self.

SANDERS

But Mac will be glad to get his jumpshooting P. M. back into action Saturday night. Nothing is definite so far, but the Petersburg fire-ball may see some limited action. Sanders has been the high man for the Aces in several games this season and popped in seven of his long jump shots against the tough Ohio State defense at Columbus.

WISE HITS

Dale Wise, who insists to everyone who asks him that "I am not a shooter," came up with 28 points against DePauw Saturday night. If he's not a shooter, Evansville would sure have been in bad shape Saturday without his firing the ball through the hoop. The 6-4 Kokomo Ind., boy hit 9 of 22 field goals and 10 of 11 free throws.

THE LIGHTS WENT OUT

If you missed the Wesleyan game last week you missed seeing a real good ball club. With or without Kelly Coleman, Coach T. L. Plain has molded a real fine squad. That Winny Thompson has the best jump shot I've seen all year, and we all remember Gary Auten from last season. The defense was real tough, and they had the most mysterious offense in the Midwest. It should be a real showdown when Plain brings his Kentucky squad to Evansville next month to try to down the Aces twice in the same year. And I'll bet our scoreboard works better then's. (It didn't work at all).

ACES STIFF COMPETITION

If you think the Aces haven't been taking on some stiff competition this year, take a look at this. Ohio State is the defending NCAA champs and hasn't been defeated so far this year. The Buckeyes beat Northwestern 79-45 at Northwestern last Saturday. Iowa, which beat the Aces by 11 points, has won 12 straight games and is tied with Ohio State for the Big Ten lead. Utah finished third in the big tournament at New York several weeks ago, and then the Utes were stopped by only 1 point by St.. Bonaventure... The. Bonnies were beaten by Ohio State by 2. As you know, Utah beat the Aces — shall we say, easily. Purdue is unbeaten in Big Ten action and the Aces gave Terry Dischinger and his Boilermakers quite a bard time. Notre Dame, Butler, and St. Mary's are still enjoying wioning ways also.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS

Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts was selected as most Valuable player in Sunday's All-Pro game won by the West 35-31. It was a great tribute to pro-football's greatest quarterback in the history of the game. It was the second year in a row he was given the award. Sam Huff of the losing East squad was voted the most valuable lineman. Huff plays with the New York Giants during the regular season.

Leagues Ready For Intramural

Lambda Chi Alpho will open defense of Its intramural basketball championship early next week, if and when Bob Hudson and SGA Athletic Committee Chairman Tom Tuley find a gym where the games can be played.

Two separate leagues will again be in operation. The leagues are to be designated League I and League II. Only teams participating in League I will be competing for the All-Sports trophy.

Aces Meet Sycamores In Conference Battle

The "Fighting Sycamores" of Indiana State will invade Roberts Municipal Stadium tomorrow night as they challenge the Purple Aces in a fight for second place in the ICC.

I. S. brings a 4-1 conference record into the game and a 10-4 over-all slate. The Aces with a 3-1 conference record are presently in third place. But a victory over the once-beaten Sycamores will boost the Aces into second place and improve a 6-10 over-all record.

Indiana State's only loss in the conference is to the same Butler Bulldogs who defeated Evansville.

Backcourt Men

Carrying the load in the backcourt for the Sycamores this year are Warren Ross and Roy Goddard. Ross is a 6-1½ senior and Goddard is a 6-0 junior currently leading the team in scoring. Tom Pitts and Wally Webb are the only returning frontline men from last year's team. Pitts goes at 6-3, and Webb at 6-4.

Starting for Evansville will be Dale Wise and Walt Deal at the forwards, Jim Nossett at center, and Marv Pruett with either Paul Utley or P. M. Sanders working in the backcourt.

Coach Duane Klueth

The Sycamores are coached by Duane Klueth who was a Little All-American at Indiana State in 1948. Klueth was drafted by the Denver Nuggets of the National Basketball Association upon graduation from college. The following year Klueth was sold to the Ft. Wayne Pistons where he played along with Fred Schaus, who is now head coach at West Virginia, and John Oldham, mentor of Tennessee Tech.

While a member of the Pistons, Klueth became famous for his soft one-hand push shot from the corners. He ended his playing days in 1952 to accept the present coaching position at Indiana State.

Bawel Sports Big Frosh Squad Headed By Briley

Tall Group Posts 2-1 Season Slate

Frosh Basketball Coach Ray Bawel is enjoying a good season this year as he has one of the biggest and most talented freshman squads ever at Evansville College.

Here is a run-down on the members of this fine team:

Frosh Squad

Harold "Buster" Briley — Buster is a 6-4 sharpshooter from Madison where he was selected as the second best high school player in Indiana last year. He is an excellent shot from almost anywhere inside the 10-second line. His top effort this year was a 39-point output.

Wayne Boultinghouse — Wayne is a 6-2 185-pounder from Rockport, who has been running from guard position. Last year he was a member of the South team in the North-South All-Star game. Wayne was also a halfback on the freshman football team. He is the team's second leading scorer.

Ed Zausch — Ed is a 6-8 center from St. Louis and must be considered one of the few good, big men to come to Evansville College.

Paul Bullard — Paul, who stands 6-4 and weighs 210 pounds, could be called the Dale Wise of the freshman team the way he uses his weight on the boards. He comes from Greensburg, Ind.

Dave Bennett — Dave is a 6-1 backcourt man from Martinsville. Since the start of the season he has worked his way from the bench to a starting role. He was also starting quarterback on the freshman football team.

Allen McCuteban — Allen is a 6-foot speedster from Evansville Bosse where he was one of Southern Indiana's best milers during the track season.

David Green — David, like Bullard, also comes from Greensburg. He is a 6-3 guard.

Rest of Squad

Several other boys on the squad have not seen quite as much action as the ones listed above. They are: Denny Brand of Kendallville, Ind.; Richard Bennett, of Martinsville, Ill.; Ron Kaetzel of New Harmony; Jim Fathera, of North Posey; Joe Blair, of Evansville Central; and Lanny West of Evansville Reitz.

DePauw Game

Against the DePauw freshmen last week Evansville's young squad took a 100-86 victory. It was the second win in three games. At halftime the quintet led by a lopsided 61-32.

Leading the Evansville cause was Briley with 22 points. He was followed by Boultinghouse with 19, Zausch 18, Dave Bennett 17, and Bullard 14.

Butler Unbeaten In Conference

INDIANAPOLIS — Butler University's Bulldogs kept rolling along last Saturday as they demolished previously undefeated Indiana State ball club 93-67.

The loss for the Staters was their first conference defeat of the season which left them with a 4-1 league record. The win for Coach Tony Hinkle's Bulldogs left them the only unbeaten team in the ICC with a 3-0 record. Butler has beaten the best three in the conference in Evansville, DePauw and now the Sycamores.

Evansville Topples Tigers As Wise Hits 28 to Lead Way

"We kept our poise tonight," stated Coach Arad McCutchan Saturday night after his Aces had just beaten a rugged DePauw team 94-79. "We didn t fall apart. When they came back a couple times in the second half we held them off.

"I thought we looked better than we have all season in certain spots out there tonight."

And that they did, as Evansville pulled down 68 rebounds compared to DePauw's 56, out-shot the Tigers 38 to 32 per cent, hit seven more free throws, and had five men in double figures led by Dale Wise with 28 points.

Jim Nosset, the Aces' big 6-4 center, chipped in 18, Walt Deal got 13, Marv Pruett picked up 12, and Tom Hamilton came through with his best game of the year with 10 points in a reserve roll.

DePauw Blows Lead

After falling behind 11-3 in the opening minutes of the contest, the Aces tied the count at 21-21 midway in the first half. The next thing Coach Elmer McCall and his Tigers knew, Evansville had a 30-21 lead that held up for the rest of the half. The Aces took a 52-40 margin into the dressing room with them.

DePauw chopped the lead to 61-60 and 63-62 as Evansville seemed to have one of their mental lapses on defense that they commonly come up with. But from here on in the issue was never in doubt.

The Aces out-scored DePauw 7-2 at this point to move into a commanding 71-64 lead that was never cut to less than six points.

Sanders on Bench

P. M. Sanders, Evansville's speedy guard from Petersburg, Indiana, sat on the sidelines as he watched Paul Utley, Lynn Mautz and Hamilton fill in for his vacated spot. Sanders injured an ankle during the Kentucky Wesleyan game last week at Owensboro. P. M. may be back for part-time action tomorrow night against Indiana State at the Stadium.

Spier And Anderson

Herb Spier and Dale Anderson were the big guns for the Tigers as they dropped in 23 and 20, respectively. Spier also grabbed 20 rebounds to share honors with Deal in that department.

S.G.A. Clarifies Marriage Rule

A very controversial social regulation recently has been the one concerning marriage.

Some have asked exactly what the rule is and others why such a rule is in effect at E.C. Below is the rule printed verbatim and the reasons for its being a part of our social regulations.

"A woman student to be married during the period — or between quarters — of her attendance at Evansville College must advise the Director of Women's Counseling at least a week before the wedding. A man student similarly must inform the Director of Men's Counseling. Violation of this rule may result in suspension from classes for a quarter or more, depending upon the decision of the Personnel Committee."

This marriage rule was made last year at the request of students who realized it was a usual one in many colleges and saw its merit in giving couples the time and encouragement:

1) to consider carefully before they marry such matters as the girl's chances of being able to continue or complete her education.
2) to make the wedding ceremony dignified and beautiful as befits its serious nature.
3) to obtain information on housing for married students.

The regulation also serves to prevent embarrassment to the college if a young woman should marry after becoming pregnant and remain in school.

It should be emphasized the student does not ask permission to marry but rather gives the date of the wedding. This regulation has already benefited both the students and the college.

We hope this provides a clarification of the regulation and its merits.

BULLETIN

Beginning with the next issue the Crescent will become a six-page paper according to the Special Publications committee of Evansville College.

With two more pages, the staff of the Crescent expects to be able to more fully cover the news of the students on campus reportes Nocl Patton, editor. He stated that the main reason for the additional pages is to give more coverage to the campus activities.

Shepard Arranges Concert Numbers

Stars in most fields of art are those persons who apply ingenuity and the individual touch to the commonplace. Evansville College has one of these original contributors in the field of music.

Next Monday the EC Band will present, among its 11 numbers, "Fantasie and Rondo" and "Valdres March." Each will have been arranged specially for the concert by Wesley Shepard, director of the band.

"Neither number could have been done: they were not usable in their original form," Professor Shepard says, and so he wrote the score along with a complete instrumentation.

It took an estimated 60 to 70 hours to convert the "Valdres March" written for Norwegian usage to American band instrumentation.

Shepard created saxophone and certain clarinet parts, rewrote important sections originally scored for the now seldom used E flat cornet and clarinet, and finally reconstructed the conductor's score from his final instrumentation.

Now that the manuscripts for the two numbers are completed, the band has two additional assets to its library.

"I try to do a couple of arrangements each year," Professor Shepard says. In the 15 years at Evansville College he has contributed between 75 and 100 arrangements.

"I like to do this for two reasons. First, by producing an arrangement your band has a little something others can't have. Then there is the personal satisfaction gained from doing something original."

The amount of time involved is tremendous.

Just this Sunday "I spent seven or eight hours writing parts for the contrabass clarinet," an instrument for which there are yet few printed parts made.

Professor Shepard is now arranging an old favorite overture for band, "Ruis Blas," which contains 1414 measures. By the time he writes 2,000 notes on the conductor's score for 30 instruments, he will have transcribed 60,000 notes. Transcription of the score onto reading manuscripts for 30 different instruments will double the work to 120,000 notes.

Just for one arrangement!

Even though he is pressed for time — being an instructor in music and co-head of the Music Department — Professor Shepard is enthusiastic about arranging new program material for the band.

"For a number that is different, somehow you'll find time to do it."

1450 Music Students Visit EC Campus

A new students-body-for-a-day will take over the EC campus tomorrow and next Saturday.

More than 1450 Indiana high school students, equal to the size of the Evansville College student body, will be swarming over campus during the two days of the district solo and ensemble contests.

Tomorrow, beginning at 8:30, approximately 475 contestants in piano, piano duet, string instrument and vocal work will play and sing before the judges in 16 rooms. Next week an even greater number will fill the campus.

Because the district committee relaxed restrictions on entries, the anticipated 475 entries will exceed last year's figure by almost 200.

Winners of this district contest, held here with the EC Music Department, will compete Feb. 18 in Indianapolis for state honors.

Judges will include Harrison Boughton, instructor in voice, who will work with the vocal contestants.

'Sound Of Music' Due From Band Monday

Concert to Feature Sola and Tria

Evansville College's Band plays selections from "The Sound of Music" and numbers featuring a clarinetist and trombone trio in its concert next Monday evening.

The 75-piece band will perform under the direction of Wesley Shepard starting at 8 o'clock at Bosse auditorium.

One number, "Valdres March," will be presented for the first time in concert. A copy of the music was presented to Professor Shepard by the Norwegian embassy.

Claude B. Smith, director of music and radio in Evansville public schools and former director of the Bosse High School Band, will conduct the Harry Simeone number, "Slide Kicks." It features the trombone trio of Jack Hamilton, freshman, Gerald Fox, senior, and Tom Lewis, sophomore.

Gerald Heiferman, will solo on the clarinet as the band plays "Fantasie and Rondo" by Weber. A senior, Heferman won the 1960 Musicians' Club Award.

Popular songs such as "Do, Re, Mi" and "Climb Every Mountain" will be among those played from Richard Rodgers' score, "The Sound of Music."

American composer Don Gillis' symphonic poem, "Tulsa," will describe in four stages the wilderness land where the City of Tulsa later was to grow, the homesteading, the bringing in of an oil well, and a celebration.

The complete program:

"In Dulci Jubilo," Christmas carol set down by Bach; "Prairie Overture," recently composed number by Robert Ward; "Valdres March" by Johannes Hannsen.

"Fantasie and Rondo" arranged by Director Wesley Shepard; "Tulsa" and "January February March" by Don Gillis; "Ariane Overture" by Louis Boyer.

Dr. V. Grabill On Nat. Panel

Dr. Virginia Grabill has accepted an invitation to the annual national meeting of the National Association of Women, Deans, and Counselors in Denver, Colo., March 23rd to the 26th.

Dr. Grabill will take part in a two-hour panel discussion on March 23.

Diana Harris Crowned 1961 Basketball Queen

Diana Harris, freshman nursing major from Chi Omega Sorority, was crowned 1961 Basketball Queen between halves of the EC-Indiana State game Saturday. She observed the second half from her throne surrounded by her court.

Diana Harris was crowned as Evansville College's 1961 Basketball Queen by Mike Spence, Student Government president, last Saturday during halftime ceremonies of the EC-Indiana State game. Members of her court were Janet Brashier, Alpha Omicron Pi candidate, who was runner-up; Janet Berry, Beta Sigma Omicron candidate; Sandra Hayden, from Moore Hall; and Connie Telfer of Phi Mu Sorority.

Representing Chi Omega, Diana is a graduate of Bosse High School and is a freshman majoring in nursing. While at Bosse, Diana reigned as basketball queen her junior year.

Diana was chosen queen by a five-point system based on personality (grace and poise), talent and beauty (face and figure) as was used for Homecoming queen. The judging was done by five persons not associated with the college.

Each candidate had a representative in the Queen's Court of Honor. They were Sandy Droll, representing Alpha Omicron Pi; Alice Shurtter, from Beta Sigma Omicron; Dixie Corn, of Chi Omega; Judy Risley, representing Moore Hall; and Karen Brizius of Phi Mu Sorority.

College Theater Satire Here On Wednesday

Tickets Available For 'The Madwoman'

Bare wooden platforms protrude into the seating area, an ornate wooden chair and iron bed stand out in the bare surroundings, drapes and props are in disarray—it's first night minus a week.

But the atmosphere changes as of next Wednesday at 8 o'clock.

A director, 28 actors and make-up men work on makeup at a hectic pace off-stage. Stage and lighting crews await expectantly. People coming in look for prime positions in the U-shape made possible by the three-quarter arena style seating, and their chatter filters back as music to the actors.

"The Madwoman of Chaillot" is opening.

This second major production of the College Theater runs Wednesday (Feb. 1), Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Director Sam Smiley has chosen this satirical fantasy, a successful Broadway production of 1948-49, which calls for seven major and 21 minor parts.

Starring as the mad Countess Aurelia who tries to rid her world of destroyers of happiness by enticing them into the famed sewers of Paris will be Rita Barton, senior.

Other major roles are taken by Doug Schuessler, David Shelton, Rosemary Shireman, Mary Talbert, Laurie Prokop and Byron Ihle.

Audience view should be more unobstructed, Director Smiley believes, because of the U-shaped seating around the raised platforms that jut out into the audience.

Reserved seats are available. A booth will be handling tickets in the Union at 10 a.m. beginning on Monday. The public relations office (Extension 33) is now taking reservations, in addition, for faculty and off-campus theater-goers.

TICKETS GO ON SALE FOR MASQUERADE BALL

Tickets go on sale Monday for an all-campus Mardi Gras Masquerade Ball scheduled for Feb. 24.

This Independent-sponsored dance will be in the Union's Great Hall. President James Coffey is sending announcements to organizations and also is inviting those not in organized groups.

Tapley Appointed To Ind. Standards Commission

Earl M. Tapley, head of the department of education, was recently appointed to a two-year term of the Indiana Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards.

The teaching profession has a national commission and a commission in each state on teacher education and professional standards. The function of these commissions in the development of higher standards of education for teachers in their general, special and professional areas by working with colleges and the national, state and local teacher organizations.

Dr. Tapley attended a meeting of the commission in Indianapolis, Indiana, last Saturday.

Book Losses At Library Run High

Losses of a large number of books last school year have caused college officials to take a second look at privileges granted students using Clifford Memorial Library.

The library is obtaining partitions, turnstiles and auxiliary equipment necessary to check students as they enter and leave the stacks and reading areas of the library.

Partitions already are being installed. Dr. Harding notes two purposes for them: (1) To divide library space so that students may be checked in and out adequately; and (2) to minimize noise disturbance and distraction from students passing to classes held in the library. He emphasized that the library will still retain the principle of open shelves which was adopted when the library building was opened four years ago.

"Casual" taking accounts for many of the missing books, Dr. Harding believes.

"Students gather their textbooks to leave the library," he says, "and forget they have included a library book that was not checked out."

A big factor in losses has been the freedom given off-campus persons to use library facilities. The library staff now is enforcing more stringent regulations particularly on high school students who may no longer take books from the college library.

During the 1948-59 period, an inventory by Dr. Harding and his staff shows, the college library lost about 1,000 volumes over a 11-year period.

"We do not have enough data to determine whether this is considered a normal loss among college libraries."

Dr. Philip Kinsey, associate professor of chemistry and chairman of the faculty library committee, said this week that students should be informed in advance of the reasons for restrictions in the use of the library.

'All Students Need Sound Philosophy,' Dr. Erickson

Philosophy is a big word for saying, "Myl Isn't it interesting to observe how people try to think." Or, more prosaically or academically, Philosophy is that function of human intellection which seeks to understand and interpret the date of human experience.

Religion is that aspect of human experience which seeks to conserve and extend the highest acknowledged values.

Value is a general word to indicate those qualities or complexes of inhering in persons, objects, or events which when they are perceived evoke a sense of interest, appreciation or desire. The normative science which studies and standardizes value experiences is called axiology.

In the usual axiological classifications the kinds of value experiences which are given the rank of "higher values" (although of course the "lower values" are also necessary and all values coalesce) are Esthetic Values and Religious Values. You have heard of Truth, Goodness, Beauty and Holiness, as the respective goals to be attained by the cultivation and study of these four higher value areas.

Most literate persons will acknowledge that in the first named area sound scientific methods are important in order to achieve normative results. This is evident in the universal agreement concerning the truth value of "right" answers in elementary mathematics or logic and other "simple" sciences.

But, unfortunately, many otherwise literate persons do not apply the same kind of sound reasoning to their experiences in art, morality and religion. These areas are, of course, much more complex than the former. But their complexity is no excuse for abandoning the effort to arrive at normative judgments or "right" answers here too as well as in the less complex areas.

This is the task of esthetics, ethics and the philosophy of religion. Students who are capable of scientific reasoning and who are sincere in their search for truth will certainly want to be well prepared in the fields of their vocational choices. Therefore anyone whose professional work is to be in the fine arts ought to be well trained in esthetics, and anyone whose professional work is to be in religious service ought to study philosophy of religion. (And not just one course but several related courses!)

To be scientifically sound in one's thinking about these complex experiences is perhaps even more important than it is in the more delimited areas such as mathematics, agriculture or economics, for the very reason that the one type of experience is more complex than the other and therefore more liable to error.

The editor asked for it, so there it is. The above paragraphs are a plea for expanded scope of axiological studies. And more specifically, they are an argument for the indispensable importance of developing a sound philosophy of religion.

"Great devotion requires great sacrifice."
Lao-tsze

May we offer this word about security. or rather the quest for same. There appears to be deep concern for the future of the world, our nation, ourselves. This concern was manifested by the interest shown in th erecent national elections.

(The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily represent those of the Crescent or Evansville College . . . Ed)

But the primary concern of everyone is the personal security anticipated in his future — the security of a good job, adequate retirement plan and favorable promotion programs in business.

There tends to be a stronger trek toward externals with only a secondary interest about inner security.

The real security — sought by so many — lies within. We do not refer to the security of religion, although this may be the path for many.

The inner tranquillity we speak of comes from the knowledge of personal abilities — the development of personal talent or potential.

The ultimate goal should be the expansion, the development of whatever abilities we possess. Not through altruistic motivation but should grow out of the need for self-expression and personal gratifieation.

If mankind benefits from our self-development let it be a secondary concern. Only through pure and perfect control of self can the progress we anticipate come to pass.

Whatever the road of self-development such as business, art, religion, nursing, farming, let the committment be total.

In the depth of every soul lies the waters of ability and only through concentrated seeking will the fountain of accomplishment spring forth. Sideroads of mundane existence cannot be tolerated. Only the lonely life of solitary exploration for truth offers the security we seek.

May this be the Janus period of our search.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

There is a movie which will soon run here in Evansville called "Where The Boys Are." It is the Hollywood version of the book of the same name. I am eagerly awaiting it. and I thought perhaps if I told you why, you too would want to see it.

Around Easter time there is a modern day exodus of college students to the fabled shores of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. This fictionalized story actually shows what happens during this period each year.

I've been down there the past two years, and I've read the book, and I want to see the picture so I can re-live a part of the good times — at least in my mind. If I hadn't been down or read the book, I would certainly want to see what goes on when 20 to 40 thousand college students descend on a resort town with one purpose in mind — fun. This is not payolla!

Also in the field of Drama you will want to note the upcoming college production of "Mad Woman of Chaillot." It starts next Wednesday, the first, and runs through Saturday, the fourth. Showtime 8:00 P.M. at the Fine Arts Building, admission free with your activity ticket. Past experiences predict this should be well worth your time.

In the wake of recent airplane crashes this morbid tidbit came forth. It seems a person was seated comfortably in a plane which had just taken off when the public address system came on. The following announcement was made. "This is Captain Dopp speaking. We are traveling at 25,000 feet, at a ground speed of 400 mph. This plane is completely automatically controlled by a new process. In fact I am talking to you from the ground by recording. The system is set up so that it never fails, never fails, never fails . . ."

A presidential election sidelight that may be of interest to you comes from my hometown of Chicago. During the Republican convention there this summer three T.V. stations carried the convention and the other one carried cartoons, class "Z" movies, etc. A survey showed that over 50% of Chicago viewers watched the station that didn't carry the convention. You can lead a horse to water but you can't . . . well, here we go again.

Visit To Sparta

with Gary Seller

No individual Greek news will appear in this column this week because of the lack of interest on the part of some of the organizations on campus. Out of 8 fraternities and sororities only 3 reported their news.

It is the opinion of the Crescent staff that it would be better to discontinue this column rather than to show, what some people would call, partiality.

The big news this week concerns the pledge dance that is appropriately called "Visit to Sparta." The dance is to be held tonight from 9 to 12 in the Great Hall.

Anyone may attend as long as one member of the couple is in a Greek organization. The tickets for the dance are $1.75 which can be purchased in the Union Lobby or at the dance.

This year the dance is being jointly sponsored by the Jr. Panhellenic and the Jr. Inter-Fraternity Council. The profits from the dance will go to a charitable organization in the form of a gift.

The decorations for the dance will be in the form of columns and statues to depict an ancient Greek scene. The colors for the dance will be white, black and gold.

Linc Production Meets Another Schedule Deadline

More than one-third of the LinC pages have been completed and the staff, editor Jim Sanders says, is in a good position to meet the next deadlines.

Sent to the printer last week were four sections of 16 pages each and all division pages.

Twenty yearbook division pages will be printed in color as will be the title page. Because the color printing is done first, Taylor Publishing Co., yearbook printer, has early deadlines for pages using color.

Sections completed, Sanders reports, are those on the seniors, "After Deadline," campus life and faculty.

For the second deadline, Feb. 15, the staff will send in sections on advertising, fine arts, the fraternities and sororities, and part of the section on organizations.

Of the 192 pages in the 1961 LinC, Sanders says 76 pages have been sent in and approximately 70 more will be ready for the February deadline.

TEA HONORING SCHOLARS BECOMING ANNUAL EVENT

A tea yesterday honoring the 10 National Methodist Scholars, according to Dr. Arthur Mansure, will become an annual event on the EC campus.

President Hyde set aside this hour to greet guests from the college.

Dr. H. Owen Long, registrar, and Dr. Authur Mansure, director of religious life, spoke on academic and religious responsibilities of those holding National Methodist Scholarships.

Students presently holding these scholarships are Ian Elmendorf, Bonnie June Friar, Judy Graul, Samuel Lee Kershar, Sharon Miller, Myrna Sampson, Gail Savage, Doris Stonecipher, Loretta Westerman and Carolyn Wilber.

One can hold such a scholarship for a maximum of two years.

94 Education Majors Teach In Local Schools

All education majors — 94 altogether — are now practice teaching in order to receive their teacher certificates. Most of the practice teachers are seniors but some are college graduates earning teaching certificates.

Students in elementary education normally spend mornings in the schools practice teaching and take 12 additional hours of college classes.

Elementary trainees must spend their entire senior year practice teaching, since they only spend three hours each day at the schools. Elementary education majors must have no less than a 2-point (C) average in general education and 3-point (B) average in elementary methods courses.

There are now forty students doing practice teaching in elementary education at sixteen elementary schools. Some of the schools are Burkhardt, Centennial, Culver, Dexter, Harper, Henry Reis, Stanley Hall, and Washington.

High school student teachers are seniors, with the exception of occasional college graduates who return to college to qualify for a teaching license. They spend the entire day in the high schools, with the exception of an 8 a.m. class on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday in Secondary School Guidance that meets on the college campus.

The student preparing for high school teaching completes his teaching assignment in one quarter of the senior year. After the teaching day is over the high school student teacher attends a special class in methods of teaching his subject area.

These teacher trainees must have a B average in their major fields to qualify for student teaching. Fifty-four students are now in the program of practice teaching in the high schools. The schools are Bosse, Central, North, and Reitz.

Campus Quotes . . .

Speaking to EC budding journalists on job prospects, "There is some impression that the newspaper profession is going to . . . the females." — Bruce Temple, editor of the Bloomington Herald-Telephone.

What would Jesus be like if he were attending Evansville College? asked Coach McCutchan at the chapel service. "He would probably be an all-round athlete — forgive me if I suggest he be at least 6-feet-6."

COMPANY REPRESENTATIVE ON CAMPUS NEXT WEEK

Representatives of three firms will be on campus next week to interview students concerning job placement.

Factory Insurance Company will be here next Wednesday to talk to accounting students. Indiana Bell Telephone and Western Electric representatives will come next Thursday and Friday.

Students who wish an interview should contact Dr. Robert Thompson.

Circle K To Test Campus Citizenship

The Circle K Club of Evansville College, affiliated with Kiwanis International, has started a new project called "CQ," to show individual students their "Citizenship Quotient."

To find out what your "CQ" is answer (1) yes (2) sometimes (3) no to the following questions:

1. I am active in projects and organizations set up to better my campus.....
2. I take keen interest in matters brought before my student government.....
3. I am vitally interested in and concerned about who the candidates are for officers in student government.....
4. I vote in every campus and other elections for which I am eligible.....
5. What happens in local, state and national affairs concern me greatly.....
6. I am active in the political party of my choice.....
7. I advise my representative on campus and in the community, state and nation of my opinion on important legislation.....
8. I feel that a man in his public duties should be above reproach.....
9. I am willing to participate in the public service wherever such opportunities present themselves .....
10. I take a vital interest in all matters of education.....
11. The achievement of high education goals and broad personal development are of prime importance to me.....
12. I have formulated my own personal philosophy of life.....
13. I apply the highest moral and ethical principles in my daily living.....
14. I rebel against false and misleading advertising.....
15. I always demonstrate that safe driving is my "Code of the Road".....
16. The church of my choice receives my constant support by attendance, gifts and service.....
17. I understand what is meant by "free enterprise" and I can explain it to anyone.....
18. What happens to the tax dollar is of extreme importance to me.....
19. I understand the threat of communism and its relation to me .....
20. I consider that the success of a democracy depends upon the interest and concern of each citizen.....

Now that you have finished, rate your "CQ" by giving 5 points for (1) yes, 3 points for (2) sometimes, and 1 point for (3) no. A very effective citizen would have about 85 or 95 points and the average citizen between 60-70. If you would like to have your "CQ" test included in the all-campus survey take these set of questions to the Union Lobby and put them in the container marked "CQ."

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Evansville College's intramural basketball league opened Wednesday night in the "powder room" on the north side of our campus. For the first time in many a moon a real good intramural program has been moved into the girl's gym.

In past years the program has been carried out in the city grade-schools without any trouble at all, but it seems as though some of our big mean college boys broke into a locker last year. This put a stop to the use of the grade schools for the intramural games and the Armory is "unavailable."

It's a shame that a good program that contains some excellent talent, has to be put into a gym that has hot pipes running down the sides of the walls. And speaking of the wall, let me remind the intramural teams not to fastbreak over there or they'll run into the walls that are right next to the basket.

Actually, we're all grateful for the use of the gym because there wouldn't be any intramural league without it.

I know about 100 boys who will sure appreciate the new athletic building that will be started this summer.

ACES LEAD

Evansville was tops in the ICC in team offense averaging over 90 a game for the first five contests. The Aces were also leading the league in rebound averages with 65 per contest.

One of the other statistics the Aces were leading without preference, was the personal foul column. Evansville has committed 114 personals in five games, including five disqualifications.

WHAT A JINX

I said last week the Aces had only lost one game to an ICC opponent in the Stadium. So what happens, they immediately drop their second one in four years.

Coach McCutchan's gang had won 26 games in succession in the Stadium before dropping the heartbreaker to Indiana State last week. DePauw was the last conference team to throw a wrench into the Aces' works. They did it 70-63 during the '56-'57 season.

NOT A SHOOTER?

WISE

Dale Wise was about the only bright spot for the Aces Saturday night, as the Big Daddy from Kokomo dropped through 34 points. Wise, "not a-shooter" by his own admittance, pushed in 12 of 33 shots from the field and 10 of 12 from the charity line.

It was the second week in a row that Dale had hit 10 free throws. Last Saturday against DePauw he got 10 of 11.

The most impressive thing about Wise's performance Saturday night was his 30 rebounds. After the third week of conference action he is leading in three of the five departments. He's tops in rebounding with 97, points, 135; and an average of over 26 per contest.

Walt Deal is fourth in the conference in rebounding and Marty Herthel dropped out of the standings for the first week since the opening of the season.

It is quite a tribute to Herthel to be ranked in rebounding, because he generally plays less than half of the game.

Evansville College's Jim Nossett, "the smallest center in college basketball," doesn't look so small here although he won't get too many baskets doing it this way.

NCAA Champs Take On Ball Staters Tomorrow

The Ball State Cardinals will be in town tomorrow night to try to avenge an earlier season loss as they meet the Evansville College Purple Aces at Roberts Municipal Stadium.

Before the Cardinals game with the Indiana State last Tuesday, they had a 2-3 conference record and a 9-6 over-all record. Last week end Ball State stopped Earlham 85-65.

Junior Mike Readnour is the team's leading scorer and rebounder. The 6-3 forward is averaging nearly 15 points per game and 13 rebounds per contest. Bill O'Neal, 6-1, senior, will be going at the other forward position.

Playing the pivot will be big Bob Stewart, who goes at 6-9. Against Eastern Michigan this year, the big senior blocked 13 shots. During the interstate classic he averaged 14 points and 12.5 rebounds per game. Bob went to high school at Speedway of Indianapolis.

Starting Guards

Any two of three sophomore guards might get the call to go in the backcourt. John Kunze, a 6-2 lefty from LaPorte, is averaging around 10 points per game. Howard Wilkison, who goes at an even 6-0, is also averaging nearly 10 per game. The former Clarksburg athlete scored seven points in the final two minutes of the Eastern Michigan game to pull it out of the fire for the Cardinals. Dan Thurston, a 6-1 Shelbyville native, who has had trouble with a back injury, is scoring around nine per game.

Coach Hinga

Jim Hinga is starting his seventh year as head basketball coach with a cumulative record of 62 wins and 77 losses. After graduating from Purdue in 1948, Hinga coached at West Lafayette High School and then at Fort Wayne North Side, where he also graduated. After coaching at North for two years, Hinga moved to Ball State in 1954. He also serves as freshman track coach in the spring.

Going for Evansville will be Dale Wise and Walt Deal at the forwards, Jim Nossett in the pivot and at the guards will be Marv Pruett and either P. M. Sanders or Paul Utley. Sanders, out the last two games because of an injury, might see action.

The Aces will carry their 6-11 over-all record into the game and a 3-2 conference slate. The Aces are now fourth in the conference and the Cardinals, before the Indiana State game, were in fifth place.

Nossett Sees 'About Enough' Of One Player

By Temme Patterson

"I believe I've seen enough of that Dardeen (Howard) fellow to last me a life-time," were the opening words of Evansville's Jim Nossett.

Dardeen, who dropped in 20 points Saturday night for Indiana State against the Aces, was the main cog that "killed our chances of a State Championship when I played at Princeton in High School."

A graduate of Princeton High School in Indiana, Nossett engineered a drive for a state championship during his junior year.

As Jim tells it, "We got to the final game of the Semi-State and here came Dardeen and there we went. We kept with them until the last quarter but they were just too much for us."

Jim went on, "Just like Mac said, we out-rebounded them but we threw the ball away too many times. I think we can beat them if we hold onto the ball a little."

After starting slowly this season, the 6-4 senior has become a consistent man on the Aces' squad. He dropped in 17 last Saturday against Indiana State.

"That was probably one of my better games, but I had a good game up there at Butler. I was hitting real well at Ohio State too for a half, but in the second half somebody started yelling 'Here he comes again' when I drove for the basket. That ended my good game up there. It seemed as though when this one joker yelled, the whole team would shift onto me."

Standing a mere 6-4 isn't any bargain for a center.

Jim said, "I guess I'm probably the smallest college center in the country. Nobody else this small would attempt to play center, but that's where Mac wants me so that's where I'll play. Walt (Deal) and Dale (Wise) are both taller than me, but I still play center. The shortest man I've faced was 6-5 and the tallest was that monster at Los Angeles (7-3)"

While at Princeton, Jim made the All-SIAC and All-State teams before enrolling here. After the heartbreaking defeat to Terre Haute his junior year, Jim came right back to lead his Princeton ball club to another sectional win before being beaten by powerful Lincoln in the Evansville Semi-State.

When asked about the Indiana State game Saturday night Jim stated, "We should have beaten them Saturday and Butler stole one from us too. We'll beat Hinkle's bunch down here. They're not that good. With a couple of breaks we could have stopped them up there."

How about Ohio State?

"They are by all means the best I've played against. With or without Jerry Lucas they are great. That was the toughest defense I've played against."

Defense brought up a new subject for Nossett to contemplate on.

"We have been using a man-to-man shifting thing all year. In fact we've been using it for the four years I've been here. In the past it has worked pretty well, but these conference teams are catching on. The boys on the team all think we would do a little better if we tried a zone every once in a while.

"Kentucky Wesleyan really murdered our man-to-man. I think a zone would stop their funny offense. They have a real good ball club. That Auten (Gary) is great and Thompson (Winny) didn't help us any."

Between Auten and Thompson, they dropped in 72 points, 10 less than the entire Evansville team.

What's going to happen tomorrow night was the next question asked of Nossett?

"Well, we'll win, or things won't be very pleasant next week. By the way, they weren't too peaceful this week."

Frosh Top State In 74-57 Rout

Evansville College's freshman basketball team coasted to its third victory of the season against one defeat last Saturday night as they stopped the Indiana State Saplings 74-57.

The frosh Aces turned in another fine team effort, having four players score in double figures. Dave Bennett, a guard who has come into his own in the last couple games, was high man with 17 points. Big Ed Zausch, playing one of his better games, scored 16. Buster Briley and Wayne Boultinghouse, usually the high-point men for the frosh added 15 points each.

Dave Bennett and Boultinghouse each scored two baskets before halftime to give Evansville a 34-23 lead at the end of the first period. Three minutes after the second half had started the young Aces were leading 46-25.

Sycamores Cut Down Macmen In 105-102 Double Overtime

"We out-rebounded them by ten but we gave them the ball so many times they outscored us," was a comment made by Arad McCutchan just after his Purple Aces had been stopped by Indiana State in a double overtime. 105-102, last Saturday night.

The Aces made 28 errors to the Sycamores 12, but still controlled the boards, getting 10 more rebounds than State. Dale Wise personally picked off 30 for Evansville.

With the score tied at 83-all at the end of regulation play, the Sycamores took the lead, paced by subs Steve Newton and Ray Goddard, and never trailed, although the score was tied several times.

The score at the end of the first overtime period was 93-all. It was at this point that State took charge, as they pulled away to a 99-93 advantage. Evansville closed the gap to one point several times after that but never could get the equalizer.

Wise paced the Aces with 34 points in one of his best efforts. He was followed by Marv Pruett with 19 points, Jim Nossett with 17 and Marty Herthel with 12.

In a brilliant team effort, Indiana State had six players score in double figures. Howard Dardeen lead the attack with 20 points, Johnny Robins had 18, Ray Goddard 17, Wally Webb 14, Steve Newton 14, and Warren Ross 12. Webb was their leading rebounder with 17.

Butler Widens Lead In ICC

Butler is expected to hold on to their conference lead this weekend as they play host to St. Joseph's, the cellar dweller of the league.

The Bulldogs are setting the pace of the conference with a clean 4-0 record, while St. Joe is bringing up the rear with a 0-6 record.

EC Change To University 'Inevitable'

EVANSVILLE COLLEGE
CRESCENT

Volume XLII, Number 14 | Evansville, Indiana | Friday, February 3, 1961

Pres. Hyde Outlines Development

Evansville College is moving toward becoming the University of Evansville, according to Dr. Melvin W. Hyde, EC president, at a recent meeting of the Downtown Kiwanis Club.

Dr. Hyde, speaking before the group for the first time in five and a half years, said, "The University of Evansville will be a reality when additional enrollment forces the Trustees to move in this direction. I believe the step is inevitable. It will come within the next few years."

"We now have a School of Engineering, a highly accredited School of Nursing, and a Community College. These three areas represent the type of division you have in a University-type of organization. The next logical steps would include a College of Liberal Arts, College of Business Administration, College of Education, College of Fine Arts, and a Graduate Division," Dr. Hyde said in outlining the possibilities of Evansville College.

President Hyde also said that EC was listed as one of the three outstanding colleges in the State of Indiana by a well-known Indiana University Dean.

The educator spoke to the Downtown Kiwanis Club upon his arrival at Evansville to become president of EC in 1955 and closed his remarks at the recent meeting with the same words as at the first speech.

"If higher education should become exclusively a function of the state, it would be the most serious catastrophe that could happen to America. In a day when the state is becoming more and more important and the individual less and less, independent colleges are our strongest citadels of freedom. Because of their standards and influence, even politically controlled colleges enjoy a real measure of freedom in teaching and intellectual inquiry.

"Because of the vitality and strength of our independent college, the pulpit, the press, and the political forums are still free. It is no exaggeration to say that the future of democracy depends upon the colleges and universities that are independent of political control. If they should be crippled or starved, the day will come when the people of America will be taught only the dogmas of the party in power.

"I believe in the truth of this statement just as firmly today."

President Hyde did not set a definite date for the change.

Merchants Want University Change In '62

(2) Women's Dormitory
(3) Fine Arts Building

(6) Central Dining Hall
(7) Classroom Building

Businessman Reveals Idea On University

Members of the Downtown Merchants Association have recently discussed plans to advance the date of Evansville College's change of status to a university, according to a member who said he wished to remain anonymous.

He said the merchants who discussed aid to the college wanted to advance the date for the change to 1962.

The merchant said that the plans were not officially a part of the Association's program but had been talked over outside the meetings.

Here are some of the plans he revealed:

To provide a fund whereby loans could be made for building sorority houses and remodeling present fraternity houses or building new fraternity houses. The fund would also be used to encourage more national frotemal organizations to come to the Evansville College campus.

To provide more job opportunities for students.

To make funds available for students as loans, to be paid back after graduation on a plan similar to government loans. These loans are paid back after graduation starting at a pre-set date, beginning in small amounts and increasing as the graduate becomes able to enlarge the payments.

The plans also might include money for more construction, including more dormitories on campus, he said.

The merchants believe the growth of Evansville also, the merchant said.

"Although we are civic-minded and want the college to provide outstanding education, I must confess that we are looking at the problem from a practical standpoint also," he said.

The merchant said that a survey indicated that out-of-town students spend approximately $1000 per year besides tuition and books and the present enrollment figures of more than 1500 includes 50 per cent out-of-town students. This would mean that out-of-town students bring into Evansville approximately $750,000 annually.

(The Crescent obtained figures which coincide with the amount stated by the merchant but found that students who live at home in Evansville probably spend more than the others by virtue of the fact they stay in Evansville and do not take the money away from here. It was estimated that the student who lives at home spends $2000 each year in Evansville that he would take to another town if he were attending college there.)

The merchant stated definitely the plans were not a part of the Downtown Retail Merchants Association program but were items discussed by members unofficially.

Decade of Progress Ahead

Much Building Planned

Possible university status for Evansville College affords the opportunity of looking back to see how much has been accomplished and looking forward to note what is in prospect.

The five years under President Melvin W. Hyde and the Board of Trustees have been productive. The next 10, the president indicates, could bring the additional changes that would make possible expansion into a university.

Here is the interesting comparison:

Trustees Believe Move Toward University Possible

A number of the Board of Trustees members are thinking in terms of eventual university status for Evansville College, but the Board is taking the step-at-a-time progress necessary in such a move.

"It is believed that Board members generally would look with favor on it," commented F. Bayard Culley, president of the 48-member group, concerning the question of an Evansville University.

"The Board has not explored the question too far." So far, Culley indicated Monday, there have been no deep studies made by this policy-making body. "We have talked about it in generalities."

The next logical question, How soon?

"I don't know how far away it is. The results of the financial campaign now underway will have some bearing on the speed with which we proceed toward the university setup. The change of administrative organization will no doubt be a reality when student enrollments have been increased."

Board President Culley is encouraged by the progress so far. Evansville College can be seen to be developing a "trend" along that line, he says.

"I know that setting up the Community College and establishing the School of Engineering and the School of Nursing are steps in this direction."

Engineering On Move Ahead

The School of Engineering is one indication that Evansville College is gradually moving toward university status. "We are in a better position to change," says Prof. William O. Hartsaw, director of the School of Engineering, "and it would be less noticeable to us."

"I think there are definite advantages for becoming a university," commented Prof. Hartsaw. "The entire college would gain more professional prestige nationally and draw more students."

Graduate and research programs will be the most important new change possible in the engineering courses. Not too much administrative shift is foreseen by Prof. Hartsaw. Classes will continue to meet national regulations and, therefore, will not change greatly.

Education Dept. Changes Planned

The Education Department will play an important role in graduate work because it is likely most of those taking graduate work will be teachers, according to Dr. Earl Tapley, Education Dept. head.

For some time the department has been studying the needs of graduate education for teachers in Southern Indiana. Some long-range plans have been developed for a master's degree for elementary teachers.

Such a program would also lead to master's programs for high school teachers, guidance counselors, and perhaps, administrators.

Officials, however, stress that this is only in the formative stage and much additional planning and study will be required before specific proposals are developed.

One of the requirements of the new program will be additional library facilities. A wide range of books and research materials will be needed. The new courses would also require additional faculty, Tapley said.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

Say, did you know that our union was the only one in the State of Indiana that operated in the black financially last year? Dh I know that it is set up so that it has to, but $25,000. Seems like they could knock a few pennies off of those high food prices and still make money. All that it actually has to make is expenses, and on top of that no one could deny a surplus of $1000 should be adequate.

I guess that the biggest worry in our minds as students is where does the money go? Someone suggested that perhaps it could go to bring some big name talent to the union for concerts. A small admission could be charged and the union profit used to subsidize the rest of the cost. How would you like to see George Shearing, Stan Kenton, etc? Kirk Stuart went over tremendously, and he is relatively obscure.

With all of this talk about Pres. Kennedy playing touch football, sailing, being an athlete, etc, I came up with a solution to the cold war. Right before the next world olympic games Pres. Kennedy should challenge Mr. Krushchev to an arm wrestling match — for the world. So we might have to switch from bourbon to vodka if we lost.

Upperclassman on lecturing to a freshman: "When I try to explain E.C. college life to a greenie, I get all wraped up in my work."

With Lent approaching I have decided to give up giving up things. This puts me on a moral strain but I guess I can handle it.

With fraternity rush going on I would like you to take a look at the Greeks on our campus. They are often the butt of critisism, and far too seldomly are recipients of the acknowledgement they deserve. They are in almost every activity on campus, and in fact usaully hold the leadership of these activities. They are responsible for most of the social life, and yet their grades are much higher than the all campus average. In spite of adverse critisism they remain, and have remained for as long as 100 years. There must be something more to them than wild parties and pledge harassment.

Freshman Dora Tsai Misses Hong Kong

Hong Kong is less thna 400 square acres, yet over four million people live there. That's about like reducing Evansville to one-fifth its size and still have t41,000 people living here.

But to pretty Dora Tsai, Evansville College freshman, it is home.

A home economics major, Dora is attending school on a tuition scholarship. Her older brother, Steve, is a junior here at EC. Taking time out from her studies, Dora relates a fascinating story about her homeland, its problems, customs, and way of life.

Honk Kong is a British Crown Colony free from any political connection with Communist China. It is an island separated from the mainland by a 2-mile-wide strait. There are ferries between the island and the mainland but travel is restricted.

The island is very mountainous and thickly populated. What we could call "the country" doesn't exist on Hong Hong, she says. All the people dwell in apartments and tall buildings to conserve space.

According to Dora, the mountains are being pulled down and the dirt dumped into the harbor to make more land space. The area is at first made into a parking lot. When the ground hardens, housing units are erected. Much progress has been made since the project was first started a few years ago.

In Hong Kong there is no "uptown" as we know it in the United States. Shops are scattered over the island. Fruits and vegetables are sold in curbside markets.

There are no clothing stores — everything is custom-made, and tailoring is one of the more thriving businesses. Articles such as food and clothing are extremely cheap due to the fact that there is no tax on imported goods.

Motion pictures is one of the most common forms of entertainment. Theatres are prominent all over the island. American-made movies, according to Dora, lost much of their prestige when "The World of Susie Wong" was filmed on location in Hong Kong but with false props, costumes, and backgrounds.

Two kinds of high schools exist in Hong Kong. One is completely taught by the Chinese system and the other by the British system. Students are given their choice of systems, but it is not easy to get into any high school because of the tremendous population.

Dora's school, Sacred Heart Cannossian College, is one of the larger high schools in Hong Kong with 4000 students, all girls. It is a Catholic school subsidized by the British government. Most of the instructors are Italian nuns.

The only college is the University of Hong Kong. It is taught entirely on the English system. It is difficult to get accepted. Two extra years of high school study are required. Even then one is not assured of passing entrance exams at the University. Out of 3000 applicants every year, only 400 are accepted as freshmen, she notes. This is why many students go abroad.

The biggest event of the year in Hong Kong is the celebration of the Chincse New Year which falls on the first of January according to the Chinese calendar. The official calendar of the people is the European one, but there still exists a Chinese calendar that is approximately two months behind the European timetable.

The celebration, which begins on February 14 this year, is marked by several traditions and customs. Branches of peach and plum trees are displayed in homes to signify this advent of a new year. Everyone buys new clothes for the holiday and gifts are given to the children in the form of red packages containing, of all things, money.

On "New Years Eve" entire families gather together for a dinner. Afterwards they visit the fair which lasts into the night. The Feast of the Lanterns, or popularly called "Everybody's Birthday," concludes two weeks of celebration for which housewives make all sorts of foods.

Hong Kong, located in the Tropic of Cancer, has pleasant weather. The temperature rarely dips below 50 degree in the winter or goes above 100 in the summer. Hurricanes, known in the Drient as "typhoons," constitute the greater danger of the summer season. They occur frequently, but few of them damage life and property to any great extent.

The foremost problem the storms bring is the destruction of the ramshackle huts on the mountain peaks which are constantly being blown over. These simple dwellings are built by refugees from Red China who pour into Hong Kong illegally and take up residence in the hilly sections.

When a typhoon strikes, charity drives are organized to help these homeless people. Multi-storied resetdement buildings are being erected by the city to aid the acute housing problem.

Everything halts when a typhoon alert is out. Dora admits having taken a somewhat sarcastic attitude toward typhoons in that, "It always gave us a vacation from school and we would go to the movies and just have a ball."

Dora is impressed by the friendliness of Americans everywhere. A resident of Moore Hall, she enjoys dorm life. Slang never fails to intrigue her. Dora relates that she is always hearing some new slang expression which she does not understand. It was her roommate, Julia Smith of Warren, Ind., who had to explain where "john" was and why he was such a popular fellow.

Dora has found American food rather difficult to get used to. In Hong Kong, where food is purchased on the street, everything is fresh. Here the cooked and highly seasoned foods are hard to digest. Contrary to all of this, Dora loves pizza.

For a girl whose home is on the opposite side of the globe, homesickness should not be unnatural. What Dora misses most is simply called in her own words, "the way of life." She does not plan to return home until following graduation. In the meantime she wants to work in New York during the summer.

Ralph W. Waterman plays the small keyboard that activates 25 English melody bells. They provide the music emonating from the Administration Building Tower.

There Will Be No Rock'n Roll On Carillons, Says Waterman

Larry Pond
Crescent Staff Writer

In show business they might call him the "man behind the scene," but at Evansville College we will call him the "man behind the sound."

The man is Ralph W. Waterman, assistant professor of music, who performs so capably on EC's modern carillon. And what, one might ask, is a carillon? Well, Webster's Dictionary defines a carillon as, "A set of bells, each producing one tone of the chromatic scale."

The term "bells" is misleading when speaking about the type used in the tower of EC's Administration Building. The carillon in the Ad Building is electronically powered, and the only similarity between the electronic device and the actual bells, outside of tonal qualities, is the bronze metal involved.

Evansville College's carillon has 25 English melody bells with a tonal equivalent of 79,462 tons of cast bells. And Mr. Waterman is not wrong when he says, "If we put those in the tower of the Administration Building, the whole structure would fall."

The "bells," which can be heard throughout the east side of the city, are housed in one small room on the top floor of the 'A' Building. The sound of the bells is amplified and comes out over a loud speaker.

Contrary to popular belief, Mr. Waterman does not ring the bells at time intervals. A clock attachment allows them to play the traditional Westminster sequence on the hour and at the quarter marks of the clock from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. daily.

The cost of EC's carillon was $4,463. They were given to the college by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hutchings in memory of their son who was killed in 1952. A plaque in the Administration Building reads: "To add melody to life and to bring music to the soul of man. The carillon in this college is given in loving memory of our son, Martin Van Buren Hutchings, class of 1952. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Hutchings."

The keyboard, which Mr. Waterman uses, can be played anywhere as long as the cord is connected to the main unit.

Sons Of Profs Rated High

Sons of two EC professors are rated among the top 10 per cent in National High School Students in the Westinghouse National Science Talent Search.

Dne is Sidney Kushner, son of Joseph B. Kushner, prof. of engineering. Kushner's project was research in the operation of alternating current from an electrochemical cell.

The other is Charles Robertson, son of biology prof. Dr. C. W. Robertson. His project concerned the possibilities of electroluminescence in tranmission of color modulated light signals.

The two boys are among 399 high school seniors who were chosen for a trip to Washington, D. C. From these 399, 40 top prize winners are chosen. Winners receive scholarships and cash prizes.

Dept. Names A Problem 'College Or School'?

The title could be "School of Education" or "College of Education," when this and other divisions of Evansville College gain "college" rank. Would the name make any difference?

The naming problem will arise as EC goes to university status.

College is the term brought over from the British colleges that make up Oxford and Cambridge universities. It was used for the earliest American institutions of higher education. "College" became associated with the units which offered studies along broad intellectual foundations.

So this was applied in connection with the "college of liberal arts," "college of arts and sciences," or "college of literature, science and the arts." (An example: Harvard College, when started in 1636.)

Confusion exists concerning whether an institution is a "college" or a "university."

Much confusion is possible, too, for the U.S. has 141 institutions termed universities and 789 liberal arts colleges.

Colleges usually are of the liberal arts type, offer no graduate training, may or may not have programs of professional and technological study, and are usually distinguished by their size — most enroll between 100 and 5,000 students.

Universities most often include several colleges, and offer not only liberal arts but a wide range of technological and professional programs and the varied degrees to go with them. Most large schools are universities. (Example: California U. with all its divisions in 1959 had enrolled 44,816 to be the largest; Indiana U. ranked No. 10 with 24,649 students.)

The confusion arises from instances such as this. A small liberal arts institution in Kansas incorporated itself as Baker University. At the other extreme, is the large university which is named Boston College.

Would it be proper to say, "College of Fine Arts" or "School of Fine Arts?"

Original usage applied the term "College" to the unit offering general undergraduate education (arts and sciences) and "School" to the units offering professional instruction in law, music, medicine, as well as others.

Then came along the institutions offering teacher training and called themselves "teachers colleges." Other college-type units, wanting to ride the bandwagon toward more training in the professions, called themselves "schools."

What's in a name, anyway?

College Moves Ahead In Step With Times

A resume of EC's history is pertinent at this time, according to Dr. Thomas S. Harding, Librarian.

Moores Hill College was established in 1854 and reobartered as Evansville College in 1919. The college operated for three years on Fifth and Vine Streets in downtown Evansville. Classes began on June 12, 1922, when the Administration Building was completed.

The first edition of the Crescent was issued on Tuesday, October 21, 1919. At the same time classes were beginning in the Ad Building, Mr. M. Phillips Price was writing on the Russian Revolution. He was a correspondent for the Manchester Guardian.

The Fine Arts and Office Buildings were never dedicated, according to Dr. Harding. These buildings were surplus government property acquired in 1946-1947.

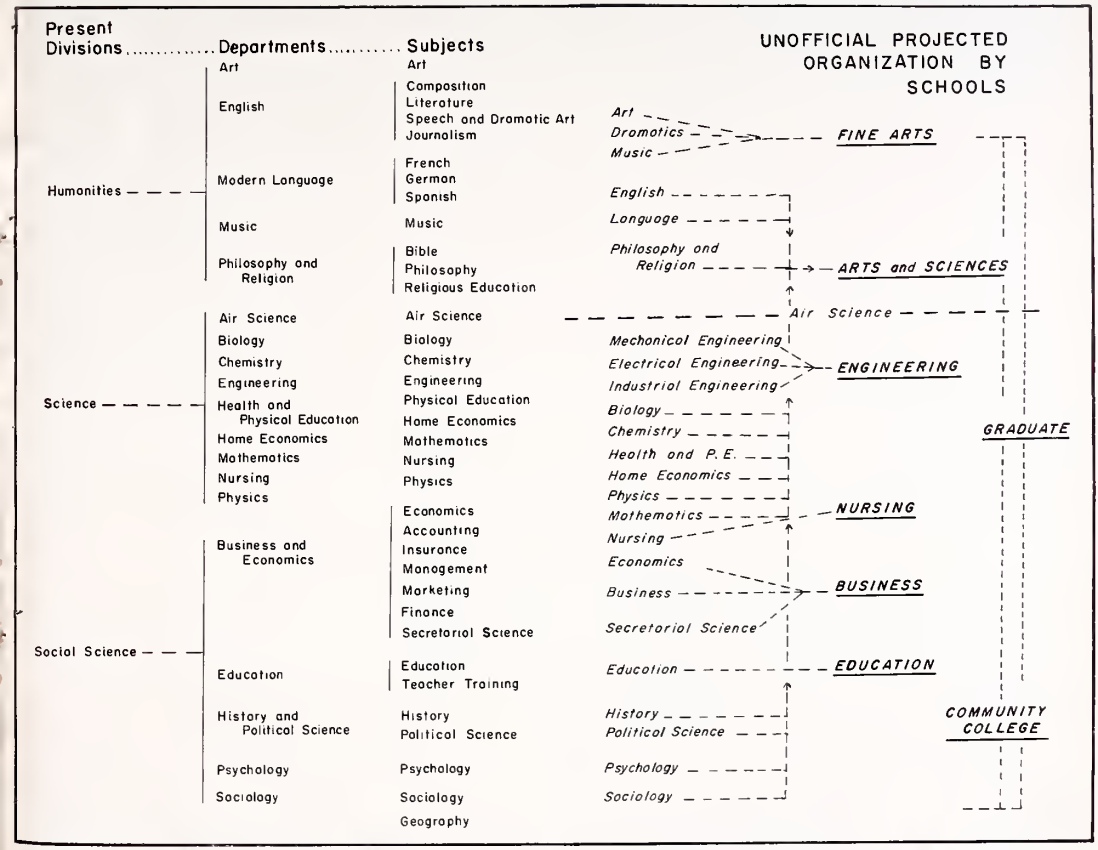
On Wedoesday, Nov. 19, 1947 the Engineering-Science Building was dedicated. At the same time this dedication was taking place Judith Anderson was playing in Robinson Jeffers' Medea, under the direction of John Gielgud. This era brought out the theatre as a meaos of spiritual catharsis by means of pity aod fear.

It has beeo only two weeks since the Union celebrated its 10th anniversary, the Union Building was dedicated on Sunday, January 21, 1951. When the ceremonies were taking place, Natural History magazine released information concerning "flying saucers" around California. After duly considering the matter, residents of the Sierra Nevada foothills discovered the saucers to be spiders of the order Araneida. The rumor of Martians was disbanoed.

Clifford Memorial Library was dedicated on Tuesday, March 19, 1957. At the same time in another part of the natioo, Nation magazine published an article about Arnold Schulman's light drama, A Hole in the Head. Critics said the drama was a threat to future tragedy, Comedy, and melodrama as it set new standards in the theater.

The next editioo on the eampus was Hughes Hall, dedicated on Thursday, November 6, 1958, according to Dr. Harding. During this era Dr. Jack Makari of Plainfield, N. J. discovered a eancer-blood-test lead. The doctor tested the blood of suspected cancer patients with sensitized muscle taken from guinea pigs.

The women's residence ball, Moore Hall, was dedicated on Tuesday, October 18, 1960. The same day Newsweek published an article concerning the 1961 Presidential candidates.



Initial Steps

Evansville College to be a university! What difference will it make?

The "inevitable" expansion noted by President Melvin W. Hyde in a downtown speech last week leads students, faculty and friends of the College to dream of the future.

Although most details of College expansion are too far away to be definite, The Crescent is presenting a probable direction along which the College will grow.

To be noted first of all are the following:

1. Evansville College already has taken its first steps toward becoming a university.

With the establishment of the School of Nursing and the School of Engineering, EC has two units almost ready to take their place in a university setup.

2. Most presently enrolled students will have graduated before university status is achieved.

Schools or colleges with a university cannot be created within a short period. They must await sufficient enrollment and the buildings, equipment and personnel to handle that enrollment.

Dr. Edgar McKown, dean of the College, says, "The divisions (schools and colleges) undoubtedly will be developed on the basis of the economics of the situation. The present departments will remain as at present until each becomes large enough to operate as a separate unit."

President Hyde says a university will be a reality when "additional enrollment" is sufficient. He has indicated this may come by 1970.

3. Evansville College will develop "along the lines of the customary university alignment," in the words of Dean McKown.

The "usual" university setup probably to be followed here would be:

(a) A university would be built around the liberal arts unit, most often called the College of Arts and Sciences.

"The Liberal Arts College would, as at other universities, provide the general education and basic courses for the other schools," says Dean McKown.

As in most universities, this college would have the largest enrollment of any division other than the Community College.

(b) A College of Arts and Sciences would pull together a large group of studies under one administration.

This college would include history, political science, English, philosophy, sociology, mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, modern and classical languages, psychology, physical education and geography.

"The present three large divisions — humanities, science and social sciences — will remain as they are in the foreseeable future," in the opinion of Dean McKown.

(c) A School of Fine Arts might incorporate the present music department, are department, and the dramatics section now under the English department.

(d) A Graduate School would be superimposed as the top rung of education.

One of the "musts" of the university is a program of advanced study in numerous fields. These may cover work in almost any of the areas within the undergraduate colleges — arts and sciences, engineering, business, education, fine arts — which have proposed or exist now.

"The university is an institution with considerable stress on graduate instruction," is the definition given by the Office of Education of the U.S Department of Health, Education and Welfat.

(e) Expansion in the library field would be necessary.

Basic to any graduate program is an extensive and varied library. "American Universities," a publication of the Office of Education, stresses that now it is almost mandatory for each college within the university to have its own library.

(f) Colleges within the university would be separate, but integral, parts of the university.

Almost without exception each college would have its own administrative officers, headed by a dean of that college's faculty, its own staff of teachers, individual libraries and laboratories, and to a varied extent separate classrooms and office buildings.

EC Expansion Will Cause Many Changes

Discussions Started At Hughes Hall

"This I Believe," an informal series of discussions between students and guest faculty members will begin at 9 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 6 in the recreation room at Hughes Hall.

A series which has already been introduced at Moore Hall, "This I Believe" is where the students can actually pin the faculty speakers down to discover what they believe in, reports Dr. Arthur Mansure, Director of Christian Life at EC.

Dr. Donell Miller, Associate Professor of Psychology and Professor Arthur B. Aarstad, Associate Professor of History and Political Science will be the first faculty guest speakers for the new series at Hughes Hall.

These four plus one other girl will have to get along with one another next year since they will be sharing one of the new college apartments. They are the first applicants for the unmarried women students' apartments. They are from left to right: Sally Hodley, Janet Brashier, Doreen DeBree and Rhonda Alldredge.

Apts. To House Single And Married Students

The College Apartments, which were recently obtained by the college for additional housing due to the increased enrollment, will be occupied by married couples, staff members, and unmarried men and women students, according to Dr. Virginia Grabill, Director of Women's Counseling.

The furnished apartments are divided into four buildings with 13 apartments in each building. Two of these apartment buildings will be occupied by married couples and staff members; one of the buildings will be for unmarried women students; and the other for unmarried men students.

The occupants may cook in their apartments or eat at the Union with the provision that all occupants of the one apartment must do the same. An additional fee will be charged for meals at the Union, Dr. Grabill said.

The present plan is to have five men or women students for a two-bedroom apartment or four students to a one-bedroom apartment.

The apartments for the unmarried students will be occupied by students on an "honor" system. These students must qualify both academically and personally.

The cost of room and board for the apartments of the unmarried students will be $72 per quarter which is the same as Moore and Hughes Halls. There will be a head resident or couple in each of these buildings.

Present plans are for one apartment to be set aside for coeducational recreation and lounging for the residents of the two apartment buildings for unmarried students.

Each of the buildings will probably be named for distinguished former teachers, although this will be the decision of the Board of Trustees.

The new EC apartments located on Walnut and Weinbach will be occupied by single and married students next fall after renovation this summer.

Foreign Films Planned; Henry V, First Feb. 3

A series of four foreign films is being presented this year in the auditorium of the Administration building starting with Shakespeare's "Henry V" being shown at 3:45 and 8 p.m. Feb. 3. Admission is 75¢ at the door.

Dr. Paul Grabill, Associate Prof. of English, who is handling the series, has also scheduled:

"Hamlet"—Feb. 10.

"The Seventh Seal"—Feb. 17.

"Richard III"—Feb. 24.

The three Shakespearean films are English productions starring Laurence Olivier and are approximately two hours in length. "The Seventh Seal" is a Swedish film produced by Ingmar Bergman.

"Henry V" is Shakespeare's fifth history play concerning the line of Planagenet kings of England. It deals with the life of the once "carousing" Prince Hal of Henry IV who is now King Henry V. The plot concerns Henry's battle with the French, his relationship with Sir John Falstaff and his tavern friends and his marriage to a French princess.

Engineer Leads Senior Scholars

"Unique" and Larry Gene Fowler—these are synonymous when considering Evansville College and academic study here.

Fowler, senior in electrical engineering, has made the dean's list 11 consecutive quarters, the only member of the '61 graduating class to rate that many times.

He carries a point average of 3.86 into this winter quarter.

Fowler held up under an 18-hour load during the fall. Taking two advanced classes in communication engineering of 5 credits each, another 5-hour course in machinery dealing with AC and DC motors and generators, and a Community College class in criminology, he maintained his almost straight-A average.

This quarter he continues in evening school with a followup course in criminology. He works full-time in the cooperative training program within the School of Engineering. His job is with Potter & Brumfield in Princeton, one of several firms which put EC engineering students on the payroll for a quarter while they learn on the job.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fowler of Oakland City, he came to EC after graduating from high school there in 1956. "A cooperative engineering scholarship," he says, "paid most of my expenses for the freshman year. I intend to go into graduate training. I have applied to five graduate schools." Fowler says, "and have my application in with the National Science Foundation for a scholarship."

Jack Doty, left, and Laren Isaac of maintenance make final pipe connections on the new boiler in the engineering lab. It will operate the pump at right to demanstrate steam-operated units.

Engr. Director Boiling Happy With New Boiler

A newly completed boiler, the first of its kind in the E.C. School of Engineering, will be used to study and analyze the heating cycle, according to William O. Hartsaw, director of the School of Engineering.

Junior and senior Thermodynamics classes will use this power installation in the lab. to study heating as they now study refrigeration. Approximate cost is $1600 not including labor.

Mr. Hartshaw stated, "I am pleased with this new addition, because it will make our engineering courses more complete."

Pressure from the 15 horsepower boiler will operate a steam engine. Mr. Hartsaw has requisitioned for a small steam turbine which would replace the older steam engine.

Work was started three weeks ago said A. C. Biggs, Supt. of Buildings and Grounds. Several maintenance men have worked part-time for two weeks on installing the boiler. Operation is scheduled to begin soon.

This power installation is standard equipment in an engineering school and is another improvement in the training facilities offered by the college.

Hartsaw Taking Leave To Work On Doctorate

Director of the School of Engineering, William O. Hartshaw, will be on leave from Evansville College during the next academic year to continue work on his doctorate.

One of approximately 300 throughout the nation to obtain National Science Foundation faculty grants, Mr. Hartsaw will do residence work in the department of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics at University of Illinois.

He anticipates completing academic work during the 1961-62 school year including two summer terms. He plans to move to Illinois in June.

An associate professor of engineering here, Hartsaw is enthusiastic about the recognition this grant gives the college as well as the personal boost it provides.

Four of the School of Engineering staff are among 25 prospective members of the local group of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers granted a charter Jan. 18.

Another School of Engineering teacher has been studying at Illinois also. Max Casler, associate professor, is nearing the end of his doctoral work.

Ph.D.'s on the School's staff include Joseph B. Kushner, associate professor, and Bung-Chung Lee, assistant professor.

Engineers Recieve Charter

Director William O. Hartsaw, as chairman, leads the Evansville Group of the Paducah Section of A.S.M.E. Others are Charles Herndon, associate professor of engineering, and Edward Susat and Bung-Ching Lee, assistant professors.

The group was chartered on the petitioning of 25 active members. They also include Arthur Gray, vice-chairman from Southern Indiana Gas and Electric, and Robert Chapman, secretary-treasurer from International Steel.

Response to invitations to join the Evansville group was almost 100 per cent favorable, Hartsaw says. A potential of 40 members, all graduate engineers, exists in the Evansville area.

Granting of the charter climaxes two years of groundwork. Active work toward obtaining an A.S.M.E. charter began in July, Hartsaw reports. He concedes modestly that he has been instrumental in getting the Evansville group started.

University Will Revamp Aces Sports Program

The plans of a new athletic building here at Evansville College were officially announced only this year. And now the plans of making Evansville a University have been a second blessing to the Aces' sports fans. Not only will the name attract more interesting talent, but it will also attract bigger and better opponents to play, in not only basketball but football and all the other sports Evansville College has not had in the past.

Wrestling, track, cross-country, swimming, fencing and gymnastics are some of the bigger sports that have been somewhat neglected at Evansville. It isn't that the Aces don't have the talent, because some of the best track and wrestling boys in Indiana come from Evansville high schools. Only last year two Evansville boys won first places in the state track meet held in Indianapolis.

Golf, baseball and tennis are being played here now but not in any way that the students know anything about them.

Finishing first in the ICC in basketball and second in football last year gave Evansville a great big sixth place in the all-conference standings, mainly because the Aces don't receive points in the sports they don't participate in. Just average performance in track, wrestling and swimming would insure the Aces of a first or second in the all-conference standing, going along with the top football and basketball squads we usually have.

Our neighbors in Carbondale, Illinois, called Southern Illinois University have a basketball gym that seats a great big 3,500 people while Roberts Stadium seats close to 14,000 when needed. Still they play such schools as North Carolina, North Carolina State and Minnesota in gymnastics and swimming events.

Even with a 14,000 seat stadium the Aces have to practice in the Armory that resembles the stadium in no ways except it has two baskets. SIU at least gets to practice on their home floor.

The new athletic building will give the Aces the chance to participate in all these sports they have had to pass because of the "no place to play them" situation. Being a University will attract other top Universities to compete against.

Evansville was last in track, fifth in tennis, last in golf, last in baseball, and they didn't compete in swimming and cross-country last year in the final ICC standings. With the track possibilities there is no reason why the Aces should be last in track except for the slight reason that there is no place to pole-vault, high-jump, broad-jump or shot-put practice on campus the way it is now.

University plans, we hope, will correct all of this and make Evansville a respected school

Clinic Can See Only One-Way

Newest addition to the Psycho-Educational Clinic is three one-way mirrors costing over $100.

A conference room, play room, and classroom are equipped with these mirrors. Dr. Gordon Rettke, Psychologist-Director of the Clinic, said that the mirrors have a two-fold purpose. They serve as an aid in training student teachers. The mirrors enable the instructor to observe without interfering with the classroom situation.

A second purpose is to enable the "parents to gain an insight in their children's feelings and behavior, that they couldn't have gained from consultation."

"Going steady" isn't exactly new. The Valentine "card" of 2,000 years ago was a scrap of folded paper on which was written a girl's name. The boy plucking it out of a box was considered the girl's sweetheart for the year.

By TEMME PATTERSON

With all of the talk about Evansville becoming a University in the near future it raises a real interesting problem. What should we call ole E.C? The University of Evansville or Evansville University?

I'm sure this is only a minor problem so far as the University plans, but it is still an interesting question. Not being on the best side of Indiana University, I would think the trend would be to the University of Evansville. If you have a real preference let me know by circling one of the two here and bring it over to the journalism office.

Many of you will be gone by the time all of this takes place, but there are a few like myself who will be here no matter when it happens.

The new athletic building was a real blessing, but this tops the whole thing. Just think — Evansville may have swimming and wrestling facilities. And by the way, the intramural boys will have a place to play, although after playing over in the girl's gym last week I didn't think it was too bad.

ED'S BACK

Ed Smallwood will be back to play basketball here in Evansville this month with the New York Rens when the pro club takes on the Harlem Stars in a tri-state tour. The Harlem club is composed of such stars as Goose Tatum and Sweetwater Clifton who were once with the Harlem Globetrotters. By the way, Ttaum will be putting out for all he's worth because he is accused of owing the government $93,000 in back taxes.

The only Evansville appearance the squad will make will be February 14, at the Agoga. The teams will play several games around the Tri-State, including Henderson among a few. I'm sure Smallwood will be glad to see some familiar faces watching him play ball where he engineered Evansville College to two NCAA championships.

Tough Breaks

The Aces have really had some bad luck with injuries this year. Walt Deal was the first to go out with an ankle injury midway in the year. Walt missed the Dhio State game and wasn't up to par in the contest over in Dwensboro.

P. M. Sanders was next on the injured list. He came down with a bad ankle after landing the wrong way in the game against Kentucky Wesleyan. Sanders missed the next two games and still isn't going full force.

Tom Hamilton, who was to earn a starting spot last week against Ball State, hurt an ankle in practice two days before the game and didn't even dress out against the Cardinals. Although Hamilton has seen a great deal of action this year for the Aces, the Mater Dei boy has yet to get a starting assignment.

Big Walt Deal goes as high as possible here in dropping the ball through the basket in a practice session at the Stadium before the Butler game tomorrow night.

Owensville Boy Makes Good With EC Champs

By Temme Patterson

One of Evansville College's tough luck boys this year has been big Walt Deal.

After a 30 point performance against Los Angeles State in the final game of the holiday tournament it looked as though the 6-6 forward from Dwensville, Indiana was going to pick up a slack that had been with the Aces all season.

Deal came back the following week with a 26 point per-game against South Dakota in what the future dentist called "One of my best games since being here."

These games gave Walt 56 points in two contests, and also gave Coach McCutchan and his Aces two straight victories.

But then lightning struck as Deal came up with a bad ankle in the next game against Ball State at Muncie. The fellow who had engineered the Aces in the last two ball games had to sit out both the Butler and Dhio State games which Evansville lost.

Butler topped the Aces 93-82 in a typical barn-burner at Indianapolis, but Evansville was in the game up until the last minute. With Deal's help on the boards it could have been a different story.

Deal commented, "I definitely think we can beat Butler down here. We almost took them up there. I was on the bench but (Gerry) Williams was the one kid that beat us up there. He has some great moves.

"Speaking of moves, that (Bill McGill out there at Utah was the best I've seen. They've also got the best ball club we've played. Boy they're really tough. McGill got 33 points agains us and I know he got that many rebounds. You know they beat us 132-77.

With road games coming up at DePauw, Valpo, and Indiana State the Aces are going to have a tough time catching Butler who is undefeated in conference play while Evansville has been stopped twice. Once by Butler and once by Indiana State.

Purple Gang Runs Into Bulldog Gun Slingers

Evansville College's Purple Aces have a big week of basketball coming up this week as Coach Arad McCutchan's crew will take on Valparaiso tomorrow night on the Crusaders' home court and then return home to play host to the undefeated Butler Bulldogs Wednesday night in whta should turn out to be a real barn burner.

Butler, the team that stopped the Purple Aces earlier in the year behind little Gerry Williams, is currently leading the conference with a 5-0 record and appears to be in little danger at the present time.

When these two teams met in Evansville last season, the Purple Aces blew Tony Hinkle's Bulldogs out of the Stadium, 89-66, behind Ed Smallwood's record-breaking 47 points.

Valpo Rematch

Valparaiso was defeated by the Aces earlier in the season 105-80, at Roberts Municipal Stadium. Evansville was paced that night by Marv Pruett's 32 points. In that game the Crusaders hit a sharp 453 from the field to the Aces' 402.

The Crusaders are paced by sophomore Chuck Kriston, a 6-2 forward from Valparaiso, who is currently ranked high in the league scoring race. Against Evansville earlier in the season, he tossed in 18 points. Jim Lichtenberger, a 6-4 junior, will probably go at the other forward position. He tossed in 16 points against the Aces in the teams' first meeting this year.

Captain Fran Clements was the leading scorer in the earlier meeting with 19 points. He is a 5-9, junior guard, who played a big part in the Crusaders handing Evansville its only conference defeat last season. Jim Zweifel will be going at the other guard position. He is a 5-10 guard from Monticello, Wisconsin.

Big 6-8 Ralph Moellenhoff will be working from the pivot.

Evansville Starters

Going for Evansville in the back court will probably be the regular combination of Marv Pruett and P. M. Sanders. Dn the front-line Dale Wise will go at one forward position and the other two positions are undecided between seniors Jim Nossett and Walt Deal and sophomore Marty Herthel. Herthel tossed in 18 points in his last outing.

The second place Aces will be taking a 4-2 conference record into the game and a dismal 7-11 overall slate.

LCA, Whops & Cops Win

The intramural season opened last week with Lambda Chi winning two games and the Whops and Cops of League II winning two games.

LCAI won its first game from the usually strong RDTC team 59-41. Pacing the winners was John Titzer with 27 points. He was followed by Richie Seib with 19 points. The following night Lambda Chi ran over a weak Tau Kappa Epsilon team 60-31. Merle Barth was the top man with 15 points for the winners. Titzer and Bill Hemmer each added 10.

In other League I action, the SAE's paced by Tom Tuley, exciting come from behind victory. Trailing by as much as seven points in the third quarter, the SAE's paced by Tom Tulley, charged back to pull out of the fire, 45-39. Tuley was the leading scorer with 19 points. Don Hess, a former Bosse backcourt performer, added 10 points. Charles Luetje was the top man for the losers with 17 points.

The Whops and Cops, composed mostly of football players, won their first two games to take the lead in League II. They stopped the Lambda Chi H team 39-22 and then they stopped a tough Untouchables team 54-46. Ron Magness, a halfback on the football team and a former basketball player at Memorial, was the top man with 13 points. Magness came back with 20 points the next night to again take high man honors. Jerry Leach added 14 points the second night for the winners.

The Untouchables were victorious over the SAE II team 51-29 in their first game. Cecil Raymond and Chris Herdel were high for the victors with 14 each. The SAE's were paced by Dwight Tapley with 15 points.

In the Untouchables loss, Raymond was again high with 11 points.

Evansville Moves Back Into Contention With 91-84 Victory

Big Dale Wise, the Purple Ace from Kokomo, provided the punch for Evansville to stop Ball State, 91-84, last Saturday night.

"Dale showed his old determination out there tonight," was the happy comment made by Coach Arad McCutchan after the game. "It was a pleasure to watch him play."

With 10:40 remaining in the game and Ball State leading 67-63, McCutchan pulled Wise off the bench with four fouls and he promptly pulled the game out of the bag for Evansville.

Behind Wise and Walt Deal, who started the game on the bench, the Aces pulled away and established their longest lead at 91-84 just before the game ended.

Leading the way for Ball State was their backcourt combination of Dan Thurston and John Kunze. Thurston hit 11 of 15 field goal attempts for 22 points. Kunze was high-point man for the game with 9 of 15 field goal attempts and 5 of 5 free throws for 3 points.

Evansvdle's scoring was distributed equally among six men. Wise was the top man with 22 points; he also grabbed off 14 rebounds. He was followed by Marty Herthel with 18 points and Walt Deal with 17. Jim Nossett and Marv Pruett each had 11 and P. M. Sanders, who scored several timely baskets when they were needed, finished with 10.

Herthel and Deal led in the rebounding department with 15 each. Mike Readnour was the top rebounder for State with 19.

Evansvdle hit 37 of 92 from the floor and 17 of 27 from the free throw line, while Ball State hit 35 of 68 from the floor and 14 of 25 from the free throw line.

Crescent Seeks Best-Dressed Girl

Who is she? This could be any number of fashionable gals on campus who will be entering the "Glamour" best-dressed girl contest.

Any Girl May Enter 'Glamour' Contest, Entries Needed Thursday

For the fifth year "Glamour" magazine is looking for the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America." To find these ten outstanding young women, The Crescent has been invited by the magazine to help the editors find these by selecting the best dressed girl on our campus.

Judging standards used by the magazine are:

1. Good figure, beautiful posture.

2. Clean, shining, well-kept hair.

3. Imagination in managing a clothes budget.

4. Good grooming — not just neat but impeccable.

5. Appropriate campus look (she's in line with local customs).

6. A clear understanding of her fashion type.

7. Individuality in her use of color, accessories.

8. A workable wardrobe plan.

9. A neat way with make-up (enough to look pretty but not overdone).

10. Appropriate — not rah rah —but a look for off-campus occasions.

The Evansville College best-dressed girl contest will be February 17 at 4 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Union. Entrants will be judged by four persons whose names will be withheld until the time of the contest.

Any girl on campus may enter the contest but she must be entered by a male student. No organization may sponsor a girl. In this way no girl will have an advantage over another girl by accepting contributions of clothes from members of the organization.

Names of the girls must be turned into the Crescent office by Thursday noon of Feb. 16.

The girl who best meets these qualifications will be entered in "Glamour's" national contest in competition with best dressed on-campus winners from hundreds of colleges throughout the United States and Canada. Three pictures of her in an on-campus outfit, a daytime off-campus outfit and a party dress (full or cocktail length)—will be submitted with the official entry form to the magazine for the national judging by a panel of "Glamour" editors.

Deadline for submitting entries to "Glamour" is March 1.

There are several prizes for the young women picked for "top ten" honors. Among them — a two-week expense-paid visit to New York climaxed by a gala champagne cotillion, national recognition for the girls and their colleges in the August issue of "Glamour" and in newspapers throughout the country. The "honorable mention" winners will be featured in the fall issue of the magazine.

EC Organizes For Vocal Varieties

by Bill Balsbaugh
Crescent Staff Writer

Vocal Varieties, the first of the two main musical events of the year, will be held Thursday, Feb. 23, at 8:00 p.m. in the Great Hall, according to Judith Lockwood, Social Director of the Union.

The event is a competitive sing open to all organizations on campus. Nine groups are entered this year. Trophies will be awarded as follows:

a large traveling trophy to the group voted having the best overall performance; two smaller permanent trophies for the first place winners in each division. The two runners-up will be announced.

Three local persons well known in the music field will be used to judge the show. Performances are rated primarily on stage presentation, originality, and musical quality.

Sigma Phi Epsilon took top honors in Vocal Varieties last year with their "Medley from South Pacific." The debut in 1959 was won by the Women's Residence. Trophies are on display in the grill lobby.

The sing is sponsored by the Union Entertainment Committee headed by Judy Werneke. Sara Van Scyoc is in charge of programs, June Bartlett has charge of tickets, and the trophy chairman is Sally Hadley. Stage manager will be Frank Haskett with Byron Ihle as emcee.

The directors of the participating organizations are as follows: Nancy Karnes, AOPi; Sara Van Scyoc, Chi Omega; Gary Powell, Lambda Chi; Kay Smith, Beta Sig; Ann Howe, Moore Hall. Also Mary Ellen Rauch, Phi Mu; Tony Ouellete, SAE; Bill Balsbaugh, Sig Ep, and Luther Hale, TKE.

Tickets for the program are 25 cents and can be purchased from any member of the groups taking part or from the Union Office. Following the performance a Coke party will be held in the grill.

High School Officals Meet With Freshmen

Evansville College Guidance Day will be next Thursday, beginning with a coffee hour at 8:30 a.m. Counseling will begin at 9 o'clock in the Office Building for freshman students and former high school counselors and principals, according to Dr. Robert Thompson.

Guidance Day will promote a better understanding of the college students through the exchange of ideas with the counselors, Thompson added.

This event can be very effective on this campus, because so many of the college students are from the Tri-State area.

"The Guidance Day enables the high school counselors and principals to better understand the college program," Dr. Thompson says.

The guidance program ties the community and college together since almost one-half of the college-bound students in the city schools attend Evansville College.

High school counselors and principals will talk with freshmen who were graduated from their schools.

A number of students are from a long distance whose counselors will be unable to counsel with them. Dr. Thompson will meet with students who attended high school out of state at the 10:00 hour. Dr. Hyde will speak at the luncheon which will be held in the Union Building beginning at 12:30. During the luncheon the high school and college counselors will be given a chance to exchange notes on students. Following Dr. Hyde's speech a panel of freshman students will discuss some of the problems in preparing for college study.

Freshman Women Honored

All freshman women with a B average or better for the fall quarter met Monday with Alpha Phi Mu, women's scholastic honorary group.

The honorary initiates all freshman women with a 3.5 accumulative average at the end of the winter or spring quarter for that year.

The president of Alpha Phi Mu, Ann Newkirk, was the master of ceremonies and she, along with the other officers, served coffee and doughnuts to the guests. Secretary of the honorary is Anna O'Reilly. Treasurer is Linda Friend.

When the guests entered the room they were given names of famous authors, scientists, and others and were then designated to join the group of that particular category.

Those honored were: Freshmen Vivian Merlock and Jean Wolters, who both had 4-point accumulative averages, Sharon Beanblossom 3.93, Margaret Grimm, 3.82, and Donna Hagedorn, junior, with a 4-point.

Counseling Schedule Is Up

Preliminary Registration Begins Next Monday

Yes, it's that time again.

Preliminary registration for the Spring Quarter begins Monday and runs through Feb. 24, according to H. Owen Long, registrar.

Freshmen are scheduled to meet with their counselors at 10 a.m. Feb. 13 and upperclassmen are to see their advisors at 10 on Tuesday. Students should consult the bullettin board outside the registrar's office for the location of the counselor or advisor.

Students will then meet individually with advisors to complete the preliminary registration schedule. The student should secure the signature of his advisor approving the schedule.

The approved schedule is then taken to the registrar's office and the student picks up registration forms. The office checks the cards after they have been filled out, says Dr. Long, and the student goes to the business office to have his bill written.

To complete the registration process before the deadline, the student must clear with the registrar's office by Feb. 24 and have his bill written by March 1. The bill must be paid by March 13.

Dr. Long reports that a late fee will be charged to those students who fail to meet the deadline.

Students on probation will not complete registration until regular registration on March 13, but they may fill out the preliminary registration form. This form will be in the registrar's office until the registration date.

Approved class cards will be given the student when the bill is paid. These cards must be presented to the instructor on the first day of class.

Students who wish Blue Cross coverage for the remainder of the school year may obtain it at the Business Office on March 17.

"Seniors graduating at the end of the Spring Quarter must file applications for a degree if they have not done so," says Dr. Long. "They must also satisfy the English proficiency requirements."

Debate Team Wins Again

Evansville College debaters Barbara Main and Richard Frette defeated three of four teams met at Eastern Illinois University's 24th annual debate tournament last Saturday.

This team, upholding the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved: That the United States Should Adopt a Program of Compulsory Health Insurance for All Citizens," downed Principia, Southern Illinois University, Illinois State Normal University and lost to Greenville College.

The negative unit of Kenneth Sander and David Williams defeated Illinois State Normal, but lost to Greenville College, Bradley University, and Eastern Illinois University.

— BULLETIN —

Phil Goldberg, Evansville College junior, will star in the "New Blades" ice show scheduled for a repeat performance at Roberts Stadium next Sunday at 5 p.m.

The proceeds from the show are used in the Press Youth Fund to help needy children.

Tickets are priced at $1.75 for reserved seats and general admission tickets $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

EC Grades Near National Average

Fall Quarter grades handed out by EC teachers approached a graph spread into A, B, C, D and F similar to that shown by a national survey, Dean Edgar McKown reported Monday at a faculty meeting.

The following chart shows the percentages of total grades given by Evansville College teachers, who had large enough classes to average; the average of many colleges and universities surveyed recently; and a "normal" grade curve developed as a guide for teachers.

Grade	% of Survey	% at EC	"Ideal" Spread
A	.15	14.6	8
B	.31	29.5	17
C	.37	35.8	50
D	.10	12.4	17

Security Seminar To Be One Of 14 In Nation

The Evansville National Security Seminar will attract possibly 500 persons to the campus for meeting in the College auditorium from Feb. 27 through March 10, it was announced this week by Dean Long, vice-president.

The National Security Seminar, conducted by The Industrial College of the Armed Forces, is a broad, information-packed presentation of facts that citizens should know about the Nation's security.

The seminar seeks to foster a better understanding of the many national and international problems associated with national security, a stronger appreciation of the inseparable nature of the civilian-military team, and a clear recognition of the limitations and capabilities of both halves of this team.

The Evansville seminar is one of 14 held throughout the United States during the 1960-61 schedule. In each city, the seminar is sponsored by a civic group or groups together with the commanding officers of the Army Area, numbered Air Force, and the Naval District concerned.

Evansville's seminar is co-sponsored by the Evansville Chamber of Commerce and Evansville College in co-operation with the Ninth Naval District, Great Lakes, Ill.; the Fifth United States Army, Chicago, Ill.; the 2480th Air Force Reserve Sector, Chicago, Ill.; and the VI United States Army Corps, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

In the Evansville phone directory, there is but one listing for a zero. It reads "Zero Hour Bomb Co." Well, I guess they're for the K.K.K., the Daily Worker goon squad, airplane fanatics, etc.

Is there something special about the empty lot across from Moore Hall? The Lambda Chi's couldn't buy a space for a new house because it wasn't for sale.Barriers have been erected to keep dorm visitors from parking on it. Maybe we should all go grab a handful of this sacred earth before someone else spirits it away.

Hats off to Bob Hudson for his cooperation with the Greeks and their cheering section. A special section was set up for the DePauw and Butler games. Things like the Greek cheering sections may not be the answer to the cheering problem, but it is a constructive attempt. It is good that we get cooperation from the administration on this.

Among the twisted, anti-Catholic jokes about President Kennedy, this one emerged as perhaps the worst (or best) — I hear that they are going to reopen Camp Breckenridge. Yes, it is to be a concentration camp for Protestants. Now undoubtedly some of you will langh and some of you will be angered by this joke. These jokes have been floating around for some time now along with the "sick" jokes. But did you ever stop to think why you laugh and someone else gets angry, or vice versa? This is a rather interesting phenomenon.

One theory is that we laugh because we are subconsciously glad that these twisted thoughts don't involve us. Perhaps people who are angered are inwardly frightened by such blasphemy and are afraid that the very contemplation of such ideas will cause the wrath of something or someone to rub off on them.

Reportedly Congolese tribesmen recently killed eight Irish soldiers from a UN contingent. Reportedly they cut un their bodies and used them to make a magic potion. I wonder if Norman Vincent Peale would care to take this matter under consideration?

I suppose now that Karen Harpe has a steady boy friend you could say he is Harping on the same girl. Yeah, I know, but I need a little filler this week.

Letter To The Editor

During the past few weeks, I have noticed that your paper has improved tremendously in content and has made itself more aware of student interests. In a commuter-college like EC, the newspaper is important as almost the only agent for arousing and consolidating student interest. In short, a vigorous newspaper is necessary for school spirit.

I think the Crescent has recently made important steps in promoting better student-faculty relationships and I hope other faculty members and administrators will follow Dr. Virginia Grabill's lead in responding with comments on articles of student interest.

Congratulations to the staff of the Crescent on some fine issues; I am looking forward to further improvements! How about more pictures and better coverage of EC drama productions — maybe even a critical review after the productions?

— Dennis Schneider, student.

'59 Graduate Completes AF Training

A 1959 graduate in electrical engineering from Evansville College, Second Lieutenant Gerald W. Neff, has completed the undergraduate navigator training course at James Connally AFB.

Prior to his military duty, Lt. Neff worked in engineering at the Magnavox Corporation in Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

He received his commission in the Air Force through the ROTC program at EC. The lieutenant will continue his training in electronic countermeasures at Keesler AFB in Mississippi following his duty in Texas.

Lt. Neff is the son of Mrs. Evelyn Neff of Evansville, and his wife is the former Dorris J. Cantwell of Palestine, Ill.

Contest Draws Prospective Students

Attracting probably the biggest number of students to the EC campus are the district music contests.

This year approximately 1500 persons — elementary and high school students, parents, teachers and bus drivers were here Jan. 28 and Feb. 4.

This District Solo and Ensemble Contest brought in representatives from 54 schools in southern and central Indiana.

"This is something the college always likes to sponsor," says Wesley Shepard, co-head of the Music Department, "to acquaint students with our campus."

Shepard indicated that almost 100 faculty members and students at EC worked to arrange and supervise the contests this year. He is satisfied that the value of having visiting students here is worth the work involved.

BECKING WINS SINGLES IN UNION PING PONG

The winner of the singles in the annual ping pong tourney sponsored by the Union Games Committee is John Becking. Stan Wallen and Jerry Sanders captured the doubles.

Trophies were awarded to the winners.

Further interest concerning sports in the Union is shown by the billiard room. According to Miss Lockwood, social director, the players in the billiard room have entered the Annual Intercollegiate Campus Billiards Tournament sponsored by the Association of College Unions.

Rawland and Fallett Team Up

PR Involves Much Work

Robert Rowland and Don Follett are two names seldom heard on the Evansville campus, yet these men are probably two of the busiest ones on the college staff. They head the Public Relations (PR) Department.

Mr. Rowland's official title is assistant to the president in charge of public relations and development, while Follett holds the title of assistant director of public relations.

An ex-police reporter for the Evansville Courier, Follett joined the college staff last fall and has been knee-deep in work ever since.

Part of his job is getting out the student directory, campus catalogues, and all brochures dealing with college life. He is also in charge of conferences held on campus, such as the Science Fair, which had 562 exhibits last year, and working on the Campus Conference on Christian Living and Journalism Day committees.

"I do just a little bit of everything concerned with the college," says Don. "I even handle ticket reservations for college theater productions."

Follett gets much assistance from Mary Ann Conaway who is in charge of the home town news bureau. Anytime an out-of-town student does something big on campus, she sends the information to the student's home town newspaper.

Graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1956, Follett went into the armed forces for two years before joining the Courier staff in 1958. He says he misses the excitement of the reporting but is happy too with Evansville College.

Follett's wife is also a journalist. They met when both worked on the student newspaper at Minnesota U.

Bob Rowland is in his fifth year as assistant to Dr. Melvin W. Hyde in charge of public relations. He was a practicing Methodist minister before coming to EC in 1955.

Rowland is probably plenty happy to have Follett as his assistant for it has taken much work from his shoulders. In the past, Rowland performed all of Follett's duties with Ann Thompson handling the student news bureau. Now Rowland has more time to work on college publications and to solicit among individuals for donations to the college.

Last May, Rowland began work on recording the names of all individuals and firms who contribute to Evansville College and completed the list only recently.

He holds degrees from both Hanover College and Butler University. He is married and has two daughters, 10 and 12.

Last week Rowland and Follett gathered photographs and literature of Evansville College to send to New York to be displayed in the window of the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Co. Each month this company features a different American college or university in its large window.

Featured in EC's display are a series of 8x10 color photos of campus life, a spread of college literature, including an issue of the Crescent and last year's LinC.

The blanky-blank editor didn't print this column last week because he said there wasn't room for it.

To start a review we feel that a positive statement softens the blow. Miss Rita Barton, a senior, will find it impossible to give a better performance than her portrayal of the Madwoman of Chaillot. The part was played with taste, insight, feeling and audience-rapport. She climaxed a brilliant career in college drama and any other effort can only result in an equal or inferior performance.

(The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily represent those of the Crescent or Evansville College . . . Ed.)

The play, "Madwoman of Chaillot," by Jean Girandoux, was well received by students, faculty and other patrons of college drama. The play was polished from a technical standpoint and the actors were well prepared. Disa Grandaflora to the cast, crew, staff and Mr. Sam Smiley, head of the drama department.

It is more difficult to build than tear down and the accomplishment of the actors and director are acknowledged but the amateur efforts at up-staging by several of the cast members was inexcusable. Numerous instances of over-acting by veterans marred the outstanding performance.

There are too many in the cast to mention them all but one effort bears special mention. The part of the Sewerman was presented with unusual competency. The most humorous scene we have had occasion to witness was the beginning of the second act with the four madwomen deciding the fate of the world.

The best speeches in the play were delivered by the Ragpicker, as he denounced the sins of the world.

The presentation of the French comedy represents another attempt to enlarge the minds of Evansville College students by expanding the horizon of understanding through repeated exposure to intellectual issues.

President Melvin Hyde's statement that the salaries of the faculty had increased by fifty per cent which was printed in the last issue, might have been misleading because we couldn't find any instructor whose salary had increased that much. The statement apparently applies to the gross expenditure for salaries as additional teachers are added.

The students living in Hughes Hall are participating in a civic project to provide a leg for a patient at Evansville State Hospital. Charles Ross in in charge of the fund raising and Deron Mikal is acting as coordinator for the project. They will attempt to raise $500 for the artificial leg.

MOORE HALL GIVES PARTY FOR ORPHANS

Valentine's Day usually brings to mind thoughts of hearts, flowers, candy and "kisses," but to 29 children from Hillcrest home it means a party.

The kisses they anticipate are of the variety which appeal to the gastric appetite. The party is being given by the Women of Moore Hall for children from 5 to 12 years.

The refreshment, entertainment and decoration committees will supervise a program of games in addition to serving refreshments to the children. The party will last from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

De Long, Vaughn Win With AAUW Poetry

Two persons associated with Evansville College have won first and second choice in poetry in the 1959-60 nation-wide writing project of the American Association of University Women.

First went to Wahnita De Long, former dean of women and head of the English Department. Mrs. Alma Vaughn, also of Evansville and presently a member of the College's Board of Trustees, won second choice.

The awards were announced recently in the "Journal" of the AAUW.

Within recent years this national association of woman graduates granted degree-holders from EC the privilege of forming a local chapter. It now has approximately 400 members.

The winning poems follow:

DANCE FOR A DEAD CHILD
by Wahnita De Long

The world that was so narrow
Now is wide,
Its valleys are sweet
Its mountains repeat
The cry of the sky:
Oh — free, free
Now you can be
There is no top
There is no side
Wide, wide
Is the world.

Its waters call,
All its waters
Great and small:
Its lake waters blue
Give the sky to you
They sky's very core
Never opened before.
And every little pool
Greening cool
Gives you the earth again;
Its mighty rivers flowing brown
Call you down
Down to the sea —
Oh, the sea
Now you are free
Beats: Ride, ride
Out on my tide
To the edge of the world
And beyond.

Oh, the world is so wide
It is wider than wide
It has no top
It has no side,
The land flows away
For a nightless day
And then does not end
And free, free
Now you can be
Free you can run
To the end of the sun
To the far, far
And beyond.

THERE IS NO NUMBER ON THE DOOR
by Alma Vaughn

There is no number on the door
there is no door

Inside
Eleven bent to tune her violin touched overtones and Beethoven down up up down
Against the great north glass the children set the Christmas tree that people walking past to midnight church could see they iced it with the glorias deo and pax
year after year hung baubles from the same old box and would not change

There in the middle room warmed by October happiness leaned in to her laid down the gifts
the frankincense and myrrh
the gold
upon her finger

Farewell went out from every window of the house to sire and brother friend and lover farewell
farewell
each leaves the other

I spend no grief for wall or roof
I spend it for myself and nothing more
no more

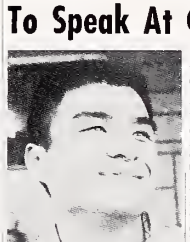
Japanese Student Leader To Speak At Chapel



Masa Nishihara

Guest speaker at chapel service at 10 o'clock next Wednesday will be Masa Nishihara, an outstanding student leader from Japan, reports Dr. Arthur Mansure, director of religious life.

Topic will be World University Service, which is a relief organization which helps students throughout the world.

Nishihara, as a participant in this project, refers to it as "World University Service with its accent on improving educational facilities in critical areas of the world, creates the necessary climate for the growth of leadership."

A student of international politics, Nishihara spent three years at Kyoto University in Japan. For two years he was associate editor of "The Japan Student." Later he became president of the Student Information Federation of Japan.

In 1959 Nishihara was one of 14 student leaders chosen by the United States National Student Association to visit the United States in connection with the Foreign Student Leadership Project.

As WUS deals with Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish students, the Newman Club will meet in the Kleymeyer Auditorium on Wednesday where Nishihara will speak to them during the first half of the 10 o'clock period. He will speak in chapel during the second half.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Wesleyan will be in town tomorrow night and somebody better come up with some kind of defense to stop a couple of fellows called Gary Auten and Winny Thompson.

Auten has taken over where Kelly Coleman left off last year, and Thompson looked like an all-American candidate last month in Owensboro. Between the two of them they hit 72 points (41 for Thompson and 31 for Auten) which was only 10 less than the whole Evansville team got.

I don't know what it is, but we seem to make champions out of every team we play this year. Overlooking a 132-77 clobbering by Utah and losses to the other top schools, we have made some conference schools and individuals look real tough.

Indiana State got 105 points against us on our own floor. Gerry Williams hit for a career high of 31 against us at Butler. Chuck Kriston, who was carrying a 20-point average, got 34 against us at Valpo last week, and the 41 scored by Thompson for Wesleyan was 18 more than he had ever scored in a college game.

It has been a cold day in the Bahamas since Wesleyan has beaten Evansville here, but the Bahamas are forecasting cold weather.

May Help

Evansville College got a real blessing last week when Jerry Sloan decided to come to Evansville. The "Fabulous Fox," as he was called last year in Illinois, has taken a job at Whirlpool and has plans of enrolling at Evansville next quarter. Jerry was one of the top high school players in the country last year at McLeansboro, Ill.

He enrolled at the University of Illinois at the beginning of the year but dropped out after several weeks. He started to go to Coach Gallatin's Southern Illinois University but found Evansville College better to his liking. At EC the big 6-5 boy won't get to play next season but he will still have three years of eligibility left when he starts the 1962-63 season.

With Buster Briley, Sloan, Marv Pruett, Ed Zausch, Paul Utley, Marty Herthel, Wayne Boultinghouse, and Lynn Mautz, all of whom are either freshmen or sophomores, the Aces should be in pretty fair shape in the years to come.

IU

Obio State really layed it on our neighbors from Bloomington Monday night. The Staters beat Indiana 100-65.

Last season Indiana split two games with the NCAA champs and were expected to give Jerry Lucas and company trouble again this year. But things have changed as Walt Bellamy and the Indiana boys haven't been playing the kind of ball they should. If State doesn't beat them by 20 I'll be surprised and disappointed.

The probation for the Bloomington squad kind of shook up the whole program up there. They had a terrible football team, and a supposedly good basketball squad bas all but gone down the drain.

Treys, Herb's Boys Top Rough Intramural Action

Intramural action picked up last week with several new teams shaping up as possible contenders for the league championships.

Last year's champion Herb's Boys won its first game of the season by trouncing Lambda Chi Alpha 75-34 in a League II game. Tom Turpin was bigh for the tough independent team with a 20-point performance. Mike Simms topped LCA with 10 points.

In other League II action another rough independent team, the Treys, scored three straight to take over first place from the Whops & Cops. The Treys stopped a tough Untouchables team 45-44 and then came back the next night to beat SAE 36-30. Rex DePriest and Temme Patterson led the Treys with 29-and 23-point performances for the two nights.

Tuesday, the Treys knocked off the previously unbeaten Whops & Cops to take over sole possession of League II with a 3-0 record.

In League I play SAE moved into a first place tie with LCA with a 51-45 victory over the Dorm. Don Hess led the SAE's with 17 points. Both teams are undefeated.

TKE's victory over the Sig Ep's, 23-21, was tbe first of the year for the TKE's against three losses. The Sig Ep's now hold a 0-3 record after losing to TKE and LCA.

Aces Toppel Butler with Opening Run

Couch Arad McCutchan's Purple Aces scored a 92-74 verdict over Butler Wednesday night to avenge an earlier defeat to the Bulldogs in Indianapolis.

After opening up a 16-2 lead in the first five minutes of play Evansville was never in real trouble except for a mild threat in the opening minutes of the second half of play.

Dale Wise led the Aces with 25 points.

After stopping the cellar-dwelling St. Joseph's Pumas, the Evansville College Purple Aces moved into Valparaiso only to be defeated for tbe second year in a row.

Paced by sophomore Chuck Kriston's 34 points, the Crusaders outshot Evansville to win going away, 79-71.

Leading tbe Evansville attack again was big Dale Wise with 20 points. He was followed by Marv Pruett with 17 and Walt Deal with 16. These were the only men for Evansville to score in double figures.

Kriston hit 13 of 26 shots in leading the Crusaders to victory. He had good support from the guards as Jim Zweifel tossed in 21 and Fran Clements scored 15.

Evansville murdered the winners on the boards as they hauled down 56 to Valpo's 35. Deal was the big man for the Aces, pulling down 17. He received support from Dale Wise with 12 and Marty Herthel with 10.

LCA, Sig Eps Win Rope Tug

Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon grabbed tug-of-war victories Monday in the Armory. The LCA's, boasting seven football players on their 10-man team, defeated SAE two out of three.

The Sig Eps stopped TKE two in a row for their victory.

Dogs Coasting In Conference With 8-1 Record

Butler's Bulldogs can breathe a lot easier after last weekend.

Thompson, Auten Pose As Big Guns For Ky. Panthers

Coach T. L. Plain's Kentucky Wesleyan Panthers will invade Roberts Municipal Stadium tomorrow night to try to grab their second victory of the season from the Aces.

The series between these two teams is one of the most exciting and hard-fought in the country. Wesleyan has not stopped Evansville on its home floor since the 1955-56 season when the Panthers turned the trick 98-79.

In the 1956-57 season, Evansville won in a double overtime, 95-91. The next year, on a long last-second long jump shot by a young forward from Rockport, named Larry Erwin, the Aces won 89-88. The season before last Evansville won 92-82, and last year the Aces took the Panthers, 93-87.

Coach Plain's quintet features a pressing zone and a fast-breaking offense, paced by little Gary Auten. Auten, playing in the shadow of the great Kelly Coleman last season, averaged 17 points per game. The little 5-8 junior hails from Terre Haute Garfield, where he was a teammate of Terry Dischinger, who is now playing at Purdue.

Also returning from last season's fine team are starters Winfred Thompson, Lyle Dunbar and veterans Bennie Horrell, Bill Jackson and Woody Neel.

Thompson, the man who killed Evansville earlier this season by tossing in 41 points in his greatest effort, is a 6-2 forward who averaged 12 points per game last season.

Dunbar, a 6-5 front-line man, last season set a school record for free throw percentage by sinking .801. Horrell, another probable starter on the front line, goes at 6-4.

Plain is in his second year of coaching the Panthers. Last year, his first year in the college ranks, he had an 18-11 record and finished third place in the NCAA College Division Tournament finals. While coaching at three different high schools he compiled a phenomenal 230-63 won-lost record.

After meeting Wesleyan, the Aces will go on a two-game road trip starting Tuesday at Indiana State. The next night Evansville will move up to Greencastle to take on the DePauw Tigers.

The Aces will be out to avenge an earlier season defeat at the hands of State, 105-102, on the Stadium floor. The Sycamores are paced by 6-4 Center Howard Dardeen.

DePauw should be up for the game with Evansville because of an earlier season loss at the hands of the Aces, 94-79. The Tigers have one of the leading scorers in the state in Forward Dale Anderson.

Aces Hurt By Crowds, Lights In Road Games

How does playing away from home affect you? This was the question put before the Evansville College basketball team this week.

Most of the players felt that the size of the playing floor, the crowd, and the lights were the greatest problems. Kentucky Wesleyan and St. Joseph's seemed to be the two places where most of them dislike to play. There were also some other problems and places mentioned.

Dale Wise—Dale like the majority of players, feels that the crowd and the floor give him the most trouble. Dale said that St. Joe and Valparaiso were the hardest places to play. "Last season Valpo gave me the most trouble," was his reply when asked to name one certain time when playing away from home hurt him. In that game Evansville suffered its only conference setback.

P. M. Sanders—The crowds also give P. M. his most trouble. In giving an example of the problems they cause he said, "the crowds make so much noise you can't hear during a timeout. St. Joe, Valparaiso, and Kentucky Wesleyan are the three places that give me the most trouble."

Marv Pruett—Marv said that playing away from home does not affect him too much. "Only the conference games affect you," was his final comment. Marv is known for his coolness on the court under pressure.

Jim Nossett — Although the crowd bothers Jim a little, he stated that his main problem was finding something to do until the game. Kentucky Wesleyan and St. Joe give him the most trouble.

Walt Deal—Walt felt that the problem of playing away depends on the place "At Wesleyan it's the gym, but at St. Joe it's the crowd that bothers you." Walt has no affection for playing at Wesleyan.

Marty Herthel—Marty said that away from home the people are a lot closer to you and this bothers him. Utah gave Marty the most trouble.

Tom Hamilton — Tom made a very good comment when he said that adjusting to the floor and goals are his biggest problems. Some of the goals are tight and some are loose and even some of the goals are different sizes. At Butler, which is the place that gives him the most problems, the goals are very tight and this gives Tom some trouble.

Paul Utley—He feels that the lighting and the size of the floor are things he has to adjust to most. He has no preference concerning which floor gives him the most trouble.

Ed Rolen—Ed, like Hamilton, feels that the biggest problem is adjusting to the different types of goals. Utah and Butler are the places that bother Ed the most.

Walt Henry—Walt feels that the crowd is what makes the difference, especially at Notre Dame and St. Joe. The reason being for these two places is the fact that the whole student body is made up of men.

Dave Fulkerson — When Dave plays away from home he mainly misses having the home crowd behind him. "Especially the one here."

Two Large Grants Received By EC

Two separate grants totaling $295,000 have been announced this week by the College as the drive to provide funds to construct two new buildings gets underway.

This morning news was released of a conditional grant of $195,000 approved by the Board of Directors of Lilly Endowment, Inc., of Indianapolis.

Mead Johnson Company Fund on Wednesday had announced a gift of $100,000 to be used in building the new Fine Arts and Physical Education buildings.

Evansville College plans to raise $1,525,000 during this spring campaign to provide funds to construct the buildings.

The Lilly Endowment grant will be paid when the balance required for completion of the two buildings has been subscribed.

A letter from Dr. Manning Patillo, the endowment's executive director education, said: "Lilly Endowment is happy to be able to assist in the physical development of Evansville College. We believe that a Fine Arts building and a Physical Education building will be important additions to the facilities of the college. We hope the conditional feature of our grant will stimulate generous giving on the part of others who are interested in the institution."

"The college is most appreciative of the confidence once again placed in it by the Lilly Endowment," Dr. Hyde said. "I hope the college and community will respond to this great challenge and speed the campaign toward its goal — not only in the ultimate completion of the two buildings, but more significantly in the improvement of the educational facilities in Evansville."

Best-Dressed Girls Being Signed Up

Twelve attractive EC coeds already have been entered in the campus best-dressed girl contest sponsored by the Crescent.

A flurry of names submitted Tuesday afternoon reflected wide interest in this nation-wide contest held by the women's magazine, "Glamour."

Sharon Tapley, handling the contest for the Crescent staff, revealed these entries:

Carol Ficetoli
Linda Wagner
Dixie Corn
Linda Hays
Barbara Kirsch
Karen Harp
Sadye Morgan
Ann Burton
Karen Rice
Karen Kunning
Janet Brashier
Jackie Sue Smith

An additional six girls, she reports, were being entered late Tuesday and it was probable additional entries would come in by today.

Date of the contest is being postponed one week to allow the girls more time to be notified and get ready for the judging. The judging will be done next Friday, Feb. 24, during the afternoon. Time and exact location in the Union for the contest will be announced in next Friday's Crescent.

Postponement is in line with recommendation of "Glamour" magazine which has set back its original deadline of March 1 by one week.

Additional entries for the EC judging will be accepted until noon Tuesday, Feb. 21. Any male student may sponsor an EC girl candidate by turning in his name along with that of the girl to Sharon Tapley or the Crescent office, 0-144.

Cafeteria To Feed 500 In Great Hall

Student Union officials are preparing to handle an additional 500 persons during the National Security Seminar, to be held here for two weeks beginning February 27, according to the Union Directors.

Mrs. Charles Wood, Union Director, said a minimum of 200 military people will attend, and since it is also open to civilians, an estimated 400-500 people are expected.

The SGA has received approval of student groups to vacate the parking on the circle for the guests, according to Mrs. Wood. The Union has a desire to welcome the guests, but at the same time put as little inconvenience as possible on the students, she added.

The cafeteria is working with the Union, and according to Mrs. Georgina Hill, "coffee breaks definitely won't conflict with the students." She further emphasized that although the cafeteria will serve the guests in the Great Hall, the union will do as much as possible to prevent crowding in the main cafeteria.

The fact that the conference is national is helpful to the city of Evansville, and an addition of so many people is bound to make an impact on the building, the director of food service said.

EC Debaters Win Seven At Purdue Debate Tourney

The EC debate team won 7 of 16 matches at the 14th annual Purdue University Novice Debate Tournament.

A total number of 55 teams from 40 schools participated in the tournament. Suzane Grienke and Kenneth Sanders won three of four matches, defeating I.U., Georgetown College, and University of Illinois. Also participating in the tournament were Barbara Main, Jerry Bertleson, Bill Davidson, and Brady Shafer.

The next tournament for the EC team will be Feb. 27 at Georgetown College.

This year's question is: Resolved: That the United States should adopt a program for compulsory health insurance for all citizens.

EC Glamour Contest Continues

There are prizes, surprises and more prizes in store for the winners of "Glamour's fifth annual "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America" contest — all exciting, once-in-a-lifetime opportunities for the "top ten."

In the spring they will be photographed for the August college issue. The location hasn't been selected yet, but judging from the 1960 issue it will be an exciting one. The 1960 winners went to Washington, D.C., in May to be photographed with leading political figures including now President Kennedy and Vice-President Johnson and past Vice-President Nixon.

In June, the "ten best dressed" fly to New York via American Airlines to spend two weeks at the Biltmore Hotel as "Glamour's" guests. What the two weeks will hold is still a surprise but it promises to be a gay, busy, glamorous visit. The highlight of the first week will be "Glamour's" annual college fashion show for 500 retailers at the Biltmore. The 1960 show opened with the "ten best dressed" modeling the clothes they were photographed in for the August Issue.

The second week of the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls" visit to New York will be climaxed by a champagne cotillion given in their honor at the Waldorf Astoria. In 1960 the young women were presented to cotillionites in ball gowns designed for them by leading New York designers. Among the celebrities they met at the party were Polly Bergen, Tony Randall and Darren McGavin.

The dance was preceded by dinner at the Yale Club with the Yale singing group, "The Baker's Dozen," who entertained at the cotillion as did the Princeton Tigertones.

Among the other highlights of the 1960 visit were a luncheon at The Colony Restaurant, hosted by Abbe Rabiner who later presented each of the ten young women with one of his famous suits; gift typewriters from Remington Rand; perfumes from Lanvin and Dana who entertained at luncheon and cocktails; a glamorous round of famous New York restaurants and nightclubs; dinner at the home of "Glamour's" editor-in-chief, Kathleen Aston Casey, and an unusual dinner dance on a cruise boat on the Hudson River.

Students Can See New Apartments

Two of the apartments in the College Court Apartments that the college has purchased will be inspected today at 10.

In charge of the inspection is Dr. Virginia Grabill, dean of women, who said that any student interested in housing may go.

Two apartments will be open in the building at 2016 Walnut. A one-bedroom and a two-bedroom apartment will be viewed.

S.G.A. Seeks Student Help

As was announced in the Crescent last week, Evansville College will act as host to the National Security Seminar which will be held on our campus February 27 through March 10.

This seminar offers to the public and to our students thirty-one outstanding lectures in the area of international relations, economies, etc. While we are fortunate in having a part in this program, we must also realize that 400 or 500 additional persons on our campus will pose certain problems.

1. There will be additional congestion in the halls of the "A" building.

2. A number of these persons will be having lunch in the cafeteria.

3. Additional coat racks will be necessary and check room facilities will be crowded.

4. The parking problem will be intensified.

The Evansville city officials, the College administration and the Student Government Association have been working together in an attempt to adjust these problems in order that the two weeks may be pleasant for our guests and our students as well. But all our efforts will be useless unless the student body supports them.

May we sincerely ask your cooperation. Approximately 350 out-of-town guests will judge our campus solely on the basis of our actions. Let's remember we are the hosts and the laws of hospitality — common courtesy, a smile, a friendly "Good Morning" — are never out-dated.

Student Government Association

Students Invited To Security Conference

The faculty and students are invited to register for the National Security Seminar to be held in the EC Administration Building Auditorium February 27 through March 10.

Prof. Dean Long, vice-president of EC and associate chairman of the seminar, reports that registration will be held in the Blue Room of the Student Union, Feb. 26 and 27. Registration fee is $1.00. Students who do not register may attend meetings as their schedules allow when there are vacant seats in the auditorium.

According to a pamphlet released by the Evansville Chamber of Commerce and Evansville College, co-sponsors of the local seminar, meetings will be held Monday through Friday each week of the program. Six Armed Forces officers will conduct the seminar.

In a memorandum issued by Mr. Long, he stated that "this National Security Seminar will bring hetween four or five hundred people to our campus. We are attempting to enlist the cooperation of the students and the faculty and the college personnel in making our guests feel at home.

We hope that when they leave Evansville College they will retain a favorable impression of our hospitality. We also want them to have the satisfaction of attending a pleasant and profitable conference. We believe that much good will will accrue to Evansville College as a result of their experiences here."

In the same memorandum, Mr. Long stated in regard to parking space for the visitors: "I have been working with the student body through the SGA to reserve special parking areas for the participants of this conference. They have agreed that the 'U' drive in front of the Administration Building be reserved for this purpose."

The memorandum further states that "Mayor McDonald has agreed to reserve Rotherwood from Lincoln to Walnut and both sides of the street and the State Highway Department has agreed to reserve Lincoln from Frederick to Rotherwood on both sides of the street for conference participants to park."

Engineering Instructor Added To Dept

A University of Illinois graduate will join the Evansville College faculty spring quarter to teach mechanical engineering.

Ronald Devaisher will hold the title of visiting assistant professor in engineering. His appointment will keep the number of instructors in the School of Engineering at full quota, while Associate Professor William O. Hartsaw is on leave to study toward his doctor's degree.

Devaisher, an Irving, Ill., native, will commence his teaching duties spring quarter which starts March 14. He will also teach during the summer session and conduct classes in the Community College.

While at University of Illinois, Devaisher was a part time instructor in the graduate school, receiving his Master's degree in 1960. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps, and has recently completed his military service.

Mardi Gras Ball Tickets Available

Tickets will go on sale Feb. 21 in the lobby of the Union for the Mardi Gras masquerade ball, sponsored by the Independents and backed by campus Greek organizations.

The ball will be in the Great Hall at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 24.

Tickets also will be sold Tuesday, Feb. 21, from 10 to 10:45 in the Administration Building.

All but one of the Greek organizations have pledged to sell tickets for the ball, reports James Coffey, INCA president.

Christian Conference Here Feb. 19

The annual Conference on Christian Vocations will be from 3:15 to 5:45 p.m. on Sunday, February 19 in the Union Building, according to Dr. Arthur Mansure, head of Religious Life at Evansville College.

The conference is for high school students from churches of various denominations in the surrounding area. Included in the conference will be the Vesper Service at 4 p.m. followed by a fellowship hour and supper.

At 6:30 p.m. there will be a round table for discussions with college students and interest groups led by college students with pastors of four denominations as resource leaders.

Dean Robert Thompson and Dr. Donell Miller will lead a seminar for pastors and other adult leaders on "Counseling with Youth."

Rev. Benjamin Garrison, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Bloomington, Indiana, will present a challenge to the students in the Great Hall at 8 p.m. and the conference will end with a worship service at 8:30 p.m.

Registration for the conference must be completed before the conference begins with a fee of fifty cents for the supper.

Campus Meetings Bring Many Students Here

Coming clinics and meetings on the EC campus point to the importance in college life of bringing here visiting students, teachers, and experts in specialized fields.

Next week Guidance Day will be the meeting. Shortly afterward it will be the Christian Conference on Vocations and then the Science Fair.

Other meetings which have already been held this school year are Engineering Day, Journalism Day, Homecoming, the Nursing Conference, the District Music Conests. At other times athletes or other high school seniors are invited to experience campus life.

A run-down of these campus activities which draw students who later may attend Evansville College follows.

Conference Coming On Christion Vocotions

Coming here Feb. 19 will be an estimated 100 high school students for the yearly Conference on Christian Vocations.

This program, which has been in progress for almost 10 years, tripled its attendance beginning in 1959.

It is an interdenominational program, says Dr. Arthur Mansure, director of religious life, that encourages those who are already considering Christian vocations and stimulates those who may not be so certain what they should do.

Another value he cited of bringing the student on campus is to show him that colleges offer that specific preparation needed in many fields. Also, there is a value recruiting for Evansville College, Dr. Mansure points out. "This (the student interested in putting Christianity into his vocation) is the kind of student we want."

Engineering Doy Hosts Science Students

At Engineering Day, Oct. 27, there were 110 high school seniors here, reports Dean Long, committee chairman.

"These programs are very effective," says the vice-president of the College. "Some of the students who attend them enroll at Evansville College."

In addition to a tour of the campus, the visiting seniors were shown a 25-minute movie and were in on a discussion of engineering as a career.

Students To Benefit From Security Seminar

EDITORIAL

The altruistic nature of our college officials was manifested recently by the announcement that the Student Government Association had agreed to "give" the loop-drive in front of the college for parking spaces to be used exclusively by visitors to the National Security Seminar that will be held here Feb. 27 through March 10.

The reason given for the reserved spaces was that persons attending the seminar would not be familiar with the campus and parking close to the meeting places would make it easier for them to locate the various buildings.

In the first place, most of the out-of-town visitors will be transported to the school from their motels, hotels, etc., by special buses; they shouldn't have much trouble finding the Administration Building because the buses will stop in front of it. Second, the parking spaces will be used primarily by Evansville residents and persons living in the Tri-state area. Most of them should know the campus.

We now find out that Lincoln from Frederick to Rotherwood and Rotherwood from Lincoln to Walnut will be reserved on both sides of the street.

There are approximately 1,200 cars on this campus each day and the parking situation is a problem now. This proposed plan will not help the situation.

The exercise of walking to class from a greater distance will probably be of benefit to many people and the college is to be commended for their concern for our health.

However, it would be an extremely nice gesture to offer the faculty parking spaces beside the Administration Building so the visitors couldn't possibly get lost. Perhaps some of the faculty need the exercise too, and we wouldn't want to exclude them from this invigorating little health project.

Maybe the planting of several signs on the campus lawn could direct our uninformed visitors.

It's not the principle of the thing, it's the walking.

There seems to be a problem among many organizations on campus and some off campus reconciling the price charged by the cafeteria for refreshments such as coffee, cookies and doughnuts at special meetings held in the Union Building with downtown prices.

One instance of coffee bought for a party costing nine cents a cup when about 50 cups of coffee were consumed. When any product is purchased in quantity the price is usually reduced, otherwise they could have purchased the coffee during the day at a nickel and reheated it that night at the meeting.

Senior Harry Critser, right, is exhibiting his art in the gallery of the Union. Other senior art students who will be displaying their work following Critser are Kathy Clemens and Bill Hickrod.

Here We Go Again

Frank Haskett

Awhile back I registered a complaint against undergraduates wearing letter sweaters. I did little good, but the other day I ran across a guy who makes them seem like pikers. This student wears a military uniform to school almost every day. No, not R. O. T. C. He went to Texas A. & M. last year, and it is required dress — down there. Oh, brother!

From the New Yorker comes this gusher. "The program for the East Berlin Komische Opera's production of 'La Boheme' includes a chart that shows the incidence of deaths from tuberculosis in Paris between 1901 and 1905 according to age and social status." Why not?

This year's roundball team shows rather clearly what happens when a school fails to recruit (oh, that nasty word again) for a whole year. We should be able to fall back on our juniors to stabilize the team, but whoops . . . there are none. This problem will loom next year, but we bope not quite so largely.

There is a moral aspect here. If we don't recruit, we can't get town backing, national prominence, etc., and if we do, we may have to sidestep a few N.C.A.A. rules . . . Ah, the moment of truth.

I don't know exactly who has to walk this tightrope of decision for us, but it must be something akin to a professional baseball manager's job with a few more ethical problems. Good luck, whoever you are, and watch carefully every time you take a step.

Vocal Varieties is coming up next week, Thursday (23rd), at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall. This sing is becoming a tradition and it promises to be better than ever before. Drop in after studying or night class and at least catch a part of it. This is our college (university?) so why not back it.

I.U. Student Minister To Speak At Vespers

The Rev. R. Benjamin Garrison, at the vesper service this Sunday, Feb. 19 at 4 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Union Building, will have as his topic, "Called Forth To Be Sent Back."

As pastor of the First Methodist Church of Bloomington, Ind., Garrison ministers to students of Indiana University. He has helped advance a dynamic interrelationship of religion and higher education likewise as chairman of the committee on Christian Higher Education of the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church.

Garrison has also contributed to scholarly and religious periodicals. He is a graduate of DePauw and Drew universities.

Prayer for the service will be offered by the Rev. Kenneth C. Powell from Salem Methodist Church, while Thomas Tupper, president of Kappa Chi, will read the scripture. Dr. Arthur Mansure, director of religious life at EC, will preside.

The college choir under the direction of Harrison Boughton will sing, "Savior Throw the Heavens Wide." A fellowship hour will follow the service at 5 p.m. in the Union lounge.

3 Students Display Art At Union

Harry Critser, Jr., is the first of three Evansville College seniors to display individual art exhibits this quarter at the Student Union Building. His display runs to February 15.

Critser is from Henderson, Ky., and has worked on the Crescent staff. He is a member of Kappa Pi, national art fraternity.

Succeeding Critser with their displays are Kathleen Clemens, Feb. 27, and William Hickrod, Feb. 27-March 9.

The art displays are works the students have done during their four years in college. The displays include oil paintings, techniques, water colors, mixed media in drawings and sketches, and portraits and design.

During the spring quarter three other senior exhibits are scheduled to be shown. Barbara Kirkpatrick, Kay Klinger, and Luther Hale will each display works in the Union "Little Gallery."

High School Seniors To Be Honored

Evansville College can expect about 60 boys and 120 girls at the annual High School Senior Day to be held on the campus this Saturday and Sunday, according to Thornton Patburg, Admissions Counselor.

The program will begin at 2:00 p.m. Saturday for the students interested in nursing. All other students will register for the week-end at 3:30. A hospital tour is planned for the prospective nurses, and a dinner will be held in the visitors honor Saturday evening at the Student Union, reports Mr. Patburg.

The high school guests will stay at the dorms while they are here. Buses will take the dorm residents and their guests to and from the EC-St. Joe basketball game Sat. night. After the game, the girls will have a pajama party at Moore Hall and the boys will have a meeting with members of the college staff at Hughes Hall, says Patburg.

The program will conclude with a church service and dinner Sunday.

Athletes Brought Here To Get Acquainted

One of the big drawing cards to the EC campus is the varsity sports schedule — during a year from 700 to 800 athletes and their coaches from the Tri-State area are invited here.

Visiting teams and individuals come throughout the year, reports Bob Hudson, business manager of athletics, as guests of the athletic department to watch the Purple Aces participate in football and basketball especially.

From these guests, many enrollees at the College come. Not only are the outstanding high school athletes coming to register, but many others are encouraged by the views they obtain of the EC squads and the campus.

Women are the most avid news readers! A Bureau of Advertising survey over the last 10 years shows 71 per cent of women questioned read all the general news, sports, society and women's pages, while only 61 per cent of the men sampled do.

Mrs. Field From Tenn.

House-Mother A Rebel

"A house-mother's job extends twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week," observes Mrs. Sallie Field, head resident at Moore Hall. Mrs. Field's official duties include managing the dorm, counseling girls, and acting as official hostess of the dorm.

Mrs. Field has been a house-mother twelve years. She spent three years at a fraternity house at DePauw University and six years at a sorority house at the University of Illinois before coming to E.C. to be the first house-mother of new Hughes Hall in 1958. In 1960 she became the first house-mother of new Moore Hall.

Mrs. Field, a native of Tennessee, attended Georgetown University and after her marriage she moved to Mt. Vernon, Ind. where she reared her two daughters. Both are married and Mrs. Field has five grandchildren.

The girls at Moore Hall have a glimpse of home and a feeling of nostalgia when they see Mrs. Field in her rocking chair working on Swedish embroidery. Her pink-walled apartment, compact and attractive, has a sitting room with a Pullman kitchen, bedroom and private bath.

"The coffee pot is always on and the girls are always welcome to come by for a visit," Mrs. Field said in her southern accent.

Corn Competing For ROTC Title

Dixie Corn will represent the Arnold Air Society of the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps in competing for the title of "Little General" at the national meeting in Detroit, March 22-5.

Dixie, a sophomore from Winslow, Ind., is majoring in English literature. She enjoys writing short stories and poems and is interested in social work.

Five finalists will be chosen from among the representatives who sent in pictures along with their activities, interests and grades throughout college. From these five a "Little General" will be chosen to reign.

She will reign over a Wild Blue Yonder Ball on March 25. When asked if the girls would be provided with escorts, Dixie answered, "M-m-m, yes!"

Dr. Harding's Father Sorting Library At Time Of Death

Harrison H. Harding, father of the EC librarian, "at the time of his death was sorting books from his private library to give to the college library," says Dr. Thomas Harding. His library consists of 200 to 300 volumes.

Harrison H. Harding, 76, died enroute to St. Mary's Hospital on Saturday, Feb. 4. His sole survivor is his son, Dr. Thomas Harding, librarian of Clifford Memorial Library.

Rev. Edward Oculette officiated at the funeral on Feb. 7. Burial was in Oak Hill Cemetery with graveside services by Lessing Masonic Lodge.

Harrison Harding was a retired groceryman and salesman before his retirement. Originally from Lockport, N. Y., he moved to Evansville in 1950.

Mr. Harding survived his wife, Mrs. Jessie L. Harding, by 13 weeks. She died Nov. 5, 1960.

The portrait hanging in Dr. Harding's office in the library was painted by Horace Harding, grandfather to Harrison Harding and on the event of Harrison's death was to be given to the library.

An additional $200 has been received from T. Ed Hanley of Bradford, Pa., to be added to his library fund in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Karl Kae Knecht, reports Dr. Thomas Harding, librarian.

Part of the original grant was used to purchase journalism books, since Dr. Knecht's lifetime occupation was in the journalism field. Fifty dollars of the additional grant will be used in the same way.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Saturday will end the first basketball season since the 1952-53 year that an Evansville College team has finished below a .500 average in its regular season games.

Even though the NCAA tourney finals will be held here, I don't see how the Aces can get a bid. After the Butler game things were looking up, but a gang of fellows from Owensboro stopped an Evansville resurgence real quick.

That full court press Coach T. L. Plain used shook the Aces up a little although they were only down by two, (39-37) at the half. If Evansville could have hit anything at all the first half they could have wrapped the game up because Wesleyan was really off its usual form.

But hot shooting hillbillys started hitting the second 20 minutes and Evansville kept in the same rut. Auten and company dropped in 18 of 28 shots in the hot second half for a rather warm .643 percentage.

Generally there is some doubt who is the best team on the floor after a Wesleyan-Evansville game, but there wasn't any Saturday night.

Money Angle

Actually I think the Aces will get a bid for the NCAA tourney. Without Coach Arad and his boys in the tourney it can't make any money, and that's the real, real reason it is held.

There are a few thousand fans in Evansville that would go to the Stadium to see some other top notch small colleges play, but not enough to pay the bill for the trip and rent.

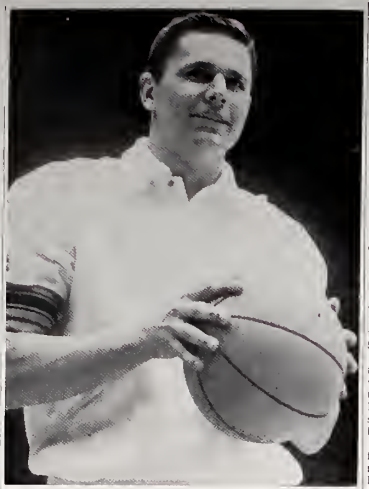
Even if the Aces are beaten in the first or second game there would probably be enough people to make the tourney a profit making thing.

Another angle is that Wesleyan and Southern Illinois University (SIU), two of our close neighbors will more than likely get to the finals. Both ball clubs are rated in the top five of the small college ratings.

SIU may be hurting a little bit because several of its seniors may not get to play in the NCAA tourney. The NCAA has a rule that no man can play four years of varsity ball and SIU doesn't go by this standard. So a couple of its big men may not get to play. The same thing holds true for Ky. Wesleyan. I don't know about Winny Thompson and Lyle Dunbar this year but Gary Auten won't get to play next season beeause he played as a freshman.

Stadium Fights

We didn't win the ball game Saturday night and no one knows if we won the fights or not. Next time we play Wesleyan someone should hire a couple of judges and a referee to keep track of the blows on the floor. I imagine Gillette might even sponsor the game if they would send someone down to see it. We could call it the Saturday night fights at Robert's Municipal Stadium.



Big Dale Wise stands ready to shoot a free throw. Wise ends his college basketball career tomorrow night unless the Aces come up with a NCAA Tournament bid.

Wise In Finale For Aces Tomorrow Night

When the Purple Aces take the floor against St. Joseph's tomorrow night, one of the greats of Evansville College history will be playing in his final regular season game. That man is Dale Wise.

From Dale's first college game against New Mexico A. & M., he won the heart of almost every Evansville College basketball fan with his spirited rebounding.

As a sophomore, Dale, a 6-4 forward, was a member of the first Evansville NCAA championship team. Although he was the sixth man on that team, he was the fifth leading scorer and pulled down ahout eight rebounds per game.

In his junior year Wise moved into a starting role and more than earned it while playing in the shadow of the great Ed Smallwood. He was the second leading scorer on the team with a 15.8 average and in the rebound department he was by far the best man as he hauled down 496 rebounds for a 13 a game average.

Against Kentucky Wesleyan and Ball State last season he tied the school record for rebounds in one game by grabbing off 31. He shares the honor with Jim Smallins who set the record in the '56-57 season. He received one honor last season for his hard work by being named to the all ICC team.

Although this year's team has not been up to that of last year, Dale's performances have been way above par. With Smallwood gone, the Aces have looked lo Wise to score more than he has in the past and he has done just that. After two seasons of scoring all of his viscious tips, Dale has developed a soft jump-shot that has been more than enough.

He is currently leading the conference in three departments, total points, average points, and rebounding. He has tossed in 197 points to have a conference average of 25 points per game. He is rebounding at a pace of 17.3 per game. Dale is also seventh in free throw percentage.

Aces Meet St. Joseph's Ending Disastrous Year

Evansville's Purple Aces will be trying lo improve on a well below par record tomorrow night as they take the floor against the cellar dwelling St. Joseph's Pumas in the season finale.

The Pumas, who are suffering one of their worst seasons ever, are pased by Al Whitlow. Whitlow is currently averaging 17.3 points per game in conference play. Jerry Patchman of St. Joseph's is currently the seventh leading rebounder in the conference with a 9.0 per game average.

It's no wonder that the Pumas are in last place as they are last in both offense and defense in the conference. While averaging only 69 points a game, they have allowed their opponents to score 85 points a contest.

The Pumas' only conference victory this season was over the DePauw Tigers, who were currently in second place at the time. St. Joe stopped DePauw 78-71.

Playing for the Aces in their final game will be four seniors who have all been stalwarts in the Evansville attack. They are Dale Wise, Walt Deal, Jim Nossett, P. M. Sanders and Tom Hamilton.

Wise, Deal and Nossett have formed the nucleus for a strong rebounding front line and Sanders has broken the back of many teams with his booming jump shots while falling away from the basket. Hamilton has been the man who puts life in the Evansville attack when he comes off the bench.

DePauw Topples Aces As Wise, Deal Ride Bench

Evansville College lost its third game in a row Wednesday night at DePauw, 86-85 in an overtime, as Dale Wise and Walt Deal rode the bench. The two big workhorses in the Evansville attack had scored 55 points between them the night before against Indiana State.

Wise, who is the ICC scoring leader, missed his first eight shots and then committed an intentional foul that forced Coach Arad McCutchan to put the 6-4 senior on the bench for the rest of the game. Even when the going got tough in the overtime period, McCutchan refused to let Wise, who went scoreless, enter back into the game.

Walt Deal who hit two of three from the floor and two of two from the foul line was benched by McCutchan only moments after Wise departed. Deal, a chronic arguer had a run-in with an official and McCutchan immediately jerked the 6-6 senior for the remainder of the game.

Briley Leads Frosh Over Oakland City

Buster Briley dropped in 44 points Saturday night to lead the freshmen Aces to a convincing 107-73 victory over the Oakland City Reserves.

Briley hit 15 of 36 shots from the floor and an amazing 14 of 14 from the free throw line. Paul Bullard and Ed Zausch chipped in 19 apiece to lead the Aces.

Evansville led 53-21 at the half before substituting freely in the second letting 13 men see action.

Intramural All-Stars To Play Curtain Raiser Saturday Night

The top 20 boys in the intramural leagues will play the curtain-raiser Saturday night before the St. Joe game at the Stadium. Game time will be 6 p.m.

In the past the winners of League I and League II have played the preliminary game, but Don Ping, director of the intramural program, decided to work it this way this year to give all of the good boys a chance to play.

Dan Phillips will coach the White team, being assisted by Dwight Tapley. John Meredith and Eddie Cole will coach the Orange squad. Larry Lawrence and Larry Collins will do the officiating for the game to be played in eight minute quarters.

Lambda Chi Alpha Wins Tug-of-War

Lambda Chi Alpha used its well known weight to good advantage at the halftime of the Butler-Evansville game as the fraternity was victorious in the annual tug-of-war staged between the fraternities on campus.

Victim of the LCA team was the Sig Ep team which went down lo defeat in two straight pulls. In the semi-finals, after LCA and SAE each won a pull, the LCA team pulled its way to the finals. In the other semi-finals, the Sig Eps stopped TKE.

EC Welcomes National Security Seminar Visitors

College Will Host 500 For Two-Week Meeting

The Evansville National Security Seminar begins Monday in the Administration Building Auditorium.

The seminar, conducted by the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, is a broad, information-packed presentation of facts our citizens should know about the status of our national security, according to Prof. Dean Long, associate chairman of arrangements. The college expects about 500 people to register for the two-week course, he said.

There will be approximately 40 students a day attending the seminar from Evansville high schools, says Prof. Long, plus a number of EC students who will register. College students will be admitted to the sessions free any time there are available seats, but to insure a seat, students are encouraged to pay the $1.00 fee and receive a badge that will admit the holder to all sessions. The fee also entitles the registrant to a 375 page booklet explaining the program of the seminar, reports Mr. Long.

Mr. Long expressed appreciation to EC students for their co-operation with the committee to make the seminar a success. The seminar will be a distinct benefit to Evansville and EC, he said, because we are "off the beaten track" of nationally known speakers.

Lt. Col. Russell C. Morrison, conference administrator, arrived at EC last week to set up the seminar program, reports Prof. Long. Six Armed Forces officers will arrive tomorrow to set up the equipment and prepare the lectures.

Parking will be restricted on campus beginning Monday for the duration of the seminar, says Mr. Long.

Parking On And Around Campus Is A Problem

Adequate parking space is handy for Evansville College students, so that visitors coming for the National Security Seminar starting Monday can be allowed to park on the U without greatly inconveniencing students, faculty and staff members.

A survey Monday and Tuesday showed that within two blocks in all directions of the square campus 854 parking spaces are available.

Added to the 542 spaces on campus, this makes a total handy parking of 1,396.

At the peak class hours of 8 to 10 Monday morning, 762 cars were parked on campus and within this two-block perimeter. This includes a number of cars which had no connection with the college.

The National Security Seminar is expected to bring in as many as 500 persons, some in cars and some in buses, for the series of sessions from Monday through next March 10.

The College administration, as an act of courtesy and convenience for the visitors, has asked that students not park on the U of the campus. It is understood also that Lincoln Ave. in front of the College is being reserved for seminar visitors.

75 on Bellemeade 2 blocks south;
75 on Lincoln Park 1 block east;
36 on Englewood 1 block west.

A breakdown of parking space available — and only a small percentage is utilized by owners of homes on these streets — shows:

On campus	542
On the U	107
Lincoln fronting college	61
South 2 blocks	190
East 2 blocks	255
North 2 blocks	182
West 2 blocks	166

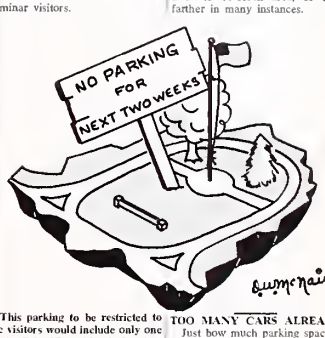
High Percentage of Parking Spaces

EC students are in an enviable position as far as parking facilities are concerned, figures show.

Figures supplied by W. A. Miner, in charge of car registration, bring out the fact that on campus alone students have 456 parking spaces available for 1244 registered cars. This is a rate of 36 per cent. It does not include off-campus parking facilities.

Compared to that figure, faculty members have 68 spaces available for 249 cars, or 27 per cent. Staff members have 18 spaces for 97 cars, or 19 per cent.

At most of the major universities, EC instructors note, parking for students is hard to find within a 5- to 10-block area, or even farther in many instances.



This parking to be restricted to the visitors would include only one week, Feb. 27 to March 3, when college activity is at its height. The second week of the seminar will include the between-quarter break.

Peak hour for cars on campus is the 8 to noon Monday period, and the 8 o'clock class that day has the most students enrolled. 881, reports the office of the Dean of the College. This means that probably 881, at the most, of a possible 1244 student cars are on campus at any one time.

To bar students from parking on the U and on Lincoln Ave. in front of the campus would still allow 1,288 spaces available within the 2-block perimeter for a maximum of 1,227 students, faculty and staff members here at that time of day. This assumes that everyone brought a car to school at the same time.

Much parking space is being wasted outside the campus. At the height of classroom activity Monday morning, the survey showed the following handy parking was not being utilized:

11 on Lincoln in the 1900 block;
23 on Rotherwood 1 block south;
11 on Mulberry 1 block south;
25 on Runnymeade 1 block west;
53 in parking lot on the park north of campus;

TOO MANY CARS ALREADY

Just how much parking space is available on campus? And how does this compare with the number of cars?

W. A. Miner, in charge of car registration and parking facilities at Evansville College, gives the following figures that indicate three times as many cars as parking available on campus.

REGISTRATIONS

Student cars	1244
Faculty cars	249
Staff cars	97
Total cars	1590

SPACES AVAILABLE

Student parking	456
Faculty parking	68
Staff parking	18
Total parking	542

ILLEGAL PARKING

Students are being asked not to park in customer zones owned by business firms on Lincoln opposite the College.

Several complaints within the last month, says W. A. Miner, have been made by Wesselman's and Citizen's National Bank who provide off-street parking for customers.

Miner, assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds handling car registration, reports cases of students leaving cars in front of the bank grocery store area for the whole day.

Proficiency Tests Given March 13

Seniors have another opportunity to take the English proficiency test required of all graduates. The test will be given Monday morning, March 13, at 8 o'clock, reports the English Proficiency Committee headed by Robert Martin.

Taking approximately two hours, the test will be given in Kleymeyer Auditorium in Clifford Memorial Library.

English proficiency ordinarily is a part of the sophomore testing program administered at the end of the quarter during which the student completes 90 credit hours.

Students above the sophomore level the committee notes, but who as yet have not demonstrated proficiency are required to take only the English part of the sophomore testing program.

"Students meeting the proficiency requirements will be notified by means of a posted list on the bulletin board near the registrar's office," Martin says.

"Those not demonstrating proficiency will be notified by letter with instructions as to how to proceed."

Arrangements for testing are to be made at the Testing Bureau, Room 149 of the Office Building.

East-side Park will be the site of EC's new Physical Education Building shown in an architect's drawing above. The building will be constructed on the south side of the park facing Walnut St. Completion date has been set tentatively for the summer of 1962.

Church Mission Not Taken Seriously, Garrison Says

The church of today has engaged in "too much flirtation evangelism and has not been taken seriously by the world," an Indiana churchman told a large Vesper service audience in the Union Great Hall Sunday.

The Rev. R. Benjamin Garrison, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Bloomington, delivered the fifth vesper service sermon before more than 300 persons, including 225 young people and ministers of the tri-state area.

The service was part of the annual Christian Vocational Conference activities at the college.

"People must understand that the church has no mission, but is a mission," Rev. Garrison exclaimed. He said the church can not stand off and refuse to assist those who are not its members. "There is an eternal tension between the faith we proclaim and the world to which we were sent. We must serve others," he said.

"Churches shouldn't just express comforting words, but should be willing to speak of uncomfortable topics, too," he stated. "We as Christians should be willing to work to solve the difficult problems."

People of different beliefs, creeds and races must be accepted. Churches stand to serve people through its people, he explained.

The church is a servant of Jesus Christ; it is not choosing of its own tasks, Rev. Garrison continued. "The purpose of Christian apostleship is obedience. It is bondage when we are obedient only to ourselves. Our mission is so inclusive it is staggering, but specific enough to include each person," he stated.

A dinner for high school students and ministers followed the vespers. Later several group discussion periods moderated by local clergymen and students took place.

Union Board Members Receive Blazers, Crests

Navy blue blazers have arrived for the Union Board members by special order from Indianapolis, according to the president of the Union Board, Jim Sanders.

Design of the crest worn on the blazers was especially designed and approved by the Union Board, Sanders added. The shield has E.C. and the year that the members were associated with the board.

Purpose of the blazers Sanders says, is to show recognition for the services the members have contributed to the Union during their college years.

An item in a local paper about "wild parties" at Indiana University bears comment.

There tends to be general "mouthing" at any institution and discontentment with certain practices. This is not only a healthy manifestation of educational growth but also shows interest in our immediate environment.

We have discussed the rules and regulations enforced at EC and perhaps this is the time to present one of the reasons for their existance.

The item in the paper read, in part: "Ten Indiana University students, including the newly crowned queen of the Coronation Ball, were arrested Saturday when police raided what they termed a 'wild party.'"

Situations such as this are avoided by having chaperones at parties and the "no beer or alcohol" clause in the rules. We have been very fortunate here because very few of the offenders have been caught. We are all aware that "wild parties" exist someplace in every town in this country, not only in college cities, but the public embarassment of getting caught has not stained our campus — yet.

The discontentment many students feel because of the rules and regulations may be only an attempt to whitewash their personal inadequacies. But one thing we must keep in mind is that we chose the college and the college did not choose us. It was our duty to check the atmosphere at EC and to accept it or reject it. The fact we enrolled here means we accept the conditions necessary for attendance.

Perhaps we should direct our energies toward improving the conditions of tradition, school spirit, student attitude and student-faculty relations.

ITEM: On March 2 at 8:30 p.m., NBC (Channel 14) will present "Twenty-Five Years of Life Magazine," the history of America as seen through the pages of Life magazine. The show, a two-hour program, will be MC'd by Bob Hope and will feature pictures of the second World War, movie stars, automation, etc.

ITEM: We have heard about a way to park on the loop for the two weeks the visitors are here. Pay the one dollar for registration and receive the sticker for your car permitting you to park close to the college for two weeks for one dollar.

ITEM: There is a columnist, who shall remain nameless, who delights in "knocking" everything and seldom praising the efforts of anything, save fraternities. As this is the attitude of conforming nonconformists perhaps he is a nonconformist.

Should anyone ask, I do.

This week's lurb may seem a little jumbled because the ideas run rampant with no single train — of — thought. Anyway most of them should be humorous, and no one gets seriously cut so read on and enjoy.

Things we find hard to believe: Some thirty SAE's went to St. Michael's Episcopal Church the Sunday before last.

Things we would like to forget: When Marvin Heininger forgot to take the muffler off of the new R.O.T.C. bell at the Kentucky Wesleyan game.

Have you noticed Tony Quelette growing a beard? He is appearing in an Easter passion play at Ft. Lauderdale. Are you strong enough to carry that much wood Tony?

Can you imagine: if Messrs. Smiley, Arensman, Hartsaw, Anderson, Bailey, and Coleman had wavy blonde hair . . . if Mr. Hem Chand Jain read "Little Bop Riding Hood" at an English dept. coffee hour . . . anything more appropriate than Southern Indiana Methodist University for E. C. when it goes big time . . . if Professor Goodman lost his pipe . . . if the bus didn't appear to pick up the nurses every day.

A fraternity and sorority "row" like most other large progressive universities . . . if Mrs. Grabill couldn't have conferences with students . . . if the Aces won the N.C.A.A. again . . . if someone led a panty raid on Moore Hall . . . if someone mined the ground around the "O" building before finals . . . if someone spiked the Blend machine . . . if Dr. Erickson was caught blowing baritone sax with Shorty Rogers . . . if the Saturday Evening Post investigated Evansville College . . . if by some mystic power all patrons of the Blue Bar were turned into cubes.

Dr. Thompson led the charge to Audubon on the first warm spring day, complete with cooler filled to the brim with coolade . . . if each graduating senior received a certified check for $64 for overcharges of union food for four years . . . if Mr. Herndon turned into an oil well . . . if someone burned all of the cue sticks and ping-pong paddles . . . if George Lincoln Rockwell came to head the R.O.T.C. formation for May Day . . . if Caryl Chessman came back to lead a Kappa Chi pow wow . . . and finally if Deron Mikal ate a cheeseburger at Pine Moss.

Music Major's Record Hits Bigtime - Almost

By Larry Pond

Don't look now, but the next time you insert a nickel into the juke box in the Wooden Indian and punch button F-9 you'll be hearing Evansville College's own Bill Balsbaugh wailing away at the piano in a selection called "Tornado."

The song was recorded on Claudra label in September of 1959 by Bill and two of his close firends who call themselves hte "Jiants." The song was written by Andy Anderson, a student at Marian College in Indianapolis, and Jerry Hedge, who is now enrolled at IU. Anderson does the singing hit, with Bill on piano and Hedge on guitar.

Balsbaugh did all of the arranging on the song. "Only a little over 2,000 copies of the record were sold," says Bill, "but I think it would have done a lot better if we would have had enough time to promote it.

"At one time, 'Tornado' was the pick hit of the week at Radio Station WJPS in Evansville. However, it did even better than that in Ft. Wayne where it was the number two song for a couple of weeks on radio station GL's Top Fifty."

Says Bill, "I went back to my home in Marion (Ind.) for Christmas Vacation in '59 and the three of us made a trip to Ft. Wayne and passed out copies to all of the radio stations there. Luckily it went over in a big way. "If we had another month to promote the thing, I believe it would have gone over in a much bigger style."

Bill and his group played throughout the Marion and Ft. Wayne area for two years before they disbanded just this past summer. One of the more popular places at which the group played was at Tippecanoe Gardens in Northern Indiana. This is a popular resort area for both high school and college students.

Now a junior at EC, Bill still gets his nose into the music world as he is presently Vocal Varieties director for Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity of which he is a member.

One Act Plays In Rehearsals

Another night of Student directed one-act plays will be presented on Saturday, March 4, at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building.

The titles cannot be used because publication of the names would require the payment of royalties.

Madrigals To Appear Tonight At Union

The Madrigal Singers will give a concert in the Union lounge tonight at 8:15.

The Madrigals, with 16 members, differ from the college chorus in that they sing a special type of music and perform around a table with girls seated and men standing behind each girl, Director Margaret Shepard says.

This kind of singing originated during the reign of Elizabeth I of England. People often cleared their tables after dinner, Mrs. Shepard says, and sat around the table singing frivolous love songs.

The group practices twice a week and gives concerts throughout the year. Any student on campus is eligible to audition in the fall for the Madrigal Singers.

105 HS Seniors Visit College Over Weekend

This past weekend Evansville College successfully aeted as all out host for 105 high school students, reports Thornton Patherg, admissions counselor.

Sixty-five girls and 40 boys were shown around the campus Saturday afternoon and 25 girls toured Welborn Hospital, he added.

The group was served a meal in the Great Hall and welcomed hy President Hyde, the guest speaker.

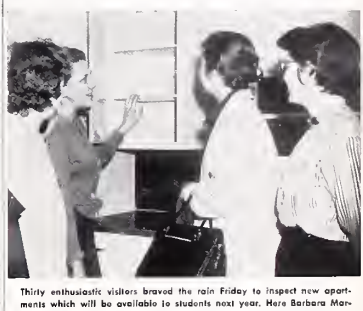
The students attended the E.C.-St. Joe game Saturday night, after which the boys and girls went to their respective dorms. The girls had a pajama party at Moore Hall, and the boys held a party in Hughes Hall.

The students were directed to the church of their choice Sunday morning, and breakfast was later served to them.

As the day progressed, a question and answer period was conducted at the men's dorm hy Arthur Tyler, and Thornton Patherg lead the discussion in the women's dorm. Purpose of the panel, Patherg said, was to answer questions the students had concerning college life at E.C., such as applications, scholarships, curricula.

Each student furnished his own transportation to and from the college for the weekend. Patherg added that the majority of the guests came from a considerable distance, such as Chicago, St. Louis, Indianapolis, and Louisville.

The purpose of the entire weekend was to interest the high school students in Evansville College, and according to the Admissions Counselor a good time was had hy all.



Thirty enthusiastic visitors braved the rain Friday to inspect new apartments which will be available to students next year. Here Barbara Martin, Donna Hagedorn, Jody Kimm, Sandra Collins and Dr. Virginia Grabill, director of women's counseling, look over the kitchen.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Four seniors, Dale Wise, Jim Nossett, P. M. Sanders and Tom Hamilton thought they finished their college basketball careers last Saturday night against St. Joe. I thought they did too, so here is a summary of the four seniors before they enter the NCAA tourney at Chicago March 10. Walt Deal, who suddenly departed from the Aces squad last week is also included in the recap.

WISE

Wise ended the season as the number one scorer in the ICC along with the rebound title. There is no way the Kokomo Ace can help but make the all conference squad. That big zero at DePauw didn't help him any but he was a sure bet before the season ever started. Wise broke into the Aces plans during his sophomore year and from then on it was a thrill just to see him rebound. He didn't need to score a point to get praise from the Evansville fans.

NOSSETT

Jim Nossett, a Princeton product, broke into the Aces starting five at the beginning of the season and despite the overwhelming opinion that he wouldn't be on the starting five when the season ended, the 6-4 center stayed right where he started. Not an artistic ballplayer and not a 40 point man, but just an average college player that gave it all he has all the time. Nossett wasn't even a standout on defense, but he got the job done the way it should be done. Fifteen points was about all one could expect from the slender Ace, but that was all that was required with his all-around play.

DEAL

Walt Deal is a college basketball prospect in anybodys opinion. Deal broke into the line-up last season with some great rebounding and agressive floor play and defense. Not a picture ball player by anybodys standards, but who could gripe when he came up with a couple of thirty point nights. Deal, accustomed to winning, had a little officiating trouble towards the end of the season and that was all she wrote for the 6-6 prodent major from Owensville. He got a lot of points for the Aces that the fans won't likely forget.

SANDERS

Postmaster, P.M. or what ever you want to call Mr. Sanders is okay with him. Off to a slow start and then on like gangbusters, Sanders' long fall-away jump shots were something amazing to see. Right at the height of his season he took a bad fall at Kentucky Wesleyan and the 6-0 Petersburg guard, that can dunk the ball as easily as any big man, had to sit out a couple of games. It was tough for Sanders to get back into the grove but watching him play at Ohio State proved he was a real fine college ball-player.

HAMILTON

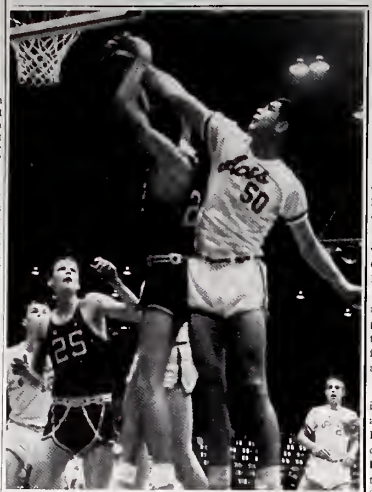
Tom Hamilton is Evansville's fifth senior on the 1960-61 squad. The Mater Dei guard didn't start a game for the Aces this year but he played in almost every one. His sparkling defense play and all-around hustling made the Evansville College fan know why he was on the ball club. His play during the time Sanders or Marv Pruett rested was good enough for anyone.

THAT'S IT

There they are. The five seniors that will leave Evansville this year after compiling a 10-15 record. Not a very impressive record and a shot at the NCAA title. Not a very impressive record but one that includes two overtime losses and three one point decisions. Among these are the big losses to the power-houses in the country. It may be true that we beat Notre Dame last year, but we beat them here, not at South Bend as we were asked to do this year. And so on right down the line.

I'm sure no one would reject seeing these same five boys back to try it again next year. (No one but the Aces competition.)

Macmen In Tournament At Chicago



Buster Briley goes up for a tip-in against the Oakland City Reserves. Briley scored 44 points agains the Oaks. He dropped in 15 field goals and 14 of 14 from the foul line.

Briley Topped Bawel's Outstanding Frosh Club

Playing for the Evansville College frosh this year was one of the finest roundball prospects ever to come to Evansville. He is none other than Harold "Buster" Briley.

Buster, a 6-4 forward, has put on some fantastic shooting exhibitions for the local fans this year. Against the Oakland city reserves, Briley hit 15 field goals and 14 of 14 free throws for 44 points and his biggest night of the season.

At Madison High School, where Briley played under Bud Riter, former Bosse star, he led his Cubs to an undefeated season, winning 18 regular season games in a row. The powerful Cubs were finally stopped in the state semi-finals. At the end of last season, Buster was selected as the second best high school player.

Many of the local fans are already comparing Buster to the great Ed Smallwood, also a 6-4 forward. The question of how does big Ed and Briley compare at this stage of the game was put before the coaching staff and not just freshman coach Ray Bawel. The reason being that Bawel was not around when Smallwood was playing for the freshman team.

The general concensus was that Briley has an edge on Smallwood in every department except rebounding. They said that Briley is just a "more polished" player than Smallwood. Smallwood was a little larger through the shoulders and this is the reason for his possible rebounding edge.

Coach Bawel said that he did not want to single out any one player that was outstanding on his years frosh team that ended the season with a 4-3 record, which seems some what under-par for the calibre of players the freshmen had this year.

Wayne Boulinghouse, a 6-2 guard, turned in a good season while playing in the shadow of Briley. Wayne went over the 30 mark in one game and in most of the other games he scored around 20. With baseball season coming up, Wayne will probably be turning in his gym shoes for baseball cleats, as he was one of the finest high school baseball players in the state last year.

Also outstanding on the frosh squad this year were big Ed Zausch and Paul Bullard. Zausch goes at 6-8 from the pivot and Bullard is a 6-4 forward.

Other frosh who turned in fine performances this year were Dave Green, Al McCutchan, Dave Bennett, Rich Bennett, Denny Brand and Ron Kaetzel.

Aces To Play In Great Lakes NCAA Regional

Coach Arad McCutchan and his Purple Aces received and accepted an invitation to the NCAA small college tourney Wednesday afternoon.

Evansville will be in the Great Lakes Regional to be played at Chicago with the University of Chicago as the host squad. Other teams participating in the tourney will be MacMurray of Jacksonville, Ill., and Lincoln of Jefferson City, Mo.

The Aces 10-15 record is the worst in the tourney as the host Chicago team has a 15-3 mark, MacMurray is 16-5 and Lincoln is 17-4. The pairings have not been announced for the games to be played Mar. 10-11. The winner of the division will advance to the finals at Evansville Mar. 16, 17, and 18.

Actually the Aces were the logical choice since the committee always takes the top team in the ICC. Butler is listed under large college competition and runner-up Indiana State is ineligible because they do not belong to the NCAA. Since Evansville was third in the conference and the defending champions they were the logical choice.

Evansville, which won the tourney the past two years received its fifth straight bid. Although the Aces do have a 10-15 record they are 9-7 against college division material.

This will be the first time in four years that the Mideast Regional will not be held at Evansville. It has already been assigned to Wabash College, a team which Evansville has eliminated from the tournament the past two years.

Two other teams named to the tournament this week were Belmont Abbey of North Carolina and Chattanooga College. Belmont Abbey, the team that is coached by the popular Al McGuire, and Kentucky Wesleyan are expected to play in the Regional at Austin Peay.

Butler Wraps Up Conference

The Butler Bulldogs wrapped up the ICC conference title Tuesday night by stopping the fifth place Ball State Cardinals on the losers' home floor.

The Bulldogs ended the season with a 10-2 conference record. Their only defeats were at the hands of Evansville and DePauw.

Finishing in second place were the Indiana State Sycamores with a 9-3 record. Had the Cardinals stopped Butler Tuesday night, Indiana State would have shared the title with the Bulldogs.

Evansville's Purple Aces finished third with a 7 5 record. With still one game to go, DePauw is fourth with a 5-6 record. Ball State is next at 5-7. The Cardinals are followed by Valparaiso, the team that meets DePauw tomorrow night, with a 3-8 record. St. Joseph brings up the rear with a 2-10 slate.

Evansville Closes Season With 98-89 Win Over St. Joseph's

Evansville College added a bright ending to its worst season in eight years by stopping the St. Joseph's Pumas 98-89 before 6,000 plus loyal fans last Saturday night.

Playing like he wanted his last game to be a memorable one, big Dale Wise, using a variety of shots, banged in 30 points and pulled down 22 rebounds.

Behind the "Kokomo Bull," the Aces pulled into a commanding 21-9 lead to put victory out of reach for the Pumas. Evansville held a 52-37 lead at the halfway mark.

The Pumas caught a hot streak in the second half, hitting more than half of their shots, and pulled within 7 points of the Aces with less than a minute remaining in the game.

This was the last regular season game for four seniors and they all turned in sharp performances in their finale. Besides Wise's fine game, P. M. Sanders scored 16 and Jim Nossett tossed in 15. Tom Hamilton, although playing only a short time, scored 4 points and turned in a fine floor game.

Turning in performances which should be repeated many times in the next two years were sophomores Marv Pruett and Marty Herthel. Pruett scored 15 points and Herthel 12. Both boys were in starting roles.

Four men scored in double figures for St. Joe with three passing the 20 point mark. Jerry Patchman and Al Whitlow each scored 21, Jim Crowley had 20 and Ron Holstein had 18.

Evansville hit 39 of 95 for a .410 percentage and St. Joseph's hit 35 of 78 for a .448 percentage.

Military Ball Coming March 25, 1961

Queen Chosen Today For 10th Military Ball

The 10th annual Military Ball, sponsored by AFROTC Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight, will be held from 9 to 12 o'clock Saturday evening, March 25, at the National Guard Armory.

Cadet Maj. Harold Teague, commander of Arnold Air Society and over-all chairman for the ball, has announced that the theme for this year's dance will be "Silver 'n Blue."

Ron TenBarge and Ken Sunderman are in charge of queen elections. Election was this morning at 8 o'clock in the Great Hall. The entire cadet corps turned out in uniform to view the candidates, all of whom are from Angel Flight, according to Lt. Col. TenBarge. The results will be kept secret until the ball.

The candidates are: Sophomores Kathy Compton, Dot Darnell, Karen Rice, Nora Fisher, Sandy Smith, and Janet Bergner, juniors Carol Grimm, Martha Lockwood, Dixie Corn, Barbara Nunn, Linda Waggoner, Annabelle Grabhorn, Nancy Williams, and Sharon Scheller.

The Armory will be decorated by Angel Flight with the help of the decorations committee headed by Bruce Hoffman. Dixie Corn and Dot Darnell are co-chairmen of the Angel Flight decorations committee. The centerpiece in the Armory will be of aircraft design. Hoffman and Ron TenBarge will assist Peggy Langhorst and Karen Harp on the display. Table centerpieces are being made by Sandy Cooper, Nora Fisher and Donna Greenfield.

The ceiling decorations this year will be white clouds floating over the dance floor. Annabelle Grabhorn, Sharron Crofts, Carol Grimm and Sandy Hayden are in charge of the clouds. Stage decorations will be handled by Sandy Smith and Carolyn Ziegler while Linda Waggoner, Kathy Compton and Barbara Nunn have charge of the entrance decorations.

Ticket sales are being handled by Phil Bracher, chairman; Joe Black, Mike Sterczer, Dick Albin, and Fred Bosse. Tickets will go on sale March 14. Cost is $4 per couple.

John Lacefield, Steve Heeger, and Robert Rayburn are in charge of the program, while Gene Brucker, Robert Schafer, and Dennis Alvey are handling publicity.

Cadet Maj. Teague reports that Bobby Christian and his orchestra will play. Christian, known as "Mr. Percussion" by his admirers in the music world, is now performing with his own dance band. Every arrangement his band plays is written by him.

The Military Ball is open to all students on campus. Maj. Teague says that an invitation has been sent to Gen. Bell, commandant of AFROTC, and reports that the queen of the ball will be crowned during intermission by an outstanding dignitary.

Quarter Break Comes Wednesday

The winter quarter ends next Wednesday with those final exams scheduled for the afternoon.

Classes will resume with the beginning of the spring quarter at 8 a.m. Tuesday, March 14.

New students are to register Monday, March 13, in the Union's Great Hall.

Carol Ficetoli couldn't be happier than she looks here, leaving the Union after being selected as EC's best-dressed girl. Runners-up were Linda Hays (inset, top) and Judi Kavanaugh.

Ficetoli Best-Dressed Girl In College Glamour Contest

Dressed in a green organza cocktail dress, Carol Ficetoli was named Evansville College's "Best Dressed Girl" last Friday. Carol won over 18 other well-dressed coeds in a contest sponsored by the Crescent in cooperation with "Glamour" magazine.

Second-place winner was Linda Hays, followed by third-place winner Judi Kavanaugh, both freshmen.

As winner, Carol has the opportunity to compete in "Glamour" magazine's contest to find the "10 Best Dressed Girls" in the United States and Canada.

Pictures of E.C.'s winner, modeling three different outfits, will be sent to the magazine. The top 10 winners of that contest will be flown to New York City.

Carol is a sophomore majoring in business education and a member of Chi Omega Sorority. She works on the Union Dance and House committees.

Contestants were judged on 10 fashion points. Points considered included imagination in managing a clothes budget, clear understanding of the fashion type, appropriate look for all occasions, a good figure and beautiful posture. Each girl modeled two outfits at the style show-coffee hour.

Several members of the faculty were present at the coffee hour with four serving as judges.

Carol, a 1959 graduate of Bosse High, was a candidate for Ice Breaker Queen in her freshman year and also was a candidate for the Auto Show Queen. She represented her sorority as candidate for Heart Fund Queen at the Dixieland Heart Concert.

New Economic' War Concept Is Theme Of Security Seminar

A new concept in strategic thinking, brought about by the communist drive of Soviet Russia and technological advances, has been necessary for the United States and its allies, said Col. Ernest Williams, USAF, as he opened the National Security Seminar on Monday.

The seminar, being held this week and next under the sponsorship of the College and the Evansville Chamber of Commerce, features four illustrated lectures daily in the College auditorium.

"In former wars we had allies who were fighting on distant shores, giving us time to prepare, and a space factor of protection. The new strategic concept envisages employment of new weapons, with tactics and strategy perhaps never before used in warfare.

"No longer can the United States rely on the time and space factors to permit preparation," he said in stressing the purpose of seminars such as this one.

Col. Williams, chief of the Grey Team of six military professors conducting the seminar, stated that the theme of the conference is the economics of national security. He said that the seminar is a symposium on national security and survival under conditions ranging from cold war to all-out nuclear war.

The speaker, a command pilot with 5,000 flying hours, pointed out that a war might start in which there would be little or no time to initially mobilize in the old traditional sense. The first phase of that kind of war could be over before any economic and military mobilization, not already in being, could take place.

Col. Williams concluded by saying, "The U.S., in reaching a position of world leadership, has numerous programs to meet moral and material obligations to the world. The new requirements of national security demand that our senior members in military and civilian circles have a far broader understanding of the world we live in today, and the world in which we will live tomorrow."

The six military officers will conduct a series of 31 leetures ending Mar. 10. Students are invited to attend any of the lectures when their schedules permit.

Maj. Gen. Evan M. Houseman, deputy commandant, is welcomed as head of the team presenting the National Security Seminar on its opening day here Monday, by President Hyde.

London Speaker Presented At Vesper Service

"Africa, Continent of the Twenty-first Century" will be the topic of Dr. Cecil Northcutt who speaks at the vesper service on Sunday, March 12 at 4 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Union Building.

Dr. Northcutt is editorial secretary of the United Society for Christian Literature of London and the editor-in-chief of the Lutterworth Press. He is also editor-at-large of "The Christian Century." A Congregational minister, he was educated at Cambridge and London universities.

Dr. H. Owen Long, registrar at Evansville College, will preside during the service while the Rev. Edward F. Ouellette of the First Community Church will offer prayer.

Joe Kammon, president of the Student Christian Association, will read the scripture. The Methodist Temple high school choir and the Temple choir led by Mrs. Haris Erickson, minister of music at the Temple, will sing.

A fellowship hour will follow the service at 5 p.m. in the Union Lounge.

Sig Eps Capture Vocal Varieties

"You see, the over-all winner is also Sig Ep." Those were the words of Judy Wernecke, chairman of the Union Entertainmeot Committee as she handed the trophy to the winners. Pandemooium broke loose and the Great Hall shook as Sigma Phi Epsilon celebrated after walking off with the big prize in Vocal Varieties for the second straight year.

Led by co-directors Bill Balsbaugh and Phil Price, the Sig Eps performed "Begin the Beguine" and "Lowlands." The latter is an arrangement of an old chanty by Price and Richard Tschopp.

Chi Omega sorority captured first place in the women's division. The two Chi O selections were "Choral Dance from Prince Igor" and "Let Not Your Soog End." Sara Van Scyoc, director of the group, accepted the first place trophy.

Second place in the men's division went to Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The SAE's led by Tony Ouellette performed "Climbing Up the Mountain" and "All Through the Night."

The Phi Mu's received second place honors in the women's division with their medley from "The Sound of Music." Commendable performances were also given by Beta Sig, Moore Hall, AOPi, and Teke. Lanabda Chi withdrew from participation.

Besides Brad Chaffin, who is director of vocal music at Central High School, the other judges were Pauline Fehn, former instructor of voice and harp at Evansville College, and Mr. John Wittenbraker, director of music at Castle High School.

Special thanks go to Reitz High School for sending a vocal ensemble that performed while the judges were tabulating their results

Riding atop the shoulders of their fraternity brothers, Sig Ep directors Phil Price and Bill Batsbaugh join with them in a chant celebrating the winning of the 1961 Vocal Varieties.

$,$$$ to Henze

Richard Henze, senior literature major and member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, learned Wednesday morning that he had won a National Defense Scholarship of $7,000 to the University of Nebraska.

This scholarship offers $2,000 the first year, $2200 the second, and $2400 the third year plus all tuition and fees.

Dick's comment was, "I even cut a class this morning, because I was so exelted."

Language Books For Sale

Hundreds of new and used books, mostly French, German and Spanish readers and grammars, are being offered for sale now by the Modern Language Department, Dr. F. Woody Werking reports.

To facilitate the transfer of the offices of the department to another building, next to the new language laboratory to be constructed soon, these books are being sold.

On sale now in Room 101 in the Office building, the books are being sold from two for a quarter to a dollar each. Half of the proceeds from the sale will be donated to the World University Service Fund drive and the remainder will he used for purchase of language lab supplies.

Sale prices represent in some instances less than a tenth of the original cost of the books, Dr. Werking, head of the department, notes.

This sale offers interested persons an opportunity to lay in a supply of summer reading, at the same time contributing to a worthy charity, he added.

New Procedure For Library

A new procedure for use of Clifford Memorial Library which will become effective at the beginning of the spring quarter is being announced by Dr. Thomas Harding, librarian. Concerning the new library system, Dr. Harding says, "Beginning with the first day of classes for the Spring Quarter on Tuesday, March 14, a new system of operation becomes effective in the Library."

"Students coming to the Library building for classes either on the second floor or in the Kleymeyer Auditorium on the ground floor will continue the use of the front stairway.

"The other students wishing to use the library materials will pass through the turnstyle opposite the loan desk on the first floor. They must use the east stairway in going from the first floor to either of the other floors.

"The partition doors separating the reading and stacks from the classroom areas on the ground floor and the second floor should be used only for an emergency. This is also true of the outside exit at the north east corner of the library building.

"All students who have used the reading rooms and the stacks must leave by going past the loan desk. They will be required to show all their books, and all library books must be properly charged. Brief cases must be opened so that the contents may be inspected.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly that our Library still remains an open shelf library in which all students will still have access to the library stacks.

"The new system is being inaugurated solely for the protection of the students, themselves, since a number of books have been missing from the library shelves in the last few years. While some of these books have turned up later, the point is that they were missing at the time they were in demand.

"The main objectives of the new arrangement are: first, to safeguard the Library from further losses of books; and second, to cut down the noise and confusion that inevitably accompanies changes in classes during the class breaks.

"Students using the reading areas will have greater privacy and greater opportunity to concentrate on reading and study.

"This new arrangement will require a considerable amount of patience and good nature on the part of the library readers and the library staff. However, since the ultimate beneficiaries will be the library readers, themselves, we ask your cooperation in making this venture a success."

Noticed another writer passing a bit of ill wind my way in last week's Crescent. The complaint seems to be of certain value to the casual observer, but if he will look a little farther he will see holes appearing rather rapidly.

Certain policies on this campus are not entirely agreeable to many of the students. True they chose E.C. and in doing so agreed to accept its rules. The TRUTH and REASONING behind my criticism is that we can try to change things if we don't like them, and if nothing else we can at least stand up and voice our opinions without fear of getting our heads lopped off. If this is not a truism then why have a paper, a student government, or any activity that develops free thought within the student body.

All of this brings me to the conclusion that I don't criticize because I enjoy catching people in uncompromising situations, but rather because I think we should all strive to improve our campus. The decisions as to what would be improvements, and what would not is up to you fellow students. I only supply the food for thought. This is my constitutional perogative.

Well the big purge starts Monday. This is the time for cramming, narcotics, irrational people, typewriters in the "Indian ," midnight expeditions to the "O" and "E" buildings, etc.

During this week, even the "Indian" coffee will taste good, sleep will be at a premium, we will experience more than one H hour, and several moments of truth. We will go around muttering symbols, dates, steps, eyuations, methods, theories, etc., like monks saying evening prayers. To the casual observer it will appear as if we all should be interred at Woodmere.

Ah, but Wednesday will dawn as sure as rain; the magic day that rivals spring for splendor no matter what the weather. It matters not whether we are as beaten as the Aces were at Utah, or as triumphant as the Sig Ep's at Vocal Varieties, it will all be over for another quarter. Our mental anguish gone we will leap out not caring about such insignificant details as time, place, weather, or appointments. There will be scenes to make, parties, sounds, etc., to dig, and wonderful, wonderful sleep to catch up on. Our whole life will have revolved around this short period for several weeks in advance, almost as though there was nothing at all after it passed. And then suddenly, well, here we go again.

Summer Employment Listings Available Now

A demand for college students to work in resort areas during the summer vacation is spreading across the nation as the summer months draw near.

Thousands of college students are wanted this summer to fill an increasing number of positions at the prime vacation spots in the United States according to William W. Snow, employment counselor of Weston, McMurray Inc. of New York. City.

The wages for the students will range from $75.00 to $100.00 per week.

The demand is especially for college students as many park managers favor hiring them for their youth, enthusiasm and good spirits rub off onto others. Surveys show that as a result, customers enjoy the parks more, stay longer and return more frequently. Nearly any type of job is offered and no special talents are needed.

Information on these jobs have been put into a brochure and may be obtained by sending $1 to "Student Jobs," Weston, McMurray Incorporated, 50 Broad Street, New York 4, N. Y.

The brochure includes a list of available jobs and their pay ranges, detailed instructions about how to apply, when to apply, where to apply, what to stress, and what not to say.

'Silent' Piano Used At Dorm

Janet Eble
Crescent Staff Writer

Moore Hall is no exception to the old joke on college campuses about old assortment of items found in dormitory rooms.

It's not unusual for a certain girl in the EC girl's dormitory to practice her music until the wee hours of the morning. Where does she practice? What does she practice on?

Jean Wolter has an electronic piano in her room at Moore Hall.

Jean is a music education major from Chicago. When moving in last fall, she brought the pint-sized piano with her.

"My brother and I had quite a time trying to carry it up to my room on third floor," Jean says.

"I was afraid I wasn't going to be able to keep it when I read in the regulations booklet that residents aren't allowed to practice musical instruments in their rooms. But since the volume of the piano can be turned off and switched to earphones, I was able to leave the piano in my room."

Jean says girls often come in and play it. "The piano is convenient for late-night study and for just plain pleasure."

Visit To Sparta

with Gary Seiler

Each organization then sends the men an invitation to their formal rush parties, which are held in a two-week period, one on each Monday and Wednesday.

At the formal rush party each fraternity tells the rushees the advantages and opportunities of their organization. Later in the evening, time is spent getting acquainted with the rushees. It is very important that the organization gets acquainted with the man and the man gets acquainted with the fraternity.

After the formal rush party, the fraternity meets and decides to whom they want to send "bids" (invitation to join their organization). On the Thursday following the last rush party all bids from all the fraternities are sent to the IFC where they are placed in an envelope, bearing the rushees name, and sealed.

On the Friday following the last rush party all rushees meet in the auditorium where they are given the sealed envelope. Each man opens the envelope and signs his name on the bid of the organization he wishes to join. He then leaves the auditorium by the door bearing the name of the organization he has just pledged.

Last Friday men's rush was completed. A number of my readers asked if I would explain the procedure of men's spring rush. It is my pleasure.

First, the Interfraternity Council sets the date for spring rush. A rush book is placed in a convenient place where men who are interested register. Along with registration, a 50-cent fee is charged to defray some of the cost of rush. It is a good investment when one figures he gets four good meals and a million laughs for the money.

The weeks preceding and succeeding rush are reserved for IFC activities, such as smokers or parties to build fraternity spirit. These parties or smokers are a combined effort of all fraternities and aid them in getting to know the rushees.

The names registered are sent to the Dean of Students to make sure of their eligibility according to the Interfraternity Council bylaws. A list of all eligible participants is sent to each fraternity.

One should remember that in a bid system the organization has the right to decide whom they want — and the rushee can choose the organization he wishes to join, which is the most democratic system.

The rush book was opened again last week. Thus any eligible male student may sign the rush book and be eligible to pledge. The young men who signed the rush book this week will pledge today.

EC A Cappella Choir Begins 5-Day Tour Through Indiana

The EC A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Harrison Boughton, is getting ready for a five-day tour through Indiana.

Beginning Sunday noon, March 12, two buses loaded with singers will leave to return Thursday night, March 16.

Most of the music sung will be sacred with some secular, Boughton says. Among the selections is a Brahm's motet. This kind of work is not usually done because it is very difficult.

The choir will present concerts at churches and high schools. The 54 members will eat their meals at the schools and churches, and housing will be furnished by church members.

Cities listed on the itenerary are Terre Haute, Lafayette, Indianapolis, Greencastle, Huntingburg, French Lick, Crawfordsville, and Lebanon.

Boughton says more cities may be added.

$2806 of $5000 Press Grant Spent on Books, Equipment

Books and equipment totaling $2,806.85 have been ordered from money granted the journalism section by the Evansville Press from The Scripps-Howard Ernie Pyle Memorial Fund.

Already submitted is an order for 98 books which is the first installment in a long-range program to build up the shelves in Clifford Memorial Library devoted to journalism books.

A grant of $5,000 made in January by the Scripps-Howard newspaper syndicate is being spent according to a plan devised by Walter Stewart, journalism instructor, and approved by Dr. Virgil Logan, head of the English Department, and President Melvin W. Hyde.

In addition to the books ordered at a cost of $530, the journalism section is ordering seven typewriters, a magnetic blackboard and minor office supplies to cost $553.

Primarily for use of LinC and Crescent photographers will be four cameras, an enlarger and darkroom equipment to cost $1723.

"We have been depending on one camera this year so far, and for a part of the year this was unavailable for use," says Stewart.

"As a result at times we have been using cameras owned by individuals. Now with the new cameras we finally will have adequate photographic equipment."

The cameras will include a 35-mm. camera, two twin-lens reflexes, and a single-lens reflex camera. The department up to this point has owned only one press camera and a Polaroid.

Military Ball Coming March 25, 1961

Volume XLII, Number 19 | Evansville, Indiana | Friday, March 24, 1961

10th Annual Military Ball Tomorrow Nite

The 10th annual Military Ball queen will be crowned during intermission by President Melvin W. Hyde, Maj. Victor Sinclair, and Cadet Col. Ron TenBarge.

The queen candidates are Dixie De Corn, Nora Fisher, and Linda Waggoner.

Dixie is a liberal arts student majoring in literature and sociology. She is the personnel chairman of Chi Omega Sorority, a member of the Young Democrats Club, and a staff reporter for the LinC. Dixie is also a core member of the Entertainment Committee of the Union Board and is in the College Theatre. She was "Miss Imperial" in the auto show and a finalist in the Miss Evansville contest. She was also Icebreaker Queen her freshman year and is now a candidate for AFROTC's "Little General." Dixie is a junior.

Nora is a sophomore at EC majoring in literature. She is pledge trainer of Chi Omega Sorority and is in the College Theatre. She is 19 years old, a member of the House Committee of the Union Board, and is director of Chi Omega's entry in the Musical Madness contest. Nora was Homecoming Queen this fall and was a finalist in the 1960 Auto Show.

Linda is a junior from Evansville majoring in nursing. She is a member of Chi Omega Sorority and was president of her pledge class. Linda was a cheerleader her freshman and sophomore years and was in the Homecoming Queen Court last year. She was a participant in the college Best Dressed Girl contest and was a finalist in the 1959 Auto Show.

Cadet Maj. Harold Teague, commander of Arnold Air Society, is the over-all chairman for the ball. Working with him are other members of AAS and members of Angel Flight. The Angel Flight members are in charge of decorations.

Maj. Teague announces that the dance will be held at the Armory tomorrow night from 9 to 12 o'clock. Bobby Christian and his orchestra will play.

Maj. Teague says that the ball has been scheduled on a weekend this year so that more students will be able to attend. He stated that off-campus men and women are welcome to attend the ball, but he cautioned that the ball is a college function and the student who invites an off-campus couple will be held responsible for the actions of his guests.

Decorations for the ball will consist of an aircraft of the future climbing into a bank of clouds at the center of the Armory, reports Maj. Teague. The table centerpieces will be consistent with the "Silver 'n Blue" theme of the dance.

Bobby Christian and his orchestra have played for college dances in the past, says Teague, and they have been accepted by students as one of the nation's top dance bands. Musical arrangements are Christian's own.

Tickets for the ball may be purchased from any ROTC cadet or from an Angel Flight member. Price is $4 a couple.

The dance is semi-formal, according to Maj. Teague, and it is a no-corsage affair.

The ROTC cadets will decorate the Armory tomorrow afternoon. They expect 300 couples to attend the annual campus event.

Special photography for the Easter picture on this page was done by Rick Bell and Nick Wilkins.

How do We Know It Is Easter Season

Common tradition accepts Easter as the first Sunday after the first full moon after March 21. Tain't necessarily so — that is only approximately true.

The full moon we see is not used in determining the date of Easter. Rather the holy day is decided by a formula developed at the time the Gregorian calendar was introduced in 1580.

This celebration of the resurrection of Christ occurred, the Bible says, on the Sunday after the Hebrew Passover. And the Passover is celebrated the day of the first full moon after the vernal equinox (March 21).

The Christian Church early realized some formula was needed to predict, without involved astronomical calculation, the exact date of this paschal (Passover) full moon.

The Council of Nicea in 325 worked out a formula based on the idea that every 19 years the sun and moon return to the same position relative to the earth. Dates of all full moons could then be determined if the year in this 19-year cycle were given.

This lunar cycle turned out to be inaccurate, and so the formula was not always true. Combined with the inaccuracy of the Julian calendar, a few hundred years of Easters threw things off.

In 1580 Pope Gregory authorized the new calendar. Called "Gregorian" after the Pope, it was invented by Lugi Lilio Ghiraldi. He also developed the improved formula for determining Easter dates which is still in use.

No one of late has been able to improve upon the "improved" formula of Lugi Lilio Ghiraldi. And there is little need, for this formula is so accurate that it can predict full moons, within one day, for many thousands of years to come.

1960-61 LinC To Be Ready May 27

The final touches are being added to the 1960-61 Evansville College yearbook, the LinC, according to Jim Sanders, editor-in-chief. "May 10 we send our last pages to the publisher and this ends our part of the work," he added.

Staff members of "Our EC Heritage," as this year's book is called, have been working since the beginning of the school year in order to meet next week's deadline. Headed by Sanders, the staff includes Harry Critser and Delbert Pace, photographers. Judy Kavanaugh, advertising manager and Steve Sanford, business manager.

Section editors of the LinC are Kathy Compton, campus life; Martha Lockwood and Dave Spence, seniors; Bonnie Riney and Sharon Tapley, faculty and Linda Hays, Greeks.

Also section heads are Karen Harp, queens; Caroline Wilson and Sally Hadley, Fine Arts; Jack Kinkel, ROTC; Mary Ann Conaway, organizations; Kenny Wendt, sports; Harry Critser, art editor. Mr. Walter Stewart is advisor to the staff.

A 192-page yearbook, the LinC is being published by the Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. The company publishes some 2,000 yearbooks each year. Delivery date of the yearbooks to EC is May 27.

"We have tried to make this year's LinC contain something of interest for the whole student body and faculty" stated Sanders. "This year's book was planned to carry out a theme and as far as I know this was the first LinC to be so done," he added.

There will be a 4-colored page and twelve colored division pages in the book but there will not be an index page because of publication deadlines.

Authors of a book instructing teachers of elementary school children, the Doctors Virgil Logan, head of the English Department, and Lillian Logan look over proofs of the 900-page book. They are joined by Janet Brashier, sophomore, and Walter Stewart, faculty member, who contributed an item to the book.

The Logans' Book Out Next Month

"Teaching the Elementary School Child offers what is probably the most complete coverage of elementary school teaching methods available between the covers of a single book," says Dr. Herold C. Hunt, Charles William Eliot Professor of Education, Harvard University.

The book, a joint effort by Virgil and Lillian Logan, represents the first book to be published by the husband and wife team, though Lillian Logan wrote, Teaching the Young Child, that was published in 1960.

College Apartments To Be Ready By May

Married students who plan to live in the recently purchased college apartments may procure application blanks now from Ralph Olmsted, College business manager.

"Students now living in old campus apartments will have the first opportunity," according to Mr. Olmsted, who is in charge of married students apartments.

Dr. Virginia Grabill, director of women's counseling and Dr. Robert Thompson, dean of students, are responsible for the single students housing.

The College Court apartments rental rates for students per month are as follows: One-bedroom, first and second floors, unfurnished $55; furnished $65; two-bedroom, ground floor, unfurnished $60, furnished $70; and first and second floors, unfurnished $65; furnished $77.50.

These rates include heat and water, but electricity and phones are separate. Rent must be paid by the month with a $10 deposit plus a month's rent when the married students first move in.

Stove and refrigerators are furnished on the unfurnished rate as well as the furnished.

There are 13 apartments in each of the two buildings for married students — four one-bedroom and nine two-bedroom. The married students apartments are located at 306 and 316 S. Weinbach; 300 S. Weinbach is for single women; and 2016 E. Walnut is for single men.

The College will take possession of the apartments in April. "Probably the first of May" married students may move in. The "huts" located on Rotherwood will be torn down in mid-July.

Assistant Admissions Counselor Arthur Tyler and his wife Velma have accepted appointment as head residents for the unmarried women's apartment housing, beginning in June, announced Dr. Virginia Grabill, Director of Women's Counseling.

S.G.A. Election

Elections for the office of treasurer of the Student Government Association are being held today, according to Mike Spence, S.G.A. president.

The election is being held to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Jack Coale who is not carrying a full load of studies this quarter.

Three candidates have been selected by organizations on campus. They are Greg Server, Ron Brown and Sam Kershaw.

"I hope they know it's a Peace Corps."

Peace Corps Program Outlined By Shriver

In a summary report to the President, Mr. Sargent Shriver, former president of the Chicago Board of Education, outlined a new experiment in international cooperation to be known as the Peace Corps.

"The essential idea of the Peace Corps is the placement of Americans in actual operational work in newly developing areas of the world. Volunteers will go to teach, or to build, or to work in the communities to which they are sent. They will serve local institutions, living with the people they are helping. Most Peace Corps volunteers will probably be young college graduates, but there should be no rigid age limit. Younger or older workers with skills needed abroad but without college degrees will carry out some important projects. The length of service should normally be from two to three years.

"A great variety of needs are in demand in countries that were surveyed for the Peace Corps, volunteers are wanted are these: teaching. health projects, agricultural and rural development projects, construction and industrial programs, and working in government administration. These are some of the clear and present needs.

"The Peace Corps staff must have great flexibility to experiment with different methods of operation. Its role will be to reinforce existing private and public programs of assistance and development by filling some of the manpower gaps which obstruct these programs, and initiate new programs requiring Peace Corps volunteers. It is boped that the Peace Corps will take a place as a basic component of our whole overseas program. The resources, energy and experience of our non-governmental institutions, including colleges and universities, foundations, trade unions, businesses, civic groups and religious bodies must be tapped. This must be a cooperative venture of the whole American people.

"Already some 57 universities are working under contract with the International Cooperation Administration in 37 countries on development or educational projects. Selection of Peace Corps volunteers will have to be through a general nation-wide recruitment program. although private agencies and universities will be able to reeruit directly and separately for their respective projects.

"Dnce the Peace Corps is a going concern. training for it should be integrated so far as possible with the four year college program of students interested in going overseas after graduation. The Peace Corps should set standards such as intensive language study and completion of courses on history, economics, politics, and culture of the area to which the student would be sent.

"The Peace Corps is not a diplomatic or propaganda venture but genuine experiment in international partnership. Our aim must be to learn as much as we teach. The Peace Corps offers an opportunity to bring home to the United States the problems of the world as well as an opportunity to meet urgent host country needs for trained manpower. If presented in this spirit, the response and the results will be immeasurably better.

"The potentiality of the Peace Corps is very great as indicated through popular response. It can contribute to the development of critical countries and regions. It can promote international cooperation and good will toward this country. It can also contribute to the education of America and to more intelligent American participation in the world."

The tour consisted of 13 concerts at Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Lafayette, Crawfordsville, Anderson, French Lick, Huntingburg and DePauw University at Greencastle. According to Mr. Boughton, choir director, the tour was very successful for the 57-member choir.

Program for the concert will consist of: "D All Ye Nations," "Ehre Sei Dir, Christe," "All Breathing Life, Sing and Praise Ye the Lord," "En Natus Est Emanuel," "O Savior, Throw the Heavens Wide" and "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

Bill Bolsbaugh

Crescent Staff

The Crescent staff sports a junior music major, Bill Balsbaugh. Bill, who specializes in piano, is a 1958 graduate of Marion High School, Marion, Ind.

As a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, Bill is currently serving as social chairman for his organization. Within the fraternity, Bill has directed Vocal Varieties and participated in Musical Madness.

Besides his positions on the Crescent staff and in the fraternity, Bill holds many campus offices. He is presently student assistant of the Union Building, on the Union Publicity Committee, and treasurer of the college choir.

Math Group To Convene For Initiation

Math fraternity members will hear an outstanding mathematician when they initiate new members here April 7, reports Prof. V. C. Bailey, EC faculty sponsor.

Dr. Franklin Haimo, professor of mathematics at Washington University in St. Louis, will come here as a visiting mathematician sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America. He is a former research associate at the University of Cbicago.

Dr. Haimo will speak at the dinner of Kappa Mu Epsilon at 6 o'clock that Friday evening.

Preceding the dinner, this national mathematics fraternity will initiate new members at 5 o'clock at the Union. This will be followed by an election of officers.

An anticipated group of 15 to 20 math students will join the fraternity. This will bring fraternity membership to approximately 35, Prof. Bailey says.

Invitations to join are sent to students making a B grade, or better, in math and who are taking calculus.

Members are encouraged by the officers to attend the combined initiation-dinner. Leading the fraternity are: President, Gene Bennett; vice-president, Douglass McConnell; secretary, Marjorie Olsen; treasurer, Dolores Reasor.

Reservations for dinner, to which a guest may be brought, must be in by April 4, Prof. Bailey notes. Dinner will be $2.

Music Majar To Present Seniar Recital

Musie Education major Jerry Heierman will present his senior clarinet recital in the Great Hall of the Union Building on April 6 at 8:15 p.m.

The program for the recital consists of "Fantasia et Rondo" by Carl Maria von Weber and Mozart's "Trio for Clarinet, Viola and Piano, 498." Mrs. Harrison Boughton will accompany on the piano. Barbara Grote will join Jerry for the Mozart number.

Jerry, winner of the Evansville Musician's Club award the past year, will graduate in June with a Bachelor of Music Education degree. He belongs to Sigma Phi Epsilon and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

Engaged to Elizabeth Leich, Jerry will do work toward a master's degree at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York, beginning this summer.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

By FRANK HASKETT

If you want some swinging entertainment tonight, take a look at the Philo Blackouts. It is a professional show all the way. It even makes local promotor Loren Kilcy envious to watch the smoothness of the operations that lead up to and continue throughout the show each year. The culmination of several months' work on the part of 70 men will take place tonight, and you can see this truly unique show for a token price. Don't miss it!

It seems to be the time of year for fertilizing the trees on campus again. Instead of the drill method used last fall, why don't we get some national publicity and pour Metrecal on the roots. Well, it probably wouldn't cost too much more and it would be labor-saving.

Not too long ago in Detroit, a fellow by the name of Patrick Henry Daily was arrested for burglary. It wasn't the first time. Asked whether he pleaded guilty or not guilty he replied, "Give me liberty or give me death." He got 11 years.

Prof. Louis Winterheimer inspects a few of the trophies to be awarded at the twelfth annual Science Fair, the fair, sponsored jointly by The Evansville Press and Evansville College, to be held tomorrow.

Large Science Fair On Exhibit Tomorrow

Taking place today at 4 o'clock, the judging will produce two grand award winners from the senior divisions. The winners are eligible to compete in the national Science Fair in Kansas City, Mo.

The Evansville Press and the college are providing an all-expense paid trip to the fair which will be held May 10-13.

All exhibitors will receive certificates of participation. Awards of $25 savings bonds will be given in the senior fields of chemistry and nutrition, and among the junior and senior divisions of mathematics and physics.

Money gifts ranging from $20 to $25 will be presented in astronomy, electronics, horticulture, medicine, and museum. In addition, the museum-award winner will have his exhibit on show in the Evansville Museum.

The events will begin at 9 a.m. Presentation of awards will be made by Dr. Melvin W. Hyde, president of Evansville College, following an introductory speech given by chairman Winterheimer, assistant professor of biology.

The Science Fair will be open to the public from 2 until 9:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Coach Morgan Wants Golfers

With only one man returning from last season's golf team, Coach Jim Morgan is making a request for all interested golfers to meet with him Monday, March 27, at 10 a.m. in the Athletic Department office.

Four newcomers will be named to this year's squad, as senior Ron Wannemuehler, last season's number one man, will complete the squad of five.

No freshmen will be eligible for the team, but Capt. Morgan would like to talk to them about trying out for possible play next year.

Matches in Evansville will be played at Helfrich Feld, starting at noon. Following is the season's schedule.

Open try-outs for the winter show of the College Drama Department will be held in the Fine Arts Building this evening, March 24, at 8 o'clock and Sunday afternoon, March 26, at 2 o'clock.

Anyone unable to make the above dates will have a chance to read during call-back try-outs Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the auditorium of the administration building.

Try-outs for children between the ages of 6 to 15 will be held in the Fine Arts Building this Sunday.

The four production dates for the show are May 10-13. The title of the play cannot be announced until May 1 because professional companies are still touring with it throughout the country.

This Pulitzer Prize winning poetic drama was given a dynamic and highly successful production in New York. The eminent American author adapted a story that is familiar to the Christian world.

Evansville College Theatre is fortunate, says Sam Smiley, to be able to produce the play soon after its amateur release.

Total Gifts For Building At Half Million

Challenge gifts totaling $425,000 have been pledged Evansville College for use in the construction of the two new buildings, following announcement this past week of gifts from W. A. Carson, College trustee, and the Whirlpool Corporation.

Previously Dr. Melvin W. Hyde, president, had released news of the grants of $100,000 from Mead Johnson Fund and $195,000 from The Lilly Endowment, Inc.

The total represents more than one-fourth of the $1,525,000 sought in the campaign by community subscription with which to build a Fine Arts Building and Physical Education Building.

A $100,000 challenge gift toward the Evansville College Fine Arts and Physical Education Building Fund was announced last Friday.

The gift to be applied toward the building costs of the Physical Education plant, was given by W. A. Carson, former Evansville businessman and College trustee, and present chairman of the Old National Bank.

Whirlpool Corporation recently announced its $30,000 cash gift and a plan to match employee contributions to $1,000 for each person.

President Hyde, in announcing the Carson gift, said:

"Mr. Carson has long shown a fine spirit of sharing and contributing to the welfare of the College, not only during its various building campaigns in the past, but with students as well. The College is most thankful for the gift and hopes it will encourage others to meet the challenge to aid our plans for a better future in education in Evansville."

Carson, a College trustee for 20 years, contributed substantially during other campaigns at the school. In 1957 the William A. Carson Foundation Scholarship fund was established. The fund makes possible the granting of $500 scholarships annually for male graduates of Evansville high schools. This year there are eight Carson Scholars attending the College.

Building Fund Headquarters Established For FA and PE Bldgs.

The Fine Arts and Physical Education Building Fund Campaign Headquarters has been established on the second floor of the Union Building. Melvin J. Binford, campaign consultant, and Mrs. Marjorie Cobb, secretary, can be reached there.

The Whirlpool Corporation of Evansville announced last week it will contribute $30,000 to the Evansville College Fine Arts and Physical Education Building fund.

This is the third advance challenge gift announced in the campaign which began in February to raise money to construct the two buildings.

In making the contribution, Kenneth C. Williams, general manager at Whirlpool, said, "I am very pleased that we have been able to support the program to this extent and again wish to state that the college provides an excellent service to the community and is of great value to us as an industrial citizen of Evansville."

Plans call for the ground breaking to start this summer with completion of the buildings scheduled for the fall of 1962.

High School Senior Music Scholarship Auditions Saturday

Music scholarship auditions for the coming year will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Music Building, reports Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-heads of the Music Department.

The scholarships amount to $187 per year toward tuition and $180 is granted for students in a major music area.

PREPARATIONS COMPLETED FOR TOMORROW'S FAIR

Final preparations for the twelfth annual Tri-State Regional Science Fair being held at E.C. have been made.

With 312 entries in the junior high division (grades 7, 8, and 9), and 168 in the senior high division made through the office, the science fair boasts a total program of 480 entries.

Held in the college Engineering Building, the fair is sponsored by The Evansville Press and Evansville College. Open to students in grades 7-12 in the Tri-State District, the fair hopes to promote interest and development in all phases of science and mathematics.

Student exhibitions are classified in five major divisions, reports Prof. P. Louis Winternheimer, committee chairman.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

The NCAA University finals will open tonight at Kansas City with Ohio State playing St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania and Cincinnati going against Utah. Two of these teams, Utah and Ohio State, beat the Aces this year, which means Coach McCutchan and his purple gang played two of the top four teams in the tourney.

Ohio State, which has won 31 in a row over a two-year span, is a strong favorite to grab its second consecutive NCAA crown. Utah will be an underdog against a Cincinnati team that lost the great Oscar Robertson last season.

If Utah should win against the Bearcats and Ohio State maintains its favored role to the final game, the Aces can feel as though they have played the best two teams in the country.

New EC Team

By the way, a couple of old EC players, some present ones, and one who hasn't started yet have organized an independent team playing in the tournament at the Agoga.

Mel Lurker, Hugh Alhering and Harold Cox are the past Evansville stars along with Dale Wise. Jerry Sloan, the Fabulous Fox from McLeansboro, Ill., is also on the squad. Sloan scored 18 points Sunday while Wise and Ahlering hit 21 and 13 respectively. Since Sloan is ineligible for EC basketball next year anyway, it doesn't effect his eligibility.

All of the graduates at Kentucky Wesleyan this year have also entered a team. Altogether, more than 50 teams will play in the tourney. This constitutes one of the biggest tourneys in the country.

The Aces Did Play

It may come as a surprise to some people, but Evansville played a consolation game at Chicago two weeks ago. The Aces scored a 98-96 double-overtime victory, in one of their best games of the year. Jim Nossett dropped in 25 points, closing his college career with the Aces with his highest scoring effort at EC.

Wise On All-American

Dale Wise was placed on the second Little All-American two weeks ago by United Press International. Porter Merriwether, a product of Evansville Lincoln and only a junior at Tennessee A & I, was picked for the first team and becomes one of the few Evansville boys ever to be given All-American recognition.

Everett Shelton, moderator of the NCAA clinic held in Evansville College last week, diagrams an offensive pattern. More than thirty coaches attended the conference.

NCAA Clinic Introduces New Basketball Ideas

"As long as you score you can keep the ball." This was one of the many subjects concerning rules discussed at the first annual NCAA Basketball Clinic, held at Evansville College last Friday.

If basketball games were played under the suggested rule above, each time a team scored it would retain possession of the ball and have an opportunity to score again, this time on the opposite basket.

This subject was brought up by Roy Gardner, Big Ten official. George Sobek, had charge of the first section of the clinic.

Other rule changes and alterations discussed by a group of some 40 to 50 coaches, players and officials were: if the basket should be raised to 12 feet; if a defensive player should shoot a free throw after being fouled by an offensive player; and if a player should be made to try for a field goal after holding the ball for 25 seconds.

With the exception of the offensive foul rule, most of the participants felt that the present rules should stay as they are. The concensus was that the defensive player should get the ball out of bounds when fouled and not be awarded a free throw, because he was not working for a shot when he was fouled.

The opinion was also expressed that high school, college, and professional rules should have more similarity. When a player goes from one level to another he then would not make such a great adjustment to the new rules.

Acting as host for the clinic was Everett Shelton, former Wyoming coach and now at Sacramento State in California. He was assisted by Don Ping of Evansville.

Attending the clinic were some of the Posey County coaches and several of the Evansville high school coaches. Present also were some of the college coaches who had teams competing in the NCAA college division finals.

Aces Swing Into Spring With Inexperienced Talent

"Anyone with some talent or experience who is interested in playing should come out." This was the request made by the coaches of the baseball, track and tennis teams.

Baseball, which seems to be the most popular spring sport at Evansville College, had a turnout of 13 men for the first meeting.

Coach Don Ping has three men returning from last season's squad. Ron Folz, Don Schwartz and Ed Udhe were all members of that team which dropped below the .500 mark.

Also turning out for the baseball team are Ed Rolen, Barry Hoppen, Phil Ware, Dick Albin, Gene Brown and Jack Deaver. Freshmen are not eligible to play varsity baseball, but Coach Ping was happy that several showed enough interest to come out.

As soon as spring football practice is over, several men from the grid team will move onto the baseball diamond.

Many on campus are not aware that Arad McCutchan does something other than coach basketball. When spring rolls around he turns in his round ball for a tennis racket and takes over as coach of the tennis team.

Returning from last season's tennis squad will be Byron Buckley and Rick Bell.

Track coach Ray Bawel says all men interested in running with the squad will practice on their own, because of a lack of track facilities. Thus far this season a few have contacted Bawel and are now working out.

Do all Air Force Officers have wings?

Decidedly not. In fact most executive jobs are on the ground. Of course, all officers may apply for pilot and navigator training if they meet the eligibility requirements. There will always be a need for piloted aircraft. And it is foreseeable that in your working lifetime, there will be piloted spacecraft—piloted and navigated by Air Force officers.

But right now, there is also a big future for college-trained Air Force officers on the ground. New and exciting technical jobs are opening up. Important administrative positions must be filled as World War II officers move into retirement.

How can you—a college student—become an Air Force officer? First, there's Air Force ROTC. Then for college graduates, men and women in certain fields, there is Officer Training School. The graduate of its three-month course wins a commission as a second lieutenant. Other ways are the Navigator Training program, and the Air Force Academy.

Some benefits that go with being an Air Force officer. Starting salary plus allowances compare with the average in equivalent civilian jobs. Then there's free medical and dental care, thirty-day vacation, the chance to win graduate degrees at Air Force expense, and liberal retirement provisions.

No, Air Force officers do not need wings to move up. There's plenty doing on the ground. Perhaps you could be one of these young executives in blue. Ask your local Air Force Recruiter. Or write, Officer Career Information, Dept. SC13, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C., if you want further information about the navigator training or Officer Training School programs.

Dietition Checks Food

'Menu Needs More Eggs'

"We'll be glad to cooperate with any group or committee in discussing the menu.," said Mrs. Georgina Hill, director of food service at Evansville College, when queried last week about recent complaints of food inadequacies in the cafeteria.

Mrs. Hill said that students were given more starch than ordinary because they asked for it. "We are glad the students are interested in the food and we'll be happy to rearrange the menu in any manner to better serve the students," she added.

"They (the students) will have to remember that we are working on a limited budget," she said.

At student request members of the Student Government Association and the Crescent recently investigated a complete week's menu and presented the menu to a member of the American Dietitian's Association for comment.

General comments of the dietitian:

"The meals could be improved with small additions (of food without increasing the cost of preparation and it would be twice as beneficial to the students.

"You can tell that the planner of these meals had money in mind when they were planned.

"The breakfast menu needs more eggs. They should be offered four times a week.

"Lunch meal should be heavier.

"Not enough citrus juices and fruits for vitamin C. Not enough raw salads. Too much starch. Vitamin A, iron and ascorbic acid is short. More dark vegetables.

"Vitamin C, ascorbic acid, which cannot be stored should be 90 milligrams per day, approximately. The students are receiving about 20 ag. per day at present."

These comments and facts are presented to stimulate student interest and focus attention on a situation that needs consideration.

Library's War Display Promotes Centennial

CIVIL WAR COLLECTION FROM BIG LIBRARY

Sol Esarey, the major contributor to EC's collection of Civil War books, is one of the two largest donors to Clifford Memorial Library.

Largest donor, reports Dr. Harding, is John Frederick Oashiell, 1908 alumnus of Moores Hill College who was granted an honorary doctor's degree in 1949.

Esarey has given almost half of his 10,000-volume library to EC, the latest being 1,500 books given at the time the new library building was built four years ago.

LIBRARY WEEK

Governor Matthew Welsh, of Indiana has proclaimed the week of April 16-22 as National Library Week in Indiana. The theme is "For a richer, fuller life year round, READ!"

From Sumter to Appomatox, biogrophy or battle — the gamut of Civil War books is available, as revealed this week by the display cases at Clifford Memorial Library.

The decoration in connection with the beginning of the Civil War centennial in April sbows only a skeleton portion of tbe wide range of books on the shelves.

In the west case, decorated by Or. Thomas Harding, librarian, and Miss Marianna Andres, associate librarian, are books dealing with the background of the conflict. Prominently displayed are sketches of pre-war statesmen.

The east ease bolds volumes on the military operations and leading generals such as Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, George Meade, George McClellan and Ulysses S. Grant.

Outstanding are the Pulitzer Prize-winning Lee biography by Douglas Southall Freeman and a war history by famed historian Allan Nevins.

In all, the library has more than 360 volumes covering the Civil War, personalities connected with it, and related topics.

An Indianapolis lawyer, book collector and Civil War enthusiast, Sol H. Esarey, contributed the major portion of the library's collection of War books, says Or. Harding.

In 1952 Esarey began giving parts of his 10,000-volume collection, which he had spent 50 years building, to Evansville College. At present, Or. Harding notes, the Esarey gifts to this college amount to approximately 5,000 volumes.

The director of alumni affairs, Don Widick, this week announced the annual open house and reception for this year's graduates will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Newman from 7 to 10 o'clock that Friday evening.

The three-story bouse at 706 SE First St. has been made into a showplace by the Newman's. They have asked the Alumni Association to invite the 285 seniors.

The Newman house, with a fascinating history extending back to the Civil War era, will be open to seniors and their guests at the informal get-together.

Indian Remains Open Friday Nights For Dining and Dancing

Beginning Friday night, April 21, the Wooden Indian will be open for informal night life.

Dancing and food will be available to couples or stags. This will not be an organized party, but will be open for students to drop in at any time during the evening.

Tentatively, the Union plans to keep the Indian open between 7:30 and 11:30. These times are still subject to change. Since the opening of the Union on Friday night is on a trial basis, student participation will determine its continuation or failure.

Ronald E. Allen Plans Foreign Trade Study

By Sally Chapman
Crescent Staff Writer

Ronald E. Allen, senior in marketing and management from Oakland City, enters the American Institute of Foreign Trade at Glendale, Arizona in September for a year's training.

"AIFT" is a private institution that prepares young persons for work in foreign countries involving business firms. Prerequisite for entrance consists of a bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, or other recognized baccalaureate degree. At AIFT Ron plans to study languages, French being his specialty. He is specializing in languages from the three part curriculum — foreign trade and geographical area studies are the other two divisions.

Ron, who was in the Air Force from 1955 through 1958, would like to be placed with a firm in France where he spent three years during the war. (Mead Johnson is one of the local firms which have overseas offices.) His wife would travel with him to France, and she will attend AIFT free of tuition charges under the program for wives.

Estimates that within the next decade one out of every sixteen Americans will be engaged in foreign trade in some way points up our interrelationship with the rest of the world and the increasing need for young people trained to go abroad. The American Institute for Foreign Trade usually secures for its students a 100 per cent chance of placement in American business firms which have offices overseas.

Qualifications for overseas work, published by the US Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce are: 1) good appearance, appropriate manners, and correct speech; 2) fundamentals of international law; 3) thorough knowledge of international trade movements and practices; 4) thorough knowledge of export trade techniques; 5) thorough knowledge of and mastery of at least one foreign language; 6) intimate knowledge of foreign business practices; 7) ability to address public gatherings; 8) ability to write good correspondence and reports; 9) knowledge of US resources and familiarity with industrial development in this country in relation to both domestic and export trade.

The campus of AIFT is laid out in the form of a Thunderbird, symbol of good fortune. The tuition fee is $450.00 per semester plus a comprehensive fee which covers twenty semester hours of instruction. There are 1,000 graduates of AIFT living and working in seventy-two countries throughout the world.

Poetry Contest Deadline Near

Deadline for submitting original poems in the EC Poetry Contest, which is sponsored biennally by the Creative Poetry Division of the local American Association of University Women, is April 21.

The award this year is $25. This money will be awarded to the best poem or divided between two poems among three, depending upon the quality of the entries as judged by the AAUW poetry writers' group.

Poems are to be submitted to Dr. Virginia Grabill, creative writing teacher, by Friday of next week.

Each poem should be typed on an 8½ x 11 sheet with the title but without the name of the author. Accompanying each poem should be a 3 x 5 card with the title of the poem and the name of the author. This will enable the judges to read the poems without identifying the poets.

Students Asked To Name Patio

The College Student Union Building is staging a contest to rename the patio. Beginning this morning, the contest will run for one week. A winner will be announced on Monday, April 24.

Every student is encouraged to submit as many entries as he wishes. The entries consist of the suggested name for the patio and the submitter's name.

The winner will be chosen on the basis of how well the suggested name can be carried out in a decorating theme. A $5 meal ticket will be presented to the final winner.

Entries should be dropped in the box posted outside Miss Judith Lockwood's office.

At the present time, the decorating theme carried out in the patio does not fit the name. Originally, painted trees and an outdoor scene greeted visitors to the patio. However, about thereee years ago, repairs and repainting caused the theme to be lost.

The Union is now planning to redecorate, with furniture and painting carrying out the theme submitted by the contest winner.

EC Debate Tourney Won by Warren

Warren County High School of Bowling Green, Ky., was the winner of the First Annual High School Debate Tournament held here recently at the college.

The Warren County team won eight matches in contests against seven schools from Kentucky and Indiana.

The topic debated was, Resolved: That the United Nations should be significantly strengthened.

Tournament conductor Ted Foster, advisor to the EC Debate Squad, said the success of this year's tourney insures another contest next year.

Ft. Lauderdale: A few facts and observations:

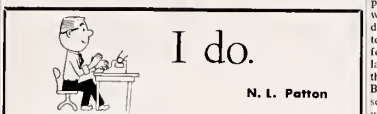
By Easter weekend, an estimated 50,000 college students had invaded this southern mecca. 500 were arrested and 85 convicted in a mass crack down by the local police. 84 were released in time to enjoy one last day in the sun.

The arrested group was only a small percentage of the total student population. The group as a whole do about a million dollars worth of business in a two weeks period. They have been doing this much business for several years. During this time police controls have tightened slightly, but there haven't been any riots or near riots. The usual small percentage of troublemakers were present, but as a group the students caused little serious trouble.

This year students were presented a new attitude at Ft. Lauderdale. The police and ministerial association got together and closed down the only all-night beach, and wouldn't let students sleep on any of the beaches. On top of this they started wholesale arrests for the slightest infractions (in two different cases Evansville College students were arrested and fined $10 a piece for sitting up on the back of a convertible. Last year this was not a traffic violation.

It is the old bit that if you tell someone they can't do something they will try all the harder to do it. This is true even in cases where they may not even want to do the thing they are told they must ont.

The conclusion I came to is this — For the past few years 50,000 students or so have trooped on down to Lauderdale. They drank beer when and where they wanted (if they wanted to), and Jade Beach was wide open around the clock. For all of its uncha-peroned parties, nothing much bad happened except for that small percentage of "four ups" that always turn up. This year someone down there pushed the panic button, and really flubbed the dub for future Ft. Lauderdale popularity. From what I can discern, the trend is towards Daytona Beach. They have accepted a lesser crowd for several years . . . with open arms. Yea, rah, Daytona.



Amid verbal pyrotechnics and facial grimaces bewhiskered Dr. Paul Grabill, head of the literature department, sent forth the admonition that the only thing in life not given to chance — is death, speaking at chapel services Wednesday.

Grabill began his sermon by reading portions of the myth of creation from the Bible. (Showing once again that women lead men astray.)

He said God told Adam that he would die if he ate of the tree of life, thereby showing that man chose to do wrong.

In our opinion Adam couldn't know what death was or realize the significance of death because he (Adam) was living in paradise and did not know evil until he had eaten the fruit.

Quoting generously from Coleridge, Milton, Dunn and the Bible, Grabill said, "Many great men have attempted to describe Hell since the new testament and the one idea they presented in common was that God will not be there."

In a modern christian thinking, God is everything, and everywhere.

No great conclusions were reached but perhaps one or two dusty brains belched in effort to contemplate death.

ITEM—We propose a club for agnostics and atheists on campus. There is an organization for other groups and we feel every segment of society should be represented. According to the way a large portion of our campus family talks and acts the club would be a large one.

Atheist is described as one who denies or disbelieves the existence of God and agnostics are listed as those who neither deny or or affirm the existence of a personal deity.

There are many on campus who qualify under these definitions.

Why not see if people have the courage to be different?

Let's start a club.

Should anyone ask, I do.

Faculty Plays Musical Chairs In Office Bldg.

Over-the-holiday office changes involving 10 faculty members have brought staffs of two of the College's departments closer together.

Four in the Business and Economics Department have switched with English Department instructors in the Office Building. As a result, all faculty in business and economics now occupy offices along the central corridor.

The switch enabled most English teachers to be grouped along the south corridor.

Earlier Dr. Virgil Logan, head of the English Department, had relocated in the Office Building from his previous office in the Administration Building.

Present office locations of teachers involved in the change are:

SHOES—the long and short of them.

The question in the minds of many style conscious women today is—"Is the needle-toed shoe on its way out?"

Mrs. Sherman Hinkebein, fashion coordinator and buyer for Baynam's Shoe Store says that the pointed toe and tall slender heel will be here for quite a while. This applies more to the dressy shoe, however, the trend going toward a softer, rounder toe and small heel for casual wear. She summed it up by saying that a woman should wear the style of shoe that is in character with her costume.

Mr. Allan Winslow of Dawson and Winslow Shoe Store provided the following information from the National Shoe Retailers Association on European trends in shoe styles: European designers favor the "Baby Doll" shoe — a ballet slipper type with a small heel. Europe likes the spatula-toed or "squared off pumps" and in Italy the round-toed shoe is most favored.

Further information from Burt's on color and leather looks: Pigskin is the largest single leather seen — in a natural shade and a reddish-brown. Patent for fall and winter as well as spring is gaining rapid popularity. Colors for spring tend to favor bone, black (leather and patent) and grayed greens that blend as well as compliment the vibrant color styled for spring.

The short skirt, which focuses attention from hemline to toe, is giving more importance to shoe styles. This in part accounts for the increased activity on the part of the European designers to start new trends; however, these trends have not settled down to a specific shape.

Skirts and Eyebrows Rising

by

Josette Adams

Crescent Staff Writer

Women will be women, and following fads seems to be a basic characteristic of the feminine gender. Much to the delight of the male population, the current phase of the rising hemline seems to be gathering momentum. Inches of material are being removed from skirt and dress bottoms all over the nation. Even though the girls laugh at the styles of the roaring 20's, duplications of that style are proceeding fast and furiously. And how does the typical Evansville College male view this phase of progress? It seems that he is quite delighted with the turn of fashion. There are few boys who grimace when confronted with a lady in a skirt above her knees. The males seem to be in agreement with that phase.

Members of the opposite sex are not in quite so sound agreement on the value of the short skirt. The ladies seem to be split in opinion on the subject. Many feel that the rising hemline only shows off the unattractiveness of the human knee. They protest that knock kneed girls haven't a chance under the new fashion trend. On the other side of the issue, it is cited that the shorter skirts give the girls a better chance to show off a natural beauty, as well as freeing them from waddling in tight skirts.

When all the votes are counted it appears the pro-short skirters carry the majority. However, for those poor loosers, cheer up, you never can tell what next year's fashions will bring.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Dhio St. and Utah are missing from Evansville College's 1961 basketball schedule (what a shame!) but the Aces have added Yale, Tennessee and Pittsburgh.

The three latter teams, along with Evansville, will be in the holiday tourney set for Dec. 29-30. This over last year's field of Penn St., Denver and Los Angeles St.

Notre Dame, Iowa and Purdue remain as "big names" and crowd attractions along with two games with old rivals Butler and Kentucky Wesleyan.

The Macmen open Dec. 2, against Iowa at the Stadium and then take another western tour to California to play San Diego and Los Angeles St. on the 8th and 9th.

Aces Schedule

Dec. 2 Iowa—H	Jan. 10 Ky. Wes.—A
Dec. 8 San Diego—A	Jan. 13 DePauw—H
Dec. 9 L.A. St.—A	Jan. 20 Ind. St.—H
Dec. 14 Valpo—H	Jan. 27 Ball St.—H
Dec. 21 Purdue—H	Feb. 1 St. Joe—A
Dec. 22 L.A. St.—H	Feb. 3 Valpo—A
Feb. 1 St. Joe—A	Feb. 17 St. Joe—H
Feb. 3 Valpo—A	Feb. 27 N. Dame—H
Feb. 7 Butler—H	Mar. 8 NCAA Regionals—H
Feb. 10 Ky. Wes.—H	Mar. 9 NCAA Regionals—H
Feb. 13 Ind. St.—A	Mar. 15 NCAA Finals
Feb. 14 DePauw—A	Mar. 16 NCAA Finals
Dec. 29 Holiday Tourney	Mar. 17 NCAA Finals
Dec. 30 Holiday Tourney
Jan. 4 Ball St.—A
Jan. 6 Butler—A

This gives the Aces a 22-game schedule not including the holiday tourney and a possible bid to the NCAA meet. The NCAA Regionals have been definitely placed here, but the finals won't be decided until several weeks before the start of the tourney.

Dropping Utah and Ohio State was the best thing that's happened since Ft. Lauderdale. Both NCAA University finalists this year, and power prospects again next season, the Aces would only be humiliated again. Nobody should take a 132-77 beating two years in a row, and the instigator of it all, All-America Billy McGill, is back again.

The holiday tourney should be the big drawing card next year. Pittsburgh and Yale are both well respected in the East, and Tennessee is one of the best in the South.

It should prove to be an interesting season with plenty of sophomores playing important roles in the Aces' plans to regain their NCAA championship.

Coach Paul Beck and his football Aces have a nine-game schedule next season including eight Indiana opponents along with Western Illinois.

The Aces play their first three games away from home against Hanover, September 16; Wabash, September 23; and DePauw, September 30. The gridiron boys then open their home season October 7, against St. Joe.

Western Illinois is the lone outsider as the Aces take on the Lincoln-land team October 28, in the annual Homecoming contest.

Aces Schedule

Sept. 16	Hanover
Sept. 23	Wabash
Sept. 30	DePauw
Oct. 7	St. Joe
Oct. 14	Ind. St.
Oct. 21	Valpo
Oct. 28	West. Ill.
Nov. 4	Ball St.

The Aces take on Butler in the finale again next year, as the Aces will be trying to avenge a 34-6 mauling by the Bulldogs this year at Indianapolis. Butler beat the Aces 33-14 at Bosse Field two years ago in the Homecoming game.

There will be no Butler for Homecoming in 1961. (It proves to make much unhappiness for the queen).

Ron Tepool, 185 pound end, is shown diving on a fumble during spring football practice. The Aces will close out training tomorrow morning with an intra-squad game.

Grid Aces End Spring Practice

"We are going to try to open up the offense a little more in order to add a little more scoring punch to our attack." This was head football coach, Paul Beck's outlook on Evansville College's football team for next season.

With a nucleus of four quarterbacks, the Evansville coaching staff should come up with a field general who can throw the ball effectively and run the ground attack. The past few seasons the Aces have failed to produce a man who can both pass and run the Aces' ground attack.

John Aramowicz, Quentin Merkel, Dave Bennett and Wayne Boultinghouse have all been playing in the quarterback position during spring practice. Aramowicz and Merkel are both upperclassmen, so they have a slight edge because of their experience. Bennett and Boultinghouse will both be sophomores.

Don LeDuc has looked sharp in practice and will probably be running as a starting halfback next season. Also fighting for the halfback jobs are Joe Rohleder, Ron Magness, Del Pace and Dave Koehler.

The fullback position seems strong with two former All-State gridders fighting for the spot. John Titzer, former Memorial star, and Jim Greer, former Central great, are both trying to get the starting nod. Dan Rankin is also in the running for fullback.

Ron Tepool and Larry Duncan, both starters last season, have the end positions tied down. Huddy Mardiosian and Dan Phillips also played end last year.

Inexperience is the outlook for the tackles. Jim Horsketter, Jerry Leach, Charles Zausch, Todd Clark, Bob Will, Chris Herdel and Harley Heim are all in the running for the line position.

John Meredith will be solid at one of the guard positions, but the other one is not quite so definite. Cecil Raymond, Bob Latimer, Mitch Marsch, Jim Wright and Gen Schulz have a chance to go at the other guard.

Spring practice will close tomorrow morning with an intra-squad game at East Side park.

Baseball Aces Drop 1st Two

Evansville College's baseball team opened the season last weekend by dropping two non-conference games on the Aces' home field. Friday they fell to Hillsdale College, 13-8, and then Saturday suffered defeat by Southeast Missouri, 8-3.

Hillsdale scored 4 runs in each of the last two innings to assure the visitors of victory. Ron Hughes, Hillsdale shortstop, started the rally in the eighth by blasting a three-run home run off Evansville pitcher Walt Henry. The visitors added 4 runs in the final inning on two hits and two errors.

The Aces scored seven of their eight runs in the first two innings. John Aramowicz, Evansville shortstop, started off the fireworks by hitting a triple with two men on. Gene Brown's Aces' right fielder, then followed with a single.

A walk and four singles accounted for Evansville's four-run second inning.

Aramowicz was the leading hitter for the Aces, getting three hits, including his triple in the first, and driving in four runs.

Losing pitcher Walt Henry was given little support from his infield, as seven errors were committed. Henry struck out nine.

The Aces were held to four hits in their second outing but stranded 17 men on base. To add further to their troubles, pitcher Gene Brown gave up seven runs in the first inning to almost put the game on ice for the Missouri club. After this inning, in which Brown had bad support from the infield, the former Reitz hurler held the visitors to only one run.

Getting hits for the Aces were Ed Uhde, Don Schwartz, Dwight Tapley and Brown.

The Aces' next game will be at Southern Illinois University, Tuesday.

Miller Conducts Campus Services

Dr. Don Miller is conducting "Campus Evangelistic Services" beginning April 24 in the Student Union Building from 3:45 until 5:00 daily.

"The Personal Confrontation in the Existential Situation" is the theme of the services. According to Dr. Miller, special attention will be directed to situations of God manifest in a crisis.

Emphasizing the behavior at critical moments of their lives, Dr. Miller said he will direct his sermons to such personalities as Judah, David, Peter, and Jesus. Some sermons he said, may refer to those historical figures who have missed life's greatest opoprtunities, such as Judas, a thief on the cross, and the rich young ruler.

Backing the campus evangelistic services are three of the religious clubs on campus. They are: Kappa Chi, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, and the Student Christian Association.

Standards for Admission To College Being Raised

Following a nation-wide trend, Evansville College is gradually raising its admission standards, according to Mr. Arthur Tyler, assistant admissions counselor.

Besides providing a higher caliber of students, the raised requirements will help to stabilize residence hall population, Tyler notes. This should insure that students who begin the year in one of the dorms will not be forced to vacate a room because of failing grades, he said.

Previously, an incoming student was required to hold an upper two-thirds high school class rank from an accredited school and be recommended by the principal or school counselor.

Any applicant ranking in the lowest one-third of his high school class was required further to make above a certain percentile in the college preliminary test. A satisfactory grade on the test permitted admission on a conditional basis. A first quarter index of 1.5 was then required in order to remain at the college. Failure to meet this average would revult in dismissal.

According to the rising standards, next year's applicants will be required to rank in the upper one-half of their respective high school classes.

Applicants ranking in the lower half will be conditionally admitted under the same requirements as they now hold. The percentile on the preliminary test has also been raised.

The requirements on transfer students also have undergone a proportionate change. The college now refuses to accept a transfer grade of D as well as F, the admissions office says. In certain cases, a student transferring such grades can be considered for acceptance under academic probation.

College records seem to prove that the rising standards are having little if any effect on the enrollment for the coming year. Fewer applications are coming in from students ranking in the lower half of their classes.

As a stamp of prestige to the Evansville College enrollment, there are, at the present time, 14 valedictorians and seven salutatorians in the current freshman class.

Favorite Professor Election

All-campus elections will be held Monday for Favorite Professor.

Any professor on the campus is eligible for the title. The contest is being sponsored by the Crescent. The winner of this honor will be presented a plaque with his name inscribed on it on May Honors Day. Last year's winner was Mr. Charles L. Hearndon

The voting will be conducted by ballots and all students are eligible to vote for Favorite Professor.

Hymn Contest Announced

Competition for a new hymn to be premiered at the Methodist National Conference on Family Life scheduled for the fall of 1962 is announced in the May issue of "Together," Methodism's family magazine.

Named in honor of the Wesley brother who gave to Methodism more than 6,000 hymns, the Charles Wesley award seeks a new hymn that will mirror the family of 1961 — how its members react to each other, to their church, to their community, and to the world at large." It should "express the spiritual heartbeat of the Christian family in its acts of doing and thinking."

The new hymn must be no more than three stanzas, and should be written to the meter of any hymn now in the Methodist Hymnal. All entries must carry a notation of the meter to which the lyrics have been written.

Deadline for all entries is September 1. From February 1962 until May 15, 1962, the second part of the Charles Wesley Award will be open for the submission of music to accompany the winning words.

A $100 first-place award, $50 for the runner-up, and five honorable mentions will be given in each of the two categories. All entries are to be sent to Music Editor, "Together", 740 North Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois.

A total of $124,000 was reported from the Miscellaneous Division in advanced gifts. This brings the total advanced gifts to $718,000.

The Physical Education Building will amount to approximately $700,000 with the Fine Arts Building costing the remainder of the $1.525,000 goal.

Price Heads Madness

Musical Madness Set April 24, 25

by Bill Balsbaugh
Crescent Staff Writer

"Musical Madness Through the Ages," which promises to be the best and most elaborate production to date, is only a few days away. The judges have been selected, the trophies purchased, and other last-minute details have all been taken care of, relates Phil Price, Coordinator, and Judy "I-hope - we - haven't - forgotten - anything" Lockwood, Social Director.

The members of the eight pairing forward to opening night, some with eager anticipation, some with dread, others with hope. Phil comments, "Before the rehearsals I was a bit skeptical as to how the show was going to go, but since I've had a chance to see how hard the groups have been working, I have higher hopes."

Musical Madness is only four years old but its predecessor, "Kampus Kapers," was premiered in 1951. The '57 edition of "Madness" was won by Chi Omega, and Sigma Phi Epsilon captured the best production award in 1958. "Musical Madness is Technicolor," 1959, was won by Phi Mu. Last year, Sig Ep again took top honors with "Sounds of Jazz."

This year's theme has produced a variety of titles. They are: AOPi — "Age of Sacrifice;" TKE — Age of Pyramids;" Phi Mu — "A Phi Mu of 1900."

Others are Lambda Chi — "The Riddle"; Chi Omega — "The Ageless Paris;" SAE — "Gl Island in the Sun;" and Sig Ep — "Music in Time." The sequence of the acts has been arranged in order to benefit the entire production.

The directors of the groups are: AOPi—Barbara Grote; Beta Sig, Carol Grimm; Chi Omega, Nora Fisher; Lambda Chi, Dove Lundmark; Phi Mu, Mary Ann Stahlberg; SAE, Frank Haskett; Sig Ep, Richard Tschopp; and TKE, Leroy Emge. Don Hess and Gary Seiler will MC the production.

The all-campus variety show, sponsored by the Union Dance Committee, will be staged this Monday and Tuesday, April 24th and 25th, at St. Benedict's Auditorium starting at 7:30. General admission is seventy-five cents.

Jim Rodgers, sound engineer for Musical Madness, rechecks the tape recordings for the all-campus production to be presented Monday and Tuesday nights. Making certain everything is in order are Dick Tschopp, Sig Ep; Nora Fisher, Chi Omega; and Phil Price, Coordinator.

4th Indiana Jazz Festival Seeks EC Student Help

Hal Lobree, executive producer of the Fourth Annual Idiana Jazz Festival, spoke before the President's Roundtable organization to solicit student participation in the next jazz festival to be held at Roberts Stadium, June 23, 24, 25.

Lobree told the group the festival would attempt to attract students from all over the country with a personal letter from Mike Spence, Student Government Association president, to every college in America. Lobree said he wanted to encourage Evansville College students to participate in the festival by inviting students from other campuses to visit the local campus for planned activities such as presentations by the EC drama group, serious music programs and other departments of this college. Also he suggested inviting drama groups, musical combos from other colleges to perform during the three-day festival.

He stated that adequate sleeping and eating facilities would be furnished for everyone who wants to come.

"I am more interested in promoting Evansville and Evansville College than the money that will be derived from this venture," Lobree said.

The letter that was sent out is reproduced here for organizations on campus to use with any alterations needed.

Dear Fellow President:

I have the honor of extending an unprecedented invitation!

On June 23, 24 and 25, the city of Evansville will hold the most outstanding Jazz Festival in the nation the Fourth Annual Indiana Jazz Festival . . and students of Evansville College are proud to be acting as hospitality hosts for the colleges and universities of the nation! Thus, we are sending this personal invitation to each and every one of you at your school to join us for The Big Weekend of 1961!

With the wholehearted cooperation of the entire city, including the mayor, the police force and the thousands of young men and women who comprise civic and fraternal groups, we are designing a wide variety of daily activities for you to sample at your discretion. Or if you choose, you can ignore them all and while away your days at the city's olympic pool . . . parks . . . tennis courts . . . or golf courses. Your presence will be the "open sesame" to any or all of these additional attractions . . . planned principally with your pleasure instead of your pocketbook in mind!

Groups and individuals who would like complete information about this once-a-year event may write to Collegiate Hospitality Chairman, 131 Locust Street, Evansville, Indiana.

Sincerely,
s/Mike Spence
President, Student Government Association, Evansville College

In this "mix-matching" season ACCESSORIES have become independent fashions.

Bags . . .

The National Shoe Retailers Association issued a report about this season's handbags: Paris-created, the long, flat clutch envelope is effective in black patent, shocking in the Poster Color Patents.

Another of the season's most important is the large, soft or marshmallow" bag. As for color — pale shades, bone, coffee cream and gardenia (grayed off-white) are the most popular. However, the tapestry bags in vivid floral prints and the bright leather bag hold their own in sales.

Baubles, Beads, Sans Bangles

A word from Schear's Department Store on jewelry: This is the season for jumbo baubles and beads, and circle pins.

Worn in bib or matinee (twenty inches) lengths, the bubble beads dominate this season's neckline. Any combination of fake or real jewels, plastic, wood, gold or silver is fashion acceptable. Cluster or button earrings are usually worn with these single or many-strand necklaces. Color runs riot with lavendar and hot pink leading. Close behind are the muted greens, yellows, and beige.

Gold circle or "nothing" pins adorned with a pearl or plain, ride high on necklines representing this season's plainest jewelry style.

Gloves . . .

Presiding over DeJong's Ladies Apparel, Mrs. Celia Betts offers this comment on her wares: For fall, the long, eight-button glove will be most important. Color emphasis this season is shown by the brilliant colors used in the eight-button leather gloves.

Many of DeJong's gloves are French imports, especially the French washable doeskin, Kislav.

The one-button or "shortie" gloves are creating personalities of their own using eyelet embroidery, lace inserts, pearls and rhinestones, and flower and fruit appliques.

A final note from Mrs. Betts: "Gloves should be seen being worn, not tucked in your purse or clutched in your hand."

Schear's Department Store provided the following glove news for spring: Boasted by the sleeveless dress currently in style, the long glove is a unanimous winner for spring sales; especially the long black leather glove. The standard white glove is being replaced by bone and off-white shades for the spring season.

All in all, Spring 1961 might well be called "the year of the long glove."

Have you heard . . .

Tom Highland, a Beta Theta Pi at Indiana University pinned Phi Mu Gail Savage in early March. Jack Kinkel, Lambda Chi, pinned Chi O Linda Hays last week. Sandy Smith, Nancy Stofleth, Annette Tapley, and Josette Adam spent the spring vacation in Florida.

Until next week . . . This is the latest.

AFROTC Cadets Receive Nameplates

It is a proved fact that any organization will work together better when names can be used.

This is the reason that AFROTC has initiated its new nametag system. The system is not nation wide: it is a local detachment policy.

These are made of plastic and are manufactured in blue, green, yellow, black and red.

The blue tags are for the detatchment staff, green for freshmen, yellow for sophomores, and black for juniors.

Senior cadets have the old metal nametags. The cadets will carry their nametags through the whole program. Next year's freshmen will order red tags.

Interpretation Class Reads Selections At Coffee Hour

The English Coffee Hour program yesterday was presented by Dr. Logan's Oral Interpretation Class.

Sally Hadley was chairwoman of the committee chosen by the whole class that selected the students to perform.

Carolyn Wilson read examples of American humorists poetry. Dorothy Parker's poem, "The Waltz," was given by Sue King.

Robert Browning's "Soliloquy in the Spanish Cloister" was read by Stanford Singer.

A scene from the play, "The Rain Maker," was given by John Lutz.

The entire class performed some Indian Poems by Lew Surett as an example of choral reading. Richard Woolington introduced the program and gave some background information concerning the works presented.

The final coffee hour May 18 will have students reading their own original productions.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

This seems to be that time of year when no particular activities are taking up everyone's time. Oh, the Greeks are working on Musical Madness, but that's about all. Things will undoubtedly pick up. Tim Bundy and myself are beginning to get the "senior sweats," and I don't mean the marriage variety. We are probably two of the most eligible 1-A graduates in quite awhile. Wonder if the Crescent will need a foreign correspondent next fall?

Did you hear about the scheduled pop concert that never came off? It seems that beer, pretzels, and symphonies aren't supposed to mix . . . well that's what some Evansville ministers and a few members of the college Music Department decided. Actually they didn't make the decision to cancel the concert, but they used their influence to make sure it got the axe.

Now really I could care less, but when other cities like New Orleans and staid old Boston have wonderful attendance for these same events, it seems silly to hold Evansville back just because a minority force group can exert its will, beliefs, etc., on a majority who don't think the same way. I don't know whose fault it was, but someone interested in the Evansville future program was asleep at the switch.

You know, one of these days, in spite of all the hypocrisy, me first-ism, and medieval mores of a small but influential group, Evansville may truly deserve the title, "Valley of Opportunity." Let's make sure they don't get their teeth into our Jazz Festival.

And then there was that Miami Gold Coast hotel that was so swinging on Easter morning, one of the hotel waiters goofed. No really, he served two gallons of SCREWDRIVERS for orange juice. Yes, spring is the silly season.

Wouldn't it seem a little more logical to sell meal tickets in the cafeteria instead of the business office? Well, I know we save a little money with them, but why offer them if they are that hard —to find?

Finally, there is that new fad that is sweeping the Congo. It's a game called "Eat The Press."

Comments on the proposal to start an atheist and agnostic's club in the last column have run the gamut from prayers for our soul, demands for our resignation to invitations to debate the subject. All these comments came from persons who were not students.

What does it take to start a fire under students? Doesn't any student believe anything strong enough to defend it?

(The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily represent those of the Cresent or Evansville College . . . Ed.)

If there are those who honestly doubt their beliefs or sincerely follow the theology of atheism and agnosticism, why not have a club for them? We consider the freedom to not believe as important as the freedom to believe.

We have not expressed our beliefs, rather we wish to provide the impetus for organizing such a group.

A large number of students have expressed their disgust with present-day concepts in religion. We feel the solution to this problem is to discuss the issues involved, objectively, intelligently and in an atmosphere of mutual interest by the students.

We appreciate the interest of the readers and hope further questing in this matter will result in renewed dedication of everyone to his personal beliefs.

Should anyone ask, I do.

Now that the sweater season is about over, let's take a look at what happened to sweaters this year.

- Bulky knits, so important in sweaters this year, came in wonderful new colors . . . lots of off-shades, deeper and richer and entirely new looking in men's wear. The almost-teal, almost-navy was a flattering shade for almost everyone. Plumy and purply shades, as well as hurnt golds, were more individually keyed. Lots of the bulkies had elaborate patterns wovon in . . . originally at home in Scandinavia, but great in a campus setting.

Bulky knits styles changed too. There were any number of necklines . . . shawl collars, boatnecks, double-breasted styles, or the standard crewnecks or cardigans. There were n variety of weaves and textures . . . shaggys and heathers, synthetic fibers that looked and felt wonderful; and of course wools that were woolier than ever.

Mort Sahl, whose trademark is the sweater, was seen in four dozen different sweaters this season. On one occasion, he wore a wool blazer cardigan, boldly striped in alternating vertical colors of chianti, concord, and black It had a cutaway front, cuffless sleeves and two diagonal pockets. On another occasion he wore an Italian pullover horizontally striped in deep tones of nountain grape, piedmont blue . . . and charcoal. Large vertical stripes in grape gave the sweater a giant plaid effect. The three-bottom placket sweater with full collar gave Mort the distinct collegiate look which are usually found on college campuses. It seems that Mort usually sets the "sweater standards" for the nation; as Mort goes, so do the collegiates.

While nobody can really predict the future, sweater fashions for the well-dressed university man, I'd bet strongly on the new idea of the Blazer Cardigan . . . a collarless, hooded blazer sweater with a strong British heritage. It's something to look for next year.

While we're on the subject of British influence, it would be well to mention that the British influenced colors of chamois and mustard will be very strong next year.

- A final word — although the sweater season is about over, "use your cool" on those sweaters you will wear until spring. Pick a shirt collar that corralates with the style of sweater.

Many times around campus I see fellows with crew-necks on who look as if they are about to take off every time they swallow — just because of the wrong style of shirt collar.

With crew-necks gentlemen should wear a shirt that the collar rests just above the sweater neckline. Shawl collars lend themselves to softer, sporty collar styles . . . one that follows the drape of the sweater rather than fighting it.

A tip of the hat goes to "The Twink" who took the time do the drawings above. The guy to the left is "yours truly" and the sweater at the right is a woolen houndstooth check with a double-breasted front and large shawl collar which was very popular at eastern colleges and universities.

Law Students Must Pass Writing Test

Prospective law students, beginning in November of 1961, will be required to pass tests of writing ability and general background in the Law School Admission Test.

This is the recent announcement made by the executive committee of the Law School Test Policy Committee.

The 80-minute writing ability test will measure the student's command of grammar and diction and his ability to recognize verbose or unclear writing.

The general background test is mainly to measure the student's awareness of the intellectual and cultural context in which the law functions.

Peace Corps Idea Creates Interest On Campus

President Kennedy has placed a major portion of the responsibility for this nation's future popularity among the peoples of underdeveloped countries on the shoulders of our college men and women through his newly organized Peace Corps.

The essential idea of the Peace Corps is the placement of young Americans in actual operational work in newly developed areas of the world. During the beginning years, the Peace Corps will have to rely almost entirely on college graduates who are willing to donate their time to promote the United States abroad.

President Melvin W. Hyde sums up his views on the Peace Corps in the following statement to the crescent.

The Corps is set up primarily to recruit young Americans for service in underdeveloped nations of the world. Most of the young people who will be accepted will work in education, including vocational training and the field of reading and writing. There will also be a number chosen for agriculture, industries, and improvement of health through nursing and sanitation. The areas indicated illustrate the fact that the Peace Corps program is not one for adventure, but one for work. Students will be expected to spend a minimum of 2 years and those with excellent foreign language training will be given preference. This latter requirement also demonstrates the fact that the program requires a background of excellent educational accomplishments. I would bope that a number of the Evansville College students would be interested in this program. One of the major difficulties of the program as far as the rest of the world is concerned is for our government to make it clear that our national motives are of the very best. We are told already some of the underdeveloped countries are a bit suspicious of the purpose behind the program.

The immediate concern of the Peace Corps, according to R. Sargent Shriver, director, is to organize adequate training programs for volunteers since prior college preparation will in most cases be missing the first year of operation. After the Peace Corps is a going concern, training programs should be integrated within the four-year college curriculum of students interested in going overseas after graduation. The program will probably include intensive language study as well as completion of courses on the history, economics, politics and culture of the area to which the student would like to be sent. Also a sufficient study of American history should be included to make the volunteer a well informed representative of this country.

The program is strictly on the volunteer basis and the pay will amount to enough to cover food, clothing, housing and transportation plus a bonus payment probably based on $50 a month. The training program will be approximately like the training young men and women receive in the armed services, says Mr. Shriver. We intend or expect to have a substantial number of people washed out during the raining period.

The program will not be too rigid at the beginning, but certainly no one will be accepted for service for less than a year. This is because most of the overseas assignments will take at least one year to complete. The plan is to have all volunteers for at least a two-year period.

The major programs in which volunteers are wanted are teaching, fighting malaria and working on other health programs such as typhoid, smallpox, tetanus and water sanitation, agricultural projects and rural development including animal husbandry, new farm techniques and improved seed irrigation, large scale construction and industrial projects, and government administration.

President Kennedy, in a message to Congress, said that he hoped by the end of the year that there would be somewhere between 500 and a thousand Peace Corps volunteers in service overseas. This goal is not a criterion of success for the program. Two hundred successful volunteers overseas would mean that the program was a success. But if 2000 were sent and they failed, the program would be a failure.

There is a great need for American assistance overseas. There is one South American country that has now approximately 800 agricultural extension workers of their own. This country could easily use 5000 such workers. They have asked the United States whether we would be interested in trying to find young Americans — not farmers, who have gotten their hands dirty working on farms, that we would train in the language, send them down there, and they would be assigned, man to man to help that country with its own agricultural extension programs.

The cost of the program will be determined, in a large part, by the demands for Peace Corps volunteer services abroad. The maximum cost could run as high as 10 million dollars and may be as little as 3 or 4 million.

The Peace Corps provides an opportunity for young Americans to do something worthwhile for the U.S. The Peace Corps will not be a happy joyride to new adventure. Other countries of the world see our country as a land of people who are materialistic and love money above all else. It will be up to the Peace Corps volunteers to demonstrate the character of this country and our desire to help others with no personal monetary gains.

Additional information questionnaires can be obtained by writing to Peace Corps, Washington 25, D. C. Questionnaires are also available in the Dean of Students office in the Administration Building.

President John F. Kennedy's creation of a peace corps has in general been acknowledged with enthusiasm by young people the nation over.

The DAILY UNIVERSE' Brigham Young University declares: "To our minds, this is the most exciting step the naw administration has taken as far as college students are concerned. It is a direct challenge to the younger generation to take an active part in promoting the ideals by which we live. . . .

"The image of America for too long has been one of overflowing wealth and abundance. Too many people in the world think of us as being only anti-communistic instead of being for democracy. A big chance to dispell this illusion will be given to the youth who will make up the corps."

LA VIE COLLEGIENNE at Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pennsylvania, feels that, "It is high time that nations turn to something other than military force to prove strength or supremacy. We can feel proud that the United States may take the lead in such an effort of good will."

Proclaims the UNIVERSITY DAILY KANSAN, University of Kansas, "With the advent of the Kennedy Point Four 'Peace Corps,' the Silent Generation finally has a cause. And the cause is big enough to make those who grumbled about the lack of ideals for which to fight sit down and deliberate for a good, long while . . .

Peace Corps volunteers can be deferred from military service under the present Universal Military Training and Service Act, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service.

The Universal Military Training and Service Act as amended, states that the draft board now has the power to defer men who perform functions in the national health, safety, or interest. As long as the United States is not at war with any other nation, this clause is in effect.

The volunteer can qualify for further deferment upon his separation from the Peace Corps depending on his physical condition, marital status, and whether or not he engages in an activity which permits him to be deferred in the national health, safety, or interest.

To Honar Former Teachers

Resident Units Named

The four residence units, purchased by Evansville College last fall, were officially named in March after distinguished teachers of the first College faculty in 1919.

The buildings were named "Franklin House," for single women; "Bigney House" and "Torbet House," for married students; and "Hovda House," for single men.

They were named for George B. Franklin, professor of English, and his wife, Lucy J. Franklin, English and physical education instructor; Andrew J. Bigney, teacher of biology and chemistry; Charles E. Torbet, history and economics teacher and dean and registrar of the College; and Olaf Hovda, teacher of physics and mathematics.

Located at Walnut and Weinbach Avenues, the four apartment buildings were purchased for $220,000 from the Federal Housing Administration in November. They each contain 13 units — four two-bedroom and nine one-bedroom.

Burton Name Known Here For Versatile Music

By Larry Pond
Crescent Staff Writer

Ann Burton, of the Princeton (Ind.) Burtons, comes from a family of talented musicians, thank you.

Let's go back to 1956, for example, when Ann, her father and two brothers had their own combo and were playing throughout the mid-west. At one time the Burton family traveled as far south as Miami, Fla., where they played at the National 4-H Convention. However, Ann best remembers the time that the group performed at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel in Chicago.

The combo lined up something like this: Ann on trombone, brother Gary on Vibraharp, brother Phil on bass, and dad on piano. Gary did all the arranging of the songs, which were mainly jazz and semi-classical type.

Brother Gary is making quite a name for himself these days as he is recording for Columbia and RCA records. Quite a genius when it comes to music, Gary finds time to attend Boston University and Berkley School of Jazz.

So far the young Mr. Burton has cut albums with Dave Brubeck, Chet Atkins, and "Boots" Randolph. Gary is featured on the vibes in all of these albums. Gary's current album is called "Jazz Winds In a New Direction," and will be featured in a forthcoming issue of Downbeat magazine.

Ann says that her famous brother intends to do some traveling early this summer before settling down during July to be tutored by Milt Jackson of the Modern Jazz Quartet.

Gary will break into the Stereo world in June of this year when his new album comes out on RCA label. Says Ann, "Gary tells me that this is a new type of stereo with a new sound and will sell for one dollar more than regular stereo."

Logan Text on Sale At Book Store About April 26

Dr. Lillian and Dr. Virgil Logan's new book, Teach the Elementary Child, was released April 14.

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of Teaching the Elementary Child may purchase it at the Book Store on or about April 26.

According to Dr. Virgil Logan, most teachers know "how" to teach but few have a good understanding of "what" to teach. In an effort to assist elementary teachers and prospective elementary teachers toward a better understanding of this "whatness," the Drs. Logan have concentrated their work on the area of subject matter.

The book also contains a children's short story by Janet Brashier, an Evansville College sophomore.

Applications Opened For Top LinC Jobs

The college journalism section is accepting applicants for the top jobs on the staff of the 1961-62 yearbook, Walter Stewart, journalism instructor reports.

Anyone with previous experience or avid interest in this type of work is invited to apply for positions on the LinC staff.

Editor-in-chief, business manager, and advertising manager comprise the three main jobs on the staff. Each of these positions is chosen on the basis of ideas submitted and qualifications for the yearbook work.

Final appointments will be made by the Publications Committee, composed of faculty and student representatives. The students elected for these positions, in turn, choose the rest of their staff. Each section of the yearbook is headed by a member of the selected staff.

Available to staff workers are three-hour credit classes in the fall and winter quarters. However, these classes are not required, and the journalism section encourages students to help with the production even though unable to take the scheduled classes.

The LinC is distributed to students before completion of the spring quarter. In order to meet this deadline, the completed yearbook must be sent to the printers by the beginning of that quarter. This leaves the spring quarter available as a time to plan the following year's book. Thus, the new staff must be appointed by early April so work can begin.

Students are requested to apply to the journalism section next week.

Symphonic Band Ends Spring Tour

The College Symphonic Band was on its annual spring tour April 11 through 13.

The band gave concerts at Nappanee, Ind.; Lawrenceville, Ill.; Roachdale, Ind.; and Mt. Vernon, Ind.

Under Mr. Wesley Shepard, conductor, and Mr. E. C. Thompson, assistant conductor, the band presented a varied program ranging in types of selections from "The Sound of Music" by Rodgers and Bennett to "Flight of the Bumble Bee" by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

The group traveled by bus and was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shepard, Mr. E. D. Johnson, and Mr. Paul Nolte. They stayed overnight in Elkhart in individual homes.

Members of the symphonic band are from all departments of the college and are eligible for a position in the band by passing individual try-outs. Many of the members participate in one or more of the performing groups in the music department.

Naval Aviation Interviews Set

Commander B. W. Rosenbaum, U. S. N. R., of the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Memphis, Tennessee, will visit Evansville College April 25th and 26th in the Student Union building to interview college men interested in the Navy's Aviation Officer training programs.

Three programs are being offered to qualified college men between ages of 18-26. Unmarried students having completed two years of college may apply for the Naval Aviation Cadet program. Successful candidates are commissioned Ensigns and Naval Aviators after completing 18 months of flight training.

For either married or single prospective graduates the Navy offers pilot training through the Aviation Officer Candidate Program or for specialized training as bombardier, navigator, etc., as non-pilot Aviation officers. Candidates receive a commission of Ensign after 16 weeks of pre-flight training.

Floorplans Released For New Buildings

by Lee Ayers
Crescent Staff Writer

"Evansville College intends to live up to its responsibility of providing higher education to the people of the Tri-State and continue to gain their trust by having quality instruction and facilities," says President Hyde.

This is being shown by the addition to the E.C. campus of the new Fine Arts and Physical Education buildings which will fill a long-awaited need for facilities on campus and will provide ample space and modern equipment for instruction.

The Indianapolis firm of McGuire, Shook, Compton, Richey and Associates, who are designing the buildings, have designed all the buildings on campus except the Administration Building.

The new three-level contemporary architecture Fne Arts Building of Indiana limestone and glass will be located on Rotherwood Avenue between Moore Hall and the President's home where temporary housing is now located. It will be an L-shaped structure which will add a modern touch to the campus.

Housing the Music and Art departments, the Fine Arts Building will consist of two halls to be joined on the first floor by a lobby and art gallery.

The ground floor will have 7 general studios, 5 piano studios, 20 practice rooms. 4 listening rooms, a room for several listening booths, a record library, and a student activities room.

The first floor contains a recital hall with a 300-person seating capacity, 4 piano studios, a faculty room, an instrumental hall, a gallery, an orchestration choral theory room, an instrument library, a museum, 2 studios, and a theory room.

On the second floor there is an art class room, a jewelry and ceramics room, a figure-drawing and painting room, an art faculty office, 3 vocal studios, and a music education room.

The new Fine Arts Building is destined to become a cultural center for both the student and community.

Wesley Shepard, co-head of the Music Department, says, "We are presently conducting instruction at six different locations, both on and off campus. The new building will allow all music instruction to be done under one roof."

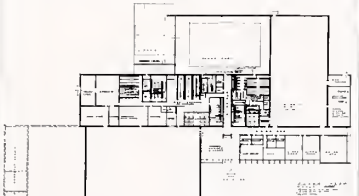
Miss Florence Keve, head of the Art Department, says, "The enlarged and improved art facilities will provide modern equipment to carry out a comprehensive art program on campus."

The Physical Education Building located north of Walnut will be the first to occupy a portion of "East Side Park" which the college has owned for over 40 years.

The new structure will be of modern functional architecture having a brick exterior harmonizing well with its neighbors, Moore and Hughes halls.

It will be a non-spectator type building which will contain a men's gym having two basketball floors, a wrestling room, a trainer's room, three men's locker rooms (student, football and basketball), a coaches' room, a laundry room, an olympic-type swimming pool, health and education classrooms, faculty offices, a lobby and trophy room, an athletics office, a conference room, an audio-visual and dance studio, a women's locker room and several storage rooms.

Arad McCutchan, physical education Department head, feels "the building will enable us to have an expanded program with adequate facilities for both intramural sports and varsity athletics. It will provide a good practice area for varsity sports."



Plans of two floors of the proposed new Fne Arts and Physical Education Buildings are shown

Loans Are Available From HELP Program

The Higher Education Loan Plan of Indiana, a program to provide long-term, low cost, bank loans to pay part of the college expenses of students who are residents of Indiana is now available to students of Evansville College, Ralph Olmsted, business manager, reports.

Students who wish to borrow money through this plan borrow directly from their home town banks and the loan is endorsed by the United Student Aid Funds, Inc.

Students attending Evansville College who are residents of Indiana and have completed the freshman year of college, possess good character, maintain financial need and satisfactory grades are eligible for loans.

Students may apply for the HELP loan at the bank of their choice in the city or town of their residence in the state of Indiana.

A total of $1,000 in one year or $3,000 during the entire college career is the maximum a student may borrow. Total cost for a loan under this plan is below normal bank loan rates and repayment begins five months after the student leaves school.

The borrower may take up to 36 months for repaying the loan. There is no age requirement, but students under 21 must have parent or guardian approval.

Students from other states should inquire as to whether this plan is available in their home states. A booklet which gives information about the Higher Education Loan Plan is available at the assistant business manager's office.

Doctor and Nurse Always Available For Students

Available from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. every week day, EC's doctor and nurse, Dr. James Jordan, and Mrs. Georgia Stein, are located in the Health Center of the Office Building.

Mrs. Stein, a registered nurse, combines her nursing duties with nine hours of class instruction which she attends every week, but she is in the nurse's office during the 10:00 a.m. hour; from 11:45 to 12:45, and from 2:45 to 4:00 p.m. At all other times she can be reached in the Administration building.

Dr. Jordan is in the Health Office from 10:00 to 11:00 during the day, and provisions are made for his immediate contact in case of emergency.

Among their duties, Mrs. Stein lists aiding students with aggravating colds as the biggest chore. In case a serious illness such as influenza or pneumonia has developed, the student is sent home immediately, or to a hospital.

Also available to the students is treatment for minor injuries, routine physical examinations, and advice in more serious health matters. All of these services are offered to the students without charge. Expenses incident to illness or injury warrants reference to the family or non-college physicians, x-ray and laboratory tests, or hospitalization are not covered by the college.

A regularly enrolled student may apply for Blue Cross and Blue Shield protections at student rates or may apply for financial assistance from the Student Relief Fund, should he become seriously ill or disabled during the school year. The fund is administered by a Student-Faculty Federation Committee.

Mrs. Stein points out that the Health Center has records on every college student's state-of-health which enables the doctor to administer aid more quickly.

These records are: the physical examination report which each new student presents from his family physician as part of his application for admission, and the chest x-rays which are provided for the new students at the time of registration.

Heavens—
Once, in the silence of my soul
I began floating
On a billowy bit of nothingness
Finding my way toward infinity.

Convivial to my nature
A certain elfishness
Metamorphised the being
I had supposed was me.

My vision fluxed
To meet the expanse
Of my proximity
To this cosmic vastness.

Then, a very soft jar
Nudged my senses
Into some vague perception
Of the most abstract reality.

I conjectured the possibility
Of my having gently shoved
Through some narrow crevice
Opening into eternity.

Awed at the fright of such happiness
My eyes stretched
As big as I am
Searching intently for a clue.

And there was I
A seeming portent
Being slowly amalgamated
Into the whole.

I struggled with some desperation
To grip hold of myself
The likeness of which
I was no longer sure.

I twisted myself
Into certain geometric patterns
Hoping I could agree
One of them would be me.

Reclining at last
I saw one faint glimpse of me
And persuing I was Truth
I looked out and beyond myself.

I saw no boundary
Yet, was surrounded by it
Yet, was the end myself.

The major league baseball season started last week with Pittsburgh and New York out to defend their 1960 pennants. Everybody has a prediction and here goes mine.

Pittsburgh didn't lose anything this year but, World Series or not, the Pirates were a mighty lucky ball club last year. Down to third for the Pirates as the west coast teams come to life.

Don Drysdale, John Podres, Sandy Koufax, Larry Sherry, etc., should give the Dodgers the best pitching staff in the league and their first pennant since leaving Brooklyn. (By the way this etc., fellow mentioned above constitutes the L.A. relief corps.)

San Francisco, led by Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, Willie McCovey, good years by Don Blasingame and Jim Davenport, the most needed addition of Harvey Kuehn, and the Giants are in business. With Mike McCormick, Sam Jones and Jack Sanford leading the pitching corps, backed by good seasons from Bill Loes and Billy O'Dell, the Seal Stadium boys are ready for a long predicted pennant.

That leaves Milwaukee, Pittsburgh, and last year's surprising Cardinals to fight it out for third, fourth and fifth.

Cincinnati should be sixth followed by Philadelphia and Chicago. The Cubs have eight managers to make the mistakes this year, but the players are as old as the managers. The Cubs missed the cellar by one game last year, and the Phils have a chance to improve with all of their young talent getting a year of experience. Chicago will have plenty of managers to dig a deep grave in the cellar.

American League

In the American League anyone that would try to beat the Yankees should have his head examined. Casey's gone but it doesn't make too much difference.

With the addition of the Los Angeles Angels and the new Washington ball club, New York will have nine teams to beat instead of the seven they have stopped the past 10 of 12 years.

The Yanks were hurt the most by the addition of the two new squads as they were forced to give up Bobby Shantz, Duke Maas and Eli Grba from their pitching staff, along with Bob Cerv in the outfield. Gil McDougald is also missing from the New York roster after "retiring" with Stengel.

The Yanks under Ralph Houk still have all the horses with Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Bill Skowron leading the way. In the pitching department the New Yorkers have Bob Turley, Whitey Ford, Art Ditmar and Ralph Terry to work around with a fellow named Sheldon who looked like Warren Spahn in the exhibition games this spring.

After New York anybody could finish second. I'll go with Baltimore and Paul Richards' young pitchers. The big surprise in the league could be Minnesota, the old Washington Senators. Everybody picks the Twins for the second division but with Pet Ramos and Camilio Pascual on the pitching staff, the Twin Cities squad just might surprise everybody and be a tough third (I hope).

Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit will be fighting for the number four slot, with K. C. and Boston battling for seventh place.

The new Washington and Los Angeles entries will try their best to beat each other to keep out of the cellar. Los Angeles with the help of its Angels nickname should be ninth. Leo Durocher is on their side.

Ball State Next For Baseball Aces

Evansville's baseball team will be seeking their first victory of the season tomorrow as they meet Ball State in a double-header at East Side Park.

The Aces went down to their third defeat of the season last Tuesday at the hands of Southern Illinois University, 17-1. To top off the loss, Evansville was held to only two hits. Starting pitcher Gene Brown was the loser for Evansville.

Ball State will bring a veteran crew with nine lettermen including four returning pitchers. This group of hurlers is headed by Bill Nixon, who as a sophomore fashioned a 1.125 ERA and struck out 47 batters.

Also giving support on the mound will be Dean Campbell, a right handed throwing senior. Although he did not pitch last year because of an injury, in the 1959 season he compiled a 1.863 ERA and was named to the All-ICC team.

Campbell was the team's leading hitter last season while playing shortstop and third. He banged out 38 hits in 98 times at bat for a .388 average.

Rounding out the Cardinal lineup will be Ron Smith behind the plate, Tom Riutta on first, Don O'Connor on second, Campbell at short and Doug Waldron at third.

Only one position in the outfield is now definite, with John Bradley returning in center field. He was a weak hitter last season, hitting only .172, but was strong on defensive.

AXA On Top After Dropping Airmen, Dorm

Lambda Chi Alpha took over the lead in the intramural baseball league this past week with 14-11 and 10-1 wins over the dorm and ROTC.

Bill Meirer was the winning pitcher in the first contest against the dorm while Temme Patterson pitched a four hitter against ROTC.

The airmen took a 1-0 lead in the first inning and held on until ICA pushed across seven runs in the fourth inning to take a 7-1 lead. Dick Stagmaier headed the big fourth frame with a homerun to deep left-center field.

From there on in it was Lambda Chi as Patterson shut the airmen out the last six innings on two hits.

ChiO, LCA Capture Musical Madness Title

By Bill Balzbaugh
Cresecent Staff Writer

Musical Madness, the all-campus variet yshow last Monday and Tuesday nights at St. Benedict's Auditorimm, was climaxed with the presentation of awards to Chi O and Lambda organizations by Coordinator Phil Price.

Nora Fisher, weary from long hours spent practicing her group, readily accepted the trophy. Chi Omega had won the best production award for 1961. The winning act was titled, "The Ageless City of Paris." It was a dual victory for Miss Fisher as she received the "best director's plaque."

Lambda Chi Alpha captured first place in the men's division with their version of "The Riddle." The skit, co-directed by Dave Lundmark and Ron Allen, was based on "music from the cradle to the grave."

Second place in the men's division went to Sigma Phi Epsilon. The Sig Ep presentatio, directed by Richard Tschopp, was a parody of the development of music on the planet Pranus. The closeness of the judging was evident in that the third place SAE's were but one point distant from second place.

Beta Sigma Omicron copped the runner-up trophy in the women's division. The Betas were directed by Carole Grimm and Janet Berry, and their skit was titled "Life Around the Pyramids."

The judges for the show were Dr. Emil G. Ahnell, head of the fine arts department at Kentucky Wesleyan College; John Massey of Henderson; and Carl Ritt, William Gumberts, and William Teague of Evansville.

Following the finale, Coordinator Price introduced the people behind the scenes and presented Judy Lockwood, Social Director, with a corsage. Miss Lockwood comments: "The show was a big success all the way around. We had a large crowd, the show turned out well financially, and I was especially pleased with the enthusiasm and hard work which the cast displayed."

A bright spot in the show was certainly the fine job done by the two emcees, Gary Seiler and Don Hess. Their witty jokes and overall handling was superb.

Phi Mu Alpha Dance Band played both nights and the Sigma Alpha Iota Chorus sang several selections while the judges were tabulating their reports.

2 Students Get Graduate Assistantship

FOWLER

A graduate assistship of $2,950 to Stanford University has been granted Larry Fowler, it was reported this week by Max Casler, associate professor of engineering.

Fowler, senior in electrical engineering, expects to work on his master's this coming school year while under this one-third teaching assistant's fellowship.

As one of the outstanding June graduates, Fowler had more than one attractive scholarship. He has offered assistantships at Purdue and Illinois. He was accepted tentatively at these universities and as well at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The 1956 Oakland City graduate eventually plans to obtain a doctorate in microwaves.

In addition to making the Dean's List 11 consecutive times, until being absent last quarter under the cooperative engineering training program, Fowler has made Laurels, campus scholastic honorary. He also has been named to Sigma Pi Sigma, physics honorary, and Phi Beta Chi, science honorary.

HARBISON

Donald Harbison, EC senior, has received a graduate assistantship at Indiana U. beginning this fall.

An A student who has made the Dean's List five times, Harbison will work in the area of business management while studying toward a master's degree in business administration.

The grant covers tuition and other fees amounting to $800.

Harbison will gratuate in June. He is married and has a 10-month-old son, Mark.

Campus Honors Given May Day

The dismissal of students from classes at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, May 2, officially begins May Honors Day for the Evansville College campus.

Freed from classes for the remainder of the day, students will be invited to attend the day's festivities. The program will be presented on the front campus.

Highlighting the day will be the crowning of the May Queen at 11. Nominated by each sorority on campus, the candidates must hold a senior standing with a 2.5 index or better. The queen is elected by popular senior vote. Candidates include Linda Perkins, AOPi; Georganne Knittle, Chi Omega; Karen Brizius, Phi Mu; and June Bartlett, Beta Sigs. Mike Spence, SGA president, will crown this year's May Queen.

Preceding the queen crowning, the ROTC will hold a review at 10:10, followed by the senior queen processional at 10:50.

Presentation of honors by campus organizations will follow the coronation. A picnic lunch will be held for everyone interested at noon on the ROTC building verandia. Students with an activity ticket will be served free of cost. Adults will be charged 75 cents per person.

From 1 to 2 o'clock the Athletic Department will present activities for students on the front campus. The festivities will begin with a chariot race around the circle and will continue through similar activities.

Mrs. Hyde will host mothers, faculty, and students at an open house at the President's home from 2 to 3 o'clock. The dormitories, sorority suites and fraternity houses will also be open to visitors from 3 to 4.

To complete the day, the faculty men will challenge the senior boys in a softball game in the first diamond across Walnut Street.

EARLY ENROLLMENT SET FOR MAY 8, 9

Students will be thinking about their summer and fall schedules next week as they prepare for preliminary registration Monday and Tuesday, May 8-9.

Dr. H. Owen Long, registrar, has announced that upperclassmen will meet at 10 a.m. May 8 with their advisors, and freshmen will be counseled the following day at 10 o'clock.

Room assignments will be posted on the registrar's bulletin board.

Faculty, Staff Contributions Top $25,000

Dr. James E. Morlock, head of the College family division for the building campaign, has announced the latest faculty-staff contribution amounting to $25,110.

Nearly 100 per cent participation is being received from the college departments in the campaign for the new Fine Arts Building and Physical Education Department. Dr. Morlock says he has hopes of completing soon the solicitation of the faculty-staff, including maintenance and cafeteria employees.

The latest overall total reported for the College building fund is $713,000. This figure does not include the faculty-staff contributions.

Over 700 volunteer workers are helping with solicitation for the building fund according to Melvin J. Binford, campaign counsel. Numerous meetings for the volunteer workers were held this week, including the women's division, the commercial division, and the industrial division.

Crescent Getting Collegiate Digest

The Crescent will have a bonus for its readers this month when it distributes Collegiate Digest, a supplement for college newspapers. The Digests will be delivered along with the Crescents on Fridays.

The May issue of Collegiate Digest is included in this week's paper. This will become a regular feature of the Crescent.

Collegiate Digest, a roto magazine which will carry pictures and stories of the college world, expects to be subscribed to by 85 of the top college newspapers in the country.

Another Supplement

As another feature, the Crescent next week will include a supplement on the coming College Theatre production. Look for this insert in the May 5 issue.

AFROTC Plans Honor Day

ROTC Honor Day will be held during the Leadership Laboratory May 19. Ribbons will be presented to the members of the Band, Drill Team, and the Drill Rodeo Flight. The Convair Cadet Award will also be given.

For the first time Evansville College will have pre-summer training for those going to summer camp.

EC Student Pastor's Life Never Dull

"A Day With Chester" might typify this picture series describing the Sunday life of a pretheology student at EC. From the standpoint of Nick Wilkins, Crescent art editor, who photographed the sequence last Sunday, it was "quite a day," trying to keep up with the fast-flying and ever-moving Chester Mayflower.

By Gayle Nunn
Crescent Staff Writer

Chester greets his congregation (insert first from left) after a church service. As a typical student pastor, Chester makes the greeting an important part of his service.

The first Sunday Chester started preaching, he went to the wrong church first, which meant that he then had to drive 12 miles to the correct one. By then he was late for the service and still had to return to the first church for the regular service. It also seems that he tore off the car's muffler, leaving no doubt by the noise as to when he arrived for the service.

Chester makes regular visits with bis parishioners (insert second from right, top) both as a friend and minister.

Working with the youth fellowship (insert first from right) assures that he never has a dull moment. During a chili supper recently, Chester sat down with his plate and found a beer bottle staring him in the face. Since this is an unusual practice in the church, he was relieved to find that instead of intoxicating beverage, the bottle contained water.

Such is the life of a student pastor.

Others serving as student pastors from the Evansville College campus are: Alvin Mattox, Mt. Vernon North Methodist Parish; Clyde Miller, Cynthiana Methodist; Edward Miller, Caborn Methodist; Chester Thompson, Washington Methodist Circuit, Vincennes District.

Paul Ayers, Shiloh Methodist; David Eis, Glendale Methodist; Charles Flory, Walnut Grove Methodist, Vincennes District; Elwood Hull, Trinity AME. Henderson; Hoyt Brown, Union Methodist Charge; William Campbell, Poole Baptist, Poole, Kentucky; Robert Kirkpatrick, Boonville Methodist.

Walter Neal, Mt. Vernon South Methodist; Thomas Tupper, assistant pastor, St. Lucas E and R; Jack Wallace, Branchville Methodist Charge; David Rogers, I and E.U.B., Decker; John Beatty, Yankeetown.

Applications for staff positions on the Crescent for next year are being accepted in the Journalism Office, 0 144. These positions are editor, advertising manager and business manager. Interested persons are asked to apply immediately.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

By FRANK HASKETT

You may recall my making mention of the canceling of the scheduled "pops" concert in my column last week. The reason as you will recall was because beer was to be served, and some of the main complaints were forwarded by members of the Evansville College staff.

Well, that sounds all very nice and wonderful if you happen to be a good Christian teetotaler, but what do you say when the college turns around and accepts $500 worth of chemistry books from Sterling Brewers, Inc., and then has the audacity to not put the donors' name in the books. Websters Collegiate has a good definition or two to cover this type of thing, but I think I would like to know why we accepted this "tainted" money in the first place? And, since we did accept the money, why didn't we put "Donated by Sterling Brewers" on the inside cover? This is the practice with all other books that are donated. Does this speak well of a Methodist Christian college? I think you, my fellow students, can answer that.

And then there was Savannah, Georgia, where a man named H. A. Hightower ran his car into a bridge abutment while crossing the Savannah River. No, he wasn't drinking, he was trying to dodge an oncoming vehicle that was in the middle of the road. Anyway, while he was sitting there trying to figure out what to do, someone ran into his rear end.

About that time he got out of his car and jumped over the railing into the river. A quick-thinking driver threw him an innertube which he climbed into. He floated on down the river a mile or so, until he had cooled off sufficiently to decide to swim to shore and come back for his car. When he arrived at his car, it was ticketed. As the police led him off, he was heard to mumble, "No use worrying about it, nothing is going to turn out all right anyway."

Overheard at the Metropolitan Opera House; "It's erummy, but I love it. It's so wonderfully stuffy."

I understand I was incorrect in relating that members of the Music Department helped to "kill" the "pops" concert.

Conservative Movement Spreads

The conservative viewpoint in politics is gaining momentum on the college campuses across the nation.

A conservative accepts the need for change and progress but stresses prudence in the process. Sen. Barry Goldwater (D-Ariz.), one of the nation's foremost advocates of conservatism, is in constant demand as a campaign speaker, and usually draws large crowds and enthusiasm at almost every college where he appears.

"The apparent resurgence of conservatism on American college campuses," says Dean Francis E. Mineta of Cornell University, "is really only one phase of a general resurgence in the college and universities of interest in political and international questions." Students all over the county are taking more interest in politics and conservatism is a long ignored approach.

The circulation of a new monthly magazine, Campus Conservative, has as its aim to put across the views of conservatives on the college campuses. The magazine, staffed by students from every school in Mississippi, has spread in popularity as far away as Michigan State.

Criticism of the trend is widespread. Carrol Hawkins, associate professor of political science at Michigan State, asserts that the conservatism practiced by most students is a "mishmash" of views, while another critic felt that the group was attempting to oppose progress, rather that place stress on prudence as the true conservative does.

From Yale, Dean William DeVane reports the "conservatives are more vocal than usual but the movement is largely instinctive, rather than rational."

Moores Hill College . . .

By Sally Chapman
Crescent Staff Writer

Seven years after the founding of Moores Hill College in southeastern Indiana, the dark days of the Civil War in 1961 clouded the history of our country exactly a century ago in our nation's history.

Thus Evansville College is more than 100 years old, dating from the tiny school founded at Moores Hill that became Evansville College in 1919 on the site of the present campus.

The Rev. Mr. Adams was first president of the college. A native of Campton, N. H., who studied at Newberry Academy in Vermont and graduated from Vesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., he taught school in New Hampshire for two years and then became principal of the Wilmington Seminary a few miles south of Moores Hill in Dearborn County. From this county seminar he came to Moores Hill College in 1856.

With the advent of the Civil War, when many of the students were enlisting in the army, President Samuel R. Adams said in a public meeting, "Boys, if you are going, I will too."

He was commissioned a chaplain in the Twenty-sixth Regiment, Indiana Volunteers. Due to frail health, Moores Hill's first president died of exposure and disease in December of 1862.

In a letter written for the "Melange," the college annual published in 1895, President Adams' widow recalled an incident of the War years, a commencement day, when members of the graduating class took their seats on the platform.

The women were all there, but the boys all who could pass muster, had gone to the front.

Their examinations had been passed, their orations written, ready for this day. As the names were called, the girls read their orations and at the calling of an absent soldier's name, one of the girls would read his oration.

Mrs. Adams said that their were few dry eyes that day.

John A. Maxwell, later a professor in the college, was a student at Moores Hill College in the early Civil War days. He reminisced of his student days saying that patriotism flamed up in the college halls. A home guard company was organized among the college boys, commanded by Professor Kidd, who, naturally, they called "Captain Kidd." The boys had uniforms of cotton cloth trimmed with red. Their weapons were broadswords made of hickory wood.

The first call for 300,000 volunteers took nearly all of the boys of proper age; consequently, the college then became little more than a girl's school.

Maxwell joined the army and found that President Adams was his chaplain. He considered that no other chaplain in the entire Union Army had a greater influence on the solider-boys than did Dr. Adams.

In 1862 the trustees chose Robert F. Brewington, a Moores Hill teacher, to succeed Dr. Adams as president.

Soon after his election to the presidency of the college, he too resigned to enter the army. Professor William O. Pierce was selected to follow Dr. Brewington in the presidency, but he also went to the front, leaving the college in the charge of Mrs. Adams. After being wounded during an early military action and discharged, President Pierce resumed his duties at the college until June, 1864.

President Pierce's administration closed a turbulent era in the life of Moores Hill College.

Let's rebel against something. Let's be individuals. No more bowing to the demands of a modern society — throw off the bonds of prejudices taught to us by our elders.

How's that for rabble-rousing? (The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily represent those of the Crescent or Evansville College . . . Ed.)

The vogue today is to be different. This has been pounded into our heads until the only non-conformity today is conformity. The real individuals today are seldom heard from or seen. They go about their business not worrying about being different and thus become the real individualists.

We want to rebel in order to learn, and perhaps this is the beginning. But most of us are fighting a preconceived opinion about something, not realizing that the original premise might be incorrect.

An example of this is the current trend to belittle organized religion. In this column we attempted to spotlight the so-called atheists, agnostics and people with negative prejudices. The very people we were trying to "kid" were the ones who reacted in violent opposition, not understanding that narrow concepts in religion constitute a major factor in driving young people away.

We talked with the pastor of a local church recently and he said he would covet an invitation to talk with a group of college students who intelligently doubted their relation to God or who were professed atheists or agnostics. We feel this pastor has the right approach to dissipating some of the clouds in misconceptions about religion.

In our opinion, most of us rebel against a hard, strict, legalized version of Christianity. One that was interpreted for us by our parents. We do not conclude that parents are wrong necessarily; rather we feel that the ability to have children does not qualify them to raise and train a human being.

We request clear, honest, intelligent investigation of our prejudices to determine if they are correct because of fact and reason, or if we consider them right because they are what someone taught us to believe.

There must be a time for us to evaluate our opinions. Why not now? We shouldn't let someone else think for us forever.

This column hasn't done much this quarter, but should one person ponder the universal problems of mankind and of course his own) maybe there will be a reason for its existence.

Should anyone as, I do.

Journalists Invited To Wisconsin Meet

The journalism section has received an invitation to the Student Editorial Affairs Conference August 16-20 at the University of Wisconsin.

Editors from throughout the country meet to discuss issues confronting the student press. Speakers from the professional press and education will address the group and discuss the importance of the editor and his problems.

The conference precedes the National Student Congress of the United States National Student Association, which is a workshop for the exchange of ideas, techniques and programs on student problems.

The record of drivers between the ages of 18-25 improved during 1960 but they still were involved in nearly 28 per cent of all fatal accidents — twice what their numbers would warrant.

Peace Corps Members May Be Deferred

Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, is flexible enough to provide deferment for the members of the Peace Corps without amendment of any kind, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System.

The power to defer registrants who perform functions in the national health, safety, or interest now exists.

The question has been raised as to the status of registrants who enroll in the Peace Corps, after their return from this assignment. This involves several things — the age of the registrant when he returns, his physical condition with reference to his acceptability for military service, his marital status, the regulations which exist when he's released from the corps, and whether on his return from service with the Peace Corps he engages in any activity which permits him to be deferred.

That the registrant has belonged to the Peace Corps will not prevent him from qualifying for further deferment, the same as any other registrant who is engaged in activities vital to the nation's health or safety.

Perfume — The use of this powerful "entrancer" is as old as the oldest records of ancient civilizations. It is mentioned in the Bible (myrrh and frankincense) and perhaps, made history with Cleopatra, Catherine de Medici, and Mary of Scotland.

Surrounded by the various fragrances of her wares, Miss Annabelle Taylor of DeJong's reports about perfumes: The ingredients for perfumes come from all over the world in the form of herbs, roots, mosses, attar of flowers, animal fats, and the expensive, almost non-existent ambergris.

The principal flower oils are: mimosa, tuberose, cassie, lavender from France, violet from Sicily, attar of roses and the most expensive — jasmine.

These oils can be obtained by steam distillation or by pressing the oils out of the petals in hot paraffin.

Relating what the French say about us, Miss Taylor says that most American women do not know how to wear purfume. It should be applied lavishly — on hems, bat crowns, lingerie, and on the inside of the wrist and elbow where the warmth of the body will diffuse the scent.

Of primary importance, use perfume, as the oils tend to turn rancid when exposed to light or heat.

HINTS FOR SCENTS —

—On those hot, sticky days, be lavish with dusting powder after a cool bath or shower. Your clothes will be more comfortable longer.

—For that special date, set your hair with cologne. Your curls will dry quickly, fragrantly.

—To relieve tired feet, use a cotton pad saturated with ice-cold cologne and rub it on ankles, feet, between toes and up the back of the legs to stimulate circulation and reduce body temperature.

—Nothing refreshes like a fragrant, frothy bubble bath.

—For a lift any time during the day, splash cologne on arms, brow. Use it to massage tense muscles at the back of the neck.

—To send sweet messages clean your telephone receivers with cologne-saturated cotton.

—For the unusual, spray cologne on unlit light bulbs. When turned on, the heat will diffuse the scent.

—Use a capful of cologne in the use it.

Until next week . . . This is the latest.

Sports Spotlight

By TEMME PATTERSON

Since the majority of Evansville College students seem to be St. Louis fans, let's go back and take another look at the National League.

Last week the Dick Dunkel of the Crescent said it would go something like this: 1. Los Angeles 2. San Francisco 3. Pittsburgh 4. Milwaukee 5. St. Louis 6. Philadelphia 7. Cincinnati 8. Chicago.

Los Angeles (who by the way won the league and World Series two years ago) heads the list with San Francisco a close second. There was a toss-up for 3rd, 4th, and 5th, but I put St. Louis in the Number 5 spot.

Let's compare Solly Hemus' crew to Los Angeles. Pitching staff first.

The main reason for the Cardinal success last year was a fellow named Ernie Broglio. The sharp right-hander surprised the whole league as he posted a 21-9 record, tops in the majors. Broglio was also second in ERA with a 2.75 slate behind Mike McCormick of San Francisco. As of Wednesday, Broglio is posting a 1-2 record, being shelled real good by San Francisco and Los Angeles in his last two starts.

Larry Jackson the only other Cardinal pitcher to win in double figures last year, broke his jaw in spring training and hasn't seen action as of yet. Jackson, another right-hander might be just a little gun shy when he starts action.

About the only bright spot on the Cardinal staff is Lindy McDaniel who posted a 12-4 record along with a 2.09 ERA. (He didn't pitch enough innings to compete for the ERA championship.

The rest of the St. Louis staff goes something like this: Bob Gibson, 3-6 last season; Bob Miller, 4-3; Ray Sadecki, 9-9; Curt Simmons, 7-3, and Al Cicotte and Mickey McDermott, who weren't in the majors last season.

Now let's look at L.A. with three pitchers in the top eight of the league in ERA. Don Drysdale, 2.84; Stan Williams 3.00; and Johony Podres 3.08. These three along with Larry Sherry won 57 games last year. Roger Craig and Sandy Koufax, both $25,000 players had bad years but combined for a 16-16 record.

Ed Roebuck, a top bull-pen ace with the Dodgers last season combined a 2.77 earned run average and a 8-3 record for one of his top seasons in the majors. (Roebuck is on the disabled list with Jackson this season.)

With Williams, Drysdale, Podres Koufax and Craig, the Dodgers have five front line regulars compared to the Cardinals' Broglio as of date. When Jackson gets ready they'll have two. From here it is like Harry Caray says. "Who'll pitch tomorrow night."

The hitting edge also goes to the Dodgers as they had three men in the top ten last season. Norm Larker was second in the league with a .323 average. Wally Moon, who is having a tremendous year with seven home runs in his first eight games was sixth in the league last season with a .299 average. Maury Wills was tenth with a .295 slate.

The only Cardinal in the top ten was Ken Boyer in fifth place with a .304 average.

The big asset to the Los Angeles cause is a rookie named Willie Davis who hit .346 with Spokane in the Pacific Coast League last season and is playing regular centerfield for the Dodgers at the present. He hit .318 in 22 games for L.A. at the close of last season.

A year's experience behind big Frank Howard and also — Tommy Davis and the Dodgers are set for another penant.

The Cardinals have fair hitting headed by Boyer and Joe Cunningham, but that's about as far as it goes. Daryl Spencer is better than average but he led the league in errors last season at his shortstop position. (L.A. was tops in the league in fielding, St. Louis was 6th.)

If a pair of left-handed pitchers can come through for the Cards to go along with right-handers Broglio and Jackson, the Cards would have a shot at the penant.

Baseball Aces Hold 0-5 Record

Evansville's baseball team continued its losing ways Monday by dropping two games to the Ball State Cardinals, 4-0 and 6-4.

In the first contest it was the 5-hit, shutout pitching of Bill Nixon that stopped the Aces. Losing pitcher for Evansville was Gene Brown, whose record now stands at 0-3.

Evansville took a 3-1 lead in the second game and held it for six innings before John Bradley, Cardinal centerfielder, slammed a bases-loaded triple to put Ball State on top for good.

Ball State used four pitchers to hold the Aces down. Walt Henry pitched the entire game for Evansville and absorbed his second defeat of the season against no wins. In losing, Henry held the victors to only six hits.

Top hitter for Evansville was John Aramowicz, who banged out three singles in four trips to the plate. Rightfielder Ron Folz got two hits in two attempts.

Bradley was the leading hitter in the second game with his big triple, but second baseman Don O'Connor also drove in two runs with a double.

Relief pitcher Roger Casterline was the winning pitcher for Ball State.

These games were the first conference contests the Aces have played this season.

Next conference games will be a double-header at DePauw tomorrow. Evansville is playing a non-conference game today at Kentucky Wesleyan.

The Aces will not play another home game until May 16, when they return home to meet Kentucky Wesleyan. Evansville will play seven road games before the Wesleyan contest.

Golfers Lose Three; Play Louisville Next

Ron Wannemuhler fired a 74 at Terre Haute Friday to take co-medalist honors in a four-team golf meet, but the Aces dropped all three matches.

Butler stopped the Aces 11½ to 3½, while Indiana State and Valparaiso each whipped Evansville 10-5.

The other Evansville scores were Larry Galloway 83, Jack Mentzel 88 and Keith Kuhlenschmidt 93.

The Aces' next match will be Monday at Louisville. Their next conference match will be a three-team meet at DePauw.

ΔΧΔ Scores Double Victory

Lambda Chi Alpha scored a double golf victory last week to start the first intramural golf season held here in several years.

The LCA men topped Tau Kappa Epsilon 4-0 as Bob Carter, Temme Patterson, Bill Meier and Delbert Pace shut out the TKE's.

ROTC forfeited its match to Lambda Chi in the other golf competition last week. The other fraternities begin action on the greens this week.

Sig Eps, LCA Tennis Leaders

Lambda Chi Alpha scored a 2-1 tennis victory over ROTC last week to take over first place in the tennis standings. The win moves the LCA record to 2-0 for the season.

The only other unbeaten team is Sigma Phi Epsilon with a 1-0 slate. The Sig Eps play LCA Thursday afternoon.

ROTC Scores 7-6 Win Over Sig Eps In Intramural Play

The ROTC intramural softball team took an early 7-3 lead and then held a late Sig Ep bid to win the only game played last week, 7-6.

Winning pitcher for the airmen was Mike Heininger, while Larry Collins suffered the defeat for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The victory improved the ROTC record to 1-1, with an early loss to LCA. The Sig Ep loss was its first of the season.

Next week's action will find the undefeated SAE's meeting the Sig Eps on Monday and the league leading Lambda Chi's playing the Tekes on Tuesday.

LCA is currently heading the league with a 2-0 record; they have stopped the ROTC and Dorm.

Ball State Swimmers Capture ICC Crown

The Ball State Cardinals copped the ICC swim crown last week with an astounding 122½ points, overpowering their nearest opponent by 50 points.

DePauw placed second with 72½ points, followed by Indiana State with 50 and Valparaiso with 31.

Butler, Evansville and St. Joseph's did not compete.

EC Is Sixth In ICC All Sports Race

Due to a lack of facilities, interest, and teams to compete in the minor sports at Evansville College, the Aces' athletic teams rank sixth in the race for the ICC all-sports award.

Leading the conference after five sports have been completed is Ball State with 26½ points. The Cardinals are followed closely by Indiana State with 24 and DePauw with 23.

The Ball State teams took firsts in cross-country, swimming, and wrestling, fifth in basketball and tied for fifth in football. Under the new scoring system in the conference points are awarded 7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for first through seventh place finishes respectively. By this system a team can score just as high by getting first in a minor sport as in a major sport. The Cardinals are now ahead by their power in the smaller sports.

Evansville did not enter cross-country, wrestling, and swimming. If a school sends a team it will receive one point for just participating. If Evansville had sent teams to these three meets, the Aces would have at least three more points.

Butler, which won the title four times in the last five years and six of the last nine years the award has been in existence, ranks fourth with 18 points. The Bulldogs are followed by Valparaiso with 16½.

Evansville is next with 11 points. Six were scored in football and five in basketball. The Aces are followed by St. Joseph with 9.

Golf, tennis, baseball and track are the remaining conference sports that will determine the winner of the all-sports title.

Olmsted Will Head Business Managers

Ralph Olmsted, EC business manager, this week was elected president of the Central Association of College and University Business Officers at its meeting in Kansas City.

He has been vice-president of the organization the past two years. The organization met the first of this week to honor the 50th year of its founding.

Olmsted has been one of the long-time staff members of the college since his graduation with a B.A. here in 1923.

He returned as assistant to the president in 1925 following two years of teaching English at Cynthiana, Ind., and Central (Evansville) high schools.

While a student he became the first editor of the Crescent. Later, in the summer of 1924, he was telegraph editor of The Evansville Courier.

For the past 33 years he has worked in business management at Evansville College. Assuming the title of executive secretary in 1928, Olmsted became business English Department.

manager and treasurer in 1948.

Mrs. Olmsted teaches in the Senior Meeting

Seniors are requested to meet in the Great Hall of the Student Union Building Monday, May 8, at 10 a.m. by class president Jerry Clark.

Dorms Full For Fall

Applications for admission in the fall quarter to Evansville College are up 40 to 50 per cent according to Mr. Thornton Patburg, Admissions Counselor.

The two girls dorms, Moore Hall and Franklin Hall, are full now and the rest of the freshmen girls are on a waiting list. Hughes Hall and Havada Hall for boys still have several openings.

Mr. Patburg said that as soon as any cancellations are received for rooms in the girls dorms, the rooms will be filled from the waiting list. All out-of-town girls must live in college dormitories while attending Evansville College.

Five Faculty Members Promoted

Five Evansville College faculty members were promoted by the Board of Trustees of the college at the spring meeting. The changes become effective next fall.

Dr. Paul E. Grabill, associate professor, was advanced to professor of English. Dr. Virginia L. Grabill, associate professor, was advanced to professor of English.

Miss Virginia Anderson, instructor, was promoted to assistant professor of Secretarial Science. Mr. Robert F. Martin, instructor, was advanced to assistant professor of Economics (Management), and Mrs. Edwin P. Smith was advanced to assistant professor of Nursing from instructor.

Dr. Virginia Grabill is also the director of women's counseling.

Students Visit Eli Lilly Corp.

Fourteen chemistry students from here, were guests of Eli Lilly and Company at Indianapolis May 3, to see the theories they have studied at college put to use in industry.

Every year Ely Lilly invites the chemistry departments of several colleges to tour their plants and laboratories in Indianapolis to give the students a better idea of what the future holds for them after graduation.

An inspection of the research laboratories, pharmaceutical production departments and a film of the Biological Laboratories at Greenfield, Indiana, were among the events of the day. The control lab where such drugs as insulin are tested for purity and quality was also one of the main points of interest.

Along with Evansville College, Goshen and Hanover Colleges, Valparaiso University and Western Kentucky State College were guests at a luncheon in the Lilly Cafeteria.

Because of the fact that there will be no regular issue of the Crescent next week, we wish ot announce that preliminary registration for the summer and fall quarters will begin this Monday, May 8. Upperclassmen will see their counselors Monday; freshmen will meet Tuesday at 10:00.

Drama Dept. Offers J.B.

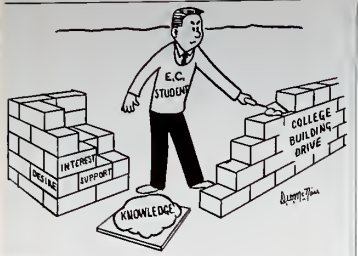
The long-awaited production of "J.B." is scheduled to begin Wednesday, May 10.

Sam Smiley, head of the drama department here, will play the part of Nichels, representing Satan, and Dr. Paul Grabill plays the part of Zuss, representing God. The student lead in the play is Dave Shelton, playing J.B. Janet Brashier has the feminine lead as J.B.'s wife Sarah.

Others in the play are listed in the folder enclosed in this issue of the Crescent. A resume of the play is also included in the folder.

All seats are reserved for every performance. Prices are $1.25 for adults and $.75 for children. Students are admitted on their Activity Tickets.

Dramatic as the play, "J. B." is this scene in which Sam Smiley and Paul Grabill, as rivals for the will of a man, kibitz the man-wife goings-on of David Shelton and Janet Brashier. This Pulitzer Prize-winning play will be presented by College Theatre here next week.



Editorial

Student Participation Needed In $1,525,00 Building Fund Drive

Every institution, organization and group has weaknesses. Evansville College is no exception.

There are factors that need clarifying, changing and adding to. The policy of this newspaper has been to point the factors out and at the same time provide, as much as possible, a solution for the situation.

This attitude of "fault-finding" does not represent antagonism toward the college. Rather, because we feel a part of the college in interest is manifested by concern about its administrative functions and its teaching responsibilities.

We need to be aware that this institution represents the educational environment during this important period of our life and the ideas and friends formed here will endure throughout our flash in this pan called earth.

The $1,525,000 Evansville College Building Fund Drive is under way and the students have yet to formulate a plan whereby they may help. The importance of this college to the students already here and those to come cannot be fully realized by us yet. However, common sense tells that we must participate in this financial undertaking.

Dr. Hyde recently told us some of the reasons for the needs for new buildings. He said, "The administration, faculty and buildings here at Evansville College are incidental — the students are the important factors." He added, "This college is here to provide a strong education for the students and the better facilities we have the better this goal will be accomplished."

There is a need for student participation in this project and we feel something should be done about providing a way to help.

Grill Goes Begging Fri. Nights

An effort has been made to provide an entertainment area for the students here — The Indian, the food serving establishment in the basement of the Student Union Building, has been open from 7:30 to 11 the last two Friday nights and the crowds have been something less than spectacular — they were non-existent.

Perhaps ten couples put in brief appearances and then left. This venture represents an effort on the part of the Student Union officials to cooperate with students in providing entertainment.

The jukebox is available as well as food of every description.

How can students ask for recognition as adults when they ask for concessions such as more interest in student entertainment, from various departments of the college and them when help is offered, abandon it.

The Indian will not be open this Friday night because of prior commitments but officials tell us that Friday, May 12 the grill will be open for the last time if no larger crowd appears than before.

To Discuss Methodist Theology

Dr. Samuel Carruth, Trinity Methodist Church senior pastor, will discuss "Does Methodism Have a Theology?" at the coming Sunday evening meeting of the Methodist Student Movement.

The succeeding week's program will be led by Sam Smiley, EC dramatics instructor, and will concern "Further Reflections on J.B."

Sunday's program will be based upon an article by Robert Newton, Jr., in the December issue of Motive magazine.

Invitations Mailed For Pre-graduation Senior Reception

Invitations are out to the 285 seniors to attend the pre-graduation reception given by the Alumni Association on Friday evening, May 19.

This fourth annual alumni-sponsored get-together will be an informal open house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Newman on Southeast First.

Invitations carry a sketch of this historically significant home built during Civil War days.

Lending itself to the occasion is the decorative scheme of the dining room. Shades of purple and white woodwork complement EC colors.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

By FRANK HASKETT

The 4th Annual Indiana Jazz Festival is only seven weeks off, but this year preparations seem to be a little more in order. From the enthusiasm of the presentations of plans by Hal Lobree at the President'st Roundtable several weeks ago, this could prove to be a phenomenal weekend. He has every national club, fratrenity, order, etc., in Evansville writing their other chapters inviting them to come to the Valley of Opportunity. He compared the possibilities to that of an Indiana "Ft. Lauderdale," which sounded a wee bit far fetched at first. After listening awhile it all sounds very possible. For instance: Every minute of the three days will be planned with free activities for those who so desire, as well as the Olympic Pool and camping facilities gratis.

He is attempting to work out free housing in fraternity houses, dorms, private homes, the Armory, etc. He will have a list of all motels, hotels, restaurants, etc., with the rates and "specials" for our visitors' convenience. This should give you an idea of what sort of planning is going into this year's festival.

The main difference I can see is that we not only want these nomad college men and women, but that we are planning on them. Ft. Lauderdale, take heed! This should be a swinger.

May 10-13 at the Administration Building Auditorium is the date and place for the final shot by the Evansville College Theatre, and it promises to be the best of the season.

The Pulitzer Prize winner "J.B.," by Archibald MacLeish is the play that has been chosen. The theme is a paraphrase of the Biblical story of Job, in modern terms. With veteran and talented actors such as Dr. Paul Grabill and Sam Smiley, along with students Janet Brashier and David Shelton, it would seem to be the best bet for the season's smash. And remember, fellow campi dwellers, that this rare treat is all free. Don't miss this one.

Summer Employment Offered Students

A new program, called Students For Summer Employment, is being offered to help college students in the eastern half of the U. S. find productive jobs during the summer vacation.

Affiliated with the Student Scholarship Service, the student's names and qualifications will be presented to a guaranteed 1000 prospective employers.

The student must specify the desired area of work and the geographic region in which he or she would like to work. A registration fee of $1 or $2 is the only required commission for the service rendered.

The available jobs cover three fields of work: the resort industry of the northern Atlantic coastal states, field work in engineering or science, and work on a cruise ship which sails the Caribbean, Mediterranean, and western European ports for eleven weeks. This last area is open to male students only.

Students interested in the program's help should send name, address and registration immediately for a registration application to Students For Summer Employment, Box 2092, Trenton 7E, N.J.

Crescent Gets First Class In ACP Critical Survey

Associated College Press cited the Evansville College Crescent as a First Class weekly college newspaper during the first semester of this school year — 1961-61.

Entered in the all-American critical service, The Crescent received 3,100 out of a possible 4,000 eredit points. A total of three issues were scrutinized in the judging.

Crescent photography received a total score of 110 points, a superior rating. Pictures were praised as "inventive, bright, and interesting."

Sports writing also received a superior rating, with 150 points. Sports coverage received 150 total credits.

Leads, style, and headlines were rated as superior, with 150, 130, and 190 points respectively.

Editorials received 100 points, and editorial page feature stories were given thirty points over the 100 mark. Copyreading and Interviews also capured honor ratings.

ACP maintains that, "Every effort is made to judge publications on the effectiveness with which they serve their individual colleges. The paper is judged in comparison with other college papers — not in comparison with some mythical "perfect" paper, nor with metropolitan publications whose purposes and techniques differ in many respects."

The stage is set for the annual Gay Queen Coronation Ceremony. The candidates and their attendants are being surveyed by an appreciative audience as they await the decision. The full skirt of chiffon over satin is also decorated with appliques. Pink heels complete her costume . . . Linda's Honor Court attendant, Mary Brown, selected a ballerina length formal of varying shades of blue ruffled net. A blue satin summerbund circles the waist.

June Bartlett, Beta Sig candidate is also wearing a pink gown. The strapless bodice is shirred net; the ballerina skirt, pink net ruffled in a whirled design. She is wearing white sandles . . . Lambda Chi, SAE Top Intramural Baseball League

Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Alpha Epsilon forged into a two-way tie for first place in the intramural baseball standings this week with both squads holding 3-0 records.

SAE behind no-hit pitching by Don Hess, stopped Sigma Phi Epsilon, 8-3, before taking a 11-1 verdict over the Dorm crew. SAE scored its eight runs on only four hits but Sig Ep pitcher Larry Collins walked 12 men. Hess held the Sig Eps hitless for the seven inning frame although he walked 13 men.

ROTC scored its second victory of the season by defeating the Dorm 11-1. The Airmen scored their 11 runs on eight hits and 14 errors by the Dorm squad. Mike Heininger and Fred Bosse led the ROTC with two hits apiece. The Airmen's loss was a 10-1 defeat by ICA.

In Wednesday's game the league -leading Lambda Chi Alpha men scored an easy 15-5 victory over Tau Kappa Epsilon. The victory was the third in a row for last year's intramural all-sports champs. Ron Fuhrman and Steve Sanford led the ICA hitting with two safeties each, while Temme Patterson pitched three hit ball.

Steve Walton and Ron Ruminer both saw action on the mound for TKE as the ICA men set a year's high with 15 runs in only five frames.

SAE has two games remaining, the first against ROTC and the finale against arch-rival ICA. The Lambda Chi men also have two contests left, against the Sig Eps and SAE. The ICA-SAE game to be played May 24, should decide the intramural baseball crown.

Intramural Golf Match To Be Played May, 13

The intramural golf championship will be decided by one big match to be played Saturday, May 13, at Fendrich Golf Course.

The newly added intramural sport was to be played off in individual matches, but due to playing conditions and scheduling time the Intramural Athletic Committee decided to play it off in one day.

All four fraternities plus the Dorm and ROTC will compete as before. The winner will be decided by the low team score with four men from each organization playing 18 holes each.

3rd Cox Heads Evansville's 1961 Roundball Frosh

Freshman basketball prospects for Evansville College next season are now taking shape and the Aces already have formed the nucleus for an outstanding squad.

Backcourt standouts indicating their intention of enrolling are Dave Cox, Mike Volkman, and Ed Coleman.

Cox will be the third of three brothers to wear the purple and gold. First there was Clyde, who was a high scoring forward for Evansville during the middle 50's and then there was Harold, an All-ICC star, who is now on the coaching staff at Mt. Vernon.

Dave was the floor general for Kokomo's state championship team this past season. Playing behind two of the state's top scorers, Cox was the defensive ace of the Wildcats.

Mike Volkman should be the top scorer for the frosh Aces in the backcourt. He was the second leading rifleman for North's SIAC champions. Coleman, probably one of the most underrated players on Bosse's sectional champions, is also a defensive standout.

Ed is an outstanding rebounder for his height of 6-1; this is due to his great high jumping ability. He has jumped as high as 6-2 during track season.

Headlining the front court will be Larry Denton of Bosse and John Williamson of Metea. Denton, a Dale Wise type ballplayer, was the 6-5 pivot man for the Bulldogs. Scoring most of his points from under the basket, he was the leading scorer for Bosse. Williamson, who goes at 6-6, was one of the top riflemen in the state.

Also playing for the frosh will be Jerry Sloan, former McLeansboro scorer, who is now enrolled at Evansville and will be eligible for freshman action next year.

Spring Sports Teams Facing Tough Schedule

With the baseball team losing three games last week, the golf team winning one meet, but dropping two others and the tennis team losing three matches, the spring sports teams at Evansville have now compiled a modest 1-20 won-loss record. (This is not counting a tennis match played yesterday at Murray and forfeit victory that the tennis team received at St. Joseph's).

Now take a look at each individual teams accomplishments over the past weekend. Start with the baseball squad, which now sports a 0-8 record. The Evansville nine started off by dropping a no-hitter to Kentucky Wesleyan, 9-0. Henry Ayres was the winning pitcher for Wesleyan striking out 13 and walking none. Gene Brown was the only man for the Aces to reach first, that was on an error.

The baseball Aces moved into Greencastle Saturday to meet the DePauw Tigers in a double header. Evansville acted like most nice visitors should act toward their hosts; they dropped both games, including their second no-hitter in two days.

The Aces put up a good fight in the first contest, but still went down, 8-6. Evansville pounded out nine hits with Ed Uhde getting three singles and Ed Rolen getting two. Gene Brown was the losing pitcher for Evansville.

In the second no-hit romp of the long weekend, the purple and white struck out eight times as pitcher Walt Henry was going down to defeat. He was relieved by Ed Rolen in the fourth inning. The Aces committed nine errors.

Now take a look at the most successful of the spring teams, the golf squad. After dropping five straight matches, the Aces defeated Franklin College in a three-team contest. Of course, the host Louisville Cardinals gave Evansville their sixth loss of the season, but at least the purple and white was not at the bottom of the list for once this season.

The tennis team now has a record of 0-5, having only scored two points all season. Byron Buckley, number one man for the netters, has scored both of those, and last week in the Aces' loss to Indiana State he stopped Kil Lee, one of the better players in the conference.

For games coming up this next week, the baseballers will play at Southeast Missouri State tomorrow and then lay off until next Thursday when they have a game at Louisville. Earlier this year Southeast stopped Evansville 8-3.

The tennis team will meet Murray tomorrow and then play Kentucky Wesleyan Tuesday. Both of these will be played in Evansville.

The golf team has a three-team match at Green Castle tomorrow with DePauw and Valparaiso.

LCA Takes Over Intramural Net Lead

Lambda Chi Alpha took over undisputed possession of first place in the intramural tennis competition last week with a 3-0 victory over Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The victory gives the LCA men a 3-0 record and drops the Sig Eps to a 1-1 slate.

why the blue suit with the gold bars?

You're needed... just as your father and grandfather were. It's an obligation that a lot of qualified college men have to meet... that of serving your country, when and where you are needed.

And the Air Force needs college-trained men as officers. This is caused by the rapidly expanding technology that goes with hyper-sonic air and space flight. Your four years of college have equipped you to handle complex jobs. You have the potential to profit from advanced training... then put it to work.

There are several ways to become an officer.

First there is Air Force ROTC. Another program, relatively new, is Officer Training School. Here the Air Force commissions certain college graduates, both men and women, after three months' training. The navigator training program enables you to win a flying rating and a commission. And, of course, there's the Air Force Academy.

An Air Force officer's starting salary averages out to about what you could expect as a civilian. First there's your base pay. Then add on such things as tax-free rations and quarters allowances, free medical and dental care, retirement provision, perhaps flight pay, and 30 days' vacation per year. It comes to an attractive figure. One thing more. As an officer, you will become eligible for the Air Force Institute of Technology. While on active duty many officers will win graduate degrees at Air Force expense.

Why not contact your local Air Force Recruiter. Or write to Officer Career Information, Dept. SC15, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C., if you want further information about the navigator training or Officer Training School programs.

Pre-registration Ends Today

The EC summer class schedule is offering more than 70 courses in 14 different subjects areas according to H. Owen Long, E. C. Registrar. Classes begin June 7.

Pre-registration for the summer session and the fall quarter next year should be completed by today. The preliminary registration forms should be checked in the Registrar's Office and students attending the summer session should have their bill written immediately, Dr. Long reports.

The summer session lasts for eight and a half weeks and is followed by a three-week intersession in August. The summer session arrangement makes it possible for many students to complete degree requirements or take courses they were unable to during the regular school year.

Courses offered for the first time during the coming summer session include Sales Management, Survey of English Literature, American and State and Local Government, Municipal Government and Administration, Electronics Seminar, Motivation and the Emotions, Experimental Design and Laboratory Practice, and Rural-Urban Society.

In addition, a music seminar on Piano Pedagogy will be offered from June 7 through June 16 for three hours each day. This workshop may be taken for three college credits. The course deals with methods and materials in teaching piano.

McNair's Cartoon Wins First Place in ICPA

Don McNair received first place for his cartoon "The Problem" in the recent Indiana Collegiate Press Association 2nd Annual Newspaper Judging Contest.

The photography department received honorable mention for best news and feature photography.

All college newspapers in Indiana who hold membership in the I. P. A. were eligible for awards. The judging was done by a single judge in each individual field.

Don's cartoon "The Problem" which dealt with the library situation, was chosen for its outstanding professional quality.

Entries were submitted and judged in the fields of best page one, best advertising section, best editorial, best feature story, best news or sports story, best column, and best sports column.

Seniors Need Grades By May 25

The grades of all seniors expecting to complete graduation requirements in June must be on a list in the Registrar's office by 4:00 p.m. on May 25.

A list of seniors expected to graduate will soon be circulated to faculty members. Grades must be on this list if the student expects to be recommended for a degree.

Dean Edgar McKown states: "Students of both the June and August classes are to be given final examinations during the week of May 22. They will, therefore, not be expected to attend classes during the week of May 29.

The Office of the Registrar accordingly asks that grades be submitted as follows: graduating seniors, 4:00 p.m. May 25. Non-graduating seniors, 12:00 noon June 3.

Dr. Logan Heads Nat. Committee

Dr. Virgil G. Logan, head of the English Department, and nationally known authority on child education, has recently accepted a position as chairman of the committee seeking foundation support in the Association for Childhood Education International, located in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Logan will be in charge of securing financial aid and prestige backing from well-known American Foundations. He is taking the chairmanship formerly held by Miss Merle Gray who has developed a large background of information regarding foundations, their fields of interest, and the techniques for approaching them. Dr. Logan expects to confer with Miss Gray in June when she returns to make her home in Indiana.

Association for Childhood Education International (ACEI) is an organization with 642 branches and 85,000 members in 45 countries. It serves as a leader and a kind of "watchdog" for the educator and well-being of children 2 to twelve years of age. ACEI helps children by working with interested adults through publications, annual study conferences, committees, an information service, a branch service, co-operation with other organizations, and meetings, displays, and exhibits in the Childhood Education Center.

ACEI moved in February, 1960 from inadequate rented space into its own modern headquarters in Washington, D. C. Composed of teachers, parents and community workers, the organization was founded in 1892.

Graduates To Attend Reception

Curiosity may have killed the cat, but take a senior, commencement-time, and an alumni reception scheduled for a fascinating Civil War-period home, and the curiosity leads to an evening of enjoyment.

EC's 1961 seniors will get their opportunity tonight. The house, that of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Newman.

The graduates, along with their guests, have been invited to the informal get-together starting at 7 p.m. which is sponsored by the Alumni Association.

As guests of Mr. and Mrs. Newman, who last year remodeled the 100-year-old, three-story house, they can perhaps dream of themselves as guests of influential Evansville banker, William Lowry, founder of Citizen's Bank a century ago.

Or they can be intrigued, as they stand before a mirror in the third-floor billiard room at the house at 706 S.E. First, by its tragic history. Lowry's son-in-law supposedly shot himself as he stood in front of this mirror and pitched backward across the billiard table.

Or they can be fascinated by the industry and imagination of Mr. and Mrs. Newman, who have developed a showplace out of a forlorn, unwanted house that stood vacant for two years until they envisioned its possibilities last summer.

The house also is one of several in Evansville to be open to visitors during the observance of the Civil War centennial this spring.

Late Bulletin

All seniors are requested to meet in the Club Room of the Student Union Building next Tuesday, May 23, at 10 a.m., according to Jerry Clark, Senior Class president.

Graduation Set For June 5

Commencement exercises will be held on the campus front lawn at 7:30 p.m., June 5. More than 280 students are expected to graduate at the 103rd commencement ceremonies.

Elisha Gray, Chairman of the Board of Whirlpool Corporation, will be the commencement speaker.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held at 7:00 p.m., June 4 on the front campus. Bishop Walter C. Gum, Resident Bishop of the Louisville area, will speak.

The new Union Board gathered together once more before they are officially installed at the Union Recognition Dinner. From left to right they are: 1st row, Ron Frankenberger, Martha Lockwood, Buddy Stinson, Sally Hadley, and Jerry Hochstetter; 2nd row, Carolyn Wilson, Annette Tapley, Mary Ann Conaway, and Sandy Smith.

Union Board Honored By Board Electees

The new Union Board, elected last Friday, will honor the out-going Board at an annual Union Recognition Dinner, May 22, at 5:15 p.m. in the Union Building.

Installation of the new board and election of officers will be the main function of the dinner. Jim Sanders, president of the present Union Board, will speak on the activities and accomplishments of the 1960-61 Board.

Besides the yearly responsibilities and activities of the Union Board, the out-going Board initiated many new activities. Blazers for the Union Board, a new bulletin board for the Union, the new colored picture box in the "Indian," the bridge tournament, a training board meeting for all Peace Corps members, and three house counts which averaged about 2,700 people using the Union Building a day, all head the list of new Union Board activities.

The new Union Board members will be: Entertainment, Buddy Stinson; Finance, Jerry Hochstettler; Fine Arts, Sally Hadley; Games, Annette Tapley; House, Sandy Smith; Personnel, Mary Ann Conaway; Publicity, Ronny Frankenberger; Social, Martha Lockwood; Dance, Carolyn Wilson.

Present members of the Union Board are: Jim Sanders, president, House; Joe Black, vice-president, Games; Judy Wernecke, secretary, Entertainment; Nancy Stoops, Publicity; Annabelle Grabhorn, Dance; Jerry Clark, Fine Arts; June Bartlett, Finance; Alice Schurtter, Social; Shirleen Brooner held the office of Personnel until her graduation in March when Carol Thene took over the position.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

By FRANK HASKETT

Almost to the end of a year now, and by golly I have missed only two columns. I wondered when I started this blurp last fall if I would have enough material to keep going all year. Guess E.C. is a rather newsy place after all!

Next week will be the last and the biggest, so this week I have a few odds and ends along with some things we all might like to see.

Can you imagine . . Dale Wise in a tux, Brian Pressley with a bass voice, Dr. Harding in the Brave New World, Deron Mikal changing his name to Don Collier, a union fund to bring musical groups appearing at local night spots to the college for concerts, Adolph Eichman to lead the May Day R.O.T.C. Reviews next year, Christine Jorgenson elected May Queen, Oral Roberts bartending at the flower shop, Don Hayes as Postmaster General.

Mr. Anderson with enough money to purchase an apple juice company, Mr. Jain as a WJPS disc jockey, Larry Collins selling raffle tickets for MSM, John Robb taking Walter Winchell's place during summer vacation, Bonnie Riney replacing Vicki at the Blue Bar, Helen McDonald running a counseling service, Dr. Paul Grabill doing a Mike Wallace type T.V. show.

Mr. Hauswald as the "hard guy" in a movie thriller, the F.B.I. uncovering S.C.A. as a front organization for the John Burch society, Mr. Julian revealing that he is the pretender to the Throne of Transylvania, Donna Hagedorn with a mouth full of walnuts, Luther Hale crushing a grape.

Ann Hillenbrand completing the change from girl to boy, Allan Hirshberg doing a one-and-a-half off of Dr. Erickson into Pigeon Creek, Judy Kavanaugh in a permanent leaning forward position, Jack Kinkel as a career politician, Bob Bragassa as a loundmouth, and last but not least, me with a shorter nose.

We Should Help "Project 61"

by Lee Ayers
Crescent Staff Writer

Project 61, the building fund campaign, is now in full swing as most of us are fully aware. But do we know how the people of Evansville have supported Evansville College in campaigns of past years since 1919.

George S. Clifford, an Evansville businessman at that time, interested a number of leading citizens that Moores Hill College, located 40 miles west of Cincinnati, which was to be relocated, should be moved to Evansville. According to an agreement made between the Moores Hill College officials and Mr. Clifford, the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church and Evansville citizens were to raise $500,000 for the college from March to May 3, 1917.

This was Evansville College's first financial campaign. In spite of publicity and trained solicitors, when the final day came they were $80,000 short. Groups worked feverishly through the morning and evening but at the closing hour they still had not reached their goal.

Then Bishop Anderson, head of the drive, and a large delegation marched in with extra contributions shouting, "We won!"

This was just the first of many times the local citizens have heartily supported E.C. Nine members of the 48 trustees of E.C. are local men, elected by the Chamber of Commeree. E.C. seeks to integrate itself with its community as a cultural and educational center. One example is the Community College supported by all types of professional people in the area. Readily attended are the concerts, theater productions, dances, sales, athletic events and programs put on by the students. The Evansville businesses help our college in still another way by advertising in our college publications.

At this time when help is so much needed by our building fund campaign, the citizens and businesses have given generously.

As Dr. James Morlock, dean of men, chairman of the College Division of Project 61, says, "I doubt that one could find a community that has shown more interest, support and enthusiasm for its college than right here in Evansville and the Valley of Opportunity. In many other places there is an apathy toward higher education, and even in some cases a distinct clash so called 'between Town and Gown.' We are thankful and proud that it is not that way here."

The students of E.C. thank Evansville and its citizens for the opportunity we have of obtaining an education here in the Valley of Opportunity.

Now wouldn't it be appropriate to join the college and community in Project 61 at this most crucial time — for two reasons. We would show Evansville that cooperation is not a one-way street. We would show our tangible support of a necessary college drive for funds.

Why can't we propose a program whereby we, the students, can give of help in solicitation.

We're Not Honest With Ourselves

by Sally Chapman
Crescent Staff Writer

"University authorities agree youth turns a new profile to the world today. It is a profile showing some unrest, much idealism, a rising conservatism, a web of more serious, responsible attitudes."

As we pat ourselves on the back for such praises as the above quotation from an article by Scripps-Howard Staff Writer Charles Lucey, let us hold our self-esteem in check while the other side of the story is presented.

From an article by Tom Ryder in the Courier: "Students at Evansville College are concerned about world events, but their main interests are still tomorrow's test, Friday night's date, and a fight for a reform of school rules on social activities."

After delving into both informative news articles, this writer is left with one distinct and disarming impression: world crises, space exploration, and the 1960 Presidential eleetion have nurtured within the bulk of the college students on large American campuses a keen interest in polities and world affairs. Yet, we who attend EC, and who blindly believe that our school is progressive, vital, and intellectually on a level with many larger universities, have shut ourselves in a closet that is both too dark and too narrow to admit the broad horizon of challenge that every mature American should be willing to face.

The most regrettable aspect of the perilous situation is that we are not being honest with ourselves. We are not acknowledging the obvious truth that the world situation touches each one of us, and that in our approach to the erisis we face, we hold our own destinies.

To sit back and expect school authorities or campus notables to lead us toward enlightment is a grave and childishly immature error. It all goes back to the aged-old tenent that no one can teach us unless we want to learn. No one can give us the inner spirit that makes us want to know the problems of our country and its relationship to the rest of the world. This we must do for ourselves. We must awaken to the fact that our lives are too narrow and our societies too binding.

In his innaugural address, President John Kennedy said: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." Here lies the challenge we must be prepared to face.

Crime Does Pay —— It Seems

by Gene Niednagel
Crescent Copy Editor

Are Evansville's young people going into business for themselves? Obviously a few of them are, at the expense of our insurance companies.

The East Side Midnight Auto Supply is in full swing at the present time. The "employees" seem to be mainly interested in hubcaps, spinners and spare tires. Of course fender skirts are not excluded from the list.

This reporter has had first hand experience with the supply company. A total of six spinner hubcaps have disappeared from my car in the past six weeks. Two were taken from the parking lot north of Moore Hall and four were removed from the car last Tuesday night between 6:30 and 9:30 while it was parked on the street north of the Fine Arts Building.

There have been other reports from college students that their cars have been the target of theft. An Evansville insurance agency reports that theft claims have risen sharply during the past three months. The east side has been the hardest hit especially in the St. Mary's Hosiptal area. An Evansville woman went to the hospital to visit a friend. When she returned to her car an hour later her hubcaps were gone. A doctor who lives near the hospital reported thieves had broken into his garage and stolen his hubcaps. A week later, he turned in another claim stating that his garage had been re-entered, his trunk forced open, and a brand new spare tire taken.

Evansville auto parts dealers report that most of their hubcaps and fender skirt sales lately have been insurance sales. One dealer said that he has replaced seven sets of hubcaps for one car in the past four months.

All that the Evansville Police Department can do when anyone reports a theft such as the ones mentioned above is to record the theft and promise to call if anything turns up. Meanwhile our insurance rates soar. Do we have to sit back and not do a thing to stop this wave of stealing? Yes we do unless you want to sit up all night and watch your car or put hubcap locks on your valvestems and razor blades along the bottom edge of your fender skirts. With locks, there have been cases where the owner has four flat tires along with four missing hubcaps.

The only solution to this expensive problem is to find the ringleaders of this organization. Please report all thefts to the police department and keep a lookout for young men removing hubcaps, etc.

We Write With A Purpose

by Chuck Leach
Crescent Staff Writer

Over the past season the sports staff of the Crescent has commented on the success and failures of the Evansville College athletic teams. Many more times this past season we have shown the bad points over the good points. But, it was not without a purpose. We have done it to make people aware of the shortcomings in order to improve these in the future.

I would like to say that many times this year Temme Patterson, editor of the sports page, has taken criticism and complaints for statements I have made, so before readers take anything to Tem to gripe about find out who wrote the stories.

Now take a look at the accomplishments of our Aces this past season and what the future holds next year for the athletic team of E.C.

The football team had a 5-3 record, while winning most of the games in strong defensive efforts. The main problem of the grid Aces was a dragging offense, that featured one of the weakest passing attacks in the conference.

Next season the outlook is much brighter as the coaching staff is taking steps to improve the air attack. They will have a good nucleus of two veterans and two outstanding sophomore quarterbacks. The ground attack will also be stronger as halfback Don LeDuc looks great in spring practice.

The basketball team got in a schedule that was over its head, while trying to rebuild. Next season the Aces keep some of the major teams they played this year, but for the most part the strongest have been removed from the schedule. Coach Arad McCutchan will also be greeted by four outstanding members of this year's freshman squad.

As for the spring sports teams, we can only hope that the new Physical Education Building will hold the key to their success. There are already rumors that EC will support a track team next year.

Looking over the future I feel sure that readers will be reading more good comments, than bad ones from the Crescent sports page.

Independent Resents Organizational Gossip

by Gayle Nunn
Crescent Staff Writer

It has been noticed by some of the students on campus that the organizations participating in the student government elections have lost their primary goal of providing an efficient and democratic governmental body to serve the entire campus.

Instead, they have become only a struggle for prestige for the various organizations on campus.

Enthusiasm is fine, but the gossip involved and the apparent misrepresentation of the opponent's state which the over-enthusiastic use as a means to secure votes is what hese students are objecting about.

The individual estimation of the gossiper and the group he represents is lowered so that instead of helping the prestige of his group, he is actually hurting it. He may get his votes, but if this is all that our students are striving for, perhaps their goals need to be revised.

The promotion of candidates for this past election for student government officers was well planned, prepared, and presented. It's too bad that members from both factions marred its effectiveness through their petty activity.

Freshman Jim Greer readies himself for a trial run on the high-hurdles. Greer came within one-tenth of a second of breaking the ICC freshman record last week in the all-conference meet.

Six Men Head Evansville's Freshman Track Squad

A frosh track team from Evansville College, composed of six men, finished sixth in the ICC freshman meet last week while scoring nine points.

This might look bad to most readers, but it shows that Evansville is making strides in what is fast becoming one of the state's most popular sports.

Jim Greer, ex-Central star, took a first in the high hurdles with a clocking of 15.5 This was only one-tenth of a second off of the ICC frosh record.

Also scoring points for Evansville was a mile relay team that took third. Allen McCutchan, a former high school miler, finished fifth in the 440.

P. M. Sanders, a basketball Kiwanis winner, is the only varsity track man. He has consistently been in the top finishers this year as a high jumper. His jumps have been between 6-4 and 6-5. This is four inches over his actual height of 6-0.

Some of the more outstanding men who are planning to come to Evansville are Dave Cox of Kokomo, Mike Madriaga and John Mominee of North, Gary Clark of Reitz, and Ed Coleman and Larry Denton of Bosse.

Cox is now the top high school pole vaulter in the state. He can go as high as 12'8. Coleman of Bosse has consistently jumped over six feet, with his top jump being at 6-2. Madriaga was the city low hurdle champion as a junior and has come on strong late in the present season. Mominee, Clark, and Denton have all run hurdles, but have not had much luck.

Lambda Chi Leads Way

With four intramural sports remaining to be completed, Lambda Chi Alpha is holding a 5½ point lead over the second place ROTC in the race for the All-Sports trophy. SAE is in a close third, trailing the Airmen by only ½ point.

The Lambda Chi's have taken firsts in football, basketball, and cross-country and a tie for second in bowling for a total of 15½ points. ROTC took second in football, third in basketball, and a first in bowling for 10 points. SAE has finished third in football, second in basketball and cross-country, and in a tie for second in the bowling league for 9½ points.

The other organizations eligible for the trophy have scored so few points that they are out of the running.

The events still to be played are golf, softball, track and tennis. A golf tournament will be held tomorrow between all of the groups, rather than having individual meets between two teams at a time.

Last year's champion LCA men are leading the tennis standings with one match to play. The track meet will be held next week at Enlow Field.

Peace Corps Test Dotes Set

Peace Corps volunteers are scheduled to take the Entrance Test at 8:30 a.m., Saturday, May 27, or Monday, June 5, at the Post Office building, room 203.

The May 27 test is open to volunteers who wish to be considered for the variety of Peace Corps projects, and it qualifies volunteers for work as elementary school teachers, teachers of English as a secondary language, in agriculture and animal husbandry, as engineers, surveyors, road builders and constructions of school and farm buildings, in community development projects, and health programs.

The examination on June 8 is for volunteers who wish to work as secondary school teachers of English, biology, chemistry, physics, and mathematics. Candidates for this examination must have a baccalaureate degree by June 20, 1961. A teaching certificate is not required. While courses in education are helpful, they are not required.

A volunteer need take only one of the two tests to qualify. However, to be considered for all possible projects, both tests should be taken.

Invitations to report for training for approved projects will be sent out on June 14 and June 22. Initial training programs will begin around the first of July.

The first Peace Corps program in Latin America will be the assignment of some 64 Peace Corps volunteers to Community Development projects in Columbia. Message From The President

The construction of new fine arts and physical education buildings will add greatly to the student educational opportunities of Evansville College. I am certain that each student is grateful to the Lilly Endowment, the Mead Johnson and Company Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carson, and many generous community donors for their confidence in the future of the school. As this statement is being written, I am aware of the wonderfully helpful student plans under way to assist in the construction of the swimming pool in the physical edueation building! I wish to thank you and to congratulate you. I am sure your action will be heartening to the 700 campaign community workers when they hear of your important decision.

An alternate bid for the swimming pool has been placed in the construction specifications by the architects, thus providing for elimination of the pool if the costs exceed available funds. I truly believe that the student gift serving as A CHALLENGE to the community will inspire others to make a helpful gift and thus insure the building of the swimming pool.

As we look forward to next year, I know you will also be interested in the fact that there is a 50% increase in qualified freshmen seeking admission to Evansville College in the fall. We are looking forward to a wonderful year. I hope each of you may have a happy and profitable summer.

Melvin W. Hyde

Students Requested To Leave Summer Address

In order to keep in touch with happenings on campus this summer, students are asked to leave their summer address with Miss Nancy Dale in the President's office.

Such an arrangement is important so that students may be located in case of emergencies, important announcements, or news of vital interest.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

By FRANK HASKETT

Looking back over the year it has been one of work, for those so inclined. Greek rush was the most competitive in several years, and our football Aces almost made it to the top of the I.C.C. Homecoming was a big success in more ways than one, and intramurals were just as close as usual.

This paper came from relative obscurity to a place squarely in front of the student's eye, and here's hoping it goes farther up next year. Our roundball team saw a year of rebuilding, and our fans saw a real cheering section when the NCAA finals were held without the Aces.

Our dorms and their out-of-town students helped decrease the high school atmosphere so prevalent for many years, and the college is even now continuing a massive building program. The fraternity houses were all fixed up and there is the hint of new ones to come in the not-too-distant future. Our academic standards were raised effective next fall and this should help in the long program of making E.C. a university.

This was a year of growth for not only the administration, but the students as well. They seemed to wake up to their task of trying new ways and procedures, some good or bad, some workable or complete flops. Anyway they tried, and that's the most important thing.

A few comments on the recent S.G.A. election are in order. Roughly 1000 ballots were east out of 1600 students, and this certainly is a record turnout for E.C.

For the first time in awhile, the issues were of much importance

I do.

N. L. Patton

In the book, "The Fountainhead," by Ayn Rand, a newspaper editor has a yatch named "I Do." his explanation for the name was that every place he had worked when people asked who ran things he had to say someone else did.

Finally when he had his own paper if anyone asked who ran things he could say, I do.

In this final column let us say that the experiences with the people connected with the Crescent has been pleasant and rewarding. Next year the Crescent should be better and larger.

Perhaps we should explain about the fact that the paper has appeared rather erratically and has not appeared as a six-page issue but twice since we reported intenion to increase the number of pages.

First, he reason is money. This causative facor has two aspects, during the last ten years while budget appropriations were stabilized, production costs of the Crescent increased 40 per cent, yet last year the budget of the Crescent was reduced five cents per student.

Large cigarette ads in years past paid part of the cost of production and the cigarette companies have discontinued advertising in small college newspapers.

Second, it is difficult to give sufficient time to the Crescent as the editor is paid only fifty dollars per quarter while the manager of the radio station, which is used by only approximately 30 persons each quarter and the Crescent is utilized by approximately 50 persons per quarter, is given tuition and books for each quarter. This should amount to about $250 per quarter.

Even though money isn't he reason for seeking editorship of the Crescent, if the financial reward were larger, outside employment wouldn't be necessary and more time could be given the paper.

We may have made mistakes these two quarters but we stand behind everything we've printed. We understand that there wasn't $25,000 profit made on the Union last year, but three students swore they had heard this from a reliable source. We stand corrected in this matter.

We have attempted to present the truth objectively and we feel that this has been done to a large extent.

As this forgotten author said:
The hands of time are would but once

And no man has the power
To say just when the hands will stop

At late or early hour
So love, live, toil with a will Take no thought for the 'morrow,
The hands may then be still.
Should anyone ask who ran this paper, I did.

SGA Donates $100 To Library

Student Government Association recently donated $100 to the college library to replace lost or stolen books, according to Mike Spence, president of SGA.

One volume of Worldbook Encyclopedia and three volumes of Colliers Encyclopedia are among several books that have been replaced with the money. Many unbound magazines that have been lost will be replaced. A dictionary of American Biography, and a dictionary of American history have been ordered.

Several years ago the American Freedom Foundation gave a grant of money to the Student Government Association to use as they wished. The money given to the Library is part of that grant.

Haskett's Column

to the independent voter. The qualifications of the candidates were also closely scrutinized. There was even a debate between the two coalitions at Hughes Hall during the campaign.

As an active campaigner for one of the coalitions, I was amazed at the interest shown by the independent voter. I think we can agree that this is a good thing. The voter is beginning to care, and the coalition that did take the majority had better make a good attempt to live up to campaign promises. Apparently next spring they will have to answer to the independent voter if they do not.

One final point on this is that the administration could well take note of the growing maturity of S.G.A. I think that we students could — given the chance — actually govern ourselves quite well. Many campuses have some form of student judicial system which acts on student infractions.

The big problem here seems to be the image that E.C. creates in the public eye. The officials are so afraid of something adverse happening—this is always a worry to leaders of an organization—but apparently they are so interested in building an image of E.C. they have pushed the real reason for existence into the background. This then is the real shame.

Aces - Past Present And Future

Halfback Don LeDuc scores the winning touchdown against Valparaiso as the Aces take a hard fought 10-7 victory. LeDuc, along with John Meredith will be co-captains of next season's gridiron forces.

Evansville College will lose five seniors from this season's squad that played the toughest schedule in Ace history. Gone from the 1961-62 squad will be from left, Dale Wise, P. M. Sanders, Tom Hamilton and Jim Nassell. Walt Deal is the other senior that will be missing next season when Arad McCutchen's boys will be facing another tough schedule that includes Notre Dame, Tennessee, Pittsburgh and many more basketball powerhouses.

Dale Wise tries his best to slip through part of the toughest defensive college squad in the country in the Aces' game against Ohio St. The game with the Buckeyes was one of several unsuccessful tries Evansville made to defeat a Big Ten school this year.

Evansville's forward wall will have at least two veterans back next season in Ron Tepool on left and John Meredith. Both men will be senior lettermen when the 1961-62 football season opens.
